The Church News.

VOLUME 11, WHOLE NUMBER 121.

ST. LOUIS, JANUARY 15, 1880.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

THE CHURCH NEWS

Is published on the fifteenth of each month. It is a Journal of General and Diocesan Church Intelligence, and is the organ of the Bishop of Missouri.

All subscriptions for the paper, business letters, and also advertisements, should be sent to the Publisher, GEORGE W. MATTHEWS, 612 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo.

Subscriptions, $1 a year. In clubs of five or more, to different addresses, money sent at one time, 75cts. Other names may be added at the same rate.

A certain number of select advertisements will be received at rates to be arranged by the Publishers.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

It will be a matter of the liveliest gratification to all to know that at the meeting of the managers of St. Luke's Hospital on the 3d instant, the matter of the subscription of the $15,000 desired by Mr. Henry Shaw as the condition of conveying the property bought by him for the Hospital was complied with. The land is on Washington avenue on the northwest corner of Nineteenth street in the immediate visit of that remarkable group of buildings connected with Washington University, the Crow Art Building, Smith Academy, and the Mechanical School, and also the Women's Christian Home. To this assemblage of buildings the Hospital will be a fit companion. Probably there will be no more delay now than may be necessary in beginning on the building, so that plans may be wisely drawn for the purpose. But the prospect of having St. Luke's at length sheltered in a home of its own is full of good cheer.

WITH reference to the scheme for the division of the Church into Provinces, as given in our last number, thoughts are started on many points, but mention is only made at this moment of one, the manner of division suggested by the Committee. Undoubtedly any scheme would be invested with difficulty; but the plan proposed of dividing the country longitudinally into four long strips of which the easternmost would run from and include Maine and Florida, comprising all the Dioceses between the Atlantic and the Alleghanies; and the next the strip between the Alleghanies and the Mississippi river; and the next in which we would be, to be the strip from the Mississippi to the Rocky Mountains and from Minnesota to the Gulf; and the last, comprising that part west of the Rocky Mountains; this certainly will not be workable. The divisions of the Church into Provinces in all the ages of the Church has not been by abstract rules; but has followed the groupings of cities and sections made already by social and political affinities. The formation of the country affected the courses of trade and population. The Church respected and followed these facts and indications; and crystallized about certain larger centers. Something like this must be done in our country. It would be a harsh, unnatural and strained combination to put Maine and Georgia, or Minnesota and Texas, or Wisconsin and Alabama, together. This part of the plan will need modification.

DIOCESAN MISSIONARY PLEDGES.

At the late Convention it was seen that our missionary work in the Diocese could be made much more efficient if the Missionary Board could know at the beginning of its year what receipts it can rely on. It could make its appropriations with more exactness and confidence. For this purpose it was determined that the practice should be started with us which has been successfully used for years by many other Dioceses, of calling up the parishes at Convention to pledge themselves for the amount which, at the least, they can be depended on for this purpose for the year. In some Dioceses they go even beyond this. The Convention determines what ought to be and can be raised for missionary work in the Diocese, and then divides the amount up and assesses it upon the parishes, just as is done for the Bishop's salary and Convention expenses.

At our Convention the clergy and delegates had not come prepared to pledge their parishes, as they will be called on to do in succeeding years. But in order not to lose the year, the parishes were called and a portion responded, but some with amounts conspicuously below their ability, and we hope their desire. We hope they will do better than their pledges. Others said they would do their best, but could not state the amount which could be pledged. Below is the list of those who definitely pledged:

TIE PARENTS' PART.

A parent complains because the minister, knowing of the Bishop's approaching visit to his parish, speaks to him of his child's confirmation, asking him whether he is coming, but does not say anything on the subject to the child. The parent thinks the minister has not done his full duty, does not himself speak to the child. The visitation passes, and the child is not confirmed.

The result is to be regretted. The minister is no doubt in part to blame in such a case; but the parent is also not without serious fault. Most likely the parents are among the sponsors; if so the charge put upon them was, in addition to their duty to see about the religious education and bringing up of the child, to take care that the child be brought to be confirmed. This is, irrespective of minister or Sunday school teacher, a duty for parent and sponsor to fulfill. Of course we all know what an embarrassment is felt in talking about matters of personal religion between parent and child. Often the child hears this more from teachers than from parents; and parents would be glad to be relieved of the charge by having the minister speak to the child on the subject.

But the parents, being sponsors, must remember that they are solemnly pledged, by regard for their word and love for their child, to have a distinct care that the child shall be brought. It is not to be an accident, or an open question about which nobody is committed. The child is to be brought; and all done from childhood up that shall enable them to be done profitably, or else God will want to know why it was not done. If the minister fails in duty, it does not follow that the parents should.

REPENTANCE AND PENANCE.

The same Greek word in the New Testament which in our version is translated repentance, is with the Roman Catholic uniformly translated penance. The original means a turning about of the mind and disposition. It may not seem that any great difference would be produced by this variation of translation. Each of the words gives a different shade or aspect of the meaning of the original; one fixes the attention on the change in the internal disposition, with less regard to the manner in which this may express itself in action. The other, "penance," has for the meaning which is generally ascribed to it, only a reference to the external exhibitions of penitence, the computation or equivalent which is paid. These meanings are perhaps arbitrary rather than etymological, but they are real and accepted.

Still the constant familiarity with one phase of meaning in a term has tended to obscure all others. Certainly no impression of the fulness of sorrow, or the deep searching of heart, or the repulsion at the thought of the power and guilt of sin, can be conveyed in the term "penance." The Baptist's cry, "Repent and be baptized," by our version has a stronger spiritual force than "Do penance and be baptized." The result is that in the average Roman Catholic thought there is little idea of the sinfulness of the sin itself. The emphasis is laid on its consequences and the mode of expiation; then very soon the sin is conveniently thought to be reduced to the value of the money or other equivalent imposed. Much of the horror at the inner power of sin is lost.

But then there is an emphasis laid on the matter of reparation which must always be a part of a true repentance, which idea is not always sufficiently thought of in our own word and in the practice following the use of it. We fix the attention on the internal sorrow; and the inference often drawn is, that if a person is sorry enough, he need do nothing more; he can make it up in sadness, and keep the profits and results of sin and deceit. We have maimed the word and thought. How seldom do we hear of conscience money returned; how seldom does one of our clergy even have to restore the results of dishonesty repented. There is plenty of confession in a cheap way. If others need more repentance, often we need to do more penance.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Church people in Joplin, the great lead city of the southwest, are getting stirred up about building a church there soon. Judge Parter of Clarksville has given a good lot for the purpose, and some good subscriptions have been received. It will be of brick, and they can raise from $1,200 to $2,000. Mr. Wall's services have been held in the Opera House.

—They have had a fair in Lebanon lately, looking to the putting up of a small church there, and made $150. We hope they will succeed.

—The only persons now living who were members of the first three Conventions of this Diocese in 1840, '41 and '42 are the Rev. C. S. Hedges, D.D., now living in New Orleans, Hon. Alexander Hamilton of this city, and Mr. F. W. Southock, now living in California. They were members of all three of these Conventions. There are also living of those who were members of the second Convention in 1841, Messrs. J. Forbes and R. F. Cunningham of St. Louis and B. H. Randolph, now of California. There are also living of those who were members of the third Convention in 1842, Messrs. David H. Armstrong of this city and Wm. P. Harrison, now of Hannibal.

—On the 5th ult. the Bishop, in St. James church, Macon, admitted Mr. Asa A. Abbott to Deacon's Orders, and licensed him to preach. There were present on the occasion the Rev. Messrs. Curtis of Boonville, Waterman of Chillicothe, Thorpe of La Plata, Gray of Columbia, and the Rector, Rev. E. Talbot, and Rev. Messrs. R. Talbot and Henry of Macon. Mr. Abbott teaches in St. James Academy, which has now 90 pupils, and ministers to the parish in Moberly. The Rector had arranged a series of special services for the week, in which he preached, and the Rev. Messrs. Scheetz, Waterman and Curtis.

—We grow old rapidly out West. The Republican last month described Christ church in the "venerable old sanctuary and the ancient altar." It is fifteen years old or so.

—The Rev. Joseph T. Wright, recently of Denison, Texas, and formerly of Delaware, who visited St. John's church, St. Louis, on the 14th ultimo, has been elected to the temporary charge of the church until next Easter, when it will be possible for more permanent mutual arrangements to be made. Mr. W. was at one time private secretary of Bishop Howe of Central Pennsylvania, and has been very much thought of in the positions which he has occupied. His residence is at No. 1210 Chouteau avenue.

—The Sisters gave a very pleasant reception at the School of the Good Shepherd on the night before Christmas eve, before the recess during the holidays. Miss Chappell had secured some excellent musical talent which kindly lent its services; among others the Misses Russell, the Amphion Quartette Club, Mr. Bagshawe, etc., and they gave some very sweet music. The walking was very dangerous, but a large number of friends were present. After the music, the children and others partook of some delightful refreshments and then broke up for their vacation. The school is quite full.

—The Church of the Holy Communion in this city is engaged in an effort to raise over $8000 of its debt to be consummated by Easter next. The vestry have indicated the amounts which they think that each person should pay in order to reach the needed amount, and these sums range from $5 to $1000. Of course, it is an excellent endeavor, and the right way to set about it.

—Mr. Wm. L. Woodruff of Kansas City, formerly Congregational minister in Connecticut, has applied to become Candidate for Holy Orders, and has been licensed as Lay Reader in Grace church there, and St. Mary's church, First ward.

—The gross receipts, so far as we have been able to learn, from the Christ church Bazaar, are over $3,400, from which bills to the amount of about $500 have to be deducted, leaving something over $2,900; to which has to be added $340, the net results of the down-town dinners given by the ladies some weeks before, and probably $500 more from the Holy Family; bringing the amount up to over $3,000 available to reduce the debts.

—The distribution of cash under Mrs. O'Sullivan's will leaves one-third of about $5,200, each to the Orphans' Home, and to St. Luke's Hospital, something over $1,700 to each, the other third going to the Masonic Benefit Fund. The amount for St. Luke's Hospital goes for the increase of the Building Fund.

—The Bishop during Christmas week made his first visit to Crystal City, on the Mississippi river below St. Louis forty miles, a short branch connecting it with the Iron Mountain railroad. It is the community which has been built up around the great plate-glass works, and already numbers 600 persons, and will soon be much larger. The vast brick buildings are over 1,200 feet long and are being extended. Some of the officers are Churchmen, and among the various nationalities employed are a good many Englishmen. This was the first Church service held, and it had such encouraging results that others will be held soon, with the hopes of a mission to be started, and a clergyman engaged between there and De Soto and Platin.

—Christmas in St. Louis was a very cold day and the wind blew with great force. This reduced the size of the congregations. The arrangements for music and decorations, so far as we learned, were not as elaborate as usual. Trinity had a midnight Communion, at which a large number were present. St. George's had very fine music, but had no celebration of the Communion. The Bishop was at the church of the Good Shepherd, which has just put in a new furnace. All of the churches had Christmas festivals for their Sunday-schools. The Holy Communion had the service at the church, and then marched to Xaupi's hall, where the distribution took place. At Mt. Calvary the Rev. Mr. Reid was on Christmas presented with a service of silver.

—If we had, as the English papers have, a department of Births, we could chronicle an addition to the parish of the Advent in this city.

—The Orphans at their Home had a day or two before Christmas a Tree, kindly given by Mr. Shaw, and loaded with presents by kind friends. On Tuesday, 30th, they had their annual dinner, which was bountifully spread. There were as usual a large number of the managers and friends of the Home present, and of the clergy, the Bishop, the Rev. Dr. Ingraham, Messrs. Dunlop and Reed, the Chaplain of the Home. After the children had eaten, the others sat down to a very handsome collation. There are now 52 children in the Home, 21 having been recently put out to homes.

—The Bishop has been invited to preach the opening sermon at the Conference of Missouri River Bishops to be held in Davenport, Iowa, on the 29th and 30th instants. He will not however, on account of existing engagements in this city, be able to attend the Conference.

—The Standing Committee of the Diocese has its regular meeting on the Monday after the first Sunday of the month, and papers to be passed on by the Committee should be in before that time.

—The Standing Committee has recommended and the Bishop has admitted as a Candidate for Deacon's Orders Mr. Cassius M. C. Mason, who has been acting as Lay Reader in the church of the Good Samaritan in this city.

—The Rev. H. M. Jackson of Richmond, Va., who was called to the Rectorship of St. George's church, St. Louis, has declined the overture.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: De Soto, 1; St. Peter's, St. Louis, 2.

—The Rev. John W. Dunn has resigned the Rectorship of Christ church, Lexington, which he has held for the past twelve years and more. He has spent his whole ministerial life, and he is the oldest clergyman, by order of canonical residence, in this Diocese, in three parishes, Fayette, Hannibal and Lexington. He is about to remove to Independence, and assume missionary work there and at adjacent points. The Lexington paper says very justly of him: "He will carry with him to his new field of labor the love and respect of many warm friends in this city. A true Christian and an earnest worker in Christ, we wish him success and happiness wherever he may go." And the Independence paper, in stating that he will officiate there on the second Sunday in the month, adds: "Mr. Dunn is a popular and talented preacher, and his engagement here will be greeted with joy."

—The hour for evening service in the church of the Holy Communion, St. Louis, has been changed from night to 4.30 in the afternoon.

—The parochial missionary society of Christ church in this city will have its next meeting on Wednesday evening, 4th proximo. At the last meeting Mr. Robert Eagle was elected secretary and treasurer.

—The Rev. Octavius Parker, recently of Pendleton, Oregon, will in a few days assume charge of Christ church, Springfield.

—The Rev. Andrew T. Sharpe, recently of Oak Park, Ill., is for a few weeks engaged at the church of the Good Shepherd in this city.

—The Rev. T. W. Young of Toronto, Canada, has been doing duty in St. George's, St. Louis, since before Christmas.

—Sunday, February 1st, is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Trinity church, St. Louis. It is in contemplation to observe, we believe, the occasion by services and so far as possible a gathering of the old members of the parish.

—The Rev. Mr. Waterman of Chillicothe has taken charge of Cameron, and gives it two Sundays in each month. The Rev. Mr. Sherman of Marville helps Mr. Waterman at Chillicothe with one of the Sundays in the month when he is absent. By this arrangement Mr. Waterman will have to give up his charge of Brunswick.

—In connection with the work of the Rev. Mr. Chesnut for the Jews in St. Louis, it is proposed to have a course of lectures in a few weeks on some of the aspects of the question as between Judaism and Christianity on Sunday nights. The Bishop is to deliver the first, and the Rev. Mr. Robert has also promised to deliver one.

—The Society for the Increase of the Ministry, having challenged the truth of the statement of the four Missouri River Bishops at their Davenport Conference, that it was not assisting candidates in their Dioceses, they have all severally answered and reiterated the statement. The same fact is true also of this Diocese. Because it declined to give us any help, the Bishop withdrew from his position as Patron more than a year ago.

—A majority of Bishops and Standing Committees having consented to the consecration of Dr. Gallaher, Bishop-elect of Louisiana, the Presiding Bishop has appointed the consecration for Trinity church, New Orleans, Thursday, February 5th, the Consecrator, Bishop Green; the Reader, Bishop Dudley; Presenters, Bishops Wilmer and Beckwith; present and assistant Bishops Robertson and Howe of South Carolina.

—St. George's church has just sent a full box of very valuable articles for personal and household use to one of the missionaries of the Diocese. Christ church Ladies Society has also done something and is about to do more in a like direction.

—Mr. Woodruff's new parsonage at Marshall came very near being burnt two or three weeks ago; but it was the occasion for the means being immediately raised to fully repair and insure it.

—The Rev. Mr. Sherman of Maryville was on Christmas eve married to Miss Ada E. Hinton of Faribault, Minn.

—St. Mary's church, Kansas City, the Rev. M. A. Jardine, Rector, proposes to have a Loan Exhibition, to be opened the beginning of next month. The express companies are to bring articles free.

—The Rev. A. W. Mann proposes to be in St. Louis on Sunday, February 1st, for service for deaf mutes at Christ church.

—The regular Convocation of the Hannibal District will meet in St. James church, Macon, on Thursday evening, 22d inst. An occasion of unusual interest is anticipated. Papers will be presented by Rev. Messrs. Wainwright, Leonard and Talbot. It is also hoped that the Bishop may be present. Any of the clergy of the Diocese who can come are asked to bring their surplices.

—The Mexico Convocation meet on the 26th of next month at Fayette.

—The hour for the second service on Sunday in the church of the Holy Communion, St. Louis, has been changed to 4.30 p. m.

—The Bishop visited Mt. Calvary church on Sunday, 11th instant, and confirmed nine persons.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

We have not heard of all the persons who subscribed toward the $50,000 for the building for St. Luke's, but the following are a part: The President, Mr. Edwin Harrison, had previously subscribed $500, but finding at the last meeting that $1,800 are still lacking to complete the amount, put down his name for $2,000 more, making $2,500 in all. A year ago notice was sent to the manager that when $1,500 would fully complete the sum required to erect a building for the hospital, Grace Church, Kirkwood, which was understood to mean one gentleman in that parish, would be good for the amount. The Vice-Presidents Mr. E. C. Simmons and Gerard B. Allen are down for $1,000. Charles Parsons, Mrs. Lindell, Mrs. A. C. Moore, Dr. Hodgen, Robt. A. Barnes, W. H. Waters subscribed $500 each; J. M. Gilkeson $250; Gen. Simpson and W. S. Pope $200 each; J. L. Lionberger, C. S. Freeborn, Joseph Franklin, W. S. Black, Geo. E. Leighton, Dr. John Green, R. M. Wilson, Bishop Robertson, A. J. Leith, Jesse January, Newton Crane, Leonard Matthews, J. W. Fichback, A. A. Mellier, M. Dwight Collier, Mrs. Farrington, Mrs. Hugh Campbell each for $100; Nat. G. Hart $50; Jas. C. Noyes, Capt. Jas. Ward, W. S. Humphrey, Edward Whittaker each $25. Mrs. Femister had previously secured for this purposes $562; Pinafore had yielded $653.41; Trinity Church, Hannibal, $70.

Mr. Shaw informed the Committee of the Managers who called on him that he was satisfied with the subscription and would convey the property. He said, however, that they would need, in order to build the Hospital without debt, another $10,000; and that if the managers would raise half of this sum, he would himself give the other half. The Trustees will apply themselves to this, and I am confident that they will succeed in raising it. They are determined to avoid debt.

BOOK NOTICES.

CHURCHMAN'S SCRAP BOOK.—Useful pamphlet, containing odds and ends which would be of use for circulation in a parish, inculcating Church principles. One dozen copies, $1. Rev. R. S. Barrett, Richmond, Va.

THE CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE.—Vol. I, No. I. Dec. pp. 64. $2 a year. The Rev. Wm. A. Matson, D.D., Editor and Publisher, P. O. Box 2074, New York. This is a new venture by an old friend, the former Editor of the Gospel Messenger and Church Journal. It promises to furnish an excellent selection of good reading for the family.

DORCHESTER POLYTECHNIC ACADEMY; DR. NEVER-ALOLE; PRINCIPAL. By Rev. Dr. DeKoven. L. P. Morehouse, Milwaukee; pp. 226. $1.25. This is the only story ever written by the Warden of Racine, and was the result of his custom to gather the boys at intervals in his study and entertain them with his fancy. It is a most capital, racy, amusing story of school life, told by one who knew all about boys, with side-thrusts at many things. Not goodish, but good and strong, like its author. For sale by the Hugh R. Hildreth Co., Fourth street, St. Louis.

FAMILY PRAYERS.—E. P. Dutton & Co., New York. This is a small volume prepared by a committee of the Upper House of Convocation of Canterbury in England for preliminary use and trial before its final adoption. One of the first changes in the Prayer Book for use in this country after the Revolution was the introduction of the admirable prayers for family use, the best we have ever known. Many manuals have been put forth since with varying success. Some are too long and imply a greater leisure than most families have. Others are too complicated, and require too many changes in response and posture. Many involve what is not likely to be realized, the possession of a copy and the ability to read on the part of each member of the family. Others abound in long, antiquated words and stilted expressions, which, instantly they are used, leave the children and others far behind, and cause them to think that family prayers are very dull. We do not speak of archaisms elsewhere; but what sense would an average child get of such expressions as a "lively member of the Church," or "mortifying our corrupt affections," or "evils ghostly and bodily," etc.? We are almost inclined to quote some of the involved, technical and grandiloquent expressions and petitions found in some of these manuals. If their compilers had deliberately set about to abolish and make dreary and profitless household devotion, they could not have done it better than by these books. This work is English, and has not been modified for this country. It has very much to commend it. The prayers are of those who need something, and know what they need, and ask directly for it. The service for families generally is too involved, and implies a copy of the book in the hands of each member of the family.

BIBLICAL THINGS NOT GENERALLY KNOWN.—Dick & Fitzgerald, New York; pp. 379. This is a collection of facts, notes and information concerning much that is rare, quaint, curious, obscure and little known in relation to Biblical subjects. We wish we could give an impression of great amount of interesting and valuable knowledge, about which questions are constantly asked is contained in this volume. Every young clergyman's and Bible class teacher's library ought to contain it. Sold by Shorb & Boland, 610 and 612 Washington avenue.

Chester gives a genuine Christmas story, entitled "Dear Jane," with four charming crayons. Another capital Christmas story of school life is by Eleanor Putnam, "Bob's Breaking In." The celebrated young adventurer, Miltiades Peterkin Paul, comes to the front again, this time as an astronomer. "The Christmas Pie," by Palmer Cox, with two of his jolly illustrations; etc, etc.

GENERAL NEWS.

—It looks very much as though strangely large deficiencies in the work in Mexico have caused very large appropriations by the Foreign Missions Committee; and that in consequence of this they have fallen very heavily into debt. It is a pity we are not allowed by the Commission to know more about the affairs in Mexico.

—The consecration of the Cathedral in Chicago was a very grand ceremonial; nine Bishops, including the Bishop of this Diocese; and about 55 other clergymen, among whom were Messrs. Betts, Holland and Thompson, took part in the procession. The congregation was very large, and music peculiarly strong. At night there was a splendid supper given by the laymen to the visitors.

—The Rev. Mr. Courtney has declined both St. James, Chicago, and Zion, New York; and remains in St. Thomas church, New York.

—The Living Church says that Bishop Vail left Topeka last month for a ten months' absence in the East.

—Of the clergy of our Church who died last year, the ages of 34 are given, and these average 64 years each, and the ages of several not given were also much greater than this. There are those of 89, 84, 83, three of 80, 79, 77, 76, 75, 74, 72, and so on. Clerical duty evidently leads to longevity.

—A colored congregation has been organized in Cleveland, Ohio. That is for its size the most intense city for Church work in the country.

—We are glad to see the evidence of deserved prosperity in the enlargement of the Kentucky Church Chronicle to sixteen pages. It is printed by the boys of the Orphanage in Louisville, who have a steam press which occupies an entire wing of their building, in which they do the printing for many of the largest firms in the city.

—The first time that the Bishop of Illinois ever used the Institution Office was in inducting the Rev. Mr. Holland into the Rectorship of Trinity church, Chicago, on the first Sunday of his ministry there. Mr. Holland then preached his sermon on the Holy Catholic Church, which he had preached the Sunday before in St. Louis.

—It has been suggested that Nashotah be changed from its rural locality to the vicinity of Chicago. Something should evidently be done to restore the old interest in this institution. But nothing in that direction could be done without large gifts to erect buildings and found professorships.

—A Scotch town recently declined to accept a gift of $25,000 for a public library, because there was no provision made by the donor for its permanent maintenance.

—Messrs. George H. Anderson, for ten years a Methodist minister, and J. B. Morse, for twenty-two years a Baptist minister, were recently ordained by Bishop Potter.

—Zion church and Christ Church, N. V., two very old parishes, which, moving up town, came within four squares of each other, and put up handsome structures, with heavy debts, which have been carried for twenty years, have concluded to consolidate. Dr. Gallaher of Zion becomes Bishop of Louisiana, and Christ church, of which Drs. Ewer and Hugh Miller Thompson have been Rectors, sells its church, and its Rector, Dr. Shipman, becomes the Rector of the combined parishes. A happy solution of a mistake not confined to New York.

—A comparative table has been made of the relative number of clergymen to communicants in the different Dioceses. Usually, it is about one clergyman to a hundred communicants; by this rate we are somewhat undermanned in this Diocese. On Long Island the rate is one to 150; while in California, where many clergymen have gone for their health the rate is one to a little over 50; and nearly the same rate obtains in Wisconsin, where many clergymen are engaged in teaching.

—The Annual Missionary report for the year shows that the Domestic Committee, which now does the work for the Indians and Colored People, last year received from the Church $76,283 50, of which only $307 83 came from this Diocese. With $10,866 70, its debts are now $8 033-80, having been reduced $5,399 20 during the year. The Foreign Committee received $149,602 84, the largest amount ever received in one year; and its treasury was overdrawn September 30 $20,346 60, with we hear other drafts to come in on Mexican account. The working expenses of the Domestic Committee were 6 3-4 per cent of receipts; and of the Foreign Committee 7 1-4 per cent. The number of the Spirit of Missions containing all the reports has been sent to every clergyman, and the materials for a most interesting and useful address could be found, showing the progress of the Church during the year.

—The papers of Drs. Starkey and Gallaher, Bishops-elect of Northern New Jersey and Louisiana, have received the consent of the majority of the Standing Committees and the time for the consecration of Dr. Starkey was fixed for the 10th of this month.

—The Bishop of Illinois has taken an office down town, where he is found from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

—The Bishop of Maryland has inhibited the Rev. Mr. Mortimer, an English priest, canonically resident in the Diocese of Pennsylvania, and formerly belonging to St. Clement's church, Philadelphia, but more recently acting as assistant to the Rev. Mr. Rankin in St. Luke's, Baltimore, from the exercises of the ministry in his Diocese, on account of his ritualistic views. Mr. Rankin was quite severe in commenting on the Bishop's action.

—Rev. H. H. Washburne, minister of the Bishop Cummins Memorial Church in Baltimore, has retired from the ministry of the Reformed Episcopal Church, and gone to New York to engage in secular business. Another of their ministers, Mr. Malone, has joined the Presbyterians and still another, Dr. Underwood, has just joined the Indiana Methodist Conference.

—By Whittaker's Almanac it seems that in the following cities there are the following numbers of our clergy residing: 10 residing in Albany, 12 in Louisville, 13 each in New Orleans and Hartford, 14 each in St. Louis and Providence, 16 in Pittsburgh, 18 each in Cincinnati and Detroit, 19 each in San Francisco and New Haven, 20 each in Buffalo, Cleveland and Chicago, and 32 in the District of Columbia.

At the Convention in St. Joseph on the last day there was taken from the Secretary's table a copy of the Canon of the Diocese, in which he had carefully written up for his own use all the amendments since the last publication. It was marked plainly as belonging to the Secretary, with the request that it be not removed. He very much desires that it be returned. It should never have been taken. The person must long since have seen that it was not a copy for general use. Let it be sent back to Mr. Triplett, No. 118, North Third street, St. Louis, Mo.

THE CHURCH ALMANACS.

The coming at the end of the year of these two old table companions, the Church Almanac and Whittaker's Churchman's Almanac, enables us to learn what the progress of the Church has been during the past year, and to compare the relative enterprise of the two publications. This is the fiftieth issue of the first-named and the twenty-sixth year of the other. One or the other ought to be in every vestry-room, and in the house of every Churchman who at all desires to know what is doing in the Church. They are of course very much more than almanacs; they have complete clergy lists and clerical directories of all the cities, with the officers of the dioceses, lists of all the societies and general institutions of the Church.

There are some features in which the one, and in some the other, excels; but on the whole we think Whittaker's has lately been showing more enterprise, particularly in giving information about Canada matters and a more complete directory of cities. The first costs 15 cents without and 40 cents with the parish list, and is published by Pott, Young & Co., 5 Cooper Union, New York; the other costs 25 cents, and is published by T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House. Persons would be more at home in the Church, and be more useful, if they have the information which these books furnish.

The facts given in each are much alike; they suffer from the inexactness of many persons as to statistics. The names of 52 clergymen, including 2 Bishops, are given as deceased, and 11 as deposed. The ordination to the Diaconate were 104; making the net clerical gain only 41, less than one and a half per cent. There is a gain of 10,628 communicants during the year, about three per cent; the total contributions were $6,582,939.68, being a gain of over $100,000 this year. There are 17 more Candidates for Orders this year than last, but a sensible decrease in the numbers ordained and baptized. There were 200 more confirmed, and an increase in marriages and burials.

This Diocese is the nineteenth out of forty-eight in the number of communicants, and seventeenth in the amount contributed and twentieth in the number of clergy, and twenty-second in the numbers baptized.

THE POOR WITH US.

The poverty is not so great this winter as usual, and yet there are all around us cases of great destitution. In this city there are all the time occurring instances of sickness, and want caused by inability to work, and the drift-wood of carelessness thrown on the shores of this great community. Help has to be rendered, and the cases are often such as require instant action.

In part this help has to be rendered by the Church and through the minister. There are other most useful agencies, and the Provident Association, the Friendly Inn, the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Masons and Odd Fellows, and other benevolent organizations. But besides all this, the pleas coming to clergymen are constant; and a depression in the the mercury is always marked by an increase of suffering and the number of applications. If a person has ever had anything to do with a church anywhere, even though for years confessedly careless, he comes directly to the minister for help.

He gives so far as he can from his own means, but his main resource is the Church; he gives what it gives him to give; when it stops giving, he has to turn a deaf ear on widows and orphans and dying and dead. Of course, he is often imposed on, for that matter every one is unless he stolidly closes himself against every appeal. It is not a deadly sin that persons to whom so many scores of appeals are made as come to clergymen should now and then be imposed on. Tricksters come often at night, when investigation can not be made.

The manner in which many of our churches are supported, depending on the Sunday offertory, leaves very little for the poor, or any other than parish objects. If persons wish to give to the poor, and they should give very much more than they do if they would at all enable the minister to meet adequately the calls made upon him during these cold months, they must give specially for that object. No one should send a poor person to the minister for help, unless he has first put means in his hand to relieve. Then little or no money should be given at the door; it almost always goes to unworthy persons. Note the name and place and look the case up, or put the money into the minister's hands with the name for him to look it up. The parishes should all now be districted and a systematic visiting be done, to investigate and relieve. Then lazy, drinking persons or families should inexorably be cut off the list, and never be helped. More would be given for distribution if it were known that there was courage to say no.

DISCREPANCIES.

In 1872, in order to encourage offerings to the Permanent Episcopal Fund of the Diocese, and so cause a reduction of the annual assessments on the parishes, the Convention introduced into the seventeenth canon of the Diocese a provision that a reduction in the annual assessment shall be allowed in abatement to all parishes contributing to the Permanent Episcopal Fund at the rate of eight per cent annually on the amounts which the several parishes shall have contributed to this Fund.

The committee on assessments have never acted under this provision. The amounts generally given have not been large, and in most cases not every year, although the canon enjoins a yearly collection and names the times for it. The aggregate from all the parishes has not been much more than enough to pay the taxes on the property which it holds, leaving little for investment.

Recently, with a view to finding out how much each of the parishes had since the enactment of the canon contributed to the Fund, and how much credit therefore the several parishes would have on their assessments, if the committee took the matter in hand, a clergyman was requested to go over the accounts and see what each of the churches had done. It was a laborious task, but the Rev. Mr. Scheetz, at the Bishop's suggestion, did it in his careful way. The examination produced one incidental and unexpected result.

There were two sources naturally from which such information would be sought, the annual report of the Treasurer of the Fund, and the parochial report of the Rector or Treasurer of the parish. These amounts ought to agree; that is, the Treasurer of the Fund should report as received just the amount that the parochial report declares was sent for the Fund. As a matter of fact, in much the greater number of cases the reports disagree, and sometimes with quite a larger difference. This is not a result peculiar to this Fund; the like discrepancy would be found between the reports of all the Funds. Of course, the one side or the other is wrong; both cannot be right. Either the Treasurer of the Fund could not have given credit for the whole amount received, or else the Rector has reported more to have been sent than the Parish Treasurer did send. Either way the thing is wrong, and ought to be looked after, and not be repeated.

Sometimes it is caused by the Parish Treasurers getting the amounts sent to different funds mixed up; sometimes the Rector makes up his report at Convention and puts down the approximate amount by guess. But in some cases, close by the report of a parish in which for all the years the accounts of the Treasurer of the Fund and of the Parish agree to a penny, are those of other parishes in which year by year the Parish reports as contributed amounts largely in excess of those which the Treasurer of the Fund declares were received by him for those parishes. Sometimes the difference is a dollar or two, and sometimes sixty or seventy dollars. By whatever reason caused, the discrepancy should not have happened, should be located, and not be repeated.

RAFFLING.

The Bishop has been written to lately from several directions, and spoken to by many persons, as to his views in the matter of raffling at Church fairs. He has within a few days been formally memorialized about certain articles which have been exposed in this city, with the placard attached that they are to be raffled for the benefit of one of our churches. His attention has been called to the pastoral letter of the House of Bishops condemning the practice.

It has not been evident what action was desired from him in the premises; and as there is a wide interest in the matter, he is ready to let the plain statement of his mind on the subject have all the weight and influence for future action that it can possess.

Probably few persons who have cared to inform themselves are at a loss to know what the Bishop's judgment is in this matter. His practice through life has been uniform, and his dissent from the use of chance in religious enterprises has only increased as years have gone on. If other reasons were wanting, it would be sufficient to know that it is opposed to the law of the State, and could be proceeded against as a criminal offence. The Church should teach the State its duty, and not the State have laws in advance of the Church's practice.

His judgment also is that the habit of mind which is framed by games of risk is wholly subversive of all patient industry and application; its substitutes are idle, feverish waiting for luck and for something to turn up, in place of a resolute purpose to depend on one's self. The communities which are foremost in enterprise are those in which the laws against games of chance are most vigorously enforced. Wastefulness, licentiousness, intemperance and acts of violence are promoted by the passions called out by risks.

As a matter of revenue, he is not at all persuaded that the Church is a gainer by the use of that which educates in a direction opposed to her steady teachings. The first returns may be flattering, but they destroy motives and principles of giving on which religion must ultimately depend, until hardly anything can be gotten for God, except by the enticement of a return. It is, to use the old Latin poet's thought, "Propter vitam, causas vivendi perdere."

Therefore, he judges that the truest interests of religion and the Church lie in the direction of an entire disuse of games of chance for Church objects.

THE MARRIAGE SERVICE.

Let us, while waiting for the wedding party, go over the service that we are to take part in. There will be plenty of time, because they are always late at weddings.

There used to be a law in the Church that no marriages should take place during the season of Lent, and afterward this prohibition was extended to other times. Now we are only bound by custom, but this very properly discountenances marriages during Lent, and especially when there would be any gayety or social disturbance. Emergencies may arise requiring marriages during these weeks of fasting; but these are fewer than we think; if thought is given in time to the matter. It is not right or in good taste that such festivities should be thrust into the season which the Church has consecrated to special self-denial and prayer.

The manner in which the persons to be married and their friends come into the church varies, and is quite a matter of taste. Here when the party arrives at the church door, intimation should be sent to the clergyman, that he may enter the chancel. The groom has his bride on his left hand, the attendants behind on either side, and the parent who gives away the bride close at hand, all standing. Sometimes in the confusion persons get in the wrong place. I have known clergymen grooms place themselves on the wrong side of the bride, and the attendants seat themselves, and the parent have to come forward from a distant chair to give away the bride. All this should be thoroughly understood beforehand.

The service, as we have it, consists of two parts which used to be separate, the espousal or promise, and the marriage itself. It will be noticed that the first questions are in the future tense, "Wilt thou," etc. Sometimes quite an interval elapsed between the pledge and the act of matrimony. Our service shortens very much the English service, on which ours is founded, in abridging the first address of the minister in which the purposes of marriage are stated, and in omitting wholly the address at the end, which is also in the Roman service, and gives the duty of those who are married.

In the giving away of the bride, the father is not simply to bow his assent, but is to take the bride's right hand and place it in the minister's hand, who is to place it in that of the man. This is the formal transference of the woman from her old tie to the care of the husband, through the agency of the Church. As in the betrothal afterward the persons address their pledges each to the other, they ought to look at each other. This is evidently more natural. In every part they should speak with a distinct voice.

The matter of the ring has always produced confusion. The direction in our Prayer Book is: "Then shall the man give unto the woman a ring, and the minister taking the ring," etc. And so the woman often takes the ring from the man and hands it to the minister, who gives it to the man, and so to the woman around in a circle. The error of this is shown by referring to the English book of which ours is an abridgment. There the direction is: "The man shall give unto the woman a ring, laying it upon the book with the accustomed duty to the priest and clerk; and the priest taking the ring," etc. The first clause states in general terms what is to be done, the man is to give to the woman a ring; the other words state the precise method. He places the ring, which had been a common object before, on the book; and passing as it now does through the minister's hands it becomes a symbol of the union of two lives. The minister takes and formerly blessed the ring from the man and returns it to him with direction that it be placed on the fourth finger of the woman's left hand. Originally also other gifts were made with the ring, as symbolizing the endowing with the worldly goods.

Until 1661 in England it was enjoined that the service should conclude with the Communion, which the married persons were then to receive. The English service recommends now that the Communion be received then or at the first opportunity afterward. Our service omits all reference to the Communion.

But here they come at last.

A Puritan in Boston writes thus of the Church: "To go to it, to become allied with its venerable forms, holy examples, inspiring sentiments and unshaken truths, seems the logic of plain sense. Here is a body of worshippers tracing descent through the Church of England—the stream of priceless boons to mankind. We all know that to-day no Church exists so free, so modern, so progressive as the Church of England, and abreast of it, twenty-five years from now, will the Episcopal Church of America be. Yet what deep roots into the past! What symbols of beauty! traditions of devotion! What ancestral glory and what elemental principles! The monk, the martyr, the hermit belong to it, as well as the modern reformer, poet and humanitarian."

NASAL AND BRONCHIAL CATARRH—A STRONG RECORD.

REV. T. P. CHILDS' CATARRH TREATMENT advertisement appears in this issue of the Church News.

Leading men of every denomination publicly state that Child's treatment has cured them or their families of Catarrh or of Throat difficulties, not obscure, unknown men, but men whose reputation is national, men widely known for their services in the pulpit or the missionary field. Editors and publishers of our leading periodicals, among them the CONGREGATIONALIST and WATCHMAN, of Boston; the ILLUSTRATED CHRISTIAN WEEKLY and the EXAMINER and CHRONICLE, of New York; the JOURNAL AND MESSENGER and DAILY GAZETTE, of Cincinnati, and many others, have personally investigated the facts, and they are satisfied that, while Mr. Childs is not—as he does not claim to be—a regularly educated physician, but, on the other hand, a highly-esteemed minister of the gospel, who has spent thirty years as a pastor in the State of Ohio, yet he has made such a study of the disease known as Catarrh, as to have enabled him to treat it with most extraordinary success. His own affliction, suffered for years, until he was finally compelled to leave the pulpit expecting to die, is well known to all his brethren throughout the State; and his present robustness of health and prospect of long life are also well known, and can be ascribed to nothing else than the treatment devised by himself, and now so confidently recommended to others. If any record could inspire confidence, surely this of Mr. Childs' should make every sufferer feel that he may make trial of this treatment with every hope of success.

Nor is his remedy a novelty. It has now been before the public for twelve years, though it is only three years since he began to so extensively advertise it, and the result now is that thousands have been cured by him, and his business has constantly increased, until he has been obliged to erect new and commodious buildings in Troy, Ohio, for the special purpose of affording facilities for compounding, packing and shipping his remedies and apparatus, and for the entertainment of those who call upon him for personal consultation.

The addition to his firm of Dr. J. H. Green, a well-known physician of twenty years' practice, assures patients that if they have any constitutional troubles growing out of Catarrh, Dr. Green will add such treatment as will remove them. We would advise our readers to present this treatment to their friends with the fullest assurance of its success.

Those who need a good appetizer or aid to digestion for home use will find a choice selection of clarets and Sauternes at Chas. E. Bicker's, 702 Olive street. He also imports Roquefort cheese and the finest brands of French canned goods. New supply just received.

Letter Box.

LEBANON, December 22, 1879.

Editor Church News:

The ladies of St. Paul's Mission in Lebanon, desire, through your paper, to thank the ladies of Christ Church, St. Louis, for their kind assistance at their Bazaar, and to inform them, that our success was far beyond our expectations, a great part of which success was owing to the attractions of the Christ Church table, the proceeds of which will be quite a help in carrying out their plan of building a church.

MISSIONARY WORK IN SOUTH EAST MISSOURI.

Editor Church News:

About the middle of last month I took a missionary trip through Southeast Missouri. I held four services in Cape Girardeau, three in Jackson, and one in Ironton. I had intended to give another service to Ironton, and then visit DeSoto and Platin; but was called home suddenly, on account of severe illness in my family. I intend soon to visit the places I then failed to visit, and include in the next trip Crystal City. At the Cape they have built, with commendable energy and self-denial, a very neat brick church, costing $2,000, thus far. It is finished except the pews and the chancel. It is in every way satisfactory, and is, so far as I know, the best church in the diocese for the money.

There is a debt on it of $500, which ought to be removed as promptly as possible.

I believe this could be done in a short time, if say, $200 were placed in the Bishop's hands, to be devoted to clearing off the debt as soon as the congregation should raise the remaining $300. My judgment is that this ought to be done, and done promptly; and to give some stimulus to the endeavor, I will guarantee one eighth of the amount from my own parish.

Jackson is the county seat, but has a population of less than 1,000. They have on hand $300, but do not hope to build soon; however, what helps the Cape, will help them, though indirectly, almost as much.

There ought to be a minister at Ironton, which is the centre of the population of the valley in which it stands. Here there is a beautiful frame church, which would be an ornament to any town in the State, and now, happily, paid for and consecrated.

There ought to be more Church life and strength in Ironton, than there seems to be; with a resident minister, perhaps, in a year or two, this could be brought about. GEO. K. DUNLOP.

CAPE GIRARDEAU.

Editor Church News:

For several months the Episcopal church in this city has been without a pastor, and consequently no religious services have been held here. The few members of the church here, by great exertion and many sacrifices of time, personal convenience and money succeeded, some three years ago, in erecting the neatest church edifice in the State south of St. Louis. Rev. Geo. Moore, now of Tennessee, had charge, and by untiring exertion did much towards the erection of the building. The Bishop has been here twice and administered the rites of baptism and confirmation. Lately the ladies of the church succeeded in raising some five hundred dollars, and had the church plastered internally and painted handsomely within and without. All that is now needed to complete the furniture of the church, is a sum sufficient to purchase pews, a carpet and a chancel. This amount will probably soon be raised, meanwhile the wealthy members of the Church in St. Louis and elsewhere, are cordially and affectionately invited to contribute something from their abundance for this purpose. Did they know what sacrifices the few here who take an interest in the well-being of the Church have already made, they would cheerfully respond. Contributions for this purpose will be received by Mrs. Frances Cheeny, of Cape Girardeau, or Bishop Robertson, of St. Louis.

On the 10th of this month Rev. Geo. K. Dunlop, of Kirkwood, visited us and held services, which were well attended on three evenings, and preached and administered the holy communion on last Sunday morning. He left on Sunday evening for Jackson, where he was engaged in missionary labor until last Wednesday. Mr. Dunlop's visit has been a rare treat to us all. He was warmly received here. Genial in manner, cultured and refined, a gentleman and a scholar as well as a Christian teacher, he attracted to him all with whom he came in contact. His sermons were excellent, showing that he possesses a well trained mind, cultured thought, extensive literary acquirement, as well as a knowledge of human nature, the fruits of matured experience. He has left behind him a lasting impression for good, and his return will be hailed with unfeigned pleasure by the Episcopalians of Cape Girardeau, as well as many outside of the fold.

EPISCOPALIAN.

Editor Church News:

While paragraphs respecting Bishop Whittingham are put in the paper, as an instance of his kindness to obscure clergymen, three or four years ago I wrote to him inquiring his opinion as to the meaning of the 19th and 20th verse of the 3d chapter of 1st Peter. I had never met him; was a missionary in a little village hardly to be found on the map. He answered my letter at once, referring me to Bishop Huseley's sermons as embodying his view, and a few days afterwards wrote to me again, sending with his letter a published sermon by Dr. Seabury of the General Seminary, which he had just received, and which so favorably impressed him that he sent for an extra copy to send to me. All this he was kind enough to do to an entire stranger, whose only claim upon him was that he was a missionary of the Church. He was a father in the kingdom: great among the great, and yet able to give his counsel and help to the humblest of the flock.

MISSOURIAN.

CALVARY PARISH, LOUISIANA.

Editor Church News:

There are about eighty communicants in this Parish,—about one-fourth males.

For the past year the average number enrolled in the Sunday school has been eighty; they belong to no other school. The average attendance for the year, fifty-eight. The lowest average, in August, about fifty. At Christmas, sixty-eight.

Services are conducted as follows:

At 9:20 the roll is called by the superintendent, who goes quietly to each class, and marks "1" opposite the name of those present. He then returns to the vestry-room, where, at 9:30, the organist plays a voluntary, when the superintendent enters the church, and all kneel in silent prayer. It was found, in practice, impossible to get all the children to kneel in silent prayer when they first entered the church; but they willingly kneel when the superintendent does, especially when the organ stops their talking. After rising, the prayer-book is used, commencing at Morning Prayer, Sentences, etc., to the close of Gloria in Excelsis. In reading the Psalter, one selection is all that is read generally, and the page given for the benefit of the younger children. After the Gloria, the lesson, as found on the leaflet lesson paper, is read, closing with "Here endeth the lesson." Then one or two hymns are sung from Goodrich's Book, when the classes are instructed to proceed with their lessons.

The leaflets used are those published by Rev. Thos. A. Pattison, of Syracuse. We get sixty copies with Teacher's Guide, the whole at a cost of about $8 a year. I consider them invaluable, after a trial of three years in our school.

Each class, excepting the infant class, has the same lesson, and they also learn from the leaflet, the Church Year, catechism, etc. Near the close of the lessons, the superintendent visits the classes again, and looks after new or missing pupils, and also gives $\frac{3}{4}$ or $\frac{1}{2}$ mark attendance to the tardy ones. The tickets and leaflets for the following Sunday are distributed at the same time by the secretary. The school is then called to order, and required to answer concerning the lesson, the superintendent asking questions, and all responding. Then several more songs from the Tune-book, when the collection is taken up, two boys having been selected previously to carry the plates. They are taught to walk up together, and the school rises and sings the Doxology. Then follows the Creed, and a closing prayer and benediction.

NOTES.—The collections the past year, amounted to $36.

Calling the roll makes the children more prompt.

As to rewards, we always have some for Easter and Christmas, including the Rector's Medal, but we have no definite general plan. Who has?

We most prize, the use of the Prayer-book in our school. All else that is needed is a book with tunes suitable for children. The children soon get familiar with the Prayer-book, and learn to love it. I have given some ideas which I have gathered while superintendent of this school for the past five years, with a view of drawing out others, and finding out the best way to conduct a Sunday school. What interesting reading it would be to have a number of Sunday school communications in THE NEWS for the coming year telling us not only how they manage such large schools as those at St. George's, Holy Communion, Christ's Church school, and also telling how they manage the smaller schools, such as our little one here.

Does any one know of a good weekly Sunday school paper? DAVID A. STEWART.

Editor Church News:

The hearts of Christians are often pained to hear that the need for laborers in the Master's field is great, but that, as of old, the laborers are few, and our Bishops sadly in want of earnest self-denying men to go out into the waste places from which calls are constantly coming to them.

We know there is no lack of men, for every profession is crowded to overflowing. A merchant hesitates to advertise for a clerk or book-keeper, lest he be besieged by hosts of applicants.

With many the explanation is ready; that the ministry is so poorly provided for that young men cannot be induced to enter it. Grant the fact that the ministry is poorly paid. Are there not hundreds of callings in business where the pay is no better?

Are not hundreds of earnest laymen working on, and even holding up the hands of their rectors on less salary and for less outside of their salary than their ministers get.

A single case of sickness in a layman's house may cost him a whole month's salary. A similar case in the rector's house costs him far less in medicine, while the best medical skill is freely and cheerfully given.

The rector's children are often, indeed almost always gladly received in the best schools at reduced rates, if not wholly free; while a layman with an income the same as his rector's, would not think of sending his.

Things ever in a worldly point of view are much more even than they seem to be. The Master's work is not without its advantages in the life that now is, as well as in the life to come.

May not some of this slowness to enter the work among the educated young men of our land be laid at the door of even our most self-denying clergy themselves? Is there not too much readiness to report hardships by the way, rather than the glad welcome and the joy and happiness of ministering to souls distressed.

The reports of missionary trips are often fuller of hardships endured than of seed sown. Hardships right nobly borne, I grant, and told only to show the brave spirit which overcomes all difficulties in order to preach the Blessed Gospel—but still told.

Not so with the world. Not so with the lawyer or doctor in their efforts to establish themselves. They wait in silence till they have overcome the difficulties which beset all undertakings of any value to mankind.

One can not read the reports of our own hard-working Bishop without being struck by the absence of all allusions to personal hardship. And yet we cannot believe that this vast Diocese is traversed without much that might be effectually written up into chapter of adventure and hardship.

I do not wish at all to underrate the trials of the work of the Ministry, or the self-sacrifice necessary for the work; and if needs be, let it be told, but I do think too little of the sunny side is known or read about.

I venture to say that not one clergyman's family in all this broad land was wholly forgotten at the blessed season we have just passed through. In how many lay homes were the little ones overlooked by all but father and mother, and the embodied blessing of childhood, Santa Claus, passed them by?

I have been in two rectory homes this Christmas tide, in each of which every face was brightened at the tokens of loving forethought evinced by a loving people.

In one, the beautiful hamper in its gay deckings of Christmas card and blue ribbon, was displayed with just pride with its depths of beautiful table linen, bed spreads, napkins and towels, sent by nameless friends through the "Young Ladies Sewing Circle," and this too in a home which a few months before had been brightened by a blaze of lovely silver gifts, and bright, shining silver coin from a loving people who themselves celebrated their rector's silver wedding, and not he, as THE NEWS incorrectly stated.

In the other the dainty lace caps, and sacks, and socks for the rector's first born, the kind note of loving words, containing a bright yellow coin and good wishes for the "new comer," made bright gleams in the heart and home, and let out the sunshine, in the strength of which faithful men grew strong in the resolve to spend and be spent in the care of those who love and cares for them.

I do not believe our papers could contain a full list of the loving acts and kind wishes which cheer on the faithful man of God in his labor of love, but often from a sense of false delicacy the mention of them is often omitted. Kindnesses cheer and make glad the heart of man, be he priest or layman, and though often valuable in themselves, they are always so as evidence of love and appreciation from those to whom he ministers.

I for one do not propose to shut in the sunshine.

RECTOR'S WIFE

St. Louis, Christmas, 1879.

—When the Rev. Phillips Brooks, on Sunday morning, told his congregation that a new organ was much needed for the Chapel of his parish, that congregation did not pause to discuss the matter, but, as soon as the service was over, subscribed the needed sum, $1000.

—Right Rev. James O'Connor, Vicar Apostolic of Nebraska says: "It would surprise Catholics in the East to know how many have been lost to the faith in the West during the last half century. In Nebraska alone, with its sparse population, the number thus lost has been from 10,000 to 15,000 and the Church has no more bitter enemies to-day than these children of Catholic parents."

—In Houston, Texas, the Rector of the Church after service on Thanksgiving Day at one o'clock the news boys of the city, numbering 19, were dined by the Rector. At four the junior members of the choir were treated likewise, and at eight the seniors, with their friends, had a social gathering at the Rectory. That kind of man will succeed everywhere.

—The installation of Father McNamara as "Bishop" of the "Independent Catholic Church" took place lately. Is this a Cummins' movement in the R. C. Church?

NASAL BRONCHIAL CATARRH

EFFECTS OF CATARRH IN THE SYSTEM.

Catarrh, in ordinary circumstances, whether brought on by climatic or accidental causes, is not by any means difficult to cure in healthy persons, provided proper treatment is commenced before the disease has obtained a firm hold. But in cases where the patient has, either from hereditary predisposition or direct irregularity, a tainted diathesis, Catarrh appears in its worst form and assumes a phase of the most dangerous character, requiring the most careful and scientific management. In these cases the disease is not confined to the linings of the interior of the Nose, but extends to the Ethmoid bones, which, forming the Nose, are like flagree in their delicate construction, and as thin as an egg-shell. The decomposition of these bones, and consequent falling in of the Nose, is one of the most painful and hideous pictures that humanity can show as the result of neglecting this repulsive disease. The membranous lining of the Nose lies close to the Ethmoid bones with all their network of nerves and blood-vessels, and when inflamed such is the vitality that the circulation of blood is increased to three times its normal condition, the inflammation extending to the Ethmoid bones, ulcers are formed that penetrate through the entire cartilages, the bone becoming necrosed, the acrid discharges assume a frightful fetid character, and, in scrofulous cases, almost unbearable, the patient often, from injury of his own sense of smell, being unable to comprehend the terrible extent of this effluvia in its loathsomeness to others. The membrane then becomes thickened by continuous inflammation, albuminous deposits become mixed with the discharge, resulting in destruction and absorption of the Nasal Bones.

BRONCHITIS, OR INFLAMMATION OF THE BRONCHIAL TUBES.

THE THROAT

This disease is so closely connected with CATARRH that it may be truly described as a branch of that disease, only modified and changed by the nature and organization of the parts affected, CATARRH being confined to the interior of the Nose, while BRONCHITIS affects the small pipes entering into the lungs, known as the Bronchial Tubes. Where this disease obtains its worst character, tumors grow up like mushrooms, creating inflammatory adhesion and discharge of offensive matter from the throat, extending through the Eustachian Tube to the ear, which becomes affected. The absorption of the tuberculous matter is very dangerous and frequently results in PULMONARY CONSUMPTION AND DEATH.

To the Reader.

Can you comprehend in its terrible significance that this disease is more fatal to mankind than all the fevers and other ailments we know of? or the millions of people that labor under it? Many often are unconscious of its ravages until the discharge from the nose and throat bring it painfully home to them, in the ineffective efforts to cough and expectorate the offensive matter. Can anything be more disgusting to the on-looker than this spectacle! Yet none are so frequent. You will find it in every street-car, in every public conveyance. This is only the beginning of the disease. It requires instant scientific treatment. From the delicate organization of the parts affected, there is no time to lose; nothing but the most decided measures will arrest the silent progress of this cruel malady. There must be no neglect.

CATARRH AND AMERICANS

There are few among Americans who do not know by experience some of the symptoms of this disease, and upon many it has fastened itself with a tenacity which defies the skill of the ordinary physician. The "hawking" and spitting for which Americans are sometimes ridiculed by foreigners, are due to this disease, produced by the peculiarly changeable nature of our climate on account of which colds are contracted, and settle in the head, and pass thence to the throat and lungs.

ADVICE THAT SHOULD BE HEEDED. DO NOT USE NOSTRUMS!

Rev. Wm. Anderson, Fordham, New York, writing to a friend in Andover, Mass., says of Childs' Catarrh Treatment:

I would advise you to write to Rev. J. P. Childs, Troy, Ohio. His remedy you can rely on; and, if you can be relieved by medication, his remedy will afford you certain relief. It is the only reliable treatment for catarrh I have known. Do not use those nostrums advertised unless your physician can recommend them. They seriously injure the healthy parts. Rev. T. P. Childs's remedy is indorsed by three physicians in this town.

Yours, truly, WM. ANDERSON.

An entire Family of a Missionary Cured.--Childs' Treatment all it Professes to be
Rev. Thomas Allen, now residing in Dayton, Ohio, after twelve years' service in India, accepted the position of District Secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union for Ohio and West Virginia. The entire family contracted catarrh in its worst form while in India. Their wonderful cure Mr. Allen relates himself. Mr. Allen has a wide reputation, and the cure of such prominent men is worthy the attention of all the afflicted.

Rev. Thomas Allen, District Secretary of the American Baptist Missionary Union, sends us the following:

DR. CHILDS--Dear Brother. This is to certify that I have used your CATARRH SPECIFIC AND COLD AIR INHALING BALM in my family with the most beneficial results. My son, now in Madison University, New York, was so badly afflicted with CATARRH I feared for a time that he was incurable; and, when I applied to you for medicine my hope was faint. It acted speedily and efficiently, and I believe saved him from an early grave. He is now perfectly cured. My wife, who had become very much reduced by a residence in Farther India, as a missionary, has derived great benefit from your INHALING BALM. I can most heartily commend these medicines to the afflicted, believing they are all they profess to be.

Truly, your brother, THOMAS ALLEN.

The Chancellor of the University of Nebraska Cured.

Too much stress can not be laid upon the following testimonial. Dr. Fairfield is well-known all over the United States as a man of high standing, learning and great eloquence in the pulpit. He is at present the Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb. Prior to the use of CHILDS' CATARRH SPECIFIC he had entirely lost the use of his voice, and was compelled to suspend his daily lectures. The fact that CHILDS' CATARRH SPECIFIC restored so prominent a man to usefulness and health, should convince the most skeptical that their cases are not hopeless.

CAN LECTURE DAILY.

CHILDS' CATARRH TREATMENT THE TRUE THEORY.

REV. T. P. CHILDS--Dear Sir: I think you have the true theory and practice for cure of Nasal Catarrh, and also for the treatment of the respiratory organs. My throat is now so well restored that I lecture daily without any difficulty, and find no difficulty whatever in preaching. You are at liberty to use my name for the benefit of others.

Yours, very truly, E. B. FAIRFIELD, D. D., LL. D.

A LEADING OHIO JUDGE CURED

CHILDS' CATARRH TREATMENT THE TRUE THEORY.

Judge J. Collett, of Lima, O., writes: "You will remember how terribly Catarrh had taken hold upon me. Now I am cured; head free, air passages all open, and breathing natural. I express to you again what I said in a recent letter, 'A thousand thanks to you for so sure a remedy and so very cheap.'"

Childs Catarrh Treatment HAS STOOD THE TEST OF YEARS.

In twelve years' practice 45,000 Catarrh Sufferers have applied for relief, and thousands of testimonials have been received from all parts of the country.

My Experience with Catarrh

EIGHTEEN YEARS of terrible headache, disgusting nasal discharges, dryness of the throat, acute bronchitis, coughing, soreness of the lungs, raising bloody mucus, and even night sweats, incapacitating me for my professional duties, and bringing me to the verge of the grave--All were caused by, and the results of NASAL CATARRH. After spending hundreds of dollars and obtaining no relief, I compounded my CATARRH SPECIFIC AND COLD AIR INHALING BALM and wrought upon myself a Wonderful Cure. Now I can breathe freely in any atmosphere. At the calls of numerous friends, I have given my cure to the public, and have now thousands of patients in all parts of the country, and there are thousands of happy men and women whose sufferings I have relieved. My cure is CERTAIN, THOROUGH and PERFECT, and is indorsed by EVERY PHYSICIAN who has examined it. If I can relieve my fellow-beings as I have been relieved of this loathsome disease, which makes the possessor at once disgusting to himself and others, I shall be satisfied, and feel that I have done my little toward removing the ills of mankind.

T. P. CHILDS.

A Lady in Massachusetts Cured.

REV. T. P. CHILDS--Dear Sir: I have suffered from a severe cough most of the time for the past four years. Physicians have told me it was caused by chronic inflammation of the bronchial tubes. I procured some of your Cold Air Inhaling Balm, with other medicines, about the middle of last January, and have used it since with most satisfactory results. I have not been so nearly free from a cough during the past four years as I am at this present time, and the result is wholly due to the use of your balm, which I heartily recommend to that large class of invalids who have consumptive tendencies.

Very respectfully, yours,

MRS. J. H. BULLARD, Springfield, Mass.

Horrible Suffering of a Resident of Texas.

One of the most terrible cases of Catarrh we have had in our practice was that of W. S. Sandel, of Willis, Montgomery County, Texas. He says:

In 1873 I was attacked with Catarrh, slight at first, but it gradually grew worse and worse. In the spring of 1877 the disease assumed a new form; my mouth and throat were attacked, ulcers were formed, and soon the ulva was all eaten away, and large sores through the posterior nares. My condition was now not only deplorable, but apparently hopeless. Large quantities of VERY OFFENSIVE matter were discharged from the nostrils and throat; and for days together I could take no food but spoon victuals. I knew of no remedy, and the doctors could give me no relief or advice. My sufferings were intense, and distraction of mind was added to my physical sufferings.

After three months' use of our treatment he reported a radical change for the better, and again in a recent letter he says: "I AM ENTIRELY CURED; all the horrible disease entirely removed."

A Lady in Defiance Ohio.

More than a year ago I used your Catarrh remedies with almost untold benefit to myself. I prize your remedies more than I can tell you, and can with all my heart indorse your treatment. I would not for worlds go back to the discomfort and misery and dismal prospects for the future with which I was surrounded before I tried your treatment.

Respectfully, yours,

MRS. E. P. HOOKER, Defiance, Ohio.

Pastor in New Jersey Does Not Regret the Cost

I do not regret the money it cost in using your medicine. I can heartily recommend your treatment. Yours,

E. J. LIPPINCOTT, Clarksboro, Gloucester county, N. J.

Pastor of Methodist Church Cured.

Your treatment cured me; your inhalers are excellent. This is the only radical cure I have ever found.

E. S. MARTIN, Pastor M. E. Church, Port Carbon, Pa.

WOMEN THE MOST GRATEFUL.

I have several thousand letters from grateful women all over the country. Their sedentary habits and close confinement in our heated houses make them very susceptible to this disease. Foul breath in a woman is dreadful, and it almost always arises from Catarrh or its baneful attendants. But pure, sweet breath can be obtained by the cure of the Catarrh that causes it.

MINISTERS, LAWYERS, TEACHERS,

Who are constantly using their voice, should be watchful of the first approaches of Catarrh. After the dreadful suffering through which I passed, I can not too strongly urge upon my brother speakers the necessity of care. If Catarrh has obtained a hold, send at once and obtain my CATARRH SPECIFIC, and commence the treatment at once. You may save yourself years of agony.

HOMETREATMENT

Unlike a patent medicine, or the many so-called Catarrh cures advertised CHILDS' CATARRH TREATMENT must be adapted to the wants and constitutional needs of each individual patient. A knowledge of this is of the first importance, and of this we make a special study. We use in our treatment the best instruments, nicely adapted to the skillful treatment of this disease, and yet so simple that the patient can use them with perfect safety and without pain.

Childs' Treatment for Catarrh, or for the diseases of Bronchial Tubes, can be taken at home, with perfect ease and safety, by the patient. No expense need be entailed beyond the cost of the medicine.

J. H. Green, M. D., a physician of twenty years' general and special practice is now associated in the business, and will pay special attention to all diseases of the Upper Air Passages and to Affections of the Ears, and will prescribe where constitutional treatment is necessary.

The object of the Institution is "to provide and maintain a Hospital or Infirmary, and otherwise care for the sick, both in their physical and spiritual wants."

Any person is admitted without regard to age, sex or religion, who is suffering from disease or injuries; the only restriction being the capacity of the building.

The Hospital is in charge of the "SISTERHOOD OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD," a noble band of self-sacrificing ladies, several members of which devote themselves personally to this work and to whom all applications for admission should be made.

The support of the Institution must for the present depend mainly upon the liberality of the charitably disposed people of St. Louis as it has yet no permanent endowment fund. A partial revenue, however is derived from patients who are able and willing to pay a moderate sum, and to whom the care and attention afforded is often as great a charity as that bestowed upon the absolutely needy who are as kindly nourished free of any charge whatever.

As the calls upon the Hospital are largely in excess of its limited accommodation, the Trustees are arranging to build a Hospital upon a commanding and convenient situation, and to this end request donations from all such as are charitably disposed. Any amount, however trifling, either for running expenses or Building Fund will be thankfully received if sent to the Treasurers, the Bishop of Missouri or any of the officers. No collector is employed, and the managers look to the charity of Christian hearts to enable them to meet the expenses and provide for the future.

An offertory will be made at every Service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the clergy are requested to give notice.

It will readily be understood that, in making appointments covering so many places, and so much time, and involving considerations not always fully understood by all, everything could not be done in each case that might have been desired. It will be believed that the best arrangements possible have been made. Any change, therefore, involving a general derangement could hardly be expected. If, however, anything could be done for the better for any place, which would not disturb the convenience of others, the Bishop will gladly consider it. The Services on week days are at night, unless from local circumstances the Rector desires another hour. The Bishop is always glad to meet the people, the vestry, and the Sunday School children, as shall be arranged; and while he is in a parish he is quite at the disposal of the parish. He desires that the parish registers may be written up against his coming, and that he may see them.

MISSIONARY ITEMS.

The Bishop was recently asked by the president of a missionary society in this city to give him some memoranda from which an address might be made. A portion of such notes are here given, in the hope that they may be suggestive to any persons who desire to deepen an interest in this important work.

The information given from month to month in THE NEWS, as to changes and growth in the Diocese, furnish for those who keep up knowledge of the geography of the Diocese very great help. Indeed, this was intended to be one of the main functions of the paper. The anniversary sermon of Dr. Schuyler, on pages 7, 10-13, gives clearly some very helpful facts as to the progress of the Diocese in different periods. Copies of this sermon will be sent by the Bishop to any who ask and inclose him postage.

Of the sixty-four churches now in the Diocese, forty-seven have been built within the past ten years, and most of them in places in which Services are sustained by the Missionary Board. The value of the church property acquired in such places is at least five times as much as the amount of missionary money raised in the Diocese for these places in the same time. Money is so distributed to needy places, that it calls forth on the average three or four times as much more from local sources, which could not otherwise have been raised. The aid also is so distributed that each clergyman helped serves on an average four different congregations on different Sundays and week days. These places as they grow stronger raise more money, and have a larger proportion of a clergyman's time, and the work is divided.

Ten years ago much the greater number of confirmations in the Diocese were in the self-supporting congregations in St. Louis, but for a number of years past the greater number of confirmations have been in those parts other than St. Louis, showing that the greatest rate of Church growth is in those portions of the Diocese sustained by missionary help. In 1868 it was reported to the Convention that only seventeen of the 114 counties in this State were occupied by our Church; at this time there are services regularly in fifty-three, and more or less frequently in nearly twenty more. In these ten years the number of clergymen in the Diocese have doubled; and the reported number of communicants is three times as many now as were then enrolled.

The amount raised for Diocesan Missions in 1868 and 1869 was greater than that raised last year, or the average amount raised for this purpose in the Diocese for the past five years. That is, the amount raised for this purpose now is less than when our numbers and strength was less than half what they are at present. In 1869 it was estimated in Convention that $5,000 should be raised, and would be needed in the Diocese during the next year. Last year the amount raised was less than $2,000. Then, one person gave $500 a year, another $300, another $200, and a number gave $50 each; now it is hard to recall more than two persons who give $50 a year for this purpose.

The older down-town parishes have fallen off in their contributions; and the newer up-town ones have by no means taken their place. Christ church in 1869 gave over $1,200; last year only $189.50. St. George's gave in 1869 over $800; last year $68.67. Parish debts have worked against this cause, and lately what was not asked for these debts has been sought for St. Luke's Hospital. The average amount given per communicant for our aggressive work in the Diocese in 1869 was $1.50; last year it was less than 40 cents for each. In 1879 twenty of our forty-four parishes contributed nothing to Diocesan missions, in spite of the law making quarterly collections for this purpose obligatory; and of the remaining twenty-four, sixteen, or two-thirds did not give $7 each on an average.

If more is not done than has recently been done, we cannot fill up all our vacant parishes and stations, much less go on to occupy new ground. Let the ministers urge this duty, and give their people the chance to give. More then will be done for themselves. Have meetings, prepare for them, let there be a reality about them; appoint collectors and encourage them in their work.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

— It may be interesting to know about Christ church bazaar that the net result of Mrs. Douthitt's and Mrs. Plant's stall was $369.60; of Mrs. Bradford's, $447.50; of Mrs. McCrery's, $398.90; of Mrs. Robertson's, $232.90; of the refreshment room, $275.95; of Mrs. Hudson's, $68; of Mrs. Crane's stall, $233.95; of Mrs. Kennett's, $669.50; Sunday School table, $213.65; fortune teller, $32.20; art gallery, $55.10; skating rink, $22.35; shooting gallery, $20; coat room, $21.10; tickets of admission sold, $279.60.

— We understand that the second member of Trinity church in this city has gone to New York to join the Sisterhood of St. Mary in that city.

— The following is the Building Committee of St. Luke's Hospital: Messrs. Edwin Harrison, Henry Shaw, John R. Shepley, Wm. S. Pope, Wm. H. Thomson, and Dr. John Green. It is a thoroughly competent committee.

— The Rev. Mr. Talbot, as Rector of St. James Academy, Macon, announces that he has now completed his arrangements for receiving boys who may be sent to him from a distance. Though the School has been in successful operation for five years, hitherto this has been impossible, as it had no suitable sleeping apartment. But recently a large, and well ventilated dormitory has been added, forming a part of the School building, where boys can be comfortably lodged and provided for. Two of the Masters of the school also sleep in the dormitory, thus securing that personal supervision so much desired by those who send their sons from home. The boys take their meals with the Rector's family, and every attention paid them, both during school hours, and at other times. The Diocese having been put in possession of so eligible a property, it is sincerely hoped that parents may see it to their interest to send their sons to this Institution. Certainly no more healthful location than Macon can be found, while with a full corps of experienced and competent teachers it offers special advantages in the way of intellectual and moral training. Boys are prepared thoroughly for any college or University, and an excellent opportunity for acquiring a knowledge of the German language is given. The terms for tuition, board, washing etc., is $250 per year, with no extras.

The scholastic year is divided into two terms of five months (20 weeks) each. The spring term opened the 5th inst., and boys are received at any time.

— At the monthly meeting of the Sunday School Association on the 19th ult., in St. George's chapel, there was a good attendance. The Bishop said the opening service, and then yielded the chair to Mr. Wilkins. Mr. Ralph Talbot read an admirable and carefully prepared paper on the prize system in Sunday Schools, showing the necessity for it, and its analogy with life outside, but guarding against the abuses to which it is subject. The discussion of the subject was continued by the Rev. Wm. Wright, of St. John's, Messrs. Delafield, Leslie and others. It was decided to secure for the financial necessities of the Association to assess the Sunday Schools belonging to it at the rate of ten cents a quarter for each teacher. The Rev. Messrs. Robert and Betts, Messrs. Wilkins, Nelson, and others, engaged in the discussion of this matter. Mr. Robert had met the teachers of the Sunday Schools on Wednesday evenings in the Vestry Rooms of the Church of the Holy Communion for an explanation of the next Sunday's lesson according to the Canadian leaflet system, and will so continue until the next meeting of the Association.

— The Rev. Mr. Wright has taken up the work at St. John's in this city with great interest. He has Service in the chapel daily at 9 and 4; the second Service on Wednesday being in the evening at 7.45. His musical knowledge has enabled him to put the choir into good condition. The congregations are very good.

— The Rev. Octavius Parker, recently of Pendleton, Oregon, took charge of Christ church, Springfield, on Septuagesima Sunday. He is of the class of 1876 in Nashotah; and went after a short training at the Cathedral in Milwaukee to Oregon, where he did successful work.

— The new St. Mary's church, Kansas City, was used for the first time on the Sunday after Christmas. There were about sixty persons present, two-thirds of whom were adults. Mr. Wm. L. Woodruff, candidate for Orders, formerly a Congregational minister, is acting as Lay Reader there.

— In this month's Spirit of Missions there is nothing credited as given from this Diocese for Foreign Missions, and only $5, from Harrisonville, for Domestic Missions.

— They have still further reduced the debt on the De Soto church, and also the rate of interest. The amount due now is only $200, and they have the promise of the last $50 of that.

— The Rev. Andrew T. Sharpe, formerly of this Diocese, who served very acceptably the parishes at Warrensburg and Columbia, has been called to the Rectorship of Christ church, Lexington, in place of the Rev. Mr. Dunn, and has entered upon his duties there.

— The Bishop was able to go to Davenport after all, but was only able to be gone two days. The main object of the gathering were the term examinations in Griswold College. Besides Bishop Perry, the Bishops of Minnesota, Nebraska and Colorado were in attendance; but Bishop Whipple had left before Bishop Robertson arrived, being recalled home by the serious sickness of Mrs. Whipple, who, however, afterwards became better; and Bishop Clarkson could only remain three or four hours after the Bishop of Missouri reached them. The most important result of the gathering was the incorporation of the Western Church Building Society, the incorporators including the above-named Bishops, and also Bishop Vail, Tuttle and Hare. The idea is to constitute a body to which gifts may be made for the erection of churches and parsonages, provided that three times as much be given on the spot, and the work be without debt. The numbers involved will give character to the body. The amounts received to be distributed pro rata. Special gifts to go as the donor indicates. A standing notice of the Society to remain in three Church papers, the cost of which advertising to be distributed among the Bishops. It is hoped that this will be the agency for organizing the interests which is felt in the East for the enormously growing West.

— On the first Sundays in the month at St. John's in this city, the Rev. Mr. Wright proposes to have in the afternoon a service for the children. They march into the church, and have entire control of the service, which is altogether from the Prayer Book.

— The large new organ for the Church in Chillicothe has been fitted into its place in a recess which has been built out from the north side of the nave near the chancel, and gives excellent satisfaction. The two organ concerts given netted $85.

— In Jefferson City the Sunday School meets at 3, and the second service is at 4 p. m., and the result is an increase of attendance, most of the children coming to the service and a short sermon. For Lent the Sunday services are at 8:30, 11 and 3 p. m.; daily services at 4 p. m., excepting on Wednesdays, at 8:30 a. m., and on Fridays at 8:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The Rector suggests the following rules for his people: 1. Avoid as far as possible all worldly amusements and entertainments. 2. Endeavor to attend the appointed services. 3. Engage in some work of charity or mercy when expedient. 4. Observe as days of fasting, Ash Wednesday and Good Friday, and during the entire season practice "such a measure of abstinence as is more especially suited to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." 5. Deny yourself the enjoyment of some usual luxury, and make that denial the basis of an offering to be brought to the Lord on Easter Day. (The Easter offering will be devoted to repairing the Church externally. The work will be of permanent value.) 6. Let all your acts and devotions be heartfelt and not formal. 7. Pray for your Bishop and Rector, and for all the clergy. Finally, remember that the faithful have always observed these requirements.

— From Springfield we hear good news of the way in which work is reviving under the new Rector. Matters are being organized, and all are ready to work under the systematic leadership.

— Mrs. Hawks, the widow of the late Bishop of this Diocese, was recently married in St. Joseph, where she has been residing for the past few years, to Dr. Darby of that place.

— The Bishop started for New Orleans on the evening of the 3d inst., to take part in the consecration of the Rev. Dr. Galleher, Bishop-elect of Louisiana. It took place in Trinity church, the Bishop of Mississippi acting as consecrator, Bishop Dudley delivering a very vigorous sermon, and Bishops Wilmer and Robertson also taking part. The congregation was very large. Being in New Orleans he remained a few days longer, and reached St. Louis again on Friday, 13th. On Sunday, 8th, he preached in St. Paul's church, and the Church of the Annunciation.

The Sanitarian. January. Monthly, devoted to the preservation of health, mental and physical culture, $3. A. N. Bell, 8 Spruce street, New York. The last two numbers have contained important articles on the means for the prevention of the recurrence of yellow fever.

The success of recent numbers of Scribner has been so marked that the edition of the February number has been placed at 125,000. This number will contain the first part of Eugene Schuyler's illustrated life of Peter the Great, which is said to be graphic and interesting to an unusual degree; also Mrs. Burnett's new story, "Louisiana."

which will present some strong contrasts of character; a rollicking paper on Bicycling, entitled, "A Wheel Around the Hub," and other features.

The Table of Lessons, 1880. A calendar to be hung up in the Vestry Room, and near the table of those who follow in their daily devotions the order of the Christian year. 10 cents.

The Church's Mission of Reconciliation. By Rev. Dr. John Cotton Smith. A sermon preached recently by the Clerical Association of Massachusetts, and given in the last number of the Church Review, and now reprinted in pamphlet form. A wise, strong statement by a broad-minded man of indications that ought to be regarded. 15 cents. Both of these last published by T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York.

The Musical Herald. Vol. 1, No. 1, January. A monthly devoted to musical criticism, notices of new music, news from musical centres and about musical people. $1.50 per annum. Published by Musical Herald Co., Music Hall, Boston.

The Forms of Water. By John Tyndall. This well known work is put out by J. Fitzgerald, 294 Broadway, N. York, in a volume of Humboldt Library of Popular Scientific Literature, a series very like the Lakeside and Franklin Square Libraries. This is the second number of the series, the first being Proctor's Light Science for Leisure Hours. They are on heavy paper, well printed and illustrated, and for sale at 15 cents a number.

St. Nicholas for February opens with two Child-Songs by Alfred Tennyson, the poet laureate of England. One of these is reprinted near the end of the number with its music, which also was sent by Mr. Tennyson.

The frontispiece, a full-page picture on fine gray paper, represents the "Princes in the Tower," and was engraved on wood, after a mezzotint engraving by Samuel Cousins of the painting by J. E. Millais. The book is simply perfect as a child's magazine. Scribner & Co., N. York.

Scribner for February—The Midwinter (February) Scribner (of which 125,000 copies have been printed, to supply the growing demand in England and America), is as unique in points as in the size of the edition. The most prominent feature, perhaps, is the paper on Edison's Electric Light, by his mathematician, Mr. Francis R. Upton, which is endorsed as the "first correct and authoritative" account in a letter from Mr. Edison, printed in fac-simile in this issue of Scribner. The first of Mr. Eugene Schuyler's illustrated paper, on the life of Peter the Great, given in this number, covers a wide range of interest, placing a most fascinating historical era clearly before the reader. Mrs. Burnett's new story, in four parts, entitled "Louisiana," is also begun in this number. The scene is laid in the North Carolina mountains, the characters being chiefly some "literary people" from New York, and the ingenious young lady from whom the story takes its name. Besides the "Grandissimes," there are two suggestive essays, of more than transient value, on topics now occupying much attention, "Present Phases of Sunday-School Work," by Rev. Edward Eggleston, and "The Political Outlook," by an anonymous writer. Altogether, this number of Scribner is one of great variety and interest.

The March Scribner will contain the long-looked-for paper on "The Tile Club Afloat," which is said to be even better, both in text and pictures, than "The Tile Club at Play," which was acknowledged to be the "magazine hit" of the last season.

Wide Awake for February has an interesting historical frontispiece, illustrating an incident in the life of Queen Charlotte, for which Jennie M. Burr has written a poem entitled "A Crown and a Letter." Miss Lizzie W. Champney has a story that will delight all little girls about "Silver Bonbright and her Rubber Baby," accompanied by pictures drawn by "Champ" from his experience in Brazil. "L. J. L." has an after-Christmas story worth thinking about, called "What Jennie did with her Christmas Present." The two serials, "Five Little Peppers" and "Two Young Homesteaders," are full of interest.

TRINITY CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

The marked event of the month in Churchly matters in St. Louis has been the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Trinity Church. On the first of February, 1855, the Rev. Dr. E. C. Hutchinson with a few personal friends began the parish in what then were the outskirts of St. Louis. He had come to this city in 1841 from Virginia, and assumed the presidency of Kemper College, when the venerable Bishop Kemper had bought 600 acres of land, and with large help from the East, had erected buildings, gathered a library, on the site where now the county poor farm is. The College continued four or five years and went down because of debt and internal dissensions. Dr. Hutchinson in 1845 founded, and became the first Rector of St. George's Church, resigning its charge in 1854. In the summer of that year correspondence was had by some gentlemen who desired to start a new parish with Dr. Hutchinson at its head, with the other existing congregations of the city, which after some demur on their parts resulted in the organization of Trinity in February, 1855.

The services were first held in a Cumberland Presbyterian Church on the corner of Eleventh and St. Charles Street, and it was not until 1859 that the property, where the present church is, was leased and the building begun. The congregation had not been in the church more than four or five years when it was burned and only the walls left. Its rebuilding was immediately proceeded with, and the building was again consecrated. In 1866 the chapel in the rear was built. In 1869 Dr. Hutchinson resigned the rectorship, and was succeeded by Dr. Easter, and he, in a short time, by Dr. Cross. Then followed, for four years, the care by the Bishop, assisted in the pastoral charges by the Rev. Mr. Coan. At Easter, 1877, the Rev. Mr. Betts assumed charge, which he still retains.

The proposition to observe the feast was entered into heartily by all. After the earlier services of the day, the church at night was densely filled with a large congregation, in which were to be recognized many faces of those who in earlier years were connected with the parish. The Bishop, Drs. Schuyler and Ingraham, and the Rev. Messrs. Barr and Wright were in the chancel, which was beautifully adorned with flowers.

The Rector delivered the historical address, in which the story of the parish was told with graphic force. It will be published, and therefore we need not repeat it at length. The earlier strugglings, the constant encumbrance of debt, the proclivity for fine music, even when the rector's salary was diminished thereby, the drift of population westward, and the founding of the chapel which resulted in the parish of the Holy Communion, the present zeal and unity of the parish; all were told so pleasingly that the attention was held for nearly an hour and a half without flagging.

An interesting episode in the midst of the address was the unveiling of a white marble tablet on the north wall of the church to the memory of Dr. Hutchinson. It recalled the fact that he had been the founder of three parishes in this city, and rector of Trinity Church for fourteen years.

Two years ago nearly the vestry agreed that if the congregation would raise $8000 at the rate of at least $1,000 a year, they would themselves engage then to pay the remaining $5,000 of the debt. This was agreed to, and the ladies' society went vigorously to work. The parish never was out of debt. It amounted, to the most, about $17,000, at the close of Dr. Hutchinson's incumbency. $2,000 were paid in Dr. Easter's time, and $2,000 more while the Bishop was in charge; the notes made for the balance of the debt, which had been fully subscribed for, having been cancelled and returned by order of the vestry.

Last Easter the ladies presented their first installment, $1,000; and on the night of the anniversary, anticipating the time when it was due, they laid another $1,000 on the altar; leaving the debt now about $11,000. The church is on ground leased for forty years, nearly nineteen years of which are yet unexpired.

On Monday night, 2d inst., the rector invited the parishioners new and old, and the friends of the parish to a reception to his house. The rooms were thronged with those who enjoyed pleasant remembrances of the earlier and latter days of Trinity. The excellent conception of observing the anniversary was very delightfully carried out.

THE poor we have always with us, and whenever we will we may do them good. And the will to do them good, in a spiritual and religious sense, at least, is very genuine and very abounding. The churches, as a rule, cherish no desire more sincere than that of preaching the gospel to the poor, without money and without price.

There is, however, a real difference between "God's poor" and man's poor. There are great multitudes who, do what they will and what they can, must always be poor. Few and inefficient hands to labor, and many mouths to feed, sickness, misfortune—all the causes of adversity—produce poverty which seems to be remediless; and those who are afflicted with such poverty may legitimately be called "God's poor."

In contradistinction from these, there are those whom we may properly call "man's poor." They are people who spend upon themselves, out of an income not generous, perhaps, but competent, so much that they have nothing left with which to bear their portion of the burdens of society. They live well, they dress well, they maintain what they consider a respectable position, in society, they go to the theater whenever it may seem desirable; they spend upon themselves and their luxuries their entire income, and habitually steal their preaching. Many of these people are quite regular in their attendance upon the Sunday services of the Church, but they never unite with it, or assume a single responsibility connected with it. There are churches which are the favorite resorts of the bums—churches which, by the numbers in attendance on Sundays, seem to be prosperous, but which, from the fact that they are so largely made up of bums, cannot support themselves or their pastors. These worshipers make a very well dressed congregation, but they offer a very poor field for preaching and pastoral work. They do not even introduce themselves to the pastors to whose preaching they listen. When they become a little ashamed of this Sunday bunning at one church, they go to another. The sexton knows them at last, and understands exactly what they are and what they are doing. A little self-denial would give all these people the right to a pew, and save them from the meanness of appropriating that which honest people are obliged to pay for—[J. G. Holland, in Scribner for December.

A TEXAS Sunday school superintendent sent to Philadelphia for a Sunday school library, and after mentioning a number of books, he added: "For the rest of the money send as many books on pirates and Indians as you can; for our children delight in them."

LET the children alone! Children are children, as kittens are kittens. A sober, sensible old cat, that sits purring before the fire, does not trouble herself because her kitten is hurrying and dashing here and there, in a fever of excitement to catch its own tail. She sits there and purrs on. People should do the same with children. One of the difficulties of home education is the impossibility of making parents keep still; it is with them, out of affection, all watch and worry.

IF Church almanacs are not for sale at the book stores, would not the clergy be doing a good service to their people by taking the names and amounts of those of their people who desire them and those who should have them, send on to New York, and get them together. Persons will not send generally for single copies; they do not know where to send. They will have them, if you will take the trouble, and send. Often inquiries are put to us of the most primitive kind, as to the names and addresses of clergymen, dates of festivals, institutions in the Church and the addresses of their officers, which show that the persons are not aware of such a thing as the almanac which tells these things and much more. And so of newspapers and books, if the clergy will take down at the moment names and amounts, they could direct to a large extent the reading, and elevate the whole tone of their parishes. That there is not more good reading done, and that the people do not go on to ground themselves in the Church's principles is largely due to the fact that the pastor does not tell them what to get, where to get it, what it costs, and offer themselves to facilitate the getting of the reading matter for them.

NOTES ON THE SERVICES.

The first utterance after a person has been baptized, confirmed, or received the Holy Communion, is the Lord's prayer; these are the first words that the Church teaches us to say after engaging in these solemn acts.

The evangelical summary in the ante-communion service and the collect following are sometimes omitted, being optional, when the service of confirmation is immediately to follow, as the same collect occurs in that service.

The invitation in the Communion service, "Draw near with faith, and take," is not always intelligible to our congregations, as they continue to sit in the same place after as before. In the early Church, and now in some places in England, at that time the communicants come forward into the choir, and to them the exhortation is especially addressed, while the others withdraw.

Naturally the ornamentation of the chancel of the church is greater than that of any other part. This idea, and the fact that the chancel is generally to the eastward, have caused that the star, of gas jets, displayed at Christmas and Epiphany in some of our churches, should generally be placed over the Holy Table. But this is wrong, as the star should be in the west, because the wise men came from the east, and the star was in the opposite quarter. The wise men went westward, and the symbolic star should be in the west end of the church.

A story went the rounds a little while ago of an English clergyman whose clothing was much worn, but who spoke of a pair of boots which he was carefully keeping good as "litany" shoes. The point of the story was lost here, as in England they have a custom which is not generally had with us. The litany is said from a kneeling-stand down at the head of the middle aisle, and so the clergyman kneeling there would have to show the soles of his shoes to the congregation; and so he kept a special pair of boots in good condition. If morning prayer is to be divided between two clergymen, it would be well for one to take morning prayer, and the other the litany, rather than dividing at the Creed, as is often done. These are distinct services, and in England the division between them is marked by an anthem. If there are three clergymen, one can take the lessons.

LENTEN OUTLOOK.

The Church's annual season for self-denial and prayer will have begun before this paper reaches its readers, and the several parish clergymen will have addressed their congregations by pastorals and otherwise, pointing out the privileges and duties of the season. THE NEWS was not ordained to this work, and may not presume to interfere between the pastor and his flock.

It ventures therefore now only to put in a word from the editorial tripod to suggest what the end of the season should not be reached without having produced in us. It is for us in the Church a matter of the gravest interest how the season shall be used. For those outside of us there are other agencies, different from this, which have been extemporized, for the purpose of quickening religious life, for directing prayer toward special objects. These means seem to a degree to answer their purposes.

We are without these means, because we have something better; but yet the value of it is not in the thing itself, but in the manner in which it is used. If the opportunities of Lent are not sought and made use of to restore our perception of heavenly things, of the nearness of God our Father, and the privilege of access to Him in prayer; if we may not purge from us the cancerous growth of worldly affections and encroachment of selfishness; if we do not then recall our ability to do sacrifice and enforce habits of continued devotion, then the whole of our year, the entire structure of our characters will feel the loss. Lent of course only in part can and should supply the opportunity for such discipline; but we do locate this function so largely in this season and its privileges, that, like the fine mechanism of the watch, if one piece is broken or displaced, the whole movement shows the fault.

The rules which experience have proved should be maintained; not merely for the first week or two, but through the entire season. We must not merely throng about Christ; we must touch Him—go beyond the mere use of the houses, to the inner spiritual approach to the Source of our Life and love.

The reproach of the world shows where our danger is. There is no longer now needed the old proof of a season of Lent. The jaded worldliness, the absence of spiritual affection calls forth on all hands for it. But we need to make the devotion of these weeks real and true; not a resting for later revels, but a real and true increase of knowledge of temptations, and a gain of power in their mastery; a real moving of this tent-life of ours onward a long space nearer to the presence and atmosphere of heaven.

DR. SOUTH told the young clergyman who asked him after what interval one of his sermons could be repeated, that, if the second service was at night, his morning sermon might safely be repeated then. The proof-reader does not always correct the sad mistakes which the printers make of our papers at times. And yet it seems hardly worth the while after the lapse of a month to expect that persons will remember the mistakes in the previous issue, and have it before the reader to correct them. The evil has been done, and persons' good sense must be relied on to supply the correction. But the Latin quotation in our last was meant to be "propter vitam (not vitam) causas vivendi perdere."

MT. CALVARY P. E. Church affairs are in a flourishing condition. The Sunday School has grown until it numbers 250 children, a remarkable fact when the sparsely built location around the church building is taken into consideration; measures have been adopted to make room for additional numbers.

The congregation has been increased by an addition of some twenty families within a few months, and should this rate continue for the next six months it will necessitate enlarging the present church building or erecting a new one.

The debt has been kept down in the vicinity of $300, and that will be canceled by Easter.

The attendance on Sunday and Wednesday evening service is good and constantly increasing.

NOTICE TO PARISH TREASURERS.

I should like to know how Parish Treasurers expect the Finance Committee to meet the current expenses of the Diocese, unless their payments are made more promptly than the Treasurer's official report in another column would show to be the case.

Please examine your account. Two quarters of assessment are now due.

— It was a striking tribute to the Jew, which Judge Briggs lately paid in sentencing a burglar for breaking into a clothing establishment: "You are the first Israelite I have ever seen convicted of crime. There is no class of people that can claim such a record for the observance of the law as your people, and I am very sorry that this has happened."

A LITTLE ADVICE.

I want to give you three or four rules:

One is, always look at the person you speak to. When you are addressed, look straight at the person who speaks to you. Do not forget this.

Another is, speak your words plainly. Do not mutter or mumble. If words are worth saying, they are worth pronouncing distinctly and clearly.

Another is, do not say disagreeable things. If you have nothing pleasant to say, keep silent.

A fourth is—and oh! children, remember it all your lives—think three times before you speak one!

Have you something to do that you find hard and would prefer not to do? Then listen. Do the hard thing first, and get it over with. If you have done wrong, go and confess it. If your lesson is tough, master it. If the garden is to be weeded, weed it first and play afterward. Do the thing you don't like to do first and then with a clear conscience do the rest.

Those who need a good appetizer or aid to digestion for home use will find a choice selection of clarets and Sauternes at Chas. E. Bicker's, 702 Olive street. He also imports Roquefort cheese and the finest brands of French canned goods. New supply just received.

Sunday-School Column.

THE Rev. Benj. E. Reed has kindly consented to instruct the teachers in the Leaflets during the next month. The teachers will meet in Trinity Chapel on Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock sharp.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Church Sunday School Association, was held on the third Monday in January, in St. George's Chapel. There were present Bishop Robertson, the Revs. Robert, Betts, and Wright, and a large attendance of officers and teachers of the different parishes. After the usual business of the evening, Mr. Ralph Talbot, Assistant Superintendent of the Holy Communion Sunday School, read the following paper:

SUNDAY SCHOOL PRIZES.

Readers of The Churchman are doubtless familiar with a series of articles on the legal and spiritual relations which the Sunday School bears to the Church, wherein the writer, after tracing the gradual rise and development of our Sunday School system, reaches the conclusion that it, unlike the Church, has no divine origin, but in its modern phases at least, is wholly the creature and product of lay and clerical effort, looking toward the higher and better religious training of the young. I mention this patent fact because I deem it of essential value in the discussion of the subject. How much we may deplore the absence of that uniform and systematic Christian home-training in America, which has rendered the Sunday School, as an institution, a necessity even to the Church, the existing utility, in general, of Sunday School work, will, I take it, be readily conceded; the sole problem therefore which presses for solution is that of the best and most fruitful method of realizing and compassing the ends in view.

In assuming therefore unhesitatingly the position that the plan of distributing prizes to children is both desirable and indispensable to the successful conduct and issue of our Sunday School endeavor, I may remark, by way of premise and anticipation, that as every other institution, it too may be, and doubtless often is, sadly abused; it is the wise, temperate, just application of the rule that is advocated. The occasional display of partiality is, of course, to be regretted. The amusing caricature of an energetic and prize seeking child, rushing in hot haste from school to school in quest of gift is certainly of rare occurrence in the Church. Neither of these misuses however is a fair test of the system, and an objection to it on either score would evidently be a captious one.

The object of Sunday School work is primarily and finally to educate; its proper and legitimate domain is instruction; instruction not in secular learning merely, but first and foremost, in the knowledge of the Bible and the Prayer Book. The end proposed, therefore, is an intensely practical one, clear-cut, objective and definite; and the more vivid our conception of this end, and the more steadily we hold it up before us, the richer will be the harvest which we shall reap. The first duty therefore resting upon teachers, and the first step which we take, should be to grasp this thought, of the seriousness of the task, and thus to disabuse our minds of a lurking suspicion that the Sunday School is a plaything, a mere amusement, an ornamental adjunct to the parish. It is a school and a nursery of the Church; or it is an idle and hurtful pastime. It is either a good thing, or it is a fraud, very painfully colossal in its proportions. Through rain and sunshine, Sunday after Sunday, thousands of teachers, earnest, sanguine, self-sacrificing, and hundreds of thousands of children, carrying in their hands and hearts the future of the Church militant meet together. To what end and for what purpose? Are not these vital inquiries? And does not every suggestion, as to the direction which this immense energy should take, become of deep interest and moment in view of the magnitude of the issues involved?

I assume, therefore, that the Sunday School is what its name would indicate, a veritable school; that it has an objective existence, a fixed design and purpose; that it is an efficient handmaid of the Church, and a preparation fitting our children for the actual struggles and temptations of life, in the world we live in: grant these points—and they can hardly be negated without destroying the whole Sunday School fabric, and rendering it worse than useless—and it follows that organization, system, method, union are conditions precedent to the effective working of the institution. I favor Sunday School prizes, because:

1. They help to awaken and fix the attention, and thus to sharpen and strengthen the memory.
2. They operate as a spring of action.

Furthermore the principle has been tested and its worth conclusively demonstrated:

1. The system is supported by analogies in the history of the world and of the Church.
2. It finds its counterpart in the actual life and experience of every man and woman.

We must, clearly, do something to enlist the hearty co-operation of the children, and to arrest and fix their attention; for attention is the key-stone here; it is the stuff memory is made of, and memory is genius; nay, it is even more; for the mind, through its instrumentality alone, is stored and equipped with the working tools, and the real armor of the Christian life and the Christian warfare. It never wholly loses them. In the terse and pithy words of Horace "Quo semel est imbuta recens, servabit odorem testa diu," "The cask will long retain the flavor of that with which it was first filled." The divine teachings of our Lord, once finding a lodgement in the mind and heart of the child, in its tender infancy, must bear fruit in the man's maturer life, which will thereafter be fragrant and redolent of scriptural word and doctrine. And a little leaven, leaveneth the whole lump. A single text, a commandment, a hymn learned in childhood, each and all, have doubtless kept many a poor mortal from sin and sorrow.

"But," says the objector, "grant all this, only let the appeals to the children be to their higher instincts, higher aspirations and nobler impulses." I answer that mere moral precepts generally, if not always, fail to invite or to allure; they are abstract, and, to a child's mind, abstruse, confused, and void of interest or significance; they must be made concrete; must be habilitated; embodied in something visible and tangible, which the child can see and feel; linked to something ulterior to themselves; they must have a physical attribute; keep the truth before the eye, but intensify it, by clothing in, and outlining it; memory is governed by laws of association; collect, verse, commandment, catechism, the spiritualized principle, must find entrance into the child's mind, must be posited into it, by virtue of association with something sensuous, something directly and perceptibly beneficial to him, of subjective value to him, and coveted by him for its own sake. And thus it is, in my view, not only perfectly legitimate but even very praiseworthy to hold out to the young, as springs of action and as inducements to duty, and rewards for its faithful performance, visions of Harvest Home Festivals, Easter Celebrations, Christmas Trees, Pic Nics, books, pictures, and beautiful services of song. And those who hold that gifts, prizes, delightful music, and appeals to the senses, as incentives to action, serve merely or mainly or indeed at all to sharpen the cupidity and selfishness of little children ignore, it seems to me, a very deep-lying and fundamental principle of character in mankind. It is an old saying that the child is father to the man; certain it is that we are all but children of a larger growth. Why not acknowledge that we are not purely spiritual essences, not wholly incorporeal, but are partly material, and of a dual nature; of which the side that is of the earth, earthy, predominates? Enthusiastic theorists say that "virtue is its own reward;" work for work's sake; be happy for happiness' sake; be good for goodness sake; the doctrine of the Eudemonists. I simply remark that while a few favored individuals may happily appreciate this

Eudemonism, yet none of us ever gets so refined, so ethereal, or so truly philosophical as not to flush with genuine pleasure whenever his honest labor meets with merited success and recognition.

The world in its substantial good sense and wisdom has ever recognized this trait in human character; the analogies here are numerous; in this universal attribute of mankind, if I may be allowed to cite a trite instance, lies the origin of the Olympian and Isthmian games, those generous rival contests in music, poetry and gymnastics among the Greeks, a people the happiest, most richly endowed, the brightest and most joyous who have ever lived; and the victor cherished his garland of wild olive as the most precious prize and dearest distinction in life. But most marked and striking, and for us of greatest significance, is this principle manifest in the utterances of our Lord, recognized and utilized by that great Teacher on countless occasions. It is more blessed to give than to receive, it is said, but not resting content with this, He seeks to inculcate and enforce even charity by promise after promise; first laying down the mandate, then following it in loving haste with the covenant of guerdon and reward: "Be merciful, for so gathereth thou thyself a good reward in the day of necessity." "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of God." "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." "Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in Heaven." And in enjoining upon us constancy and perseverance in good deeds, He says with an offer, as of a worldly prize in merely temporal things, thus appealing to a high and ennobling ambition, "He that overcometh and keepeth my works, to him will I give power over nations." But why need I multiply quotations? The whole Christian system is based on a foundation of future rewards and punishment.

Prizes, however, should be awarded discreetly and impartially, and should be grounded on the markings in the class-list, carefully, regularly, conscientiously preserved; and they should be offered not only for intellectual attainments, for feats of memory, but for punctuality in attendance, for politeness, good behavior, and missionary zeal; particularly the latter. For herein the child becomes an apostle, sent forth into the highways and byways of sin, the devoted, enthusiastic, helpful servant of the Church. Above all should honest effort be recognized: it is such a gracious thing to do, to feel for and sympathize with the unsuccessful but diligent child. Theoretically it may be a difficult thing to discriminate in the distribution of prizes, but practically each teacher knows who are the faithful ones in spirit and in will; and these should never be forgotten or overlooked.

Lastly, does this prize system bear any analogy to the daily personal history of men and women? The Sunday-school, in its full scope, is a microcosm in itself, an epitome of the universe. Life is a constant struggle, oftentimes a battle for bare existence; contest; a man's pathway a mosaic illumined by triumphs, paved by disappointments, an ever-alternating light and shade; much pain, much joy, whereof the meaning is a mystery always until death comes, and the eye of the body closing, that of the spirit opens. Such is life in its reality, as every little child will learn to know, as the years bring along with them their burden of care and sorrow. Let our little world of a Sunday-school, then, be a natural one, not forced, not warmed into an unhealthy and perpetual sunshine. St. Paul writes, "Know ye not that they which run in a race, run all, but one receiveth the prize: so run that ye may obtain." The child must learn sooner or later to sustain himself bravely in defeat; to bear up under it, and then even to rejoice in the prosperity of others. A kind word of encouragement spoken at the right moment by superintendent and teacher will help him to do this, and will teach him perhaps his first practical lesson of Christian fortitude and manly Christian resignation.

A LIBRARY FOR ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

Editor Church News:

It has occurred to me that as St. Luke's is now on the rising wave of prosperity to make a suggestion as to the propriety of an effort toward collecting books for a library.

I have no doubt that in the new hospital there will be a reading-room where the convalescents may gather, and in that room with very little expense shelves may be placed for a library; and an officer of the institution might be put in charge of the books as librarian. The thought was suggested to my mind this past week in conversing with a very intelligent and well educated patient, who was anxious to read one of Thackeray's novels, which I chanced to have. How many weary hours might be whiled away, not only pleasantly but profitably, on a sick bed or in the sitting-room of the convalescent, if there was only a repository of well selected books to which they might resort. While, as a matter of course, I would have religious books of Churchly character, and of sound and healthful teaching, yet these should by no means preponderate. Light reading, such as the works of Thackeray or Dickens, or Walter Scott or Cooper or Irving would furnish, is oftentimes the very best of medicine. I know of no place where reading would be more eagerly sought after than in a hospital, and if it was known that there was a good miscellaneous library connected with St. Luke's, it would be an additional inducement for patients to seek it. At the same time I would recommend that there be provision made for some censorship over the books which may be contributed. We want no books which, under the guise of philanthropy, falsely so called, shall teach doctrines whose end and aim is to undermine the very foundations of Christianity and to destroy all faith in the inspiration of Holy Scriptures.

The Bishop might appoint a committee composed jointly of clergy and laity, to whose judgment and decision the books contributed might be submitted.

I presume there are in very many families a large number of books which have been read and which are lying about uncared for, which could be made to do good service in a circulating library like the one proposed.

Let me ask all who may read this article to look about and to take the trouble to collect them together and to send them at once to the Hospital. It is not necessary to wait until the new building is ready. Provision will be made for taking proper care of them and of bringing them immediately into use.

And let me say in connection with the new building, that while I hope it will not only be commodious and well adapted in all its arrangements to the purposes of a hospital; it will yet be creditable as a work of art, and commend itself for its architectural merit. Standing in sight of that beautiful structure reared by our large minded fellow townsman as a hall for the cultivation of the arts, I would have it in its external features such that Churchmen need not be ashamed to point to it as a monument of their taste as well as their liberality.

If the good taste of the chief donor to this work shall be directed to this end, we may hope with the other members of the Building Committee co-operating, a device of a plan will be made which shall secure so desirable an object.

But the library is what I have specially in view in this article, and I trust the suggestions I have made will meet not only the approbation but the zealous co-operation of your readers. M. S.

THE Baptist Teacher tells of a little girl in Philadelphia, who, when asked, said that her Sunday-school lesson had been about the ten tigers. "Ten tigers! You mean ten lepers, don't you?" "Well, anyway, it was about some of the animals at the Zoological," was her intelligent reply. Philadelphia children are well posted about their "Zoo."

TOM.

Yes, Tom's the best fellow that ever you knew.

Just listen to this:—

When the old mill took fire, and the flooring fell through, And I with it, helpless there, full in my view, What do you think my eyes saw through the fire That crept along, crept along, nigher and nigher, But Robin, my baby-boy, laughing to see The shining? He must have come there after me. Toddled alone from the cottage without Any one's missing him. Then, what a shout—

Oh! how I shouted "For Heaven's sake, men, Save little Robin!" Again and again They tried, but the fire held them back like a wall, I could hear them go at it, and at it, and call, "Never mind, baby, sit still like a man!"

We're coming to get you as fast as we can."

They could not see him, but I could. He sat

Still on a beam, his little straw hat

Carefully placed by his side; and his eyes

Stared at the flame with a baby's surprise,

Calm and unconscious, as nearer it crept.

The roar of the fire up above must have kept

The sound of his mother's voice shrieking his name

From reaching the child. But I heard it. It came

Again and again. O God, what cry!

The axes went faster; I saw the sparks fly

Where the men worked like tigers, nor minded the heat

That scorched them,—when suddenly, there at their feet,

The great beams leaned in—they saw him—then, crash,

Down came the wall! The men made a dash—

Jumped to get out of the way,—and I thought,

"All's up with poor little Robin!" and brought Slowly the arm that was least hurt to hide

The sight of the child there,—when swift, at my side,

Some one rushed by, and went right through the flame,

Straight as a dart—caught the child—and then came Back with him, choking and crying, but—saved!

Saved safe and sound!

Oh, how the men raved,

Shouted and cried, and hurrahed! Then they all

Rushed at the work again, least the back wall

Where I was lying away from the fire,

Should fall in and bury me.

Oh! you'd admire

To see Robin now: he's as bright as a dime,

Deep in some mischief, too, most of the time.

Tom, it was, saved him. Now, isn't it true

Tom's the best fellow that ever you knew?

There's Robin now! See, he's strong as a log!

And there comes Tom, too—

Yes, Tom was our dog.

CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON.

A BIT OF LOGIC.

Baby Berry sat at table,

On the great Thanksgiving-day,

Gazing down upon the platter,

Where the well-browned turkey lay:

Berry's first Thanksgiving-dinner—

What did all this wee beginner?

"Don't you like it, dear?" I said;

Baby Berry raised her heed,

Oped her blue eyes big and solemn,

"Does 'ou fink," the answer sped,

"It was wight to kill the turkey?

.Don't seem wight at all to me,

Tause—" but our merry peals of laughter

Drowned her words; and shamedly,

This rare-hearted young beginner

Picked at her belated dinner;

Sudden looked, in smiling mood,

Up from her diminished food,

And said: "I dess t'was wight to kill him,

Or he woudn't taste so dood!"

The small boy who reached up the chimney for another Christmas present said he found something there that sooted him.

A Newark Sunday school boy gave his teacher the illustrative definition of "responsibility." Boys has two buttons for their 'spenders, so's to keep their pants up. When one button comes off, why, there's a good deal of responsibility on the other button."

THE Pacific Churchman (San Francisco) makes the following extraordinary statement: "On Sunday, November 15th, one of our city churches was so crowded that a family who are members of the congregation, being a little late, were unable to find seats, and reluctantly returned home. There was no extra attraction, neither was the service advertised in the papers. The church was full on the evening of the same day. A full church, even if the church is a small one, has a cheering influence upon the officiating minister, and it is an indication of prosperity in a parish."

A CLERGYMAN tells the following: "Not long since I was speaking to my Sunday class of the Ascription, which is said at the close of the sermon, when one of the boys spoke up and said, 'Oh yes, I like to hear that, for then I know the sermon is ended.' 'Why,' said I, 'd'ont you know when the sermon is ended—can't you feel that it is coming to an end?' 'No,' said the boy; 'but I often feel it ought to.' A good many boys, and a great many old boys, not to say some mothers in Israel, are believed to have undergone that experience.

BAD BARGAINS.—Once a Sunday-school teacher remarked that he who buys the truth makes a good bargain, and inquired if any scholar recollected an instance in Scripture of a bad bargain.

"I do replied a boy: "Esau made a bad bargain when he sold his birthright for a mess of pottage."

A second boy said: "Judas made a bad bargain when he sold his Lord for thirty pieces of silver."

A third boy observed, "Our Lord tells us that he makes a bad bargain who, to gain the whole world, loses his own soul."

DANIEL WEBSTER once told a good story in a speech, and was asked where he got it. "I had it laid up in my head fourteen years, and never had a chance to use it until to-day," said he.

My little friend wants to know what good it will do to learn the "rule of three" or to commit a verse of the Bible. The answer is this: "Some time you will need that very thing. Perhaps it may be twenty years before you can make it fit in just the right place; but it will be just in place some time. Then if you don't have it, you will be like the hunter who had no ball in his rifle when the bear met him."

"Twenty-five years ago my teacher made me study surveying," said a man who had lately lost his property, "and now I am glad of it. It is just in place, I can get a good situation and high salary." The Bible is better than that. It will be in place as long as we live.

A TRUE GENTLEMEN.—Boys, cut this out and paste it in your scrap-book: "I beg your pardon," and with a smile and a touch of his hat, Harry Edmond handed to an old man, against whom he had accidentally stumbled, the cane, which he had knocked from his hand. "I hope I did not hurt you. We were playing too roughly."

"Not a bit!" said the old man cheerily. "Boys will be boys, and it's best they should be. You didn't harm me."

"I'm glad to hear it," and lifting his hat again, Harry turned to join the playmates with whom he had been frolicking at the time of the accident.

"What did you raise your hat to that old fellow for?" asked his companion, Charley Gray, "He's only Giles, the huckster."

"That's makes no difference," said Harry; "the question is not whether he is a gentleman, but whether I am one."

GENERAL NEWS.

—At the Mercantile Library, St. Louis, the percentage of works of fiction drawn out has sensibly diminished, and the number of scientific and historical books and those on art subjects has increased.

—An examination of the Church Almanac shows that with notoriously incomplete statistics our growth in the Church for ten years from 1870 to 1880 is an increase in ten years of 77 per cent; or, as the country in that time grows only 30 per cent, our growth is more than twice that of the general increase of population in the country.

—The Bishop of New Jersey in the service for the ordination of Deacons delivers the New Testament, using the form of words in Greek, which probably in that country is a language understood of the people.

—A party of western capitalists, headed by Col. D. P. Dyer of St. Louis, purchased recently the Glass, the Pender and the Rough and Ready No. 2 mines, three of the richest deposits yet developed in the Leadville region, for five million dollars. This is the largest sale of mining property that has yet been made in Leadville.

—More Jews have been converted to Christianity in this than in any previous age. Conversions are reckoned at 100,000 since 1800, and now increase at a rate of more than 1,000 a year.

—Bishop Quintard of Tennessee, the brother of two prominent business men of New York, says Harper's Weekly, has two boys named for those two brothers. Scene—the Bishop's house. Persons—the Bishop and his boys George (LOQUITER). "Yes, father, I am going to be a clergyman." Bishop. "Ed, are you going to be a clergyman too?" Edward. "No, father; I think I had better be a merchant—to take care of George."

—The Bishop of Guilford in England died suddenly in the midst of the service last month. He had preached earnestly, and, returning to the chancel, had said the prayer for Christ's Church militant, and while kneeling fell forward, and in an instant was dead.

—At North Adams, Massachusetts, a Protestant Episcopal church has been erected at an expense of twenty-five thousand dollars, which is a free gift from Mrs. H. Sibley, of Rochester, New York.

—This is the way the Southern Churchman announces the marriage of a Maryland clergyman: Rev. Peregrine Wroth, who has all along had many Aarons to stay his hands, has now a Hur.

—The official statement put forth by the Congregational Association of Connecticut for the past twenty years shows that the increase in that State for that time of the Congregationalists had been 20 per cent; Methodists, 34 per cent, Baptists, 13 per cent; Episcopal Church, 69 per cent. In that time 25 of their ministers had left them of whom more than half had come to us; and twenty-five ministers of other bodies had gone to them of whom 19 had been Methodists.

—A meeting of prominent laymen was recently held in New York looking to an effort to secure immediately $250,000, with a view of ultimately getting $750,000, for the purpose of building a chapel and fire proof library; and endowing new professorships, and increasing those that exist. A strong committee of laymen was appointed to carry the purpose out.

—It costs somewhat to secure a Bishop in England. For the proposed Bishopric in Liverpool $450,000 has been subscribed of the needed $500,000, of which over $250,000 has been paid in. The low rate of interest going there makes a large capital sum necessary. There are 230 subscribers, and they have given on an average over $2,000 each.

—The supreme court of Georgia has decided that a church cannot, as a corporation, engage in the sale of tickets to the public for an excursion on board a steamer which the church has chartered for the occasion. Expenses incurred with a view to profit, and profits lost, cannot be recovered from the owners of the vessel on their failure to make the stipulated voyage. Excursions, as matter of trade or business with the public, are not within the means or ends for which the church was incorporated. The measure of damages in a suit by the church against the owners is the amount paid as hire for the vessel.

—The Bishop of Albany recommended to his Convention recently that the sessions should be at intervals of 18 months, instead of a year as now, two meetings between each General Convention.

—Renan is to deliver in Westminster Abbey in April next the course of Hibbert Lectures, about which so much stir was made a few years ago because Max Muller, a layman, delivered them.

—Dean Howson of Chester, England, is to deliver in Philadelphia this year the Bohlen course of lectures, which Phillips Brooks took part in last year.

—Sextons do not always make good use of their opportunities for knowledge, as is evident from the following incident, which is really a true one: A clergyman, spending a Sunday recently in the beautiful and cultured city of Boston, attended service at one of her most prominent churches. There was a great throng of persons waiting at the doors for the service to reach that point at which strangers are admitted. The clergyman approached the doorkeeper and asked for a place at once, that he might engage in the service before the Confession. The sexton immediately answered, with great decision, "We have no Confession here, sir; we are Low-Church."

MISCELLANY.

—Here is a true story whose teaching is most sad. A zealous clergyman in a large Western city had the happiness of presenting forty persons to his bishop for the holy rite of confirmation. Immediately after the service a vestryman approached his rector and said to him: "That was a large class—a very large class. But there was no money in it."

—A dear old friend of mine used to say with the truest Christian charity, when he heard any one being loudly condemned for some fault: "Ah! well, yes, it seems very bad to me, because that's not my way of sinning."

—"Is he rich?" asked the tourist. "Yes," replied the sexton, "I guess he is pretty wealthy, at least he never put more than ten cents into the plate Sunday morning."

—The Congregationalist gives a bit of advice very suitable for the times.

"Dickens put into Mr. Micawber's lips one good saying at least. 'Annual income twenty pounds; annual expenditure nineteen six—result, happiness. Annual income, twenty pounds; annual expenditure, twenty pounds, eight and six—result, misery.'"

—"Yes," said the horny-fisted granger, "last year we hadn't anything to put in our barns, and this year there's so much stuff that we can't take care of it, and a heap's bound to be spoiled. There ain't no luck for us farmers anyhow."

—A prominent preacher has through the press, been lecturing churches on their habit of frequently changing pastors. There can be no doubt that the pews are as much to blame as the pulpit in the matter of change, and to the fickleness of parishioners may be charged much of the nonsense flowery startling and otherwise, that is offered the people in place of pointed religious teachings.—[New York Herald.

—In one of our sleeping cars in America there was an old bachelor who was annoyed by the continued crying of a child, and the ineffectual attempts of the father to quiet it. Pulling aside the curtain, and putting out his head, he said, "Where is the mother of that child? Why doesn't she stop this nuisance?" The father said very quietly, "The mother is in the baggage car in her coffin; I am traveling home with the body. This is second night I have been with the child, and the little creature is weeping for its mother. I am sorry if its plaintive cries disturbs anyone in this car." "Wait a minute," said the old bachelor. The old man got up and dressed himself, and compelled the father to lie down and sleep, while he took the babe himself.

—Benjamin Franklin tried to convince the farmers of his day that plaster enriched the soil. All his philosophical arguments failed to convince the farmers; so he took plaster and formed it into a sentence by the roadside. The wheat coming up through those letters was about twice as rank and green as the other wheat, and the farmers could read for months in letters of living green the sentence: This has been plastered.

—If Christians do not set a good example, they cannot expect to hold the people. Dr. Pentecost says he wants to have a Church worth being converted to: that even cats can see this much, if the story is true told of a Tabby in Yarmouth, Me., which always insisted on attending family prayers until her kittens were drowned one day in her presence. From that hour the cat has refused to attend the service.

—The preacher, a Baptist had for his text: "The Righteous shall shine as the firmament." His effort was to show how the saints in heaven are like the stars. Among other striking resemblances they are in constellations. For his part he couldn't see why Wesley and the Methodists might not be by themselves; and Calvin and the Presbyterians by themselves. In the after dinner discussion of the sermon, Anna quietly suggested, that the Baptists will probably occupy the Big Dipper.

—We have heard of a Church that pays its pastor every month, with unfaltering regularity. The Church is in New Hampshire. The condition of payment, however, is that the monthly expenses of the clergyman shall not exceed the salary. We know hundreds of clergymen who will gladly accept the conditions providing their salaries are promptly paid.

—Dr. Holland in the last Scribner sums up very justly thus: what the city man really feels in regard to the coming of his country a quaintances to the city:

First—The chances for wealth are as great, practically, in the country as in the city, and the expenses of living and the risks of disaster much less.

Second—The competitions of city life and the struggles to get hold of business and salaried work are fearful. No man should come to the city unless he knows what he is going to do or has money enough in his hands to take care of himself until he gets a living position, or becomes satisfied that he cannot get one. Even to-day, with the evidence of renewed prosperity all around us, there are probably to applications on file for every desirable place, and no man living here could help a friend to a place unless he could create one.

Third—That the social privileges of the city may be greater, while the opportunities of social distinction and the probabilities of social consideration are much less than they are in the country.

Fourth—That in many respects there is nothing in the city that can compensate for the pure pleasure of country scenery and country life and neighborhood associations.

Fifth—That a city man's dream of the future, particularly if he ever lived in the country, is always of the country and the soil. He longs to leave the noise and fight all behind him, and go back to his country home to enjoy the money he may have won.

—The Congregationalist says: "We have been surprised to find in how many of our churches the congregation is taking part audibly in the worship, either in repetition of the Lord's Prayer or in responsive reading of the Psalms; and we hear of no case where harm has resulted."

—It is related of a well known merchant in a neighboring city that, after making his will and leaving a large property to a trustee for his son, he called the young man in and after reading the will to him, asked if there was any alteration or improvement he could suggest. "Well, father," said the young gentleman, "I think, as things go nowadays, it would be better for me if you left the property to the other fellow and made me the trustee." The old gentleman made up his mind then and there that the young man was competent to take charge of his own inheritance, and scratched the trustee clause out.

—A Protestant parent, carrying his daughter to a Romish school, insisted that she should "not be influenced in religion." The sister in charge kindly assured him, that the young lady would not be influenced intentionally, but added candidly, "we will not be able to help the atmosphere she will be in." Naively said. It is the "atmosphere" of Romish schools that quietly does the work.

—"That sermon did me good," said one friend to another after hearing an eloquent preacher. "We shall see," was the reply.

—In Bishop Doane's introductory address at the Church Congress, he said that he remembered being somewhat startled a little while ago, when a priest of his Diocese arrested him in a doorway of a room, (in which were gathered about thirty men and women representatives of a new mission) by the exclamation; "Jonesville, let me introduce the Bishop: The Bishop, Jonesville!" and he would follow the example, in introducing Albany to the Church Congress and the Church Congress to Albany.

—A daughter of the Hon. Richard H. Dana, Jr., of Massachusetts, having become a convert to Rome from attending a Romish school, a Romish paper very coolly and candidly says: "The influences of convent education have wrought this change of views, and if her family object to the way she has taken, they have themselves to blame for it. Religious instruction from a Catholic standpoint is about the first thing to find lodgment in an imaginative mind, and Miss Dana is quite romantic and poetic in temperament."

—The finances of California as regards Church and benevolent objects have been so seriously demoralized by church fairs and Christian raffles and benevolent dances, etc., that it is difficult to raise money for such purposes in any other way. I have even heard in California of a monument raised to the memory of a beloved citizen by a series of dances, of a graveyard fenced in by another dance; also of another town which raised the funds to buy a hearse by means of a public ball. Our local parish enterprises catch the spirit of the community, and but few if any of the clergy quite see the way clear to make a stand against it, and those who do generally find their parishes slipping through their fingers.

—The Congregationalist says: "We have been surprised to find in how many of our churches the congregation is taking part audibly in the worship, either in repetition of the Lord's Prayer or in responsive reading of the Psalms; and we hear of no case where any harm has resulted."

—At a certain Western Convention, the Rev. — was elected by the clergy on several ballots; but was, as many times, rejected by the laity. Some one, not very long afterwards, asked him, if a Dean is Very Reverend, and a Bishop Right Reverend, what would a Presbyterian be who had been only half elected? He replied he supposed he "might be called the left Reverend?"

—The Philadelphia Bulletin says: "For a man to cast his vote for a bad candidate is absolutely a crime against society, and to withhold his vote entirely is hardly less a heinous offence against the community in which he lives."

—The Rector's Assistant, of Houston, Texas says.—"The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Baltimore, who was once a Protestant Evangelist told a friend of ours that 'if the Church had been presented to him in early life as it was presented now by High Churchmen, he would never have deserted the Church of England.'"

"What shall I preach about?" said a minister to the pastor of a colored flock which he was about to address. "Well, mos' any subject will be 'ceptable," was the reply; "only I'd like to gib you one word ob 'caution." "Ah! what is that?" "Well, ef I was you I'd tech werry light on de Ten Commandments." "Indeed! And why?" "Oh! cos I had notice dat dey mos' always hab a damp'nin' effect on the congregation."

—When a teacher after explaining the expression 'pomps,' asked if any one in the class could tell what they were, 'Yes, ma'am,' replied a quickwitted little fellow; 'them flowers in you bonnet.'

—The story is told of a clergyman—that, after preaching an interesting sermon on the 'Recognition of friends in heaven,' he was accosted by a hearer, who said: 'I liked that sermon, and I now wish you would preach another on the recognising of people in this world. I have been attending your church three years, and not five persons in the congregation have so much as bowed to me in all that time.'

The object of the Institution is "to provide and maintain a Hospital or Infirmary, and otherwise care for the sick, both in their physical and spiritual wants."

Any person is admitted without regard to age, sex or religion, who is suffering from disease or injuries; the only restriction being the capacity of the building.

The Hospital is in charge of the "SISTERHOOD OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD," a noble band of self sacrificing ladies, several members of which devote themselves personally to this work, and to whom all applications for admission should be made.

The support of the Institution must for the present depend mainly upon the liberality of the charitably disposed people of St. Louis, as it has yet no permanent endowment fund. A partial revenue, however, is derived from patients who are able and willing to pay a moderate sum, and to whom the care and attention afforded is often as great a charity as that bestowed upon the absolutely needy who are as kindly nourished free of any charge whatever.

All the calls upon the Hospital are largely in excess of its limited accommodation, the Trustees are arranging to build a Hospital upon a commanding and convenient situation, and to this end request donations from all such as are charitably disposed. Any amount, however trifling, either for running expenses or Building Fund, will be thankfully received, if sent to the Treasurers, the Bishop of Missouri or any of the officers. No collector is employed, and the managers look to the charity of Christian hearts to enable them to meet the expenses and provide for the future.

An offertory will be made at every Service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the clergy are requested to give notice. The Bishop is always glad to meet the people, the vestry, and the Sunday-school children, as shall be arranged; and while he is in a parish he is quite at the disposal of the parish. He desires that the parish registers may be written up against his coming, and that he may see them.

THE Bishop, having received from the Rev. Mr. Holland, who had been elected deputy, his resignation on account of his removal from the diocese, the Bishop has appointed the Rev. F. B. Scheetz in his place, the alternate deputy who previously had received the highest number of votes.

THE Bishop reminds the clergy and parishes that the canonical time for receiving the offerings of the congregations for the Permanent Fund for the support of the Episcopate was the second Sunday in Lent, or the Sunday nearest to it. It is an object that every congregation is once a year obliged to make a collection for. Let it be done now promptly, if it has not been taken, and the amount sent to Mr. Chas. S. Freeborn, 309 Olive street, St. Louis, who is the Treasurer.

By reference to the Treasurer's column, it will be seen that a considerable number of the parishes and stations have not made their canonical collections for the Aged and Infirm Clergy, and the Theological Education Funds. The time for these has passed; the first was for Christmas, and for the other Thanksgiving Day. Upon all places this compliance with a law of their own enacting comes alike; but from missionary stations, which are sustained by the offerings of the diocese, it is peculiarly inapt that this reasonable law should be broken. They will be expected to do their duty in this matter, and their clergyman will be looked to to see that the amounts for these funds are sent to the respective treasurers.

THE Bishop gave a good part of a day this month to going over the subscription lists to THE NEWS. He is glad it reaches so many people, and that some of the rectors or devoted persons in some of the parishes have evidently tried in such a painstaking and efficient way to have it introduced into all their families. In other parishes it is just as evident that some of our otherwise excellent clergymen have not spoken a word for it, not produced its circulation even among their now able and devoted people. The fact would be incredible, if not so apparent. And for many there is no other religious reading. Many, too, who take the paper out of the office evidently, and read it, have not paid their subscriptions for nearly two years. Our circulation is absurdly below what it might become with half an effort on the part of our ministers and others, who would take the pains to tell of THE NEWS, and offer to send on names and money.

It is not merely a matter of theory, but of actual fact, of which repeated examples could be mentioned, that when a parish, at the instance of its vestry or otherwise, restricts its gifts for missions, or for other diocesan or general objects, because of economy or poverty, with a view of increasing home resources, it always fails. From an ease in meeting parish expenses before, instead of an increase coming from the withholding from abroad, little by little, but steadily the parish affairs become pinched, and fall behind. This precise result has followed almost every case where a shrinkage has been practiced as to general duties. Perhaps it would be sufficient to find the cause in the previous statement of God's Word, that precisely this would follow from such a course: "He that soweth little, shall reap little." "There is that withholdeth more that is meet, but it tendeth to poverty." And the nearer cause of this is that the pinching which is at first applied to general objects, regardless of the infraction of law, at length is applied to home obligations. There is a persuasiveness, applied to the minister, in the urgency of worldly parishioners: Keep all at home; we need it all; but what it means, and comes to in a few months, is a withholding of home dues and parish pledges. Then the minister is sorry that he hardened his people to this, and gave them an excuse by himself being faithless, and a breaker of the law.

EASTER ELECTIONS.

Notice should be given on Easter Day or on the occasion of public worship next before Easter Day of the annual parish meeting to be held on Easter Monday. The electors are the communicants of full age, who have been such for not less than six months previous to the election, and also all such other persons of full age as may have contributed for the six months next preceding the election to the support of the parish. The hour in the day for the meeting may be fixed as is most convenient.

At this meeting it is the duty of the outgoing vestry to make a full report of its proceedings, and a complete statement of the financial condition of the parish. Then the annual election of wardens and vestrymen is had. The wardens must be communicants. The rector has the right to name the senior warden, but may delegate the choice to the vestry; the junior warden is elected by the vestry. The vestry shall consist of not less than three nor more than thirteen members, as the parish meeting determines. More is generally done by a vestry of five or seven members.

The minister, if present, presides, and the polls are kept open for two hours. If there is dispute about votes, reference is to be made to the Bishop.

This is the time when the parish looks into its condition and places its affairs in the hands of its chosen trustees for the coming year. All the parishioners have a right to attend the meeting, and should do so. They should know how their affairs stand, and help to elect the best possible vestry. If interested persons attend while others absent themselves, and so improper persons are elected, or unwise measures adopted, or a strict overhauling of business is not had, then those are at fault who by their careless absence occasioned all this.

The Church on its temporal side will thrive as Christian persons make a conscience of giving to their parish affairs that personal attention and care which the Church has a right to expect, and which no business enterprise can get on without.

HOLY WEEK.

The arrangements for our usual united night services in Holy Week this year provides for sermons at different churches in this city, except on Maundy Thursday night, when the service for the Holy Communion will, as usual, be at Christ church. On Monday night the service will be at the Church of the Holy Communion, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Ingraham. Subject: "The Barren Fig Tree; Profession not Practice." On Tuesday night the service will be at Trinity, and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. S. W. Young. Subject: "Jesus in the Temple for the last time." On Wednesday night the service will be at St. George's, and the preacher will be the Rev. Mr. Wright. Subject: "He was sold for thirty pieces of silver." On Good Friday night, at St. John's, the preacher will be the Rev. P. G. Robert, the subject being the Crucifixion in Prophecy. On Easter Even, at Mount Calvary, the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. Gierlow, the subject being the Atonement.

These services begin at a quarter to eight, and the seats are free. All our Church people are invited to attend them. The offertories, except on Thursday, will, as usual be for Diocesan Missions; on that evening for St. Luke's Hospital.

OUR OWN WORK.

The following is the copy of a circular which the Missionary Board has felt itself compelled to send out to the clergy, and is intended for all those whose eyes this may reach. This case is present and urgent. Will not all send directly or through their parish treasurer their pledge and contribution. Do not wait.

ST. LOUIS, February, 1880.

The Missionary Board, to which is committed the duty of distributing the funds placed in its hands to aid weak parishes and mission stations, has just arranged the stipends for the present year.

The task has been made more difficult than ever before, both on account of the smaller amounts contributed during the past two years, and also because many new places are urgently calling for the services of the church.

Help pledged to each missionary means ministrations extended to three or four needy, struggling places, which otherwise would not be supplied. A little help generally calls out much larger local efforts, both to sustain services, and also to build churches and parsonages. Many places helped by the Board in the past, are now self-supporting and aiding others.

The offerings in St. Louis and elsewhere for our home missionary work are much smaller now than a few years ago, when our members were less, and our ability not so great as at present. Last year nearly one-third of the entire amount contributed was given by one person, and nearly another third by the Sunday School Missionary Host.

The Board has to make its pledges at the beginning of the year, thus anticipating offerings not yet received from the churches. This year the stipends were arranged with the most careful economy, and yet, if the work already begun is to be continued, we will need more than was received last year. But besides this, there are new openings pleading earnestly for assistance, openings of the most promising kind, offering ample returns for efforts now made. Shall they ask in vain?

We have never yet failed to meet the quarterly stipends to our missionaries, and we trust it will be long before we will have to chronicle an event that would entail much anxiety and suffering. To avoid such a result more must be done this year than last.

We appeal, therefore, most earnestly to the rectors of parishes and individual members of our congregations to use new efforts in securing pledges of our home missionary work, and more important still, see that they are collected.

Thousands of new people are coming into the State, new towns are springing up; to reach these with our Church's services requires that every one should do more than ever in this vitally important work.

C. F. ROBERTSON, Bishop.

J. P. T. INGRAHAM,
A. BATTE,
FRANK CARTER,
W. B. CHITTENDEN,
Missionary Board.

I hereby pledge myself to pay Mr. Frank Carter, Treasurer, for the year ending September 30th, 1880, _____ dollars for Diocesan Missions.
(Copy this off, and send to Mr. Frank Carter, 725 Olive street, your pledge.)

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—Rev. A. W. Mann, missionary to deaf mutes, will hold services morning and evening at Christ church, St. Louis, on Sunday, March 28. The morning service will be dismissed in time for the Holy Communion, where there will be sign interpretation for the deaf mute communicants. Mr. Mann was especially encouraged by the congregation present at the last service for the Holy Communion. Mr. Simpson has lay services for mutes in Christ church chapel every other Sunday. The day school which he teaches for mutes on the corner of Ninth and Wash streets numbers 35 scholars.

—Our old friend, the Rev. F. B. Gilbert, has at length had his degree of B. D. conferred on him by Nashotah. It had previously been given him by Sewanee. He is now at Marianna, Ala. His health for eighteen months has been very bad. He is improving now and hopes to be well soon.

—At a called meeting of the Sedalia Convocation in Trinity church, Marshall, there were present the Rev. Messrs. Curtis of Boonville, Masker of Jefferson City, Woodruff, minister of the parish, and the Rev. Dr. James of Plattsburg as a visitor. The sessions began on Thursday, 5th ultimo, and continued over Sunday, 8th. The Rev. Judson M. Curtis was nominated to the Bishop as Dean of the Convocation, which has since been ratified by the Bishop. Mr. Joseph V. Chase was present as a delegate from Trinity church, Marshall. The time was spent in public services and discussions, and in conferences among the brethren. The Holy Communion was celebrated on Friday and again on Sunday. The Dean preached morning and evening on Sunday. The congregations throughout were good and interest strong. The Rev. Mr. Masker left on Saturday to spend the Sunday at Warrensburg, where he had full congregations. The next Convocation will be at Jefferson City. The Rev. Mr. Masker is Secretary of the Convocation.

—The Loan Exhibition held by St. Mary's church, Kansas City, for ten days, ending on Shrove Tuesday, was very successful. It cleared, we are informed, $1200. The idea was directly suggested to them by the successful exhibition at Springfield by the Bishop who loaned old dresses, autotypes, Indian curiosities, etc. Dr. Schuyler also contributed some very old books. Such displays promote an interest in history and our own antiquities.

—The Rev. H. C. Duncan, Rector of Grace church, Kansas City, has tendered his resignation to his vestry to take effect on April 1.

—In Trinity church, Hannibal, the services during Lent are daily at 5 p. m., with short reading or Meditation, except on Wednesday, when the service is at night with sermons from the Bishops of Springfield and Quincy, the Rev. Messrs. Ritchie of Quincy, McLwain of Keokuk, E. Talbot and the Rector.

—We very much regret to state that on account of the threatened impairment of his health, Gen. J. H. Simpson of the regular army, who has for seven years been in charge of the engineering department in St. Louis, has asked to be placed on the retired list, and will in a month or two leave this city to take up his residence in St. Paul, Minn. His loss will be greatly felt in nearly every department of Church work. Becoming attached to Christ church from old acquaintance with its rector in Buffalo, he first indicated its spirit by giving in 1873 $1,000, for the payment in part of its debt. He attended the General Conventions of 1874 and 1877 as deputy from this diocese, and was elected for the Convention of this year. He acted with energy for years as Secretary of the Board of Managers of St. Luke's Hospital, and gave freely for the new building in prospect. As superintendent of Christ church Sunday school, besides other work, he published at his own charge a hymnal still used there. Removing to Holy Communion parish, he became a vestryman, and President of its Parochial Missionary Society, and principal contributor to its funds. As Local Secretary of the Society for the Conversion of the Jews he entered with characteristic energy and liberality into its work. Scarcely another person in the Diocese has done so much and such varied work, and the amount of his benefactions in quiet ways is only known to his Bishop and Rector. Along with all this has been a character of singular simplicity and Christian purity. We shall lose him from our work in this city and Diocese with great regret.

—The Rev. Mr. Dunlop of Kirkwood made another visit in Southeastern Missouri a few weeks ago. He gave a lecture in Cape Girardeau, which was attended by a number of the professors and scholars of the State Normal School located there, as well as others. He solemnized a marriage in Jackson. In De Soto he held services on Friday and Saturday nights, and on Sunday morning had the service, preached, administered the Holy Communion, and shortly afterward said the burial service at the funeral of our esteemed vestryman, Col. Tyler. He then rode on horseback over to Grace church, Plattsburg, and had service. The next day he rode on to Crystal City, where he had service at night, with a crowded congregation. We hope these places will soon be supplied with services regularly.

—The Ladies' Aid Societies of Christ church, St. George's, Holy Communion, and Mt. Calvary, in this city have all been engaged this winter in making up missionary boxes for clergymen in the Diocese.

—In a series of Tuesday evening services in St. Paul's church, Alton, Ill., the Rev. Drs. Schuyler, Gierlow and Ingraham, and Mr. Betts of this city have officiated.

—The work and training, the scholarship and the examinations of our own College, St. Paul's, Palmyra, will not suffer the least by a comparison with those of more pretentious institutions that are oftener before the public eye in the newspapers. It quite as much deserves bequests and endowments for the work it is doing, and the numbers it is reaching as some others which are always holding out their hands in a continual cry to the last to give. We speak of what we know. St. Paul's and Macon will stand the comparison for scholarship in the academic work with Racine or Griswold, and have something to spare.

—A large and increasing number of the ladies of several of the churches in this city have been meeting for a number of weeks on Tuesday afternoons at the residence of Captain Bent to attend a Bible reading, conducted by Mrs. Gierlow, who is spoken of as admirably qualified for the work, and whose expositions are very interesting and instructive.

—In 1864 the Rev. George Scheetz conveyed to the Bishop in trust for St. Paul's church, Palmyra, ten acres of pasture and the land on which the chapel is situated, the former for the use of the Rector for the time being, the latter for the parish. It was a piece taken out of the former domain of the College. It has long been known that the chapel, which was originally intended only for the College, but which has always been used for the parish church, is too far away from town for the convenience of the congregation, and steps have been taken to procure the erection of a church in the town. An excellent lot was purchased a year ago, and the ladies have several hundred dollars besides laid out toward the cost of the building. The heirs of Mr. Scheetz united in a petition to the Circuit Court for a decree to allow the trustee to sell the land given for the parish in order that the proceeds might be used in taking down the present stone chapel and putting up a church with these and other materials on the land purchased. The Judge has granted the decree and the land will be purchased at a valuation by Dr. Wainwright, and the church be proceeded with this spring.

—We were mistaken in our last month's issue in stating that Mr. Wm. L. Woodruff had been received as a Candidate for Orders. This is not the case.

—Mr. Wm. S. Cuddy of St. Peter's church in this city has his residence at St. Paul's on the Missouri Pacific railroad, where a chapel has been erected largely at his own cost, and where he has kept up a Sunday school. The Bishop has commissioned him as Lay Reader to read the service there also.

—At his own request the Bishop has removed the name of Mr. L. R. Downing from the list of candidates for Holy Orders in the Diocese, and withdrawn his license as Lay Reader in Grace church, Clarksville.

—Since they have succeeded in paying the debt on their church and having it consecrated, the Church people in Nevada, who, if few in number, are devoted and earnest, have desired to secure the services of a resident minister. The Bishop has recently sent them the Rev. Thomas M. Thorpe, whose last duty was at the Hot Springs in Arkansas. He has for a few months past been recuperating his health on his farm in Macon county. Mr. Thorpe is a graduate and prize man in the General Seminary, and is a clergyman of marked ability.

—The local paper says that the Rev. Mr. Masker of Jefferson City has received a call to another Diocese. It expresses the hope that nothing will cause him to leave his present work where he is so eminently successful; and in this wish we heartily join. We hope his people know how excellent a pastor they have, and show it.

—In Palmyra in addition to paying $300 for the lot of the new church, they have just secured a good subscription of $800, with prospects of increasing this by from two to four hundred dollars. The ladies have also $600 in bank for the same object. Thus they will have $2,100 from the town. They will need more, and Dr. Wainwright may ask some of the Church people of this city for some help; and we hope he will get it. The church will be of stone.

—The Mexico Convocation met in Fayette Thursday, 29th ultimo, the Rev. Messrs. Gray of Columbia and Gay of Fayette, of the Convocation, and Scheetz of Monroe, Curtis of Boonville, and Leonard of Hannibal being present. The visiting brethren had to leave for their home duties before Sunday, and the Convocation adjourned on Sunday night. On account of the absence of the other members, no nomination was made for Deacons.

—A very great desire is felt in Mexico for a resident minister, who shall also take charge of the work in Montgomery; and in both places they are making up a subscription, which in the aggregate amounts to $625. Columbia, which has been sharing services with Mexico, desires the entire time of its Rector.

—When our work among the colored people in this city began it attracted great attention, and some large gifts for its help, but in a life so rapid as ours it is difficult to hold attention for a long time to any work however interesting. It has kept on, and at no time was as prosperous and bringing forth such results as now, under the charge of its Candidate for Order and Lay Reader, Mr. Mason. On Sunday, 7th inst., the Bishop visited the Church, and in spite of the disagreeable walking found a large congregation, as devout and intelligent in the services as any in the city. The Bishop confirmed six persons, presented by Mr. Mason. A prosperous sewing school is conducted on Saturdays by Mrs. Amelung of Christ Church.

—Dr. Schuyler startled his congregation on Ash Wednesday by the announcement in his pastoral letter that he proposed at Easter to resign his rectorship on account of the inadequacy of the support. The case was clear that on account of the removals of families, and the heavy charges for interest and other parochial expenses, an amount was left for salary evidently insufficient. The response has already been made in the effort to remove the debt, and thus set free an amount given before for interest which can now be available for salary. We hope this will effect the removal of the embarrassment, and obviate the necessity for the proposed action. The affection of Christ Church for its Rector is unchanged and very deep.

—The Rev. John Fulton, D. D., of St. Paul Church, Milwaukee, has been called to the Rectorship of St. George's Church in this city. The deputation that went there were very much pleased in every way. The matter is not settled yet. Dr. Fulton will visit St. George's on the Sunday after Easter, after which he will give his answer. Dr. Fulton is an able canonist, and is the author of the learned work, Index Canonum. He has had rectorships in New Orleans, Mobile and Indianapolis, and has now for four years been in Milwaukee. He and Bishop Harris were the first editors of the Living Church. He is a native of Scotland, is 45 years of age, and is a strong preacher. He usually extemporizes. He was a deputy to the last General Convention, and speaker that year in the Church Congress.

—The Vestry of Calvary Church, Sedalia, have called to the Rectorship of their parish the Rev. B. Ellison Warner, now Rector of St. Mary's Church, Manchester, Conn. He is a young man, a graduate of the Berkeley Divinity School.

—The Rev. A. W. Mann, missionary at large to Deaf Mutes, will be very happy to correspond with any of the clergy who know of any deaf mute within their cures, and desire for them an occasional service in the sign language. His address is corner Erie and Chestnut streets, Cleveland, Ohio.

—The plan is at the church of the Holy Communion in this city to raise half of the amount of the debt $8,250 by Easter by amounts which have been assessed upon the members of the congregation by the vestry. This amount, except about $600, has now been subscribed; and it will doubtless all be paid. The vestry then propose to take care of the interest of the balance among themselves for three years, so that the congregation will be virtually out of debt for that time; and then when greater strength has been gotten, to pay off the balance. The pulpit, however, ought to be placed out again under the arch.

CONVOCAATION IN FAYETTE.

In addition to what is said elsewhere about the Mexico Convocation, we have since learned that the Rev. Mr. Curtis read a very able paper on "A Divine Revelation the need of human society, and a historic Church the only successful keeper and witness thereof." On Friday morning the Holy Communion was celebrated and a very practical and searching sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Leonard from the text, "I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus." In the afternoon of the same day, after the business meeting, a very carefully prepared paper on "Marriage and Divorce" was read by the Rev. Mr. Scheetz. There were present to hear this paper between 30 and 40 persons, among whom were several members of the Howard county bar, and quite a number of the students with the president of Central College, the educational institution of the Southern Methodists. It is a healthy indication when members of the legal profession with the president and students of a college like this, are attracted to the reading of a paper on marriage and divorce.

After evening service the Rev. Mr. Scheetz read a very sensible and practical paper, "How to secure the best rendition of the Liturgy." It might have been entitled how to impart and obtain the greatest amount of devotional fervor and instruction by the proper use of our inimitable Liturgy. The reading of this paper called out speeches from the Rev. Messrs. Curtis, Leonard and Gay, and from laymen Messrs. Thos. Ward, Geo. H. Wallace and Isaac H. Pearson. Before the close of this meeting Dean Gray made some encouraging remarks, and read a portion of a letter from the Bishop in relation to the importance and the needs of our own diocesan missionary work, not forgetting also the domestic and foreign work of our Church. It is to be hoped that those who heard, and those who read of our Bishop's earnest appeal, will not forget to try to keep the incomes of our diocesan board in some decent proportion with the outgoes.

The Rev. Mr. Gray preached excellent sermons to large and attentive congregations on Saturday night and twice on Sunday. St. Mary's has been neatly repaired and painted, and a fine new carpet provided by the ladies of the parish; and for these and other indications of prosperity the convocation was glad.

CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The second anniversary meeting of the Church Sunday School Association was held in the church of the Holy Communion on Monday evening, the 23d of February. The Executive Committee being desirous of making the association a permanent working institution had endeavored to promote unusual interest in this meeting. The Rev. Mr. Young read the evening prayer and an address full of good counsel and encouragement was made by the Rev. Benj. E. Read of M. Calvary. Afterwards the election of officers for the ensuing year was held with the following result:

President, Mr. Leslie of Trinity.
Treasurer, Mr. Nelson of Advent.
Secretary, Mr. Hayne of St. Peter.

It is the design of the association to continue its regular monthly meetings, at which papers will be read and discussions invited on topics pertaining to Sunday School work and management. The Clergy take a proper interest in the meetings and second the efforts of the executive committee to secure a good attendance there. Gatherings can be made very successful, not only to those who participate in them, but to all, throughout the diocese, who are interested in Sunday School work and read the reports of the meetings in the Sunday School column of THE NEWS.

—The Rev. Dr. Mallory, editor of The Churchman, is now trying the experiment of amusements on Christian principles. He has bought Madison Square Theatre with its double stage and other late improvements. It is said the movement is applauded rather than condemned by the public. Time will reveal the wisdom of the interesting experiment.

Will some person in each parish send us the names of the persons who are elected wardens and vestrymen in the approaching Easter elections. We will try to find places for the names. The Church ought to know who have been chosen to these offices.

THE CHURCH NEWS aims, above all things, to be a local newspaper in this State. It has no paid news-gatherers, and it must therefore depend upon the thoughtfulness of its friends. It does not court long communications, but brief paragraphs of news of local Church work and doings, for the sending of which postal cards can be conveniently used, will always be gladly received.

A CLERGYMAN of considerable experience has announced recently that for every dollar sent out by his parishioners to Church periodicals two dollars come back into his parish. There is abundant opportunity for some of our clergy to try this experiment with THE CHURCH NEWS. In a few minutes of leisure time every rector of a rural parish in the State could double the subscription list of THE NEWS at his postoffice, and the result we are confident would be as gratifying to him as to our publishers.

FOR city subscribers we have to prepay with a one-cent stamp every number of THE NEWS. This is a serious charge every month. To employ a collector to get our money we have to pay one-fourth of the amount of subscription. This is another loss. To save this last we have during the past month in sending out bills for the paper for the year, and in cases for the past year or more, enclosed return envelopes addressed to us, so that there was nothing to do but to put the dollar in. The returns thus far are very meagre, and show that persons are very careless. Now no one makes any money off the paper, and if money is not sent in, we must employ a collector at a cost which we cannot afford.

In the memoranda which Crawford Tait made during his short stay in this country among his notes of Chicago was this, that he saw one of our churches there of no very striking architecture, whose rector received a stipend of $15,000, but who had no curate, emphasizing this last feature. He remarks that our churches are congregational, having no parochial charge, that is, systematized care and oversight of the people living near them.

A RECTOR in charge of a vigorous and growing parish writes that he intends this year to double his list of subscribers to THE CHURCH NEWS—which, by the way, is now one of the largest in the diocese. If he should be asked for his views on the subject, we are confident he would testify that his ability to keep up an increasing subscription list to the local Church paper is not because his parish is vigorous and growing, but that the growth and vigor of his parish are due in a large measure to the influence of the diocesan paper.

THE Kalendar calls attention to an increasing difficulty in the administration of Church work in our large cities. The absenteeism which is more and more taking away our wealthier families for longer periods in the summer embarrasses much of the parochial work, as generally no provision is made to keep up their gifts in their absence. But now there is an increasing embarrassment in the journeys taken South in the winter, and the more frequent absences in Europe. In the meanwhile, where are the contributions on which the Church must depend?

THERE is something deceptive in the statements of a large decrease of public debt as coming from increasing import duties paid. Large duties received mean larger purchases abroad, in part of course of iron and necessities; but mainly of silks and luxuries; which all are coming to us in such greater amount than that which we are now sending abroad, that the balance of trade is going against us, and we are exporting gold again. Our wheat and cotton sent away are not now sufficient to pay for what we are buying on the other side. Greater duties are not an unmixed blessing. They indicate the approach of a time of debt which a crisis cures.

THE meeting of seven Bishops of Northern Central Dioceses at Kenyon College for consultation about education, along with the grouping of another set of Bishops at Racine, and still another at Davenport, and still another for some years past at Sewanee, gives some suggestions as to the aggregations for future provinces, and some of the business which will occupy the time at them. These are all informal and unauthorized, as such action having life and growth in it generally begins in an irregular way; but it is the groping about which afterward often crystalizes into institutions. This is a contribution to the provincial business.

A VERY pleasant feature of the Convocational system is developing itself in the Diocese. In the Hannibal district meetings have for years been regularly kept up quarterly; and in the Kansas City Convocation a number of meetings had been held. But since Convention meetings have been had for organization in the Sedalia and Mexico Convocations, and the Dean of the St. Louis Convocation has made several visits in the outlying parts. All these are likely to develop local interest and activity, and make the districts see that they should be doing more to support missions within their own bounds, and depend less on outside help.

THE CHURCH NEWS presents an encouraging balance-sheet for last year. It has not only paid its way, as usual, but has carried something forward to the new year. Its subscription list is larger than ever before and there are numerous and gratifying evidences that it has a strong hold on the good will of its patrons. We need, however, hardly repeat what must now be apparent to all who read THE CHURCH NEWS, and that is, that we are gratified with pecuniary prosperity only because it enables us to more vigorously prosecute our work, the sole object of which is to publish a diocesan newspaper devoted to the welfare and advancement of the Church and the dissemination of news concerning Church movements and information relating to the most improved methods of religious work.

WE congratulate the Church Sunday School Association on having completed its first year. It was organized in response to a call for some organization or enterprise which would infuse new life into our Sunday-schools and make them more attractive and useful. At its first meeting a large number of clergy and officers and teachers were present. Few of these, however, have been faithful to it, and it has been kept alive by a handful of hard-working Sunday-school lovers who could not believe that the Church would entirely neglect this important branch of her life. Unfortunately it has happened in this case, as it almost always does in similar enterprises, that those who have the greatest need of the benefits of the Association have been the most indifferent to it. How to reach them is, under the circumstances, a puzzling problem. If, however, the clergy in the different parishes would take an active interest in the work, call special attention in the Sunday-school to the next approaching meeting and urge attendance upon it as a duty, and be present themselves, the Association would soon attain to the full measure of its usefulness, while the Sunday-schools would speedily feel the aid and influence of the new impulse.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

A few gentlemen, conspicuously the Rev. Dr. Ingraham, D. Robt. Barclay and Maj. W. S. Pope, have given personal attention to the matter of securing the balance of the $5,000 required to secure the later gift of $5,000 from Mr. Shaw; and the work is within a few hundred dollars of being completed, so near as to assure us that the $25,000 will be available for the building of the Hospital, and that the work will be begun this spring. This grand result is very significant and full of promise.

In the meantime, Mr. Shaw has with some other gentlemen, Messrs. Harrison, Thompson and Branch, been endeavoring to secure the purchase of another piece of ground to the east of the 100 feet which have been purchased on Washington avenue in order to secure the frontage on the avenue. We hope that they will succeed in realizing so desirable a result.

The building committee is at work on the plans and the occupants of the land have had notice to quit, preparatory to building.

A PERSON in this city wishing to do a stroke of business writes greeting that "it is a mystery to ministers why some of their brethren are more successful in drawing audiences than themselves." The solution, he thinks, lies in the fact that they do not cling to old forms and treatises of sermons, but preach what pleases and yet remains consistent with theology. Many ministers, he tells us, have the fault of repeating the frases (sic) and sentences a dozen times during their discourse. This is extremely (sic) monotonous to their auditors and eventually produces disinterestedness (!) among their less devout members. The best way to eradicate these defects, he thinks, is to employ a stenographer to report their successful contemporaries, and their own sermons occasionally. He intimates that his transactions are invariably confidential. Here is the Lorimer method of unconscious assimilation reduced to a system.

BOOK NOTICES.

A Practical Guide to Modulation.—By the Rev. E. Coan. THE NEWS staff of writers does not contain a musician who can properly review this little book. For those who know him the simple mention of the name of the author is sufficient to indicate that in the line of music the book is all that it sets out to be. It is for the use of amateur organists and others; and to them it will evidently be of great use in performing voluntaries, and in other parts of the service. Our old friend acts efficiently in the familiar duty of the Precentor of the Cathedral in Albany. W. A. Pond & Co., 25 Union Square, New York.

Standard Series.—No. 1. This is the first of a series put out like the Lakeside and other series, but printed on better paper, clearer type and heavier cover and to contain standard works. This number contains John Ploughman's Talk, or Plain Advice to Plain People by Chas. H. Spurgeon, and Thomas Carlyle on the Choice of Books. This number costs 12 cents, and the price will range from 10 to 25 cents. This brings a very large amount of excellent literature to hand for an insignificant amount. I. K. Funk & Co., 21 & 23 Barclay st., New York. No. 2 contains unabridged "the Manliness of Jesus" by Thomas Hughes, price 10 cents. No. 3 contains Macaulay's Essays, price 15 cents. Look them up.

Thoughts on Great Mysteries.—Fred. Wm. Faber, D. D. This is a volume of selections from the works of that good man whose fervent hymns are familiar to many of us, made by the Rev. Dr. J. S. Purdy. We gave a notice of the work in our last number and commended it for Lenten reading. Our commendation would be sustained, if we could find space for some extracts; but the character of the contents, and their fitness for all times may appear when we give the titles to a few of the chapters: "Why God loves us," "In what way God repays our love," "The bosom of the Eternal Father," "Kindness," "Wounded Feelings," "On a taste for Reading." The style is noble and eloquent. T. Whittaker, 2, Bible House, New York; pp. 229 $1.25.

The Preacher and Homiletic Monthly.—February: "Preaching," by O. H. Tiffany, D. D.; "The First Note of my Song," by Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, "Without Fruit" by Rev. Henry Ward Beecher; "A Solace for Anxious Thoughts," by John Hall, D. D.; "Christian Watchfulness," by Rev. Frederick Courtney. These are followed by a number of "Hints at the Meaning of Text." Many of the sermons are very able. The first three are given entire. "Preachers Exchanging Views." This Monthly is of great value to clergymen, and all students of the Bible. It grows continually in interest. $2.50 per year; 25 cents single number. I. K. Funk & Co., New York.

Preaching Without Notes.—By Henry A. Dowe. An excellent little pamphlet with useful hints from one who has acquired proficiency in preaching without notes. All clergymen should get a copy. The contents and index are fuller than necessary. T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York, 20 cents. St. Nicholas.—March. It contains Alfred Tennyson's Child Song, "Minnie and Winnie," set to music, and Mrs. Alfred Tennyson's revised score of the music for the Laureate's other St. Nicholas song, "The City Child."

"The disadvantages of City Boys," by Washington Gladden, appears in this number. It is based on actual facts, and is a stirring Talk with Boys on a subject of vital interest to them. "Kite Time," by Daniel C. Beard, gives diagrams and full instruction how to make and fly kites of all sorts and shapes. Of the two serials, the installment of Louisa M. Alcott's "Jack and Jill," with two fine pictures by Dielman, brings its young people into a peck of troubles; and William O. Stoddard's "Among the Lakes," illustrated by Taber, tells how its boys and girls enjoyed themselves in the old farm-house. One of the striking illustrations is a portrait of "Babie Stuart," the infant daughter of Charles I, engraved by Muller after the painting by Vandyck.

Wide Awake—March. The contention for superiority between these two children's magazines is something that their readers, and those who admire beauty as applied to children's amusement certainly cannot complain. We are sorry for those families who cannot afford to take this charming periodical; we blame those who can and do not. Only $2 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, Mass.

Humboldt Library of Popular Science, Literature, Physics and Politics.—By Walter Bagehot. This is an application of the principle of natural selection and heredity to political society. Good paper and type; price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 294 Broadway, New York.

Church Monthly Magazine.—March. This family magazine increases steadily in interest. $2 could not be more wisely spent. 20, Vesey st. New York.

The Pastor—By Bishop Bedell. The author is peculiarly qualified to write this book of tested directions and conclusions as to pastoral work. He was the son of a father who was eminent for his fidelity and success in St. Andrew's Church, Philadelphia, for many years. The Bishop, trained up in this school, had added the rich results of a ministry of forty years, arranged by the needs of his position as professor at Gambier. Peculiarly valuable to a young clergyman, these directions are of deep interest to older ones, as they incite to a comparison of methods, often causing a modification of one's previous habits. It is possible that a closer examination, line by line might suggest some grounds for difference; but our judgment is that we have no work written for the circumstances of our American Church which is so full of practical advice and useful directions. For a young clergyman it is simply invaluable. $2. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

MISCELLANY.

—The hymn which begins, "Abide with me; fast falls the eventide" was written by H. F. Lyte a poor curate of Broxham, who toiled twenty years under clouds of discouragement and suffering. When scarcely able to crawl, he preached and administered the communion for the last time, addressing the tearful people as one who has already one foot in the grave. "As the evening of the sad day gathered its darkness, he handed to a near and dear relative this immortal hymn, with music accompanying, which he had prepared." His last whisper was, "Peace, joy!"

On the late occasion, when Wilberforce this story is told: many miles from Windsor, in a country-house not far from London, a girl of seven, suddenly broke in upon the company: "I want to ask you a question before all the assembled company answer me very, very truly?" "Question, my Lord; will you answer me?" "The child on his knee, and said: 'Bishop smiled, child looked gravely up at him, and let it be it?' The terrible question: 'Why does every one call me following Sam?' You can easily imagine the feelings of 'Soapy Sam'; but the Bishop was quite equal to the occasion, and after having cast a half-mocking and cynical glance round the room, replied simply. 'I will tell you, my darling. People call me 'Soapy Sam' because, whenever I get into hot water, I always come out with my hands clean.'"

—"I was amused the other day" says a correspondent, of The Living Church at the native speech of our rural domestic. Defining her religious position, she said: 'I was baptized into the Advent faith, but I never joined their church because I don't believe their doctrine.' She professes a partiality for the United Brethren. When asked 'what are the peculiar doctrines of the United Brethren,' she replied: 'I can't exactly say, but our minister preaches most all the time against secret societies!'"

—A clergyman recently left Liverpool in a large ocean steamer, and beginning to feel uncomfortable after leaving the mouth of the river, sought the captain to learn if there was any danger. The captain, in response, led the clergyman to the fore-castle, and told him to listen to what was going on. The clergyman was shocked to hear the sailors swearing vigorously, and expressed his horror to the captain. The captain merely remarked—"Do you think these men would swear in such a manner if there was any real danger?" whereupon the parson seemed satisfied and retired. A day or two afterward, during a severe storm, the captain saw the clergyman proceeding with difficulty to the fore-castle, and on his return overheard him exclaim—"Thank heaven, they're swearing yet!"

—A colored minister in Georgia was brought to trial before the deacons of his church for stealing bacon. After a number of witnesses had been examined the deacons retired, and afterward returned the following verdict—"The Rev. Moses Bledsoe am acquitted of de situations dat he actual stole the pork, as 'twas not shode dat sumbody else miten't have been wearin' his close, but de brudder is hereby fectionately warned dat in future he must be more keerful."

—When a man comes out from behind a green shutter wiping his mouth with his handkerchief, and runs against his astonished wife on the side walk, and tells her that the place is a barbershop, and she looks up in his face with not a shadow of doubt in her love-lit eyes, ought that woman to be trusted with the ballot?

—A congregation, anxious to get rid of their pastor, was considerably perplexed how to do it without hurting his feelings. After considerable discussion, they concluded to inform him they were obliged to reduce his salary. A delegation was appointed to wait on him and notify him of the fact. "Brethren," was his reply, "I have been with you in prosperity, and I will never desert you in adversity."

—Bishop Whittingham once brought down the house at Convention by saying that he was continually in receipt of applications from Maryland vestries for clergymen with small families. "If this goes on," said he, "I shall expect before many years that no one may obtain a cure in my diocese unless he be a clergyman with a very small appetite."

—On making a pastoral visit at the house of one of his parishioners recently, a clergyman of Syracuse improved the opportunity to catechise a little boy of four or five years of age. "What class are you in?" said the minister. "In the interest class," replied the boy. "What have you learned?" Answer: "The Commandments and the Creed." "What, then, is the first commandment?" "Nobody shall have any gods but me," said the lad. "What is the Creed?" The little boy thought a moment, and then answered, "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church, the forgiveness of sins, and the Communion set."

CHRIST CHURCH, ST. LOUIS.

A few days ago the church people of St. Louis finished a subscription for $15,000 for the building fund of St. Luke's hospital, in order to secure the gift of land of equal value, presented by a public-spirited citizen; and then pledged $5,000 more to secure another equal sum from the same gentleman for the purpose of making the building larger and more adequate. This was hardly over before another great undertaking was begun. Seven years ago $50,000 was paid on the debt created by the building of Christ church, leaving still a burden of $25,000. The weight of this, along with the fact that the church is now quite down town, became a heavy burden, and embarrassed the operations of the parish.

The work of relief began in the winter with a bazaar which netted $3,500 for the debt. On Sunday, 29th ult., after assurances had privately been received for a considerable amount, the task was essayed. After the morning service was ended, the Rector left the Chancel, and instead of the sermon, the Bishop made an address reciting the facts of the case, and stating the gravity of the situation, and urging to present, liberal action. The Senior Warden followed with a plain strong statement, and began the subscription himself with a pledge of $1,000. A few large verbal pledges were made, and then the vestry proceeded to collect the cards which had been provided and on which the pledges were made. The aggregate, in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $5, was found to be about $9,000, and for a moment it seemed as though the effort would fail at that point.

The Bishop recalled attention to the fact that the subscription has two conditions, one that the whole amount of $25,000 should be raised, and the other that the Church should then be so placed as that it could not hereafter be encumbered with debt; that while five or six thousand dollars could reasonably be looked for from persons not then present, all that had been down would be in vain, if more was not then given. This caused new gifts, and the doubling of some large ones, and he gave $500. The result was, along with the $3,500 above, that about $16,000 was secured.

Since this time several gentlemen have been active in securing the remainder, and the amount lacking at this writing is about $5,000, with a certainty that with a little further effort the whole will be had, and the noble mother Church at last rescued from debt, and enabled to do the work for which it is so well fitted. Especial mention must always be made, in speaking of this rescue of the Church, of Mr. Charles Parsons, not a member of the vestry, for his large gifts and enthusiastic efforts, without which the result could hardly have been reached. We will give next month the list of the subscribers. We presume that there will be little delay now in securing the services of an Assistant Minister.

LECTURES FOR THE JEWS.

It is quite generally known that the Church society for the extension of the Gospel among the Jews has begun work in this city and that Gen. J. H. Simpson is the local secretary of the society, and the Rev. J. N. Chesnutt the Missionary. In connection with this a short course of lectures was proposed for Sunday nights in Lent. The whole work is invested with much difficulty and delicacy; and perhaps as much work has to be done among the Christians as among the Hebrew, for the purpose of preparing us to expect and desire the return of the Jews.

Gen. Simpson threw himself into the matter with his accustomed energy, secured St. George's Hall, and sent out a large number of circulars to Jewish citizens and others. Great credit is due to the Church of the Holy Communion, whose rector has a deep interest in the subject, for their liberality in meeting in large part the expense of St. George's Hall for the occasions.

On the first night, February 22d, the Bishop lectured. The hall was quite well filled, half a dozen of the clergy being present, with representatives from the various city congregations, and a considerable number of Hebrews, including several Rabbis. The Rev. Mr. Roberts said the Lord's Prayer, and the Bishop was introduced by Gen. Simpson. The subject of the lecture was the "Encouragements in the way of bringing about a better understanding between Christianity and Judaism." The lecture was about three quarters of an hour long, and was listened to with great attention. A number of the Rabbis and other Hebrews thanked the Bishop for his words. The aged Presiding Bishop after reading it writes that "its spirit of catholicity were exceedingly gratifying to mind and heart; and so was its easy and grateful flow of idiomatic English."

The second lecture was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Robert on the "Jehovah of the three Dispensations." There were a large number of persons present, including fifteen or twenty Hebrews. The lecture displayed the learning of the speaker, who has given much attention to this line of research.

Letter Box.

Editor Church News:

I was very glad to see in a recent number of THE NEWS that letter signed "Rector's Wife." There is a good deal to be said on the other side about the kindness shown to our pastors' families. I am the wife of a layman, and if we have to work hard and have little over, no one knows of it. I belong to a congregation which I hear has been blamed for not being kind to its minister. He deserves what he receives and much more. But the talk about starving and neglecting a minister because he has grown old is as ridiculous as it is untrue. I resent the imputations which have been thrown upon the congregation to which I belong. We have burdens to carry each of us, and we can not always do what we wish. But I happen to know that one if not more of our pastor's members sent him at Christmas $100 apiece; others sent $200, and just before $150; another sent a large stock of provisions, hams, turkeys, flour, etc.; another a suit of clothes for a child. How much more was given I do not know. It was kindly thought of, and the gifts were worthily bestowed; but such kindness is only known to the giver and receiver, and they do not like to mention it.

PASTOR'S FRIEND.

CHURCH ETIQUETTE.

Editor Church News:

May I ask if there is any canon or rubric or, if not, if there is any lex non scripta which governs Churchmen in their forms of worship. If there is, what is the law, how far does it go and how should it be enforced? I have been taught that when, in the service, we pray, we should kneel down, and yet last Sunday I saw a dozen people about me remain sitting and barely bowing their heads, and all of these persons were communicants of the Church and one a high official. I have been taught that it is my duty to stand when we sing, and yet last Sunday I counted forty people in the congregation, at least half of whom were in the vigor of manhood or womanhood, lounging in their pews. To be sure, the choir occupied sixteen minutes in rendering the Te Deum, and that may have excused them. I have been taught that it was not good manners, at least, to whisper in church before or during the service, and yet I saw several groups talking over the backs of the pews before the clergyman entered the chancel, and the soprano chatting with the tenor in full view of the congregation during the litany. I have seen this bit of vulgarity in Baptist and Presbyterian churches, but only recently in our own churches. The other sects do not consecrate their places of worship and think it no impropriety to use them for concerts, lectures, tableaux and festivals, and thus they violate no rule of manners in talking and whispering before the preaching; but have we no other ideas, laws or traditions on this subject? I am really an enquirer after the truth and should like to know something about

CHURCH ETIQUETTE.

TO MUSIC COMMITTEES.

Editor Church News:

One of the involuntary penances inflicted upon the small congregations at our Lenten services in this city is the painful music they are compelled to bear with. Why is it? Our people have as good voices and as much musical talent as Methodists or Presbyterians or Baptists—have they not? And yet if a Churchman should stumble into a prayer meeting of any of the denominations I have mentioned he would be struck by the force and fervor and excellence of the singing which, whether intentionally or not, is made the chief feature of their religious worship. The trouble is, we farm out our music on Sundays to a quartette choir whose chief ambition seems to be to prevent any one from sharing with them in the music, whether anthems or hymns. As a result, we have no rallying hymns in which to sing our praises and no songs to aid our devotions. Not one in a hundred of our people could sing a Church hymn through without the words before them, and not one in five could carry the air of more than two or three hymns. Is it the intention of our Church music committees to stamp out Church singing and Puritanize our worship?

Yours, X.

THE PARISHES AND THE ORPHANS' HOME.

Editor Church News:

I desire to submit the following suggestions. Would it not prove more beneficial and secure a larger share of co-operation and interest among the members of our several parishes if the managers of the Orphans' Home were selected by the various parishes themselves, and, in case of vacancy, let it be filled by the Rector or Parish Aid Society of the parish in which said vacancy may occur? Now, as Easter is approaching, let the members at the regular parish meetings to be held designate the names of such persons as they desire to represent them; or, if in accordance with the constitution and by-laws of the Orphans' Home, elect them at that time. Further, I would suggest that the number of representatives from each Church be reduced, as there is no need of the present number, and that only such be selected as are alive to the interests and welfare of the institution. Again, would it not prove advantageous to elect half the number to serve for one year and the other two years, thereby preventing an entire change at any one time of the whole management?

Should these suggestions be in opposition to the present laws, I hope they will receive at least more than passing notice, and if of any value, let the proper steps be taken at the earliest practicable moment to have the laws amended. I think a little discussion just now may wake up many of the members of our Church, and thereby encourage them to take an interest such as they have not now in this glorious work, and furthermore, by their annual subscriptions, given regularly, not only sustain the institution thereby, but enable self-sacrificing managers to do away with the continual effort by dinners, concerts, etc., to get barely sufficient funds to pay actual expenses. It is time the many, not the few, members of the Church in this city should heartily co-operate in dividing the burden of the expenses necessary and incident to such a noble work.

LAYMAN.

—The Rev. M. Falkner, of Philadelphia, in accounting for some of the unemployed Clergy, tell of one, who spoke in a sermon, of a solitary column of rock, forty feet high, which is supposed to be the remains of Lot's wife, who looked back and became a pillar of salt. She must have been a daughter of Anak. The statement was made by a Clergyman, who was preaching for Rev. Mr. Falkner.

—Mr. Moody, lecturing on the Lord's Prayer in St. Louis the other day, and dwelling much on the forgiveness of trespasses, noticed that while he was speaking fifty or more persons rose and left the church; whereupon he said that he had known persons who had heard about this requirement for forgiveness hastily to leave the church and seek out those they needed to forgive, and he hoped that those who were then leaving the congregation were prompted by such a spirit.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRAMME.

Editor Church News:

Some time since I noticed a communication from one of your contributors referring to his Sunday school and the admirable management thereof, and requesting from the superintendents of St. George's and Holy Communion church Sunday-schools a statement of their management. Though late, I desire to give him through your columns such information regarding St. George's church Sunday-school.

The exercises are as follows, viz.:

1. Promptly at 3 o'clock the school is called to order by tapping bell once; then silent prayer.
2. Versicles, Confession and Prayer.
3. Singing Chant or Hymn; school rises when bell is tapped twice.
4. Creed and Prayers.
5. Singing Hymn.
6. Lessons.
7. Notification to Teachers to mark their class books.
8. Recitation of Collect for the day, and additional Collects if any; each scholar while standing being counted.
9. All scholars having recited their lessons perfectly are requested to stand up, and record is kept of the number, both male and female.
10. Remarks, if any, to be made; then reading of report for the day, which shows the number of officers, teachers, scholars and strangers present, (having male and female kept separately); also, number of collects and lessons repeated, amount of contributions and for what purpose, new scholars and by whom they were brought.
11. Singing two or more Hymns.
12. Prayer and Benediction.

After the closing exercises, the various classes remain in their places until the name of the class is called, each going out in an orderly manner.

The Instruction Books used are, for infant classes, Calvary Catechism; small children, (able to read), Church Catechism simplified—Diocese of South Carolina; older scholars, "Canada Leaflets" "A" and "B" Papers, also Collects; Bible Classes, Bible Lessons selected.

TICKETS.

We give one each for Attendance, Lesson, Collect and Conduct. Tickets have mark printed on them showing what they are for and of different colors. Each scholar upon returning 50 of these small tickets is entitled to a large picture card.

PRIZES.

1. Is a Missionary Prize, given to the scholar bringing the largest number of new scholars during the year—no scholar to be counted unless present at least four Sundays.
 2. Is for Church Catechism, given to the scholar that is able to repeat the same without misplacing, adding or omitting a syllable.
 3. Same as above, making only one mistake.
 - 4 and 5. Are for Calvary Catechism, given on same conditions as the Church Catechism.
 6. Is for Collects. First prize given to each scholar repeating the Collect for every Sunday during the year.
 7. Second prize, same as above, omitting one Collect only.
- Scholars having received any of the above prizes are not allowed to compete again for same prize.
8. Attendance. First prize to those that have attended school every Sunday during the year. Second prize to those that have been absent only once during the year.

THE BANNER CLASS.

A handsome banner belonging to the school is placed from year to year in charge of the class that has brought as a class the largest number of new scholars during the past year, and upon all festal occasions said class carry that banner.

Yours, very truly,
WALLACE DELAFIELD.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Mr. Parnell, the Irish agitator, in coming to this country in behalf of Ireland, showed that he was quite as much determined to get this country committed to his political vagaries as to get relief. He therefore fell foul of our better newspapers, who advocated giving largely, but opposed our commitment to political views, which were not our concern, and of which we were not wholly informed. This enraged Parnell, and he abused the Viceroy of Ireland foully, which called forth defense from all creeds alike in Ireland. And in this country he set upon the New York Herald, which nobly rejoined by subscribing the princely sum of $100,000 for the poor of Ireland, only that it should not go through Parnell's committee to aggrandize himself and his party, but it offered him a place with others on the committee. Parnell is a failure, but the gifts on both sides of the water are munificent.

—The Rev. Frederick Courtney yielded to the third call made to him by St. James church, Chicago, and will become their rector after Easter at a salary of $7000. Now they are happy.

—The deaths of Stewart Brown of New York and of the Rev. Dr. Rudder leave important places vacant in our larger Church trusts. Dr. Rudder's salary of $7000 was the largest in his Diocese.

—In Grace church, Brooklyn, N. Y., on the 18th ult., $12,594 was placed on the altar after the sermon, as the annual offerings of the congregation for missions.

—The Baptist church at Lincoln, Ill., passed complimentary resolutions when the Rev. William Elmer resigned the pastorate; but when he joined the Episcopalians the Baptists voted to retract their praise.

—An anonymous person through the Rev. Mr. Wilkinson of St. Peter's church, London, has offered $50,000 for the endowment of a see in North China.

—The St. Clement's Philadelphia question is moving on. Evidence is being introduced in a preliminary way to discover whether there is a case. The trial would be under the General Convention canon of 1874, not any Diocesan Canon. The Rev. Mr. Prescott has entered a protest against the constitutionality of the Canon, as having a rubrical bearing, and so needing the concurrence of two General Conventions, whereas this Canon was passed only by one.

—In the Institution Office the newly instituted minister administers the Holy Communion and gives the blessing. Bishop Simpson recently instituted a rector in Bloomington. It is stated that after the sermon the Bishop and the newly Instituted Rector retired; soon, however, returning duly vested for the celebration. The rector in alb and chasuble, the bishop in surplice, acting as the deacon in the office.

—Governor Perkins, of California, is said to have personally requested the committee to provide for the offering of prayer to Almighty God during his inauguration exercises, and for the first time the Governor of that State has begun his administration with a public recognition of the Lord, and a plea for His guidance in the discharge of his high office.

—Some correspondent has sent us the Louisiana, Mo., Riverside Press with the following article marked: "In the Diocesan Convention of Protestant Episcopalians at Troy, N. Y. recently the distinguishing feature of Prof. Doane's address was an exhortation to the clergy against early marriages. He is of opinion that they impair the usefulness of clergymen by distracting their attention during a period when concentration of mind upon the details of their religious charge is most needful, because the neophyte has to master not only the principles, but the routine of his avocation. He also condemned them as encouraging an injudicious ambition for higher stations than the experience and capacity of the young husbands will warrant in order to apply the emoluments to the support of their families."

—The Living Church has bought the subscription list, and will absorb the paper, Our Diocese, the organ of the Michigan Diocese. It was eight years old.

—The Rev. Edward Cowley, who has been convicted of the charge of starving the children of the Shepherd's Fold in New York City has had similar trouble before, and seems to have profited by the charitable instincts of people toward poor children.

—A Presbyterian gentleman in St. Joseph sued his pastor and the elders for $5000 damages because in excommunicating him, they had not followed the procedure in their book of discipline; and he won the suit.

—Bishop Paddock recently explained how by mistake in the Committee on Canons in the General Convention of 1871, the period of waiting as Candidate by those desiring Priest's Orders was made one year.

—In delivering a lecture upon Amusements, the other evening, Mr. Beecher took occasion to pay a beautiful tribute to Lent and its influences upon heart and life. In his paper, the Christian Union, he has of late made the Church a subject for his praise, and, last Sunday in his sermon, he said that his right hand should fall palsied at his side, and his tongue cleave to the roof of his mouth, before he ever uttered a word in disparagement of his mother, the Church of England.

—A number of well known ladies in Cincinnati have actively circulated and obtained signatures of their friends to the following pledge: "Believing that theatrical and operatic performances on Sunday are prejudicial to the good order, and good morals of the community, we hereby pledge ourselves to abstain from patronizing an open house or public hall which opens its doors to entertainments of this kind on Sunday, after February 16, 1880.

—The late Mr. A. E. Borie, late Secretary of the Navy, left $30,000 for religious purposes in Philadelphia, $5000 to the Episcopal Hospital, $1000 to his parish church, etc.

—Mr. Wm. H. Vanderbilt has recently given $25,000 to the University of Virginia. He was interviewed by a gentleman of New York upon the subject, and wrote his check, and handed it quietly over. His son, Cornelius Vanderbilt, has made arrangements to erect a substantial building at St. John'sland, Long Island, for the accommodation of 20 orphan girls, and to endow the same.

—The third deaf mute was recently ordained to our ministry in Richmond, Mr. Job Turner; the others are the Rev. Messrs. Mann and Syle.

—In England marriage with a deceased wife's sister is void. In a recent case when the advice of the Archbishop was asked as to the course to be pursued by a lady who had married her deceased sister's husband, and who had in consequence been refused the Communion, he intimated that the man could not separate himself without doing a further grievous wrong to the person he had married, and that they should go for the Holy Communion to some church where the history was not known, and scandal would not arise.

—The floor space in Barr's new dry goods store on the corner of Sixth and Olive streets on the five stories amounts to 149,500 square feet, or nearly four acres.

—As showing the practical effect of reducing the sense of moral responsibility to a personal God, it has been seen that in Berlin, the favorite home of this philosophy, arrests for crimes have increased over 300 per cent. in the last eight years, murders over 1200 per cent, fraudulent bankruptcy 2000 per cent, and suicides immensely; and, in the meantime, Prussia has become the scene of communism and despotism.

—It seems that while Chicago has eighteen distinct railway lines running into it, St. Louis has twenty-two. Still the egotism of the lake city continues to be phenomenal.

—In France, where they know what the practical effects of the Roman Catholic religion is, and where not to be a Romanist is almost to be an infidel, they have deliberately determined that clericals shall have no seat or voice in educational matters. We are at the beginning of the experiment; they have worked it out.

—Here is the way in which a vestryman began the duties of his office in Virginia in the last century: "I, Thomas Jefferson, as I do acknowledge myself a true son of the Church of England, so I do believe the articles of faith therein professed, and do oblige myself to be conformable to the doctrine and discipline therein taught and established; and that, as a vestryman of his church, I will well and truly perform my duties therein, being directed by the laws and customs of this country, and by the canons of the Church of England, so far as they will suit our present capacity; and thus I shall sincerely do, according to the best of my knowledge, skill, and cunning, without fear, favor, or partiality; and so help me God."

—Bishop Whipple has gone South, as is his habit in the winter, on account of his health. Bishop Stevens has not recovered, and has had to call in the help of other Bishops. Bishops Quintard and Cox have given notice that by command of their physicians they must call in their appointments for the present.

—The public debt of the United States has fallen below two thousand million dollars; and for the last eight months the monthly decrease has been over four million dollars; and with the bonds at six and five per cent interest falling in, and being replaced at three and three and a half per cent, the saving hereafter will be much larger.

—There are intimations that it is in contemplation to establish a Roman Catholic See in Kansas City.

—The railroads of this State lead all others in the country in their gains in traffic over last year: the St. Louis and San Francisco 140 per cent.; Missouri, Kansas and Texas, 60 per cent.; Iron Mountain, 50 per cent.; Chicago and Alton, 38 per cent.; Wabash and Pacific, 35 per cent.

—St. Stephen's church, Philadelphia, of which the late Dr. Rudder was rector, was organized in 1823. It has had but three rectors. It has an endowment of $80,000, and a pew rental of $10,000. Dr. Rudder's salary was $7000 a year and rectory.

—The Spirit of Missions announces that a generous layman of Trinity church, Pittsburg, has come forward to defray the expenses of two missionaries much needed in China. The amount required will be more than $2000 a year. The agreement is "as long as God gives the ability."

—Mr. P. C. Van Schaick has just died, leaving $75,000 to missionary and other religious objects; and Judge Morris, for 50 years vestryman, and for 40 years Senior Warden of St. John's church, Troy, has left $25,000 to that church.

—One Episcopal church in New York has furnished three or four times as many of the teachers to the colored public schools of that city as all the other colored churches—Methodist, Baptist, etc., put together. There is a culture and refinement in our Church system such as no other possesses.

—The Fund for Disabled Clergymen, and for Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen, report that in their 110 cases of relief they have helped all the orders of the ministry, including the highest, and the cases are from 35 dioceses.

— Mr. Cowley, of the Shepherd's Fold notoriety, while a minister of the Church and not deposed, has not for years had any clerical duty. He was several years ago removed from the charge of the Shepherd's Fold. He then started a similar work, called the Children's Fold, from the charge of which also he was removed some time ago. Then he resuscitated the first institution, which had been abandoned, himself and his brother-in-law being the only trustees, and under a forgotten act of the Legislature received $5,000 a year. The institution was not at all under the care of the Church. He will probably be deposed soon.

— An Italian professor in a well-known American college was asked, on his return from a vacation, if he had enjoyed himself. "Yes," he answered, "I 'ave had a ver quite time. I've been reading Shak-es-pe-are, on the banks of the Ches-a-pe-ak-e Bay."— [Scribner's "Bric-a-Brac."

CATARRH.—We have yet to hear of a single case of CATARRH that has not succumbed to the power of POND'S EXTRACT, which is an absolute specific for the disease. It strengthens the glands, and promptly restores them to a normal and healthy condition. Severe cases of Chronic Catarrh have been cured by its application. Colds in the head are also greatly benefited by its use. For old and obstinate cases we recommend our CATARRH CURE and NASAL SYRINGE.

BEAUTIFYING THE HOME.

Mural Decoration—Wall Paper vs. Fresco—Spring Fashions in Paper, Etc.

As spring approaches and the householder's duties in the line of refitting and remodeling appear in the near future, the question of ways and means becomes the most pertinent which can be suggested to those who stand within the ranges of those duties. There is one change taking place in decorative art which cannot escape the notice of any intelligent observer, and that is, the substitution of wall papers for fresco and calceining. Such is the beauty and richness of design which characterizes the finest qualities of wall paper now produced that they are given the preference over the brush by a majority of those to whom the comparative cost is not a matter of consideration. The effect is more pleasing the walls have a softer and warmer tone, and the artistic details are more elaborate and finished. Another point in favor of fine papers and decorations is that they are entirely free from poison in colors. There is something pertaining to wall papers, something of coziness when such an effect is desired, of warmth and softness of walls and ceilings, of richness and elaborateness at the expense of comparatively little trouble and money, of durability and freedom from unavoidable accidents, to which painted walls are liable, that render them especially desirable as a method of decoration. The English treatment of rooms still continues in favor, and the patterns for the coming season are marked by a beauty of design unknown heretofore in wall papers. Manufacturers having in view the growing art tendencies of the period have enlisted the efforts of the best artists of the day. These, after the school of the celebrated English designers whose names have become "household words," are to be found in all the various grades in our first houses, preference being generally given them.

MESSRS. NEWCOMB BROS.,

307 N. Fifth street are now receiving their Spring Goods, and from them we glean the following points: The special attraction this year consist in the artistic combination of Dado filling and frieze; the same design in its different shades of feeling is carried up through the different sections. Colorings generally are lighter than have been used during the past two years. In addition to their large stock of Foreign and American goods, they have a number of special designs and colorings of their own, and they have secured the services of Mr. E. H. Shaw, formerly of Cleveland but late of Indianapolis, a gentleman of ability, who brings to his new position a thorough knowledge of decorative art. They have added largely to their upholstery department, and are prepared to furnish Draperies to harmonize with wall treatment in all grades of goods, and, as the principles of Decorative Art are again struggling into favor, thoughtful people are hailing with delight the attainableness of a truly æsthetic home.

BARR'S

Card of Thanks.

TO THE PEOPLE OF ST. LOUIS AND THE WEST:

Deeply grateful and pleased at the wonderful success of our Grand New Store, we can not refrain from thanking the thousands who have since our Opening thronged the House and enjoyed its magnificence and thorough business character just as much as we ourselves.

The question is solved, and success assured.

St. Louis has indorsed our efforts, and shown that we have done the right thing at the right time.

As the people came streaming toward the Building from north, south, east and west, it was evident the "Great Central Store" was not misnamed; and as they came on foot, in the street cars, in carriages, or in wagons, it was still more evident that ALL St. Louis, rich and poor, old or young, was with us, and that we were upheld by the whole community.

For this we return thanks. What our visitors thought of our addition to the architecture and business interests of St. Louis, we let them say for themselves, for we are satisfied, from what we heard, that our praises are safe in their hands!

Our intention was this week to announce several Department Specialties, but as the people have evidently not yet ceased to visit and examine every part of our little Dry Goods World, we defer to other occasions and simply invite the people to visit

An offertory will be made at every Service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the clergy are requested to give notice. The Bishop is always glad to meet the people, the vestry, and the Sunday-school children, as shall be arranged; and while he is in a parish he is quite at the disposal of the parish. He desires that the parish registers may be written up against his coming, and that he may see them.

We wish that some of our Church people, who think that there is very little that is enlivening in the question of Diocesan Missions, could have been present a few nights ago at the quarterly meeting of Missionary Board, and have heard the discussions which went on about applications for help made. The quickening of life all over the Diocese has caused new applications for clergymen and for help in starting promising work. There was evidence that our receipts were going to be larger than last year, but not as much larger as the needs. Some of the letters from missionaries revealed a degree of want and need, that was beyond the Board's ability fully to relieve, such as would have stirred the blood and quicken the liberality of those who could give more and do not. The probable receipts of the treasury were forecasted, and most reluctantly one application, in which help given would have paid well, had to be denied. Cannot some of our more able people give their fifty or hundred dollars, as used to be done by many?

PAROCHIAL TRUST FUND.

This Diocesan incorporated Society, consisting of the Bishop and Standing Committee, having elected Capt. Silas Bent, corner of Fourth and Market streets, St. Louis, Mo., Secretary, is prepared to furnish to any persons who need them for information or action blank forms of deeds for the conveyance of property to this body. There is no compulsion in the matter; but the evident good of having a body which has perpetual succession and will hold the title to the property for the sole use of the congregation, without the danger of lapse in the trusteeship, and with all the possibility removed of the loss of the property by the careless incurring of debts, is so evident that a number of the parishes are already making conveyance.

This will probably be in time the body which will be asked to hold the title to a large portion of our Church property in the Diocese. When this is done, a great incentive to giving will be furnished, as it provides for the inviolability of all trusts, that properties will not be frayed away by little and little by carelessness or penuriousness.

When any such desire to convey property is had, a parish meeting should be called, after notice has been given at least twice of the time and place and purpose of such a meeting, on different occasions of public worship a week apart, which notice should be certified as the one that was read and when it was read; and then at the meeting there should be a resolution introduced in writing authorizing and requesting the present trustees of the property to convey to the Parochial Trust Fund, and record be made of its having passed. Then this should be rehearsed in the deed as authorizing the conveyance of the property. When the deed has been made, acknowledged and recorded, it should be sent to the Secretary, who will probably be ready and glad to answer all inquiries made to him as to the conveyance of property.

CHANCEL ARRANGEMENTS.

In England when the Bishop is called on to consecrate a Church the internal arrangements must be such of course as according to his judgment are conformable to the law. The chancel and all that appertains to divine worship is under the charge of the minister of the parish. When any change is to be made in the ornaments or arrangements of the chancel, this can only be done after a faculty has been issued by the Bishop allowing it. This is for the purpose of guarding against alterations gradually or violently made in accustomed arrangements, and offending against taste, or conveying false doctrine.

Some such law as this will after a time be needed in this country in our churches. A bishop may decline to consecrate a church, by reason of some arrangements which may seem to him to be unallowable or inexpedient. But after this, one thing after another may be changed; the old habits of the congregation be shocked and things done which on many grounds are objectionable. Some in the congregation wonder what the change means, and thinking that they are not experts, conclude that it is a notion, and let it go. Others object at first, but gradually get inured to it, until something else takes place. Others get hot over it and make trouble. Others leave the congregation or the Church in consequence.

The bishop in the meantime, unless the case is an extreme one, or unless the matter is brought formally to his notice, has no recourse. Every one asks, whether the case is one of taste, or of doctrinal symbolism. Why does not the bishop do something? When, even if he deemed action wise, he has, as the case stands, no legal ground for interference. If we had some such provision as that, before any change was made, the approval of the bishop should be first had, benefit would result in many ways. The bishop would only be held responsible for arrangements which he could control. For the clergyman, who desired at all to keep within the Church's lines, many questions about changes, introduced in good faith to relieve forever bareness or poverty, would be more readily settled, if he had the bishop's concurrent voice as to their expediency. For the people there would be the guarantee that old habits will not be broken in upon by mere individual caprice, and that the Church's faith shall not be undermined by little and little encroachments.

Our law-making in this country proceeds as actual needs require; therefore in an older country which has had longer experience, many things are provided against the need for which has hardly occurred to us. But there can be but little doubt that a provision somewhat like the above, which the need has evolved in England, will in time be called for here.

—The Bishop visited St. Paul's, South St. Louis, on Sunday morning, 11th inst., and confirmed 8 persons. The energy of the ladies has provided a handsome carpet for the entire church and the interior has been otherwise very tastefully adorned. At Easter and on this occasion the flowers were arranged with a taste quite characteristic.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—A subscription for $800 has been made for a chapel in Blackburn in Saline county, where for the last winter a Sunday-school has been maintained under the care of Mr. Marshall, a grandson of the Chief Justice; and to which the Rev. Mr. Woodruff has given monthly services on Sunday nights on the days that he is giving service to the Waverly congregation. That parish generally concedes that this is the best place to build their church, on the railway, and have subscribed for it. One hundred dollars of the above was pledged by Mr. Woodruff, and he hopes to receive it from friends in St. Louis and elsewhere.

—The Church Sunday-school Association of St. Louis, besides other good results, has put forth a Sunday-school Class Book, adapted for all the Sundays in the Church year, and ruled with six columns for each Sunday, so as to make a complete register of lesson, conduct, attendance, contribution and library book. This in a stiff cover is sold by S. Paxson & Co., No. 207 North Sixth street, for 15 cents. Teachers should have it.

—The enterprise of the Sheltering Arms, which was revived by the Rev. Mr. Robert, has been suspended. It was not found, we believe, that there was a local demand here for a Creche, for the care of children during the day.

—Dr. Schuyler has bought a large lot in the new Wesleyan Cemetery, about eight miles out on the Olive street-road, for the use of the poor members of his congregation. The lots which had to be bought in Bellefontaine became too costly. This is about half an hour further off.

—Rev. B. F. Matrau has tendered his resignation of the Rectorship of Calvary Church, Louisiana, to take effect July 25th, greatly to the regret of his people. They have besides paying for their lot over $500 on hand, received from envelopes sent out, toward building the parsonage.

—The Rev. Mr. Barr of St. Louis took duty at Grace church, Kansas City, for four Sundays through Lent, after the resignation of Mr. Duncan took effect.

—The Bishop confirmed four persons in St. Charles, although the parish has been for two years without a Rector. It was the fruits of faithful Sunday-school work. The outlay which the parish was at for the foundation, etc., of the large church which was never proceeded with, was $2,400. It then built the brick chapel, which has been within a few months very handsomely ornamented within. The debt on the property is now a little over $500, the interest on which is kept down, and something paid yearly on the principal.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: St. Charles, 4; Mexico, 3; Columbia, 6; Moberly, 1; Christ, St. Louis, 14; Montgomery, 4; Grace, 11; Holy Communion, 14; Louisiana, 4; St. George's, St. Louis, 10; St. John's, 10; Mt. Calvary, 13.

—The Rev. F. W. Henry of Macón has taken charge of Holy Trinity Mission, South St. Joseph, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Runcie. This work is nearly two miles away from the mother church, and has grown to such proportions as passed beyond the Rector's ability to supply service. It is likely to thrive under the personal care of Mr. Henry. It is hoped that a chapel will soon be started. A Lutheran church is now rented for services.

—The Calvary church, Columbia, which was already distinguished for the beauty and completeness of its chancel appointments, had been still further enriched by the gift of a pair of handsome brass candelabras from the last confirmation class, and a beautiful book-stand of fine brass; both of them in fine keeping with the cross and vases already had. On the occasion of the late confirmation, very choice flowers adorned the altar and font. Among those confirmed was Miss Bibb, Professor in the University, and Dean of the Normal Faculty.

—The Bishop hopes to attend the service of the laying of the corner-stone of Bishop Clarkson's cathedral in Omaha on the 25th of next month. Bishop Whipple delivers the address.

—On a recent Sunday the Rector of Christ church in this city had for every Sunday afternoon with one exception for seven weeks been called on to attend a funeral service, and on one Sunday he attended two.

—The confirmations this spring in several of the St. Louis churches have been marked as including an unusual proportion of men, and some of them of persons of marked weight and influence, and of prominence in the community.

—Rev. H. C. Duncan has been transferred to the Diocese of Louisiana, and has been called to the parish in Alexandria. His removal causes a vacancy among the Alternate Deputies to General Convention, and in the position of Dean of the Kansas City Convocation.

—The church of the Holy Communion Ladies Society has sent to the Rev. Mr. Chesnutt a very full and valuable box of clothing, which came very opportunely, and was most thankfully received.

—The remaining lectures in the course on the Jews were delivered in St. George's hall on the Sunday evenings after those in which the others were delivered, by the Rev. Dr. Ingraham on the Reasons why the Jewish Nation was Established; and by the Rev. Dr. Gierlow, on the Scriptural Destiny of the Jews. Both lectures were reported in full in the secular press, and were strong and finished productions. The hall was on no night properly warmed, and the impression of this getting abroad kept a number of persons away. Still, the lectures have aroused interest which is certain to do great good.

—The historical address delivered by the Rev. Mr. Betts on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Trinity church has been put out in neat pamphlet form, and will be read and preserved by those who are interested in the past days of the Diocese.

—The Lenten services were more frequent and more largely attended in St. Louis this year than usual. At Christ church there were lectures on Wednesdays and Fridays; in St. John's, Holy Communion, Trinity and St. George's there were short addresses every day. The Holy Week united services were attended much more largely than ever. On Maunday Thursday night especially, with the Bishop and nine other clergymen in the chancel, the nave of the large church was almost filled with communicants.

—The Easter services at the church of the Holy Communion, St. Louis, were made more interesting by the fact that the Bishop was present and confirmed 14 persons, and that it was expected that there would then be given $8,250 to extinguish half of the debt on the church. The congregation was very large, and when the offerings were counted, it was found that the pledges had before the service reached the sum of $7,803, that the offertory for the debt had amounted that morning to $741.51, making $8,544.51—more than the sum looked for; and further that the estate of Mrs. Henry C. Hart had paid a legacy of $1,000 made by her, and that in this way the debt on the church had been reduced to about $7,000. The Vestry propose themselves to meet the interest on this amount for three years, and hope that then it will be fully paid for. This result was announced and Rector and congregation were very happy.

—At St. Peter's church in this city they are rejoicing in the possession of a new pipe organ, which they were enabled to purchase at a much reduced price for $300. It is placed on the north side of the chancel, and is fully paid for. This result was largely due to the efforts of the Rector's youngest daughter.

—Some miserable thief broke into Christ church on Easter night by the north side window nearest the tower, completely shattering the lower half of the sash and the beautiful glass. Three of the contribution boxes were torn off and burst open, but it is thought that nothing was taken as they had been emptied that day. He then turned the bar and passed out of the front door.

—Christ church, Springfield, sent its Easter morning offering, $22.18, for St. Luke's Hospital. The Senior Warden, Dr. Roberts, was some years since resident physician to St. Luke's, and this may have caused them to recollect it. A letter from them says: "Our Easter services were glorious. You would scarcely recognize our dear little church." Another account says: "Our Easter services were very interesting—Communion at 7, morning service with Communion at 10.30, baptismal service 3 p. m.—nine infants were presented for baptism—and regular evening service at 7.30; large congregations at each service. The church was handsomely trimmed for the occasion, the lettering was particularly fine, the floral offerings not so abundant as usual, music excellent, and all seemed to enjoy the day. The morning offertory was for St. Luke's Hospital and was quite large."

—The Rev. Colley A. Foster, LL. D., one of the oldest Presbyters in the Diocese of Western Michigan, has recently taken up his residence in Sedalia, where he will practice medicine, to which he has given his attention in Michigan.

—The Annual Parish meeting for the election of a Vestry was duly held in St. John's church, Cameron, Mo., on Easter Monday. The following gentlemen were chosen: Warden, B. F. Bassett; treasurer, Thos. E. Turney; secretary, Lewis Lowrey. The very faithful and efficient Rector, Rev. J. H. Waterman, addressed the meeting very earnestly and expressed himself as greatly encouraged at the condition and prospects of the Parish. The Treasurer reported $400 debt on the church, everything else paid up.

—In Grace church, Chillicothe, the Rev. Dr. James took the Rector's place on Easter Day, as he had to be in Cameron. The services all day were crowded. The children's Easter offering here as in Cameron was sent to the Children's Cot at St. Luke's Hospital. The offertory in church was $26 for carpet. The carpet is down and paid for, and also railing around organ chamber. The church looks comfortable and nice. There are funds to meet all demands except the $300 on organ, and this will soon be paid. Good will prevails and a happy spirit.

—In the church of the Advent the number of communicants on Easter Day was the largest in the history of the Mission. The cross-topped belfry of the church was blown down by the storm on Easter Even, and caused considerable loss.

—Col. Frank Schaller, late Professor of Modern Languages in the University of the South, read a most interesting and brilliant essay on Goethe's "Faust" at the Episcopal residence, St. Louis, on the evening of March 9th. The Bishop's parlors were filled with a highly appreciative company, and all felt more than satisfied at the opportunity afforded them of enjoying such a treat.

—The city has condemned ten feet of the ground on which St. Mary's, Kansas City, is built. This will necessitate the contraction of the size of the building to that extent.

—The Church people at Rolla, and there are but few, have been dispossessed of the hall in which they have had their services, and are thinking about putting up a small church if they can.

—We give the notice in another column of the Easter service in Christ church, St. Joseph. The Sunday-school festival at night again was thronged. The carols were sung with spirit, especially one composed for the occasion by Mrs. Runcie, the Rector's wife. The children's offering amounted to about $190. The Mission of the Holy Trinity Sunday-school had a joyous time in the afternoon. Nowhere do we hear such music as here. The building fairly trembles as the songs and carols and canticles are sung by the enthusiastic throng. The school continues to enjoy great prosperity under the vigorous superintendence of Mr. Isaac Wilkins.

—The Sunday-school of Christ church, St. Joseph, has recently at its own expense added two class-rooms, one for a Bible-class, the other for the Infant school. They were very much needed Mr. W. A. Lord is superintendent and Mr. Chas. Holland secretary and treasurer. The condition of the school is more encouraging than it has been for years. The management is now a live and systematic one.

—On Easter afternoon special services were held in the new church erected at his own expense by Mr. Cuddy at St. Paul. The officiating clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Berkley, and a number of others were taken out to St. Paul by Mr. Cuddy in a special train which returned after the service. The church was full and the occasion was one of peculiar interest.

—The entertainment, "Little Red Riding Hood," given a few days ago in aid of Christ church debt, we are glad to hear, will result in adding between two and three hundred dollars to the fund. Miss Newington, who managed the affair almost entirely alone, devoted several weeks to its preparation and exhibited a rare amount of energy and enthusiasm as well as talent and tact. The vestry formally thanked her for her disinterested service.

—Mr. Matrau having declined the call to the Rectorship of St. James Church, South Bend, Indiana, and St. James Church, Lake City, Col., has decided to remain in Louisiana.

—The Bishop has nominated the Rev. P. G. Robert as the Local Secretary of the Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, in place of Gen. J. H. Simpson, who is about to remove from the Diocese.

—The Rev. Dr. Pitkin and the Rev. Prof. Huntington of Trinity College, Hartford, have been in St. Louis recently.

—At St. Peter's church on Easter night the Bishop presented prizes to three children who had made perfect recitations in the Church catechism; one of these children was only six years old, and could only spell words of one syllable.

—The $25,000 of Christ church debt has been fully subscribed and $10,000 paid down has been handed over, reducing the debt by so much, and securing $800 remission on the interest notes of $3,000, which have also to be met. This, with $250 from an entertainment, leaves $2,000 yet to be secured, so as to leave the current receipts all available for current uses. Some persons have not yet been heard from, and the amount will probably all be soon secured.

—The plans for St. Luke's Hospital have been waiting in the hope that more land on Washington avenue could be bought, of which there is now considerable doubt.

—Prof. Proctor has been delivering lectures in Fayette and other places, in which he discovered his disbelief in any personal Creator of the universe. The Rev. Mr. Gay has written a vigorous letter to the local paper controverting his views. Mr. Gay is quite an enthusiast in astronomy.

—The Rev. Mr. Matrau has withdrawn his proposed resignation of his work in Pike county, and will remain in charge of his work. He is very much regarded for his devotion and good sense. The parish at Prairieville has become reduced by deaths and removals, and can not do as much for services as it once could, while Louisiana has grown to greater relative importance. The consequence is, that while we have one clergyman in the county, more time must be given to the latter and less to the former work. The contract for the building of the parsonage has been awarded and the work will be completed without delay.

—In St. Joseph a floating debt which had been troubling the congregation is all paid off; on Easter $1,000 was taken off the funded debt, and it is expected that another $1,000 will soon be removed. With half an effort the vestry could take it off at once, and thus relieve the hard-working, anxious Rector, who well deserves such generous treatment at their hands.

—The Rev. Mr. Holeman has returned from Florida, and is in Kansas City. The building erected by St. Mary's, First Ward, was so much injured by a recent storm that it can not be used. This parish has begun suit against the St. Luke's St. Mary's for possession of the Frost property.

—The matter of the settlement of the debt on St. John's church in this city has been brought to a crisis, and the church is advertised by the Trustee to be sold within a month. The amount of principal and interest now owing is about $19,000. It is hardly thought possible that the congregation can now pay the whole of the debt; but it is understood that four gentlemen of the congregation have pledged themselves to provide for $8,500 if the rest of the congregation will raise $5,000, so as to reduce the debt to $5,000 or $6,000, to a point where it can easily be carried, and be without risk to the church. At the morning service on the Sunday after Easter a statement was made to the congregation by Maj. Pearce, and pledges for about $800 were received. Several persons not heard from are more able than some of those who have pledged so much. Of course, we devoutly hope that the end will be reached, and that the church will not pass out of the hands of the congregation. The vestry is hard at work; but the result will only be accomplished as every one does his or her full duty now. The crisis is a very serious one. In the meantime, the affairs of the parish are in a very prosperous way.

—In Christ church vestry Mr. C. S. Freeborn was appointed Senior Warden and Mr. Newton Crane Junior Warden. The Rector withdrew his proposed resignation, and the Vestry voted a salary of $4,000 a year. The Vestry thought that the notion of those who had worked to extricate the church from debt, with a view to the securing of an assistant, and thus the extension of the work of the parish in the portion of the city surrounding the church, impossible, as the Rector said in his Lenten pastoral, to be done by one so crowded and aged as himself, was not advisable. There is a wide and deep disappointment over this conclusion.

—Carthage, a fine field, is still without a Rector, and very much desires one; Good Shepherd in this city is still vacant, and the clergyman of the precise tone desired has not yet appeared; Kirksville wants a resident minister and has raised $400 on the spot, and reports that board is only $4 a week there. Mexico and Montgomery together want a clergyman, and have pledged between them $675 for salary. De Soto and Crystal City declare that they need a clergyman, and have said vaguely that they would give together $450. Cape Girardeau is vacant, and ought to have a minister at this moment; they cannot, however, do very much in this behalf, and are so isolated that they cannot be joined with any other work. All of these places need devoted young clergymen, and each would at the start need missionary help.

—The Easter Festival at Grace Church was this year of unusual interest. The chancel was literally embosomed with flowers; the music was extraordinarily fine, the church was thronged with worshipers, and the number of communicants unusually large. The Sunday-school Festival in the afternoon witnessed another throng, and the exercises were successfully carried out. But the most unusual feature connected with this Easter, was the presentation to the Rector from his parishioners of a substantial and timely token of their solicitude and love, for which he is truly grateful.

—The Rev. Mr. Batte has ceased his services on Sunday nights at Oak Hill, and the parish will endeavor to secure a resident clergyman. Both here and at Carondelet, the shops being in full operation, the Church work is much more active.

—At the parish meeting in Trinity church, Hannibal, Monday, March 29th, the following were elected vestrymen: G. W. Storrs, J. M. Armstrong, L. P. Munger, W. A. Munger, J. W. Elliott, A. Toll and Dr. W. D. Foster. The following were elected officers in the vestry: Senior Warden, J. M. Armstrong; Junior Warden, G. W. Storrs; Clerk, L. P. Munger; Treasurer, N. L. Kniffin. The Parish Treasurer made an admirable report of the financial condition of the Parish for the past year, and while there appeared a deficit, it was far smaller than has been the case for eight or nine years past. The Wednesday evening sermons during Lent in Trinity church, Hannibal, were delivered by the Bishops of Quincy and Springfield, Ill.; Dean Ritchie of the Cathedral, Quincy; Rev. R. C. McIlwain of Keokuk, Iowa, and Rev. E. Talbot of Macon. On the occasion of Bishop Seymour's visit, he was met by the Rev. Messrs. Ritchie, Scheetz and Talbot, besides the Rector. It was the Bishop's first sermon in Missouri and he was heard with great pleasure and profit by the congregation present. The Easter services in Trinity church, Hannibal, were very interesting. The church was filled morning and evening. The decorations were very tasteful, considering the scarcity of flowers, and the music was excellent. The children's Easter festival was had in the afternoon. Appropriate carols were sung, the Lenten offerings were received, some prizes distributed and an address made by the Rector. The vestry of Trinity church, Hannibal, have adopted the "Envelope System" for the year just begun.

—Recently the congregation at Nevada set a quantity of nice shrubbery, rosebushes, etc., in that part of All Saint's church lot not to be occupied by the rectory, and the Ladies' Aid Society had an interesting meeting in the afternoon. The efficient President, Mrs. Graves, declining to serve again on account of other Church duties, Mrs. A. R. Paterson was chosen; Vice President, Mrs. Dr. Jagenau; Secretary, Mrs. Nat. G. Barter; Treasurer, Mrs. S. S. Bigelow. All the lady members of the church are invited and expected to join the Aid Society. Remember the Enquiry Bible class every Sunday at 2½ o'clock.

RESOLVED, That it be made the duty of the several rectors and missionaries of the Diocese to extend to the utmost of their power the circulation of the Diocesan paper, the CHURCH NEWS.

THE matter sent in this month would almost fill a paper twice as large as THE NEWS. We will insert next month what came in late and will keep. Everything must be brief and to the point. Among other matter, we have been compelled to omit the regular "acknowledgments." They will appear in full next month.

WE omit much else in this number to give space to the Easter notices which have very much more significance than merely an account of music and flowers. In almost all cases this matter received but subordinate attention, and the day marked a solid advance in parochial prosperity and strength.

A CLERGYMAN of this Diocese was recently questioned as to his fairmindedness and liberality in calling his people Churchmen. He replied that he only endeavored to speak English according to its accepted authorities, and that both Webster and Worcester defined the Churchman as Episcopalian. The objector withdrew, having learned something which he had never before thought of.

WE are very glad to announce that with our May number, Mr. J. J. Wilkins, our well known Sunday School worker and Superintendent, will take charge of our Sunday School department, and greatly develop its interest. He will have control of the columns devoted to this, and all matter relating to Sunday Schools should be sent to him, corner of 6th and Locust streets, St. Louis.

WE hardly need to call attention to the interesting list of subscribers to Christ Church debt. There yet remains, we learn, about two thousand dollars to be raised, in order that it should no longer trouble them. There are yet some members of the congregation from whom subscriptions were expected, but who have not yet notified the Vestry of the sums which they intend to give. Some others have intimated their purposes to increase the amount of their subscription, if necessary, in order to complete the work. Will all such persons communicate on the subject, so soon as possible, with Mr. Chas. Parsons, State Savings Association, St. Louis. While the question of an assistant is not, as Mr. Gladstone would say, within the rays of practical politics, the Vestry desires that the entire revenue of the parish shall be available, so that the means for the Rector's salary shall be promptly forthcoming.

ROMISH TOLL GATHERED IN NEW YORK.

A remarkable pamphlet has been published in New York digesting facts from the tax levies of the city, and showing the extent of Romish exactions on the public treasury. It shows that the result of the teaching of their parochial schools is that for a series of years, of those paupers cared for in public institutions, the proportion of Irish Roman Catholics was, in proportion to population, three and a half times greater than for Americans, three times greater than for Germans; that is, they are three and a half times as likely to be come paupers as those who attend the public schools. And so with regard to criminal commitments, a child so trained is three and a quarter times as likely to get into jail as one of another nationality, faith and training.

The training being such that Church has, however, secured from the city by political pressure property as a gift worth $3,500,000, and in the last eleven years has received public money to the extent of over $6,000,000, and is now drawing at the rate of $700,000 for its schools and institutions. An amount of public money equal to two and a half per cent of the entire tax levy, or six per cent of the expenses of the city government is paid annually to that Church. Those belonging to that body in that city pay about one-tenth of the public taxes, while they draw from the public treasury for their institutions nearly ten times as much as those of all the other religious bodies together.

EASTER ELECTIONS.

In St. Louis the Annual Parish Meetings were attended by much larger numbers than usual, and were characterized by greater interest. The financial condition revealed in most cases a very decided gain, and healthful condition.

In Christ church there was a considerable change in the Vestry, there being a wide understanding in advance that perhaps some new elements would better be incorporated. There were 111 votes cast. The following gentlemen were elected: J. R. Shepley, Theodore Forster, J. B. Gazzam, C. S. Freeborn, Newton Crane, S. F. Leavitt, B. E. Walker, M. D. Collier, W. S. Pope, B. W. Lewis, Charles Parsons, Jno. M. Gilkeson and W. Russell Allen. The last are new members. It is a strong vestry. Mr. Walker has since declined and Mr. B. B. Graham has been elected in his place.

In Trinity the attendance was smaller, and the following gentlemen were elected: Messrs. Judson Allen, S. W., Jno. Wickham J. W., D. Robert Barclay, William H. Thomson, J. M. Thompson, Henry Stanley, Treas., W. B. Potter, George W. Riggs, Jr., W. R. Pye, Clerk, Heber Livermore, T. E. White, J. Levering and T. C. Reynolds. W. H. Cheetham, Treas. Cong.

In St. Johns thirty or more persons were present, and the vote was said to have been so close that the ballot had to be taken again. The following gentlemen were elected: Messrs. S. D. Barlow, W. R. Donaldson, George D. Reynolds, Charles Speck, Charles Hofman, C. H. Alexander, Henry Pitcher, C. H. Dolbeer, William F. Ferguson, F. N. Judson, A. R. Donaldson, Charles E. Pearce and S. G. Booker.

In Mt. Calvary church the following gentlemen were elected for the ensuing year: Mr. Lewis Lipman, Senior Warden; Mr. D. H. McAdam, Junior Warden; Mr. R. Perry, Secretary; Mr. Joseph Franklin, Treasurer; Messrs. L. G. Harris, George Minch, George M. Wright, Gilbert C. Elliott and Alex. Cochran. The reports of the parish showed an unusual condition of progress and prosperity. The congregation is always large, and every seat in the church would be taken except that some of the families decline, through interest in the church, to have any particular seat assigned them. Almost every Sunday witnesses new accessions to the church. The Sunday-school numbers 250 children, and the basement is so crowded that new arrangements will be almost immediately made to meet the growing necessities of the school, and in a few months a church building must be erected to accommodate the parish congregation. The Treasurer's report showed the expenses of the parish had been met in the past year, and that there is every cause for congratulation in reference to the finances of the church.

At the church of the Holy Communion the balloting was long and arduous, and a number of tie votes the result. The gentlemen elected are—Messrs. R. M. Wilson, John H. Tennent, Dr. C. E. Briggs, Paul Harvey, E. C. Simmons, J. T. Utterback, D. P. Dyer, J. J. Wilkins, Gains Paddock, Gen. Simpson, W. C. Day and F. Carter. R. M. Wilson was chosen Senior Warden; J. H. Tennent, Junior Warden; Dr. C. E. Briggs, Secretary, and F. W. Risque, Treasurer.

At St. George's church the election passed off very quietly, there being but few in attendance. The Vestry chosen for the ensuing year comprises: Messrs. J. W. Luke, Jos. W. Branch, Edward Harrison, D. E. Garrison, M. W. Alexander, J. W. Wells, Isaac M. Mason, W. L. Black, H. H. Curtis, O. E. Owen, Hugh Rodgers, H. T. Simon and G. W. Mence.

At St. Peter's church Messrs. E. H. Linley, Charles Thaw, J. L. Benson, R. T. Cogle, C. R. Blake, T. McLean and Martin Collins were the seven vestrymen selected.

At Grace church the following named gentlemen were elected as a vestry for the ensuing year: Drs. Case and Bauer, Messrs. Kempland, Woodward, Moulton, Walter, La Beaume, Wilson, Wolkewitz, Jacobs, Branch, Adair, Walker.

St. Mary's, Fayette—Thos. Ward, Senior Warden; Isaac H. Pearson, Junior Warden and Treasurer; Geo. H. Wallace, Secretary; Wm. Talbot, John Talbot, John D. Leland, W. F. Mitchell, Jno. L. Hughes, Harry McCullough, Grace church, Chillicothe—Dr. Reuben Barney, Senior Warden; Dr. Byron Stephens, Junior Warden; Wm. Stephens, Secretary; Horace Button, Treasurer; Mr. Henry Hatch, Mr. McVey, Wm. Leach, Geo. Ray, Jr., Glenn Drake.

At the Parish Meeting of St. Paul's church, South St. Louis, held on Monday evening, March 29th, the following gentlemen were elected to serve as Wardens and Vestry men for the ensuing year: Messrs. Morgan, Timberlake, Allen, Whitehead, Draper, Hazard and Simmonds. The Treasurer's report was read, showing the parish free from all indebtedness and with a small balance remaining in the hands of the Treasurer.

BOOK NOTICES.

STANDARD SERIES.—Certainly this is a most remarkable enterprise; that books like Thomas A. Kempis Imitation of Christ, which usually sells for $1 should be supplied on fine paper, clear new type, large pages and margins for 15 cts., and that Farrar's Life of Christ should be issued in full in the same style in two parts for 25 cts. each, is astonishing. Farrar's St. Paul is out in two parts complete at 25 cts. each and Carlyle's Essays 20 cts. The books are of the best, and the plan can only work as all who desire to encourage the reading of good books purchase and make the plan known. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

HUMBOLDT LIBRARY OF POPULAR SCIENCE LITERATURE.—The fourth number of this series is Mr. Huxley's remarkable work, Evidence as to Man's Place in Nature. This is given complete, and with illustrations, and for 15 cts. It is a great boon to place such books within the reach of all. This and other books of the series may be had from booksellers. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 249 Broadway, New York. Subscriptions are received for the semi-monthly parts at $3 a year.

"THE LITERARY SUCCESS OF THE CENTURY."—An eminent English authority recently pronounced Scribner's Monthly "The greatest literary success of the century." The London Illustrated (Penny) Paper say: "With its inimitably finished gems of drawing and engraving, it is the wonder and admiration of the art-world."

The April number just issued ends the XIXth volume, which is exceptionally brilliant. The New York Evening Post, Hartford Courant, and other papers, speak of the series by Eugene Schuyler on "Peter the Great," as "the most notable event in modern magazine literature." The style is so simple and yet so graphic that it interests not only men of letters but the young, and is read as a text-book in the schools. It is understood that the causes and beginnings of Nihilism in Russia will be traced by Mr. Schuyler in the course of his narrative.

Rev. Dr. Eggleston writes of Mr. George W. Cable and his story, "The Grandissimes," in Scribner: "If Cable can hold that gait, the rest of us who write American stories must surrender to him. What a superb piece of work it is!"

Scribner's is the only American periodical that has as yet established a large circulation abroad; the edition in England being 10,500. It now enters upon its second decade, and the work of winning a second hundred thousand at home. Its readers to-day are estimated at more than half a million.

The publishers of Scribner announce that all new subscribers after this date who take the back numbers, beginning November last, will receive instead of the six unbound numbers the bound volume, November, '79, to April, '80, (containing all of "Success with Small Fruits," and the opening chapters of "Peter the Great," "The Grandissimes," and "Louisiana"), without extra charge. The subscription price is $4.00 a year.

WIDE AWAKE—April, is almost an Easter number. It has a fine frontispiece "On Easter Morning." The Young Homesteader keep up its interest, and so does the "Five Little Peppers." The illustrations are delicious, and there is enjoyment and instruction mingled. Only $2 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

St. NICHOLAS for April opens with an illustrated account of a boy's "Adventures on an Egg-Var," in rescuing his baby sister from an eagle. There are five other complete short stories, all illustrated, telling of the brave act of a little girls; sheep lost and found in New England snows; a poor child's short experience of high life; a curious episode in the life of the first Bonaparte; and the sad fate of a "Vacillating Bear." There is, also, an illustrated account of how they used to celebrate "Easter in Rome."

The frontispiece, "A Burial at Sea," is an engraving on wood, after the picture by Henry Bacon,—the painting which attracted attention in last year's Paris Salon, on account of its artistic qualities, and because its chief figures known to be portraits of young American artists and writers.

Miss Alcott's serial, "Jack and Jill," takes its boys through an exciting debate, and its girls into a grand tableau. There are besides other poems.

THE CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE.—April. This family magazine grows in interest and value. $2. a year. 20 Vesey street, New York.

CATECHISM ON CONFIRMATION.—By Rev. M. F. Sadler, author of Church Doctrine, Bible Truth. Concise and good as a basis for instruction. Pott, Young & Co., New York.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The number of communicants in Maine has fallen off during the last year, and has gained less than 100 since 1875; and yet the Domestic Missionary expenditures in Maine last year were more than twice those for Missouri.

—It has been calculated that the presidential election of 1876 cost down to the day of voting on an average $100,000 in each State, or $4,000,000 in all. This includes both parties. It has been estimated that approaching general parliamentary election in Great Britain will cost $10,000,000.

—The Bishop of Rochester, England, held a confirmation service recently at what was said to be a very unusual hour, namely in the evening, in order to accommodate the congregation, made up largely of working people, in East London.

—The amount of actual cash donation to Washington University in this city is in excess of $1,200,000 during the twenty-five years of its age.

—On Good Friday this year the Merchant's Exchange and Stock Board in London, Liverpool and New York were as usual closed; and so also this year in Chicago; but the effort to have the same course followed in this city, although largely petitioned for, did not succeed. Our Boards will probably learn when it is Good Friday in a few years. Washington University was closed for the day. On 'Change they could not adjourn, and yet in the absence of advices, because of the closing of other markets, the merchants engaged in sports of very questionable taste. Better have adjourned and gone to Church.

—Nashotah has this year received $2,000 more for its needs than last year in this time; and yet it is heavily burdened with a debt of $65,000, the deficiencies accruing for a number of years, and which it would like and have the ability to pay. Faribault fares better than Nashotah, because it has a Bishop to represent it and write it up in the East.

—The Evangelical Alliance of St. Louis, comprising many ministers, in view of the expensiveness of funeral, passed the following very sensible resolutions. The matter has been up before our Chapter. It is a severe draft on clergymen's time to attend to those who never make themselves known except to secure laborious offices from hard worked men—

"That we advise that the religious services be held at some convenient time and place, and the interment take place at such subsequent time as may best suit the convenience of the family, and that only members of the family and specially invited friends be expected to be present at the latter, and that officiating minister be not expected to attend the interment unless in peculiar cases making it obligatory, or when it is perfectly consistent with his other pastoral duties.

"That we advise the bereaved to take their final leave of the remains of their deceased friends privately.

"That we discourage Sunday funerals save, of course, under circumstances making them unavoidable."

—In St. Peter's Church, Philadelphia, the Easter offertory was for the permanent fund for the support of the parish, and $18,000 was received, one person giving $10,000. This is a down town parish.

—The general elections in England have produced a political revolution, throwing out the Conservatives with Lord Beaconsfield, and bringing in the Liberals with probably Gladstone at the head. The majority will however be hampered by the number of Home Rulers in Parliament who hold the balance of power.

—As one of the results of Mr. Moody's visit to the city, which has just closed, public subscriptions to the amount of $37,000 has enabled the Young Men's Christian Association to buy the Union Methodist church, corner of 11th and Locust streets for their purposes. It will be made over. Probably the Methodists will remove west.

—At a recent ordination in Indiana the Bishop, the presenting Presbyter and the Candidate had all been members of the Society of Friends, and has all come into the Church in mature years.

—Easter was made the occasion for many large gifts in a number of the Churches. Some are mentioned in other columns; here are some more—Grace, Baltimore, $6,000; St. James, Philadelphia, $37,500; Ascension, New York, $35,000; St. Mary's, Brooklyn, (one person) $10,000; St. Mark's, Farritown, N. Y. (one person) $8,000; Hyde Park, Ill., $10,000; Christ, New York, $12,000.

—At the confirmation service in the German Church in Cleveland, the Rector at one point catechized the Bishop, asking him fifteen questions in respect of the relations of the people and vestry of the Church to their pastor, and the special duties of communicant and vestrymen. The Bishop's answers were very instructive, and were translated by the rector. The Bishop pronounced the Sentence of Confirmation and the Benediction in the German language.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The regular monthly meeting of the Church Sunday-school Association was held in Grace church on the 18th March. This being the first meeting after the election of officers, the president, Mr. Leslie, gave the following address published below on Sunday-school instruction. There was quite a large attendance of superintendents and teachers. The Rev. J. Gierlow offered the opening prayers. The committee on Normal Class reported that they had secured the services of Rev. Mr. Wright of St. John's, who would instruct the teachers in the Leaflet every Thursday evening in St. George's chapel until further notice.

MR. LESLIE'S ADDRESS.

Having in my own brief experience as teacher in our Church Sunday-schools felt some of the difficulties which beset the teacher who seeks to do thorough work, I hope I shall not be considered presumptuous in presenting some of the results of that experience. The difficulty in teaching is double: first, in ourselves, and, next, in our pupils. There is always a certain inertia in ourselves to overcome; and then an obduracy on the part of the pupil to receive the impressions we try to make. Of course, these difficulties are not universal. Some teachers seem to be able almost at sight to win the heart of the child and secure the requisite attention; and then we find children likewise gifted with a faculty for readily receiving the instruction we seek to impart. Such happy people need no assistance from us, and of course the remarks here made in no way apply to them, but are directed toward those who only accomplish results with effort.

As commonly expressed, the difficulty the teacher experiences is in "making the lesson interesting." To overcome this, the teacher must have an interest, first, in the pupil, and then in the lesson. I mention interest in the child first, because it naturally and properly comes first, and the teacher ought carefully to keep that fact in mind. The end in all cases is the welfare of the child. We must adapt ourselves and the lesson to the child, and not try, as some do, the reverse process of adapting the child to ourselves and the lesson. The first we can do if we make proper effort, but the second we never can, and efforts in that direction end only in failure and disappointment. Remembering then our difficulty, and the end toward which our efforts are to be directed, the solution turns principally on the matter of the peculiarities of children. I have usually found that they take a lively interest in facts of any kind, and in formal doctrines and dogmas in proportion as they are shown to have a bearing upon practical life, and involve in some way our interest or our duties. They take an especial interest in the facts of nature or science; but above all in the great facts of human nature, such as they can verify out of their own experience, so that when therefore, we come to explain to them the meaning of our collects, or make clear and practical the instruction of the catechism, or show to them the bearing of the Bible lesson on our daily life, we must necessary make use of those facts which most immediately interest and concern them.

In teaching I first ascertain by proper questions how much the children might know of the subject before us. It is a process which they usually like—especially if they can answer the questions, and I put questions which they can answer along with those which they cannot, as it encourages them, and secures a more fixed attention; and also makes what they already know a more permanent possession. To illustrate, taking the instance of the collect for the fifth Sunday in Lent: I endeavor to bring before their minds that it is a prayer to God for protection for his people in everything that concerns their body and soul. I then ask whether there is anyone we can depend on for such protection besides God, and whether we are taught that He will really provide for us in body as well as soul, and who taught us so. Also drawing their attention to the fact that the collect asks that we may be governed as well as preserved, I ask them whether God has laid down any plain and written laws, and whether they can repeat any of them. With such questions the meaning of the collect may be drawn out clearly before their minds, closing with the question as to who God's people are for whom the prayer is offered, the questions and teaching being so directed as to impress upon their minds that only they are God's people truly who strive faithfully to obey His holy will; and in order that they may have the whole truth, we must remind them that through Christ alone can we learn what His will and purpose is; that is, Christ's will is God's will, Christ's laws God's laws, and at least where the children are approaching years sufficient for confirmation, we ought to impress upon them that confession of faith in His name is one of His requirements. Without this our teaching is empty or barren of fruits. If we leave this out, we are like an army which sets out to take a city, and which, when it is all but captured, marches away and lets all the labor go for naught.

With the catechism the methods are essentially the same as with the collects.

As to the Bible lesson, I think most teachers will agree with me that many have come to feel about the Bible in such a way that most of its characters hardly seem to be real; that the characters dwell on such unattainable heights of excellence that their experience hardly has any practical application to our own daily lives. This is a misfortune, because the Bible was intended for practical uses; pre-eminently for application to daily life. Its biographies especially were intended for our instruction, warning and reproof. In like manner, as we must work out our salvation with fear and trembling, with sweat of heart and brain, so they had the same bitter cross to undergo; but, as we now know, they endured victoriously unto the end, and we have the record of their lives as a constant encouragement to us. We have the promise that a like faith with theirs will reap a like reward.

It is in the Bible lesson that the extraneous facts before referred to, historical and others, are most serviceable. I have found it of great assistance in teaching the Bible to know as much as possible about such matters for instance as the religion, the politics, the geography, the botany, the zoology, and the climate of the country in which the scene of the lesson was laid. It brought the matter nearer home to the pupils and gave it a less mythical and more homelike and appreciable appearance. By carefully studying these points an account from Genesis would sometimes seem almost like an occurrence of our own times. I think also that it is proper to draw inferences, if fair, and can serve a useful purpose, where a full account of an occurrence is not given; but we ought to be careful to state that they are only inferences and conjectures, and not present them as ascertained facts.

Let us put it as tenderly as we may, it is still sad and bitter, and we can not disguise it even from children. We must teach them that the Christian Life is a battle in which we stand girded with armor. Mild pity and sneers from the children of this world greet us as we enter upon it, and accompany us all the way through. We have to contend with the world, the flesh, and the devil. The teaching of the catechism which so often becomes a mere sound of words stands for a fact. But there is another lesson and sweeter to be drawn from this story. Abraham went forth to be the father of multitudes of men, while we in entering upon the New Life become the children of God, and we can teach that it is greater and more precious to be the humble member of Christ and child of God even than to fill so high a place as Abraham as father of hosts.

It may be objected that the plan here sketched is hard to carry out. Perhaps it is too hard for any one to undertake to do fully, and besides there may not be time enough in the half hour usually allotted to the Sunday-school lesson to include so much as is here suggested, but I have purposely sketched a larger plan than is possible for any one person to fully execute under the circumstances, in the hope that, suggesting different lines of thought, each one might choose to apply his or her energies in the direction for which they feel themselves best adapted. As to the work being hard, the only apology I have to offer is, that I do not know of anything that is worth having that is not hard to get. I do not know that it is our duty to undertake more than we can do, but it is certainly our duty to endeavor to do all that is possible. Are we, as teachers and superintendents, as faithful in our duties, are we as serious in our purposes as we ought to be? When I look back upon the past and think of the "noble army of martyrs" who have endured bitter pain and humiliation, and laid down their lives joyfully that we might inherit our faith undimmed, I ask with no little solicitude whether we are as faithful as we can be to those who are growing up around us? Do we think of our Sunday-schools as pleasant places for social gossip or as places for serious work? Do we go there to be amused and entertained or to teach faith and religion?

I would not put religion before children in a hard, bare way. Indeed, in our Church, which is The Church, such a thing is about impossible. We have the whole truth, and nothing is so lovely and beautiful as the truth. Nothing so winning and persuasive. Our Holy Mother, grand and tender, strong and yet gentle, yearns to gather the whole world into Her bosom to teach it Her love. Weak and pitiful we may be, but we can not wholly conceal Her and Her purposes. She abides the same majestic Presence forever. Having then such a faith and being the children of such a Parent, does it not behoove us, however it has been in the past, to be more loving and diligent in His service in the future?

SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Church Sunday School Association will be held at the Episcopal Residence, No. 2727 Chestnut street, on Monday evening next, April 19th, at eight o'clock. Subject for discussion. OBJECT AND AIMS OF THE ASSOCIATION. The clergy, superintendents, teachers, and all others interested in Sunday School work are earnestly invited to be present.

ROGER HAYNE, Secretary.

ANDREW LESLIE, President.

ST. GEORGE'S, ST. LOUIS.

In our last number we stated that the Rev. Dr. Fulton of St. Paul's, Milwaukee, has been called to the Rectorship of St. George's Church. He reserved his answer until his visit to St. Louis on the Sunday after Easter. The day was fine and the congregations were large, quite filling the church. In the morning the Bishop was present, and confirmed ten young persons presented by the Rev. S. W. Young, who has for several months past most acceptably maintained the services. Dr. Fulton preached both morning and night, expressing his views freely and strongly on the relation of the ministerial office to the parish and to the Church at large.

The result was a stronger desire that he should accept the parish. He was entertained by Mr. D. E. Garison, and formed the acquaintance of many members of the congregation, and was driven about to see the city. Greatly therefore to the dismay of the vestry a note was received from him on Monday declining the call. It seems that on that day he inquired what the relative cost of living here and in Milwaukee was, and found that it was much in excess here. As the salary offered here was the same that he was already receiving there, he thought he had no alternative but to recede.

The vestry however that night raised the amount of salary offered from $5,000 to $6,000, and added another $1,000 to cover the expenses of removal and becoming settled here. As this took out of the way the only impediment which Dr.

Fulton had found in the way of taking what he saw as a larger and more important duty, in a climate less trying and milder, he in two days sent his acceptance. He will take charge of St. George's on the first Sunday in May, and the Bishop will institute him into the Rectorship on Whitsunday, May 16th. The Parish, in its position, with no debt, and with such a leader, has a strong future before it.

LOUISIANA.

At a Parish meeting of Calvary Church on Easter Monday, the following Vestrymen were elected, viz: Col. N. P. Minor, Senior Warden; Geo. Hind, Junior Warden and Treasurer; D. A. Stewart, Clerk; Frank Meriwether, John Chappell, R. Frank Miller, Jas. H. Barre, Wm. F. Suda and J. F. Downey.

It was resolved to proceed at once with the building of a Rectory on the lot adjoining the church. The lot is paid for ($250 cash) and the church has on hand and in sight nearly $1,000 in cash to put up their Rectory. The money was mostly sent them by friends in the East. Gen. A. C. Stewart, Stephen Hornberger and George Hind were constituted a building committee. Church work is very active in this Parish, and the people are not going to allow Rev. Mr. Matrau to go away if they can help it.

The childrens' Easter celebration was held in the afternoon, and the church edifice was crowded with an attentive and seemingly appreciative congregation. Suitable prizes of Easter cards were awarded to the deserving scholars, and a beautifully colored egg given to every member of the Sunday School. The carols were finely sung by the children. Mr. David Stewart, superintendent of the Sunday-school read a report of the work during the past year. There are 100 scholars enrolled. The average attendance was 62. At night the Easter service took place, the Rev. B. F. Matrau having officiated at Prairieville in the morning and Clarksville in the afternoon. The church was most tastefully decorated by the ladies of the parish, aided by many kind friends, who contributed their floral treasures to beautify the altar and chancel. The offertory was devoted to the Rectory Fund. The flowers remained as they were arranged for the Easter celebration, until after Thursday night, when the Bishop administered confirmation.

COLUMBIA.

The Rev. J. R. Gray, S. T. B., Rector of Calvary church, made the following report last Sunday, before the sermon: Since I entered upon my work in the Diocese of Missouri, one year ago yesterday, I have conducted or taken part in 298 public services, at Columbia and elsewhere (190 in Calvary Church, Columbia.) I have celebrated the Holy Communion 46 times (30 times in Columbia.) 27 persons have been baptized into the Church of Christ (13 in Columbia.) 25 have received the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation (18 in Columbia.) There have been 2 marriages and 2 burials. A colored man, the Rev. Chas. E. Cummings, has been prepared and ordained Deacon, and is now in active service in the Diocese of North Carolina. I have delivered more than 120 sermons, addresses or lectures, on different occasions. During the past year we have enjoyed three Episcopal Visitations, and one meeting of Convocation. The church property has been improved and a number of gifts has been received, completing the furniture of the church. Offerings have been generous—among others that for yellow fever sufferers, which I am assured was judiciously applied by the Bishop of Tennessee to the relief of a mother and children deprived by yellow fever of husband and father. I think I may report larger congregations, heartier responses and greater interest. And I assure you of my thankfulness to God that the lines are fallen to me in pleasant places. Let me urge upon you the necessity of renewed, zealous, active, individual effort toward the advancement of God's glory, and the good of His church. And let us pray that during the ensuing year it may please Him to give more abundant increase—that He may direct our efforts, and succeed them.—[Columbia Herald.]

EASTER IN ST. JOSEPH.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, a large cross composed of lilies and other choice flowers being especially attractive. The congregation filled all the seats, and chairs were brought in to accommodate the throng. Prof. Behr presided at the organ, and the choir, composed of eight persons, sang with spirit and effect the choice music that had been selected for the occasion.

The service was read by Mr. Henry, who is now assisting Dr. Runcie. Mr. Henry is a son of Judge Henry, of the Supreme Court, and is now completing his theological studies. We doubt whether there is a clergyman in the State who is as constantly and profitably employed as Dr. Runcie, his labors among the sick of all classes and churches being well known to all of our citizens, and his congregation have given a cordial welcome to the young gentleman who has come to his assistance and who seems to have the qualities of mind and heart required in the sacred calling which he has chosen.

Dr. Runcie's Easter sermon seemed to us to be the best of his many fervent discourses. He is always earnest, sincere and Christian spirited. He does not set himself above other men, but stands on the platform of humanity, making an appeal which we need to hear and obey and which he also is in equal need of. That is his Christian and democratic spirit. There is never a sense of superiority in his sermons; of a sinless man talking to sinners; but we are all together and all needing to be lifted higher.

The evening was very happily used by the children. Several Easter Carols were sung, and offerings in flowers and money presented. Addresses were made by Dr. Runcie and William A. Lord, the Superintendent of the Sunday School. It appeared from Mr. Lord's address that the school now numbers 226 scholars; that they take great interest and pride in the school, and that it is in a very flourishing condition. The appeal for more teachers is sure to be heeded. We observed that Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Saeger each had a class, that Dr., Mrs. and Miss Runcie each had a class, that Mrs. and Miss Donovan each had a class, and that Mrs. Lord had a class. Perhaps these four families are doing more than their share of the good work.

Two of the pleasantest features of the evening were the exhibition of the class of little girls taught by Mrs. Garlichs, and the arranging of the bouquet anchor.

The collection in the morning, we believe, amounted to about $1,000, and from the children, in the evening, to about $169.

The ladies of the church are now getting ready for an Art Loan. There will be no cessation of effort until the church debt is paid and the church consecrated.

INDEPENDENCE.

On Easter, this high Festival was celebrated for the first time at Independence. The church was tastefully decorated. The Lenten services, and particularly the impressive services of Holy Week, seemed to awaken deep sympathies and fill the hearts of the faithful with fresh hopes and higher aspirations. Not alone the members of the church, but many others crowded to participate in the glad Festival.

The impression, no doubt, was made that the grand, yet simple services, of our Holy Mother are well calculated to exalt the mind and lead the soul to Him who was dead and is alive forevermore.

PERSONAL.

—Bishop White had a great admiration for woman's character; and replied to a grandson, who said that the Bible called them the weaker vessel,

"Yes, as Sevres is weaker than common crockery."

—Joseph Cook goes abroad very soon by invitation to lecture, and will be absent for more than a year.

—The Rev. Dr. Dix of Trinity Church, New York was for several months the object of malice from some unknown enemy and has been most seriously annoyed. His private residence was besieged day after day by female pawnbrokers, calling "to see Mrs. Dix's cast-off clothing, about which they had been written." Clergymen called who had been invited to meet at the Doctor's residence, at dinner, the Bishops of York and Exeter. Manufacturers, tradesmen and publishers received postal cards, purporting to come from the Rector of Trinity, inquiring for full particulars of their wares, as he, having heard favorably of them, intended to recommend them. The result was, hundreds of letters came pouring in to Dr. Dix from all parts of the Union—from makers of threshing machines, locks, safes, reapers, mowers, and binders, shoemakers and every other trade, boarding schools and seminaries. The offender turns out to be Mr. Fairfax Williamson, quite well known in Christ Church and in society in this city seven years ago. He says he has a mania for this business.

—The late Mr. Thomlinson, of Batavia, in the Diocese of Western New York, often went to the South for certain winter months; his rector said to Bishop Coxe: "He never did so, without leaving his contribution for all the collections to be made during his absence."

—Lord Derby to the workmen: "We have heard a great deal recently about the peasantry becoming owners of land and having gardens, fields and farms of their own. Now, an acre of good agricultural land is worth, on an average about £60, or as nearly as possible 3d. for every square yard. I wonder how many workmen consider that when they order threepennyworth of beer or spirits they are swallowing down a square yard of good agricultural land."

—A gentleman saw recently a copy of Voltaire lying on the centre-table in Mr. Robert C. Ingersoll's parlor in Washington. "How much did this book cost you?" inquired the gentleman. "The Governorship of Illinois," was Ingersoll's laconic reply.

—Bishop Doane of Albany visited a parish, when having no official duty to perform, he officiated in the parish surplice, and was afterwards told that it "did not seem like a Visitation at all!" It was "Hamlet with the principal part omitted!"

—A number of English artists having been invited to paint each a head typifying their ideal of womanly loveliness, Mr. Alma Tadema sent a portrait of his wife.

—The following Churchmen have been chosen on the list of seventeen on the Boston Monday Lecture Course next winter in Joseph Cook's absence: Bishops Clark and Huntington, and Drs. Cotton Smith and Washburn.

—We are sorry to learn that the wife of the Bishop of Kansas has suffered a relapse and is now totally blind.

—Bishop Seymour recently confirmed in Danville, Ill., sitting in his chair at the chancel gate, the candidates being presented individually to him.

—It is said that the Bishop of Iowa has traveled a thousand miles to confirm.

—Ole Bull, the distinguished violinist, refused an offer of $500 to appear at the Globe Theatre, Boston, at a Sunday evening concert, to which he conscientiously opposed.

—Bishop Bedell is of opinion that if ministers would only speak the truth in funeral sermons the demand for such discourses would be rapidly diminished.

—At St. Andrew's Church, Mt. Holly, N. J., for the sixtieth consecutive time, the Hon. George Heywood was elected a member of the Vestry. Is there another parish that can match this?

Stock Immense!
Store and Basement Full.

Crowded in the Front, Crowded in the Rear, Crowded in the Middle, Crowded on the Sides, It is, Indeed, the Banner Stock.

We feel perfectly justified in speaking pretty strongly of our work in the East this season. It was our purpose to bring the best stock of Clothing to St. Louis that St. Louis ever had, and we feel, we know, we have accomplished it. A gentleman said in our Store the other day, "As a usual thing I put little confidence in what advertisers say, but I must confess that your store, your stock and your prices warrant all that you have said or can possibly say in any advertisement."

We shall continue to do as we have done since opening in this City, namely: REPRESENT TRUTHFULLY ALL GOODS SOLD BY US, MAKE BUT ONE PRICE, MARK ALL GOODS IN PLAIN FIGURES, AND MAKE IT ALTOGETHER TO YOUR INTEREST TO TRADE AT OUR MAMMOTH ESTABLISHMENT.

We are showing this week a large assortment of Boys' Confirmation Suits.

An offertory will be made at every Service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the clergy are requested to give notice. The Bishop is always glad to meet the people, the vestry, and the Sunday-school children, as shall be arranged; and while he is in a parish he is quite at the disposal of the parish. He desires that the parish registers may be written up against his coming, and that he may see them.

HELP AND OVER-HELP.

In the northern part of this Diocese in adjacent counties are three, Presbyterian, we believe, though that makes no difference, churches, in which for a long time there have been no services, and for them no minister, not even a traveling missionary. All of them are closed and vacant; and one is used for storing grain. Two of them were almost wholly built of money contributed by an Eastern Church Building Society, and the other was bought by money wholly given by this Society. Little or nothing had been given on the spot. It so happened that in each case our people made overtures for the purchase of these buildings, so evidently not needed by themselves. Apparently there was a local willingness to sell, the greater perhaps as so little had been done in the places for the erection of the church; but in each case it appeared that the lien had on the property for the amount contributed induced the eastern society to refuse consent to any sale. As the loan represented an amount much greater than the present value of the property, after its years of use and disuse, and the society wanted back all that it had advanced, and knew nothing about any depreciation in value, the business went no further.

Here is an illustration of the unwisdom of over-help. Every one knows how long a paralysis of local enterprise and liberality will continue to rest upon a congregation which has had too much done for it—either in the way of building its church or continuing to it for too long missionary help. We can recall the names of parishes which never seem to be able to outlive the harm thus unintentionally done to them. Two or three of our Dioceses are well known also to have been helped so long from abroad that, even though they know that the habit is injurious of all independence and real enjoyment, they seem still to keep on asking because the power of local self-help has been lost.

Whatever our dangers might have been from this cause in this Diocese in respect of large help from without, this has been prevented by the circumstance of our having the large city, St. Louis, as the centre. It has always been felt that this city should be the place to which especially the Diocese should appeal in its need. If ever then help is asked in this city, it is because it stands in the way and prevents help from coming to us from any other direction. The fourth city on the continent should not let its brethren pass beyond its doors to ask for aid abroad.

And, as operating against excessive help to any point within the Diocese, the very great extent of the jurisdiction, and its wide distribution of life and activity have contributed. St. Louis has always been less able and disposed to help than might have naturally been expected for Diocesan objects, seeing that its size shuts off all appeals beyond, because of the chronic condition of parochial indebtedness widely existing, and almost from the beginning of our history. St. Louis has thought it had had enough to do to take care of itself. In this way, in missionary work, for building churches, and in our educational enterprises, the Diocese has had to go on more slowly than their neighbors, because, it was replied, we had the great city, St. Louis, to help us; but then St. Louis churches were in debt, and not much could be expected from them.

And yet this is the largest Diocese in extent, with more people in it, than any other in this country. All those which were larger have been divided, and some also that are smaller. And the hugeness of its geographical extent and the greatness of its population only fairly represent the capacity for present, rapid and continuous Church growth. Everywhere there waits upon the kindly, wise and comprehensive presentation of the Gospel as held by the Church a large, candid and receptive hearing and responses. No frontier missionary jurisdiction has a soil more virgin, more ready to respond according to effort put out on it.

Much compensation is had in the fact that there has been this absence of danger from over-help recently, and that what any place has secured it has had to labor for and pay for almost wholly within itself. There is greater enjoyment of what is thus gotten; it is prized more highly; a better type of Christian character results from it, more liberal, and less given to the wrangling often shown by a surfeited child.

But if over-help is odious, some help is necessary in any such struggling life as ours in the Diocese, while the two extremes of need and ability are so sharply contrasted as with us. What is needed as a steady nourishment of our missionary work has been often urged here. The disposition to this should be so urgent, and the apprehension of instant action so clear that, even if parochial agencies lag, each one who at all can should make his help felt, and send direct his contribution, large or small.

Beyond this constantly now there are enterprises starting up all over the State, strugglings to secure services, efforts to build a church, now and then a desire to make use of a desirable opportunity to secure a parsonage. A little help from without at such a time is decisive; it puts heart into the measure; it secures the adhesion of the wavering; it assures five times its own amount, otherwise likely to be lost. The Bishop is written to, and asked the vague question what the Diocese can do in the matter. Experience has not inclined him to advise the clergyman to come to St. Louis to tramp the streets, and endeavor to secure the amount. It takes time, involves expense and mortification, with little net result.

A few weeks ago the Bishop was, in a moment of unusual candor, telling an interested layman, a warden of a large city parish, of the pressure of this kind of anxiety; of the critical importance just at that time of his having the ability to give to five or six enterprises of interest, say, fifty dollars each; of his actual inability; of the precarious way in which for years his trust fund had been mainly supplied by the generosity of one man, of the good it had nevertheless done; of its being all the while overdrawn. He then confided the fact that he had had for a month in his portfolio a draft of a private note which he had drawn up, and had been intending to have printed, and sent to a few of the more intelligent and liberal laymen of the city, stating in a few words the situation, and asking whether they had any wish to help, and offering to tell them just to what point precisely any money which they confided to him in this way should go. He confessed, however, that he had not yet had the courage to send it out. The gentleman looked astonished at the idea that so little help could control such large result, and thought that with a little concert of action an amount could be had which was quite beyond the Bishop's modest hopes. The circular has not been sent, and its writer has taken a larger public into his confidence, and wonders whether any result will follow.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Macon 4, Monroe 1, Shelby 4, Hannibal 4, Monticello 1, Canton 3, Glenwood 3, Kirksville 5, Brookfield 11, Chillicothe 8, Cameron 5, St. Joseph 20, Amazonia 2.

—At Macon the lots north of the Academy have been bought, so that the Church now owns the whole of the front of the block on the Main street, with a view to the extension of the school building, so soon as the means can be had. This would be a worthy object of giving on the part of any one, to furnish this institution its proper equipment. The town has this year given $2,600 to secure the property, and will give $600 more. The parsonage will be all paid for this year.

—In the death of Dr. Knight, Senior Warden of St. James church, Macon, the parish lost its oldest member and its long-trying, faithful and liberal friend. He was one of the oldest lay readers in the Diocese, and no service for the parish was too simple or humble for him to do, so that he could serve its interests.

—There passed away two months ago one whose memory should not hastily be forgotten, and whose name should be gratefully mentioned in our Diocesan chronicle. Mrs. Femister was associated with the household of Bishop Hawks, in the care of his orphaned daughter and the oversight of his home for years. Since then she has been forward in all Church work in this city. Latterly she has been steadily at work wherever she has been for the building fund of St. Luke's Hospital. Her hands were never idle, and she had accumulated over $500 for the purpose. She died suddenly at Quincy, a gentle, firm, helpful Christian character.

—The Bishop has appointed on nomination of the Convocation, in place of the Rev. Mr. Duncan, who has removed from the Diocese, Rev. H. D. Jardine as Dean of the Kansas City Convocation. The Vestry of St. Mary's church has elected Mr. Sturges Allen Candidate for Orders, a graduate of this year's class in the General Theological Seminary, and who will shortly be ordained, to be Assistant Minister, to help in the prosecution of missionary and school work.

—The Rev. Dr. Foster, who has recently removed to Sedalia, for family reasons, was requested by the Vestry of the Parish there to give them services on Sundays until the vacancy in their Rectorship could be filled. He is from Western Michigan, and has for several years practiced medicine.

—The Western Church Building Society, the notice of which we give in another column, will become, it is hoped, the agency through which will be distributed much aid for our work in these Western States. The Senior Bishop (Whipple) is President, and the Bishop of this Diocese, with half a dozen other Bishops, is a Vice president. Already we hear of a gift of $500 to it. The amounts will be distributed equitably, and the conditions imposed on which any place shall receive benefit are few and reasonable: that the place shall contribute three times as much as is given to it, and that there shall remain no debt on the property.

—One of our Diocesan clergy with family who received last year in all for his income less than $450, gave, as he is accustomed to do, the tenth of his income to the Church, dividing it between different objects. If all our people would give as God has prospered them, even at a less rate, we would have no trouble with our affairs.

—The Loan Exhibition at Chillicothe was only held for two days, but it netted $130. More would probably have been realized if it had been held longer. Experience shows that it takes some time for persons to become aware of attractions of this sort; and the time and trouble of collecting and arranging can only be compensated by an exhibition of a week. The new carpet that covers all the floor of the church is of a warm tint, with small figures, and is in good taste. The new organ adds to the beauty of the church and of the services. It is a pipe organ made in Pittsburg, for which a recess was built out at the upper side of the nave. The improvements in all cost nearly $1,000, of which all but a little over $200 is paid.

—The Rev. W. D. Sartwelle, recently of Waco, Texas, has accepted a call to the Rectorship of Calvary church, Sedalia. He is a graduate of the General Theological Seminary, of the same class with Rev. Messrs. Sharp and Gray, and is highly thought of. It is a very great satisfaction that at length this important parish is well supplied.

—Grace church, Brookfield, is in a very flourishing condition. Besides having the interior, sides and above handsomely ceiled in pine, they have bought an excellent carpet, and the view of the interior is bright and tasteful. Unfortunately, however, on a recent Sunday the frequent chandelier accident took place, doing injury to carpet and otherwise, besides endangering the church. No parish thinks its own lamps will fall, and so it is not thought necessary that precautionary measures should be taken by stout wires, until at length its chandelier does fall and makes damages; then they are sorry.

—In a recent confirmation service in the Diocese a gentleman, aged 83, having just before been baptized, was confirmed, with his grandson. On another occasion a man and his wife were confirmed, the man having already received Lutheran and the woman Swedish confirmation.

—The cyclone which on the 18th ultimo destroyed Marshfield and other places in the State, and caused such appalling loss of life, injured several of our churches. Grace church, Chillicothe, was strained, and required to be braced with rods. But Trinity church, Independence, was wholly demolished. It has not been long built, and was not fully paid for. A subscription was made the next day in town for it, and realized $400. The Rev. Mr. Dunn will solicit abroad for it, hoping to realize sufficient to enable them to build a large and more substantial structure.

—The Rev. John Bennett, formerly of Cameron, has removed to Wyandotte, Kansas, having been called to the rectorship of the church there.

—Gen. J. H. Simpson, U. S. A., one of the deputies to the next General Convention elected for this Diocese, having removed to Minnesota, he has resigned his position as Deputy; and the Bishop has from among the provisional deputies appointed Mr. John R. Triplett deputy in his place.

—Grace church, Kansas City, has recently been having a great bazaar, the receipts of which were over $1,800, and the net proceeds fully $1,500. Some gentlemen gave a handsome doll which was to be voted to the most popular little girl in the city. The votes cost 25 cents each; 3,254 were cast, netting $813 50. Sadie Hamerslough received it, having 1,328 votes. Miss Medsker received 1,326. The proceeds are for a debt. The vestry is largely changed this year. They have not yet called a Rector; the Rev. Mr. Barr still supplies them. The congregations are very good.

—At the Bishop's visitation in St. Joseph there were present, besides the Rector, and the assistants, the Rev. W. Henry, the Rev. Mr. Dunn of Lexington, the Rev. Mr. Bennett of Cameron, and the Rev. Wm. A. Green, a colored deacon from Nebraska, who is holding services for his people in St. Joseph, for the purpose of ascertaining whether there is encouragement for the permanent establishment of a Church there. The congregation in Christ church was large, and the number confirmed, 20, included two sick persons confirmed privately in the afternoon. There would probably have been more but for the Art Loan Exhibition and bazaar, which had been holding for a week, and was still continued, which excited and fatigued the people. It was very wrong to have put it then. It realized about $1,000, to be applied on the debt of the church, which amounted before to $4,300. In the afternoon the Bishop and other clergy visited the colored congregation, which has rented a place of worship, where the attendance was large and the responses and singing were very hearty and strong. The Bishop made an address of encouragement.

—The parsonage at Lexington has been sold for $550, and the proceeds are at interest for the purchase of a better property. It was poor and inconveniently located. We hope that it was a wise procedure.

—The good news which we gave last month as to the extrication of our St. Louis parishes from debt is now to be followed by very cheering intelligence about St. John's also in this city. We stated last month the crisis in their affairs. Now we can say that the debt of the church has been reduced from $19,000 to $6,000, and the advertisement of the sale of the church removed. They are assured, in addition to this, of $3,000 if by next Easter the balance can be raised, and the church be in a position to be consecrated. Besides this, a gentleman proposes to paint the church for that consecration service, if it can take place then, of which there are the most sanguine expectations. Moreover, a few individuals propose themselves now to take care of the interest for a reasonable time. This is all very delightful. It has not been done without great effort and it would be invidious to name any one of the four or six gentlemen who were specially active in the matter. This notice of liberality and devotion will come to the eyes of many who are laboring in the same spirit, and it will also meet the eyes of some who are pinching their money and their souls too, leaving their parishes debts unpaid, causing the minister to wear away with anxiety and the whole religious work become strained and lean. The person who thinks that some one else is meant by this, is probably one of those referred to.

—There is quite a rage for Loan Exhibitions in the Diocese. Scarcely was that at St. Joseph over than many of the articles there, including the Bishop's contributions, were sent to Cameron for an Art Loan Exhibition, which is now being held there for the benefit of the Church. And before this was begun, application was made for the articles for an Exhibition at Maryville, which is proposed to be held soon. At any rate these Exhibitions are better and appeal to a higher intelligence than Pinafore and suppers.

—During the past month the following clergymen have been received into the Diocese: the Revs. Dr. Fulton from Wisconsin, A. T. Sharpe from Illinois, Octavius Parker from Oregon, C. A. Foster, LL.D., from Western Michigan, and W. D. Sartwelle from Texas. The Rev. John Bennett has been transferred to Kansas. For the first time in its history, the number of clergymen canonically resident in the Diocese has risen above fifty. There are a number of vacancies still, likely to be soon supplied.

—His many friends will be very sorry to learn of the sad death of the wife of Mr. D. A. Stewart of Calvary church, Louisiana. She shared the deep interest which her husband took in all Church work, and was endeared to all who knew her. She left a babe less than two weeks old, her first child.

—The Trustees of St. Luke's Hospital have abandoned the hope of securing any more land on Washington avenue. They have, however, determined that the Hospital shall face on the avenue. They offered three premiums for plans, two have been adopted and the best points of each will be retained.

—The Bishop at length found from the extent of his other engagements, and the inconvenient time of the running of the trains, that he had to give over his engagement to be present at the laying of the corner-stone of the Cathedral in Omaha.

—It is expected that Bishop Harris of Michigan will be present and preach at the Institution of his friend, the Rev. Dr. Fulton, into the rectorship of St. George's church in this city on Whitsunday.

—The Bishop was present at St. Peter's chapel in this city on the evening of Ascension day, and preached and confirmed eleven persons.

—Some correspondence has passed with a view to the establishing of a new parish in the northwestern portion of the city, now rapidly growing, and in the effort to induce a talented clergyman from Cincinnati to undertake the matter. The Bishop and the Rev. Mr. Robert, who is the nearest rector, are working in concert for this result.

—The new church at Blackburn, Saline Co., will be finished in time for the Bishop's visit, and if it could receive a little help from outside would be fully paid for.

—The Church people in Canton are under the wise direction of the Rev. Mr. Scheetz bestirring themselves. Some good Church people have removed to the town. For twelve years we have owned some valuable lots there; it is now proposed, if possible, to put up a chapel on them.

—At Glenwood the doubtful kindness of a borrowed place of worship has been dispensed with, and a hall has been rented and fitted up with chancel furniture, seats and an organ, and the work is greatly helped thereby.

—Our friend, Mr. J. J. Wilkins, has had promotion, and is now the agent of the Equitable Life, over Jaccards, corner of Fifth and Olive streets. We rejoice in his deserved good fortune.

—The building put up by St. Mary's, First Ward, Kansas City, was never very strong, and has been strained by the heavy winds of this spring, so that it cannot be used, and must be taken down. The little congregation meets in the Rev. Mr. Holeman's parlor in the neighborhood. He has charge of a Sunday school in the southern part of the city, in Trinity Mission, on 14th street.

—On Sunday, 2d inst., the Rev. Wm. Jardine laid the corner stone of a church, 32x50, across the rear end of the Troost property. It is to be on the grade of the street, while the lot itself must be thirty feet high. The Troost lot is 60 feet front and about 125 feet deep, and has an old brick house upon it. This church is to be of stone, a portion of the cut stone previously used for the retaining wall about the lot being used for the purpose.

—Grace Church, Kansas City, has paid off the greater part of its floating debt, and has arranged with the Rev. Mr. Barr to take charge of the parish for six-months.

—At Trinity Mission, Kansas City, on Sunday afternoon, 9th inst., the service was said by the Rev. J. N. Lee of Ohio, the Rev. Messrs. Holeman, Jardine, Barr and Crouch being present. The Bishop, after preaching, met the Trustees for consultation.

—In St. Mary's Church, Kansas City, besides the Rector, the Rev. Messrs. Dunn and Bennett were present, and fifteen persons were confirmed. The Bishop after the night's service had a prolonged meeting with the vestry.

—The Rev. Mr. Crouch of Clinton, Iowa, has taken up his residence in Kansas City.

REV. EDWARD FONTAINE is about to edit a Church newspaper in New Orleans. The name is to be the Southwestern Churchman.

THE Legislature of Maryland, at its last session, enacted that Good Friday shall be a legal as well as ecclesiastical holiday.

ORPHANS' HOME.

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Orphans' Home Association, was held at Christ Church March 30th, Bishop Robertson presided and Rev. George C. Betts officiated as Secretary. After the usual preliminaries balloting was announced in order and the election begun.

Mrs. J. T. Douglass was chosen First Directress; Mrs. H. J. Moore, Second Directress; Mrs. Western Bascome, Secretary, and Mrs. R. Thompson Treasurer.

The Board of Managers, chosen are as follows: Christ Church—Mrs. Hugh Campbell, Mrs. H. R. O'Dell, Mrs. H. Amelung and Mrs. T. T. Gantt.

St. George's—Mrs. A. Jaminet, Mrs. S. Trowbridge, Mrs. W. J. Lewis and Mrs. W. C. France.

St. John's—Mrs. Wainwright, Mrs. Wm. Anderson, Mrs. S. D. Barlow and Mrs. Wellman.

Trinity—Mrs. L. Levering, Mrs. I. Cook, Mrs. J. Wickham and Mrs. Chas. McLaren.

Holy Communion—Mrs. J. F. Aglar, Mrs. S. Herman, Mrs. R. N. Wilson and Mrs. Charles Buck.

Grace Church—Mrs. W. H. Woodward and Mrs. Dr. Heacock.

Mt. Calvary—Mrs. Helmers, Mrs. Cornelia Beers, Miss Annie Sands and Mrs. Dana.

St. Paul's—Mrs. Kennon, Mrs. Geo. Jenkins and Miss Allen.

St. Peter's—Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Wm. Ryder, Mrs. Goddard, and Miss Benson.

Messrs. John Wickham, Silas Bent, J. M. Francis, Charles Parsons and E. C. Simmons were chosen as the Advisory Committee, with instructions as to the funds of the Association in bank.

The annual report of Mrs. Western Bascome, Secretary of the Association, was read and adopted, and proved a document of more than ordinary interest, as it chronicles many changes for the better in the affairs of the Home. It appears from the report that the last fiscal year was entered upon with an indebtedness of $1,650, which has been liquidated in full, and the books now show a balance of $1,261 44 on hand. There was so great a lack of funds during the first six months of the year that an entertainment and May party were given, which yielded $101 13. Objections being urged to this method, direct appeals were made in the months of July and August, through the agency of the mails, and the response was $286 75.

This sum was inadequate to defray the daily expenses, and entertainments were given in November, by which $931 90 was raised. The resources were further increased by $900 from the city for opening an alley through the Home's property on Franklin and Compton avenues. This sum was devoted to the part payment of a $1,200 loan advanced by the Mechanics' Bank on Gas Company bonds. From the O'Sullivan legacy $1,744 70 was received, and $246 48 from the Wells legacy. In the month of November five $1,000 bonds held by the Association of the St. Louis Gaslight Company were paid off, with accrued interest, amounting alone to $2,210. The interest was applied to current expenses and outstanding debt, while the principal, being an endowment, will be invested under the advice of the Advisory Committee. In May the Rev. P. G. Robert resigned the chaplaincy of the Home and was succeeded by the former Chaplain, Rev. Benj. E. Reed. During the year the health of the children at the Home was excellent, there occurring but one death. Thirteen children were admitted, fourteen adopted, thirteen bound out, twelve returned to their parents or relatives, two became of age and were discharged, and forty-four remain at the Home. There has been no change in the system of management, and general satisfaction has been evinced.

The Treasurer's report showed the following amounts from parishes:

Total from parishes - - - $1,460 35

Donations not credited to parishes 428 93

INCOME FROM ENDOWMENT FUND.

From St. Louis Gaslight Co.,
accrued interest on bonds - - $2,210 00

The expenses, excluding $308 82 restored to Permanent Fund, and $353 94 in Real Estate Bank unavailable, amounted to $6,076.59, with balance of $1,201. 44 in bank.

ST. PAUL STATION.

Editor Church News:

A very interesting service was held at St. Paul, a station on the Mo. Pacific Railroad, twenty-five miles from the city, on the afternoon of April 4, the first Sunday after Easter. It was the first service held in the chapel of the Holy Cross.

Mr. Wm. S. Cuddy, a member of St. Peter's Church, St. Louis, who has a country residence at St. Paul, determined to do something for his neighborhood, and built a chapel on his own grounds. It cost only $650, and is a marvel of perfection at such a price. Nothing is wanting. As far as an observer could see, one dollar or a hundred, would add nothing to its completeness.

He informed his Rector, the Rev. Dr. Berkley, that after the Sunday train reached Kirkwood, a special car had been ordered to convey him, and any friends who might join him, from Kirkwood to St. Paul, with the request that he would signalize the opening of the little church with divine service.

This request was announced in St. Peter's Church in the morning, and a large party joined their Rector, at the railroad station, to unite in this service.

When we reached St. Paul the bell in the modest little tower rung out its welcome, and continued to ring as we approached the church, about five hundred yards distant in vehicles, provided for the party. The minister in his robes read the service, baptizing an infant, at the proper place. This ended, he led the congregation in singing "All hail the power of Jesus Name," to its own tune. Then came the sermon, but before proceeding to that, Dr. Berkley said—substantially:

"I do not propose to make a formal speech, by way of dedicating this cosy little chapel to the service and worship of the Triune God. I shall, however, speak to you of Christ, and Him crucified, and this will signify the purpose for which this house was built.

All of us, from town and country, express hearty thanks to our excellent friend for his excellent work. The people of this region, as well as the Church, are indebted to him for the zeal in the cause of Christ, which led him to make this comfortable provision for the spiritual interests of this neighborhood.

"I will offer no words of adulation on the success of this enterprise. I will not offend the sensibilities of my friends, by speaking his praises here. The whole work shows what can be done by a laymans, whose heart is in the right place. We can only pray that the blessings of this life may fall upon him and his family, who have interested themselves so much in the erection and completion of this beautiful little Temple, and that higher and richer blessings may be showered upon them in the life to come."

The sermon was drawn from Romans vi., 23: "The gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord." It was well adapted to the occasion, and after singing "Jesus, Savior of my Soul," the Benediction was pronounced, and the people dispersed, expressing great satisfaction with the services and with themselves.

RECENT FORMS OF DOUBT.

In one of our interior towns within the last month or two a subscription was started by some irreligious men and continued until one or two even of our Church people joined in it to enable a certain notorious Mr. Underwood to give some lectures on the mistakes of the Bible. Probably the better persons did not know what they were promoting, and some of them were disgusted after the first lecture at the blasphemies which the man was uttering before even children. In another town some so-called liberals have engaged a person who meets with them every Sunday in a club for the discussion of atheistic principles. In this city there are two or three of these clubs which advertise their meetings every Sunday, and they have gone beyond and established a Sunday-school for the indoctrination of the children with infidel notions.

Now if it be true according, for instance, to Mr. Wendling in his well-known lecture on Ingersollism, which he has been recently delivering in the towns of this State, that the principles which are gathered up in that one name are not only subversive of religion but also at issue with free institutions, social order and business integrity, then these indications of the greater effrontery and boldness of anti-Christian ideas are to be seriously noted and acted on.

While a literature has sprung up within the last few years, interesting in the putting forth of new scientific facts and theories, agreeable in the accessories of type, paper, binding and illustration, but attempting to put science and religion at issue, there has also arisen a literature, answering to this, and not inferior to it in substance or make-up, which unfolds new harmonies and evidences as between nature and revelation. We fear that the first of these is more read and influential than the last. It should not be, if learning and grace of expression, enlisted on the side of religion, are inducements for reading.

The Church, as to its features of external order and worship, is so generally in the minority in our communities that the pressure upon the pulpit is to dwell upon the explanation and vindication of these mooted matters to a degree of exclusion of the subjects which regard the growth and perfection of Christian living. In places where the Church is in greater relative force there is a more marked irenic tone, and less apology for external features, and a larger enforcement of that which has bearing on the growth of the character and the enrichment of the spiritual life. Several times lately have devout persons expressed in our hearing their longing for a greater element of the satisfying, spiritual elements in pulpit ministrations; of the clearer evidence that the preacher, having come close to the sorrows and needs of actual life, would address himself strongly to their help.

But then the new aggressiveness of scientific agnosticism and atheism have created new duties, and made necessary new lines of reading and explanation. With a disposition as far as possible from strutting forth new knowledge and aspiring to pedantry, there has arisen an actual and pressing need for clergymen old and young, and for laymen, too, to consider the serious questions which are brought before them, with a view to answering them on occasion. Old answers are not in all cases adapted to the present posture of doubt.

In this matter there has been a curious slowness in the Committee of Bishops in the General Convention on Theological Education to put forth a revised scheme of works to be studied by our Candidates for Orders. The list made scores of years ago is in many respects absurdly weak and behind the present need and the added resources of recent theological literature. And yet in Convention after Convention the Committee has asked leave to postpone its report, and has been continued. And in consequence while our Seminaries have from time to time adopted new text-books and adjusted themselves to the advances in learning, those who have not the advantage of Seminary training are, so far as authoritative direction is concerned, quite at a disadvantage as to the best works to be consulted. This ought to have large attention next fall, even if other matters are slighted.

The word from the pulpit should with close sympathy respond to the need in the pew, and should not now be indifferent to the desire and want of a clearer statement of the grounds of our Christian assurance, as related to wants within and doubts abroad.

MISSION TO DEAF MUTES.

The Church Mission to Deaf Mutes, organized in 1872, is making due effort to reach the 30,000 deaf mutes in the United States with the Church's services in the sign language. The prayer book meets their wants particularly. Services are being held in most of the principal cities east, west, and south, by clergymen familiar with the sign language.

The Rev. A. W. Mann, having been assigned to the west, has up to the present held services at more than fifty places in thirteen dioceses. He reaches directly at least 2,000. In the almost five years of his work the number of communicants has grown to 89.

In Missouri the number of deaf mutes should be between 700 and 800. Certainly over 200 have their homes in St. Louis, where services have been mostly held. The Rev. Mr. Mann has once visited Fulton, the seat of the State deaf-mute school. Kansas City has been visited twice, St. Joseph, once.

A MEETING of the Mexico Convocation will be held in St. Paul's Church, Mexico, May 27-30. Brethren of the clergy are invited—and requested to inform the Rev. J. R. Gray, at Mexico, of their intention to attend. Please bring surplices.

IMPORTANT TO EVERY PARISH IN THE DIOCESE.

Punctuality is one of the chief attributes of honesty, for without it on our part others are frequently made to suffer as seriously as if we deliberately defrauded them of their dues and for which in business matters the power of the law is often invoked to quicken one's memory and attention.

There is no reason why Church obligations should not be regarded as of equally binding importance, yet month after month and year after year parishes are reminded of their delinquencies in the payment of Convention assessments, and that the Bishop's salary and all the general expenses of the Diocese are left unpaid, for which the Finance Committee are obliged to make loans at heavy discounts, to waste the funds received by the treasurer from those parishes who are prompt and conscientious in their payments. They are therefore constrained to take this means of informing our Church people that if it is their intention to sustain the Church in Missouri, they must see that the officers of their respective parishes pay better attention to this matter. For if not, then the Bishop had better be so informed in order that he may seek other fields of labor and usefulness.

PERSONAL.

—Canon Ryle, the well known Low Church leader, who has however latterly shown decided tendencies to comprehensive breadth, and who was just now appointed Dean of Salisbury, has since been appointed Bishop of the newly constituted Episcopate of Liverpool in England, for which an endowment of $400,000 has been secured.

—The Rev. L. T. Bennett, of Guilford, Connecticut, who five years ago on attaining to his 70th year proffered the resignation of his rectorship, and was induced to withdraw to, has recently renewed his resignation, at the end of forty years of rectorship in his parish, and has been elected rector emeritus. In Saugerities, N. Y., recently, the aged Dr. Robertson having resigned from infirmities has also been elected rector emeritus, with use of the parsonage and the same salary as before.

—Rev. T. T. Carter, of Clewer, England, a very devout clergyman, and distinguished as a leader among the advanced Churchmen, has recently resigned his living. Presented under the public worship act by a nominal parishioner, who was hardly ever resident for trial for ritualistic practices, the Bishop used the option, which he thought he possessed, of not proceeding with the matter, while using private remonstrances with the clergyman. The court overruled the Bishop's decision, and commanded him to proceed. On appeal, however, to the court of last resort, the Bishop was sustained, and it was declared that the words, "it is lawful," are not mandatory, but permissive. Mr. Carter, being thus protected, with rare delicacy resigned his position, not choosing to give up his methods, and yet not desiring to accept, as he says, protection with one hand, and reject remonstrance with the other.

A THOUGHTFUL LITTLE GIRL.—A sweet little incident is related by a writer who says: "I asked a little child not long ago, 'Have you called your grandma to tea?' 'Yes, when I went to call her she was asleep, and I didn't know how to wake her. I didn't wish to helloa at grandma, nor shake her; so I kissed her on the cheek, and that woke her very softly. Then I went into the hall, and said pretty loud, 'Grandma, tea is ready,' and she never knew what woke her.'"

THE WESTERN CHURCH BUILDING SOCIETY.

The object of this Society is to aid in the erection of Churches and Parsonages in that great district of country lying between the Mississippi river and the Rocky Mountains into which such an unparalleled immigration is pouring.

President—The Rt. Rev. Henry B. Whipple.

Vice-presidents—The Rt. Revs. Thos. H. Vail, Robert H. Clarkson, Daniel S. Tuttle, Charles F. Robertson, William H. Hare, John F. Spalding.

Secretary—The Rt. Rev. William Stevens Perry.

The money donated or bequeathed to this Society will be distributed and expended according to the best judgment of the Bishops above named and as far as possible in accordance with these two general principles: (1.) That the sum appropriated to each church must secure the gift from the locality benefited a sum equal to three times the amount of the benefaction; and (2.) that there shall be no debt remaining upon the church or parsonage aided by the funds of this Society, and that the property shall be secured from alienation from the Church.

All friends of the Church are solicited to send donations to the Treasurer for the purposes of the Society.

LITERARY NOTICES.

THE STANDARD SERIES. The several classes of works in this series include sterling books of various kinds. In class A we have this month On Self-Culture, by Professor Robert Stuart Blackie of Edinburgh, price 10 cents, enforcing the culture of the Intellect, Physical Culture and Moral Culture. Class C produces Tennyson's Idyls of the King, without abridgment, for 20 cents. No word need be said in praise of such a work, only that it is a public benefaction that it should be put within every one's reach at that price. In class D we have Knight's Popular History of England, which is to be put forth in eight volumes at 30 cents a volume. This is a history of society and government from the earliest period to the present times. The paper is extra heavy, and new type leaded is used. It will be a remarkable literary achievement with this great work finished in this style for an amount less than one-fourth of that usually paid. In class E we have Rowland Hill, with his life, anecdotes and pulpit sayings, for 15 cents. The Series is a venture that should be responded to by all those who desire to promote a wide reading of sound literature. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

LECTURES ON SOCIAL QUESTIONS. By Rev. J. H. Ryland, D.D. A collection of last winter's lectures on Competition, Communism, and the Relation of Christianity to Socialism. The topics are fresh and urgent; the thoughts are broad and incisive, the style is very interesting and vigorous. They ought to be read especially by those who live in our larger centres where these matters are at the front.

ESSAY ON THE LAWYER AND THE LAW AS A PROFESSION. By George A. Ritter of St. Louis.

EDUCATION. By Herbert Spencer. This is one of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science Literature. It is interesting that both in this and Prof. Blackie's essay noticed above, the broad view of education, as including intellectual, physical and moral training, is maintained. This work is full of suggestiveness. 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co. 294 Broadway, N. Y.

WIDE AWAKE. The May Wide Awake is sown as thick with pictures as the spring waysides are with dandelions. The opening story, one of Sophie May's best, "The Twin Cousins," has three illustrations, and Miss Lathbury's "Spring Snow Storm" is the most charming picture possible. Mr. Shillaber (Mrs. Partington) in "The Uninvited Guest" tells a capital bear story. A very summery article is "How we went Birds' Nesting," the first of four papers on this subject. It is illustrated by three beautiful full-page drawings. W. Bodfish contributes an amusing picture "In Ye Olden Times—The Puritan Schoolmaster," and J. E. Francis, the cat-artist, has four very funny drawings for an amusing poem for the little folks. The three serials, "Five Little Peppers," "Two Young Homesteaders," and "Professor M. P. Paul," are very entertaining and pleasant, none of them being tales that will develop the boys into highway-men or runaway sailors. Only $2 a year. Ella Farman, Editor. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

THE PREACHER AND HOMILETIC MONTHLY. April. A very full good number of a magazine useful to those who desire to perfect themselves in the literature and methods of preaching of this day. $3 a year. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

SANITARIAN. May. An impression of the variety and value of this monthly may be had from the following partial table of contents—Sanitary Rewards and Punishments. Sewerage System of Detroit, Care for the Minister, Americans and their Civilization a Product of the Climate, Physiology of the Turkish Bath, How Venice is Supplied with Fresh Water, Disinfection, Leaks in Gas-Pipes. $3 a year. Dr. A. N. Bell, 8 Spruce street, N. Y.

SCRIBNER for May is full of interesting material on subjects of general or timely interest. In addition to the book notices, Literary Criticism is represented by Mr. E. C. Stedman's study of Edgar A. Poe. Art Criticism is represented by a paper on "The Younger Painters of America," the first of three by Mr. Wm. C. Brownell. With this are engravings of pictures by Weir, Shirlaw, Ryder, Sargent, Eakins, Chase, Currier, Swain Gifford, Dielman, the younger Inness and Church. Modern Progress is represented by the second of Mr. Theo. L. De Vinne's papers on "The growth of Wood-cut Printing." History is attractively represented by "Peter the Great," which is being studiously read all over the country. Timely Topics are represented by a paper on "Economic Defects in Christian Missions," which will interest the May missionary meetings; by a paper on "Congress and International Copyright," by Mr. E. L. Didier. Fiction is represented by Mrs. Burnett's "Louisiana," here concluded; and by Mr. Cable's "Grandissimes." The departments include papers by Doctor Holland on "Pettiness in Art," "International Copyright," and "Common Sense and Rum;" "Hints for the Yosemite Trip," with estimate of cost of a ten days' trip; "Nerves in the Household."

THE CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE. May. Among other interesting articles in this number is one on the Rubric after the Confirmation Office, the meaning of which has been often mooted. $2 a year. 20 Vesey street, N. Y.

THE WESTERN. May-June. Our own St. Louis purely literary magazine maintains its uniformly high character. This number has a poem by Edgar Fawcett, an article on the Battle of Wilson's Creek, read by Col. Wherry at West Point; a paper on Realism and Idealism in their relation to Education. Bi-monthly. $2 a year. Henry W. Jameson, St. Louis.

—The trustees of the St. Louis Law Library, which has for some time been opened during certain hours on Sunday, decided recently to close it on that day. So much dissatisfaction was expressed at their decision that the question was submitted to the Library Association, who sustained their action by a vote of 53 to 44.

Sunday-School Column.

SUCCESS is invariably the result of self-sacrificing labor. When one paints, speaks, writes, or does anything with grace and ease, you may be sure it is not natural for him to do so, but is in all but a few phenomenal instances the outcome of years of studious effort. He had to prepare the soil, plant and drill, before he could reap, and his preparatory work was not at all pleasant. It was drudgery, but endured because without drudgery there can be no success. Says a modern writer: "Of all the work that produces results ninety-ninths must be drudgery." That is the sacrifice to success. Part of the nobility of a "heart so great it never tires" is in the fact that a man drudges on undaunted until success is reached—perseveres unto the end. This is a condition precedent and is as true in its application to Sunday school work as to any other sphere. No superintendent can fill his place in teacher's meeting or in the school room. Nor can a teacher do his duty to a class without downright hard work, before hand. There can be no substitute for that.

SCARCELY anything in modern Sunday school management is more reprehensible than the attempt to bring the Sunday school and theatre to a common plane. Nothing can be more objectionable than the movement to secure Sunday school children to perform at the theatre, and the introduction of theatrical exercises in, and for the benefit of the school. Encouraged by the aid given by Christian people to Sunday school "Pinafore" companies, theatrical managers are actually advertising for Sunday school children to sing "Moody and Sankey" hymns in the drama; and Sunday-school workers, not a few, are preparing dramatic cantatas, "with or without costumes," for use in church or Sunday school festivals. Be assured that the young will get anything but good by association with the theatre, or by the institution of a theatre for themselves, and he who thinks otherwise will not have to watch long to change his mind on the subject—if he have any mind to change.

TEACHERS' DUTIES TO THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Never speak ill of your chief officer before any member of the school or any other person. Many and various defects in his methods of discipline and government may be evident, but they will not be corrected by speaking of them.

His task is sufficiently arduous, his duties quite enough to try his temper, and there is an abundance from within and without to discourage without fault-finding from those for and with whom he labors.

Teachers are frequently absent, unruly scholars have to be reprov'd; over sensitive and discouraged teachers have to be encouraged, promises to attend teachers meetings and those of the association are made but unkept; he is forced to believe that in many quarters the work is of but one hour of one day in the week; he has seen and continually feels a thousand things that you have not, and he needs that you and every other teacher should promote and lend to his success by rendering him your best efforts and sympathy. Hold up his hands, and accord him your aid and prayers.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

The duty of editing the Sunday school department of THE NEWS has been accepted, at the request of the Bishop, with a deep sense of inability to make its columns valuable without the assistance and co-operation of those engaged in the common work. It will be our constant endeavor to make this department instructive and entertaining to all those engaged in teaching the young those things they "ought to know and believe to their soul's health," and that this may be fully accomplished we invite, and urge all unto whom our words may come to communicate freely such items and suggestions of interest as may occur to them.

Our columns will always be open to practical thoughts relating to our work and particularly to those pertaining to its extension.

We want to know of organization and classification, how best to form new schools, and to gather in and hold the children; the duties of officers, and the instruction of teachers—bible, intermediate classes and infant schools, lesson systems reviews and catechisms, anniversary and services of festival and fast, the arts of questioning, securing and holding attention, Sunday school music and thoughts on the devotional exercises of the school; in short, we want to know how to do it, and thoughts, practical suggestions and descriptions of plans now in profitable use will be gladly welcomed. Write us freely over any matter of interest, question us as to methods, and acquaint us with yours; let us have a free interchange of views—a thorough presentation of the vital question surrounding our work. Thus shall we assist and encourage the weak and faint hearted, and bring nearer by sympathy and knowledge, those who have taken upon themselves the great duty of educating the young in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and teaching them love of Christ and His Holy Church.

PREPARATION.

Nothing is more necessary than the teacher should have method and system in the preparation of his lesson. The time to commence is on the evening of the previous Sunday. If not convenient then, as soon thereafter as possible, and continued during the week.

1. Ask God to aid you. Pray and read, read, pray and think. Get at the words, and spirit of the lesson, and use your best thoughts.

2. Exhaust the Scriptures for parallel passages. You will thus find the lesson wonderfully illuminated.

3. Acquaint yourself with the exact meaning of the important words, that there may be no cloudiness or obscurity about your teaching.

4. Do not fail to use such helps as you can secure. Commentaries, Bible geographies and dictionaries, maps, and antiquities. "Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself?"

5. Gather everywhere for simile and illustration. The world is but a treasure house in which you shall find all that mind can wish to give point and force to Bible truth.

6. Study your scholars, visit them in their home life, learn their tendencies and natures, and the peculiar temptations to which they are subject, that your teaching may have definite aim in their spiritual culture, as well as mental improvement. And remember, that no two children are alike. That what will do for Johnnie will not do for Douglass, and that the truth must be divided and broken up into parcels fit for each.

7. Have the plan of instruction well settled in your mind. Make full notes and write out at length the most important facts, references and illustrations. They will thus be thoroughly bedded in the mind, and ready for effective use.

8. Prepare more, far more than will probably be needed that you may be quick to answer any questions growing out of the lesson, and that you may not exhaust yourself. Children are of ready penetration, and quick to pierce the mask of partial or superficial knowledge.

Finally: "In our entire kingdom," said a noted divine to a theological student, "There is not a road that does not lead directly or indirectly to the capital." So then there is not a chapter in Bible or Prayer Book, that does not directly or indirectly teach the need of personal piety, Christ in the daily life, and that He is to be found in this Holy Catholic Church of which we are integral parts; that the sacraments are means of grace for the upbuilding and strengthening of the Christian life, and that the Church one and indivisible is the body of Christ, the keeper and the witness of the faith. Make these truths the application of each lesson and God will bless your efforts for the growth of His everlasting Kingdom.

GENERAL NEWS.

—In St. Luke's, Rochester, the average attendance at service during Lent was three hundred.

—All the later missionary pledges for salaries in this Diocese involve the promise to pay the amount stipulated in monthly portions. Most bills have to be met thus, and the amount is more useful than if only received at the end of a quarter. In the Diocese of Louisiana the Convention recently appointed a committee to negotiate with some bank for the advancement in monthly installments of the Bishop's salary. In this Diocese a consultation of the table of acknowledgments of the Treasurer shows that the salary cannot be paid promptly, even in quarterly installments, and the Finance Committee has usually a note of theirs in bank for discount to prevent inconvenience as much as possible from parochial delays, and even then they cannot meet the need.

—At the recent burial in Calvary church, New York, of two prominent merchants who had been partners in business, and who died within a few hours of each other, one of whom had been a Churchman and the other a Presbyterian, the service was said and addresses made by Bishop Potter, and several Church clergymen and Presbyterian ministers.

—In the St. Clement's Case, Philadelphia, the Standing Committee, acting under the general canon, have found a true bill, and the Bishop has enjoined the rector and vestry to desist from the practices forbidden in the canon. They resist, and the matter goes to trial.

—A feature in the recent semi-centennial anniversary of St. Paul's church, New Haven, Conn., is remarkable. In counting up the statistics for 35 years, while the pew rentals had come to $217,724, the offerings for charitable objects had exceeded this and amounted to $227,212; that is, what had been given away was $10,000 more than had been kept at home. Usually it is vastly the other way; parish expenses are large and other offerings are very meagre.

—Seventy-five hundred dollars were received upon the plates of St. Thomas' church, New York, on Easter, as an offering toward the erection of St. Thomas' House on East 59th street.

—Immigration to this country is greater now than it has ever been in our history. Fifty thousand arrived in New York last month, and a like number will probably arrive this month.

—The Rev. Dr. Shelton of St. Paul's, Buffalo, and his Associate, Rev. Mr. Gurteen, are at issue on account of the alleged advanced teaching of Mr. G. The matter was made an issue at Easter, and a vestry strongly favorable to Dr. S. was elected; and they have requested Mr. Gurteen to resign.

—The same New York papers recently had three significant announcements any one of which would once have been thought astonishing, had we not become accustomed to the generous uses now frequently made of wealth. In one paragraph it was announced that Mr. Palmer, the president of the Broadway Bank, has bought for seventy-five thousand dollars a Methodist church in Thirty-fourth street, and has given it outright as a free mission church. In another it was said that Miss Caroline Talman has built and furnished the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Beloved Disciple in Eighty-ninth street at a cost of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, giving the whole as an offering in memory of her father. The third paragraph chronicled the gift of one hundred thousand dollars to the Union Theological Seminary by ex-Governor Edwin D. Morgan.

—The Rev. B. L. Quin and F. W. Woods, late priests of the Roman communion, in a course of lectures lately delivered in Baltimore, asserted that no less than 170,000 had renounced Romanism within the year 1879.

—The Philadelphia Library, founded by Franklin, has 169,380 volumes, which number is exceeded only by the Public Library of Boston, which has 301,063 volumes. The Mercantile of New York has 160,613, and the Astor 152,446. In Philadelphia, 80 per cent of the books read are novels and story books.

—From reliable statistics, the character of the services in London churches may be fairly estimated. Those usually denominated High Church may be said to prevail in about one-half, moderate Low Church in rather less than a third, and those distinctively Ritualistic in about a twentieth of the churches in the metropolis and its suburbs.

Dyspepsia, General Debility, Female Diseases, Want of Vitality, &c.

W. P. HILL, Crockett Station, Tenn., writes: "DR. HAR-TER'S IRON TONIC has done wonders here. A lady who had been doctored nearly to death for several years, has been cured of Debility and Great Prostration by the use of Dr.
HARTER'S IRON TONIC, which raised her from her bed, where she had been lying for many months."

DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC
Dr. Harter:—
Mr. James Brown of our county, has requested us to tender you his grateful acknowledgments for the great benefits his wife received from the use of your IRON TONIC. He tells us that, after having paid three or four hundred dollars doctors' bills, two bottles of your IRON TONIC did her more good than all other medicines she ever used. She was troubled with Derangement of the Womb, Whites, etc., from which she is much relieved.

CRUELTY

TO

END.

NO FROG, NO FOOT!

NO FOOT, NO HORSE!

NO BURNING,

NOR

BUTCHERING OF THE FOOT!

The Good-Enough Shoe and System has proven to be the Savior of the noblest of the animal creation, the horse, by its simple and practical method of keeping THE HORSE ON HIS FEET, LESSENING HIS LABORS, AND PROLONGING HIS LIFE. The anxiety of the ladies at rest! Their pets no longer subject to the maltreatment of the foot, as received at the hands of inexperienced horse shoers, who have not made a study of the anatomy of the horse's foot. The greatest proof of the success of the shoe and system is the innumerable cures of cripples, through improper shoeing, it has performed in the past year. Amongst the many horse owners who have given this shoe and system a thorough and impartial test, whose horses are now being shod with this shoe, and who are amongst its most staunch supporters are the Hon. Erastus Wells, President Mo. R.R.; Julius S. Walsh, Esq., President City and Union R.R.; Capt. John D. Scullen, President W. D. & M. C. R. R.; Daniel E. Walsh, President People's R. R. Co.; E. C. H. McLean, and many others whose testimonials can be seen at my office. All manner and style of shoeing done with the greatest care and attention, at ED. BUTLER'S SHOP No. 1, No. 106 S. Tenth street, and ED. BUTLER'S SHOP No. 2, Cass avenue, between Glasgow and Garrison avenue.

We feel perfectly justified in speaking pretty strongly of our work in the East this season. It was our purpose to bring the best stock of Clothing to St. Louis that St. Louis ever had, and we feel, we know, we have accomplished it. A gentleman said in our Store the other day, "As a usual thing I put little confidence in what advertisers say, but I must confess that your store, your stock and your prices warrant all that you have said or can possibly say in any advertisement."

We shall continue to do as we have done since opening in this City, namely: REPRESENT TRUTHFULLY ALL GOODS SOLD BY US, MAKE BUT ONE PRICE, MARK ALL GOODS IN PLAIN FIGURES, AND MAKE IT ALTOGETHER TO YOUR INTEREST TO TRADE AT OUR MAMMOTH ESTABLISHMENT

We are showing this week a large assortment of Boys' Confirmation Suits.

In English parish churches the wardens sit in special seats together, and their long wands of office are placed upright over their pews. These were originally to maintain order in the church and in the church yard, and to wake up drowsy persons. With us as with them the warden receive the offertory, and often seat strangers in church. Sometimes, however, even when no other efficient arrangement with ushers is had, the wardens and every other officer neglect this matter of civility. The church on the occasion of the Bishop's visit is generally more crowded than at other times, and he is often therefore observant of inadequate attention in this regard which is at other times perhaps less important. In many places, looking from the chancel he sees numbers standing at the doors, the front seats and others perhaps not at all filled, the wardens in their own pews, enjoying the service, perhaps far in their seats where they can not easily get out; and nothing doing for the seating of the strangers. Probably the matter ought to be distinctly arranged every Sunday; at any rate, preparations by those in authority should be made for emergencies, and none of the congregation should be willing selfishly to enjoy their privileges while any others, especially strangers, are uncared for. Such attentions have brought hundreds to the church, and at a critical time have secured the attachment of those who have afterward become prominent Bishops.

SOURCES OF CLERICAL SUPPLY.

Constant application is made to the Bishop of this Diocese, as probably to every other Bishop, for clergymen of available ability for parishes or missionary stations in the vicinity of those making application. Often these requests cannot be acted on at all, because the requisitions are too high, more frequently still because the salary offered is not that for which a person of any ability will undertake the duty, less than what such persons can receive elsewhere. The supply of such clergymen is insufficient. Places wonder that they cannot be supplied sooner.

And yet thoughtful Church people should put the question to themselves, what they have done in their families for the supply of the Church's ministry? Have they contributed a son? If not, what reason have they for thinking that other families will give their sons? One family has as much reason not to act as another. Indeed, have not impediments been put in the way of sons inclined to choose the ministry, both by direct opposition as well as by such a family habit of carping at the minister, and a magnifying of his hardships, as checks the choice of any son at all inclined for the ministry? Persons should not wonder or complain of the inadequate supply of the ministry, or of any lower talent in the ministry, until they have first given themselves a good reason as to why they have not themselves given up their own children for God's nearer service, or bought back their sons from this service by generously helping others who are ready.

It has often seemed to us that the example of the Diocese of Virginia is noteworthy in this regard. It has over thirty Candidates for Orders, very few of whom are from the ministry of other denominations. If you look over the list you see that they, as well as the clergy of the Diocese, bear the names of a larger number of the old families of the State. The Church is domesticated there, and supplies its parishes from its own best sons. But few of the clergy leave the Diocese comparatively, as they have close local attachments, and the most of those who leave take Virginia with them wherever they go.

All this implies a Church attachment and habit for generations; and still more a household religion which trains up the child with a view to the Church. Ministry in it is evidently counted as high an honor as the highest secular ambition.

When the Turkish spirit became effeminate and weak, they enlisted captives into the service, and the janizaries thus became the most intense soldiers, fighting with all the zeal of proselytes. Distant be the time when the Church's spirit of devotion shall be so slack, and the greed of her sons for worldly place and wealth shall be so great that it must depend for the supply of its ministry upon the recruiting of janizaries, who may infuse us with a proselyte enthusiasm, and so keep our chancels filled. And yet every other line of life shows the names of the best sons of the land rather than the ministry, at least in our western country.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

— The newly-elected Senior Warden of Grace church, Kansas City, is the Mayor of the city, Mr. Chase.

— The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Platte City, 3; Kirkwood, 16; Marshall, 6; Blackburn, 1; Fayette, 5; Glasgow, 3; Norborne, 2; La Clede, 4.

— The Hon. John D. Pope, elected by the late Diocesan Convention as Deputy to the approaching General Convention in New York, has declined on account of pressure of business in October, during which month the Convention sits. The Bishop has consequently designated Capt. Jas. H. Rollins of the regular army, of Columbia, from among the provisional deputies to act in his place.

— The Bishop has received from the Secretary of the House of Deputies of General Convention the blank forms to be filled out by the reports of this Diocese. Those reports from us will be made up from the parochial reports made at our Diocesan Convention in September, under headings, which in due time will be furnished. In addition to the general interest which we have in accuracy is the inducement to fullness and accuracy in the fact that the statistics furnished thus will be furnished to the United States Government for its census report for 1880, as showing the status of the Church.

— Whit Sunday is for Grace church, Kirkwood, the anniversary of the organization of the parish, and the day when the Bishop makes his annual visitation. This year the church was decked with more than its usual splendor of flowers for the season, and the air was heavy with sweet odors. The number of communicants was unusually large. The Bishop could only come in the afternoon, when the church was packed, many standing and having to go away. The number confirmed was larger than usual, sixteen, and there were circumstances of peculiar interest connected with the cases of several. At night the Annual Sunday School Festival took place, and the church was again crowded to overflowing. The Superintendent, Mr. Tracy, had given special attention to the matter, and the result was a very pleasing effect. Two children came forward with banners representing a season in the Church year, and with flowers, and they recited a verse indicating the season that they represented. Then the school sang an appropriate hymn from the Hymnal. Thus all the seasons were represented with an effect altogether pleasant.

— The Service of Institution of the Rev. Dr. Fulton into the Rectorship of St. George's church, St. Louis, was one of great interest, and was witnessed by a large congregation. The Bishop of the Diocese acted as Institutor. The Wardens declared their recognition of Dr. Fulton as Rector, and delivered the keys of the church, and the Bishop received him within the chancel rail, and delivered to him the books, with an injunction of conformity. The Bishop of Michigan preached an admirable sermon from St. John, 10: 2, giving a delineation of the character of true leadership in the State, in society and in Church, showing that the capacity for deep sympathy measured the power of real control and influence over men. He then declared his confidence that their new pastor came to them in such a spirit, and with such a power arose from his long knowledge of him and of his work, reaching through years and a wide range of life, and bespeaking for him such an affection as he had called forth elsewhere. The number of communicants was very large.

— On Monday in Whitsun-Week in Trinity church, St. Louis, the Bishop admitted Mr. Sturges Allen to Deacon's Orders. He is of the last class in the General Theological Seminary in New York. He was a parishioner of St. Paul's church, S. St. Louis. The Rev. Dr. Schuyler preached a sermon, clearly defining the functions and responsibilities of the deacon's office. The Rev. Dr. Gierlow and the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Betts, took part in the Service, and his former pastor, the Rev. Mr. Staples, was also present. Mr. Allen becomes the assistant of Mr. Jardine in St. Mary's church, Kansas City.

— The offerings from Missouri for the Church Society for promoting Christianity among the Jews have thus far been as follows: St. Louis, Christ church, $24.73; St. Louis, St. George's, $6.16; Columbia, $3; Hannibal, $3; Lexington, $9.20. Total, $46.09. It is certainly to be hoped that in view of the large number of Jews in Missouri, especially in St. Louis, these offerings may be increased another year. The Rev. P. G. Robert has been appointed, on nomination of the Bishop, Local Secretary for Jewish Missions, to succeed Gen. J. H. Simpson, and has accepted the position.

— Col. J. P. Dillingham, sometime Warden and Lay Reader of St. Paul's church, Ironton, recently died, and Judge Emerson pronounced an eloquent and appreciative oration at his grave. He was a very devout man, of gentle tastes and habits, and the parish will greatly miss him.

— The loan exhibition at Cameron was held for three days, and was very successful, netting $150. The Rev. Mr. Waterman contributed some valuable and beautiful family portraits, and the Bishop some interesting curiosities.

— Our old friend, the Rev. J. J. Corby, is, we hear, very shortly to come back to this city in an educational way. We shall all be glad to welcome him here again after his exile in Iowa.

— During the past year St. Paul's College, Palmyra, has been doing excellent work, and deserves the patronage of all the Churchmen of the State and of the West. As students are already in attendance from almost all parts of the State, any person desirous of obtaining information of the College, can readily do so from those who have already been there, or by communicating with the principal. The next term will begin on Wednesday, September 1st, when it is desirable that all who intend attending during the ensuing year should be present for examination and classification.

— Grace church, Carthage, has had for some years a remainder of a debt from the purchase of the lot near the square to which the church was removed. They have paid this debt off entirely. They still own the other lot from which the church was moved. The Bishop has recommended to them the Rev. Joseph S. Colton, of Kansas, for their Rector.

— The Church people in Butler, Bates county, have contracted for a lot in that town, and propose to make an effort to build a church there this summer. This is a flourishing county town, in a splendid country, off the line of railway, which has had but few services except those the Bishop has each year been able to give them. The Rev. Messrs. Leonard, James, and recently Mr. Thorpe, have visited them. The Bishop will go there this summer.

— Dr. Fulton is getting at the work of St. George's in a thorough and systematic way. Of the 533 communicants reported at the last Convention, he can find in the manual printed last year only the names and residences of 326. Only about 175 of the communicants appear among the pewholders, or regular supporters of the parish; less than half. He concludes naturally that the number has been overstated, and in a circular addressed to the congregation proposes that those who may not be able to pay the ordinary amount for a pew or single sitting, shall privately make the fact known in order that seats may be assigned to such. He says that so small an amount as quarter of a dollar, paid every week, is sufficient to insure a sitting in St. George's.

— The Rev. Mr. Parker, of Springfield, has purchased the old Presbyterian church, lot, etc., to fit over for a parsonage and school house. The parish is doing admirably. It may be remembered that the church gave a handsome Easter offering for St. Luke's Hospital in this city. The conjecture was ventured that this was due, because the parish is not rich, to the fact that the Senior Warden, Dr. Roberts, had once been the resident physician to the Hospital. We were in error: it was due to an interesting circumstance. The Rector, Mr. Parker, who is a graduate of Nashotah, and was in Oregon for several years, on Easter morning made a warm eulogium of St. Luke's, for which he was about to ask the alms of the congregation, and added that he knew whereof he spoke, not from the outside, but from a knowledge of the work of the hospital. He then said that he had years before been a nurse in the Hospital, and had there earned the money with which he could afterwards study. This had been a dozen years before; the Warden and his wife had at the time lived in the Hospital, and were at this moment sitting before him; he had been for several months in the parish; but they, while thinking his face was one they had seen before, never dreamt of him in connection with the Hospital, and he had never before mentioned to them that he had known them. They were much astonished, and all were greatly interested. Mr. Parker spent a week at Marshfield after the cyclone, and attended to the wounded, and showed that he had not lost his skill.

— Grace church, Kansas City, has recently, of its own motion, sent to the Rev. Mr. Batte $300, a balance due on his salary in a parish from which he had removed five years ago. Christ church, Lexington, has sent the Rev. Mr. Dunlop $100 for his receipt in full of an arrearage of salary created during the war. He removed from the parish sixteen years ago. They are there greatly beautifying the Church property.

— The Rev. Dr. Fulton proposes to take a vacation after the first Sunday in July, soon after Mrs. Fulton and his daughter start for Europe to be absent for a year to perfect his daughter's education. Dr. Schuyler has already for some weeks intermitted the night service at Christ church.

— On Trinity Sunday the Bishop visited St. Mary's, Fayette, where he preached and confirmed five persons. There were present and assisting in the services the Rev. Mr. Curtis of Boonville and the minister of the parish. A very large congregation was present, who listened most attentively to the Bishop's sermon, many of whom were evidently impressed; also with the beautiful and touching confirmation services. For the beautiful floral cross which adorned the chancel, we were indebted to the loving and tasteful hands of one who was providentially hindered from being present with us, but who is always lovingly remembered in old St. Mary's.

— Oliver Garrison, Esq., has generously given an iron fence to inclose the grounds of St. George's church in this city. This will add very greatly to the appearance and completeness of the property. In the heavy windstorm of the 4th, the large east window was partly blown in.

— Mr. Barnett has about finished his plans for St. Luke's Hospital, having been assisted by wise suggestions from those who are expert in the arrangement of hospitals. It will face 100 feet on Washington avenue, and go back about 50 feet on Twentieth street, and so arranged externally and internally that it can hereafter be added to as means allows. The Chapel will have a distinct external treatment, and will face 20th street. There will be capacity for 35 private rooms and 29 ward patients. The instructions to the architect were that such a building should be planned for as could be built for $20,000. The balance will be needed to fit up and furnish. It will hardly be done before early next Spring.

— The Letters Dimissory of the Rev. Mr. Batte from Nebraska have just now for the first time been presented to the Ecclesiastical Authority of this Diocese. They are dated in 1866. How ever Mr. Batte acquired a canonical residence here, or was stricken from the Nebraska roll does not appear.

— The ladies of All Saints church, Nevada, recently gave a strawberry festival in the court-house at Nevada. It was characterized by their invariable liberality and elegant good taste. The heavens wore black, as so often lately, and notwithstanding the fears of "cyclones" in consequence, the spacious hall was thronged until ten o'clock. The parish and Sunday-school are flourishing, but donations from some wealthy brother would meet many pressing necessities.

THE CONVOCATION AT MEXICO.

The Mexico Convocation met in St. Paul's church in that city on Thursday night, the 27th ultimo, when the Bishop preached. On Friday morning the Bishop, assisted by the Dean, celebrated the Holy Communion, after which the first business meeting was held. The Rev. J. R. Gray was renominated Dean, and the Rev. J. L. Gay was appointed Secretary. Moberly was chosen as the place for the next Convocation—time, the 26th of August and the three following days. The programme agreed upon for that meeting was: 1. A paper by the Secretary on the growth of a Mission into a parish, the parish organization that naturally flows therefrom, and the resulting privileges and duties of the members of that parish. 2. A paper or an address by the Rev. Mr. Leonard on some of the reasons why people do not come to church. 3. A paper by the Rev. E. Talbot on the relation of the pastor to the people, and the duty of giving. On Friday night the Convocation was favored with a sermon by the Rev. Mr. Masker of Jefferson City; on Saturday night by a very practical address by the Rev. Mr. Leonard. On Sunday morning, after Divine Service, an essay in the nature of a sermon was read by the Secretary, in which, among other things, the blessed privileges resulting from a realization of Christian brotherhood in the parish were brought out. On this topic the Secretary was followed by some practical suggestions from the Rev. Mr. Leonard. On Sunday night the Rev. Mr. Talbot favored us with an effective address on the comprehensiveness and liberality of the Church. On these lines of thought followed several short but stirring addresses by the clerical brethren present and by a layman, Mr. Llewellyn, the Senior Warden of St. Paul's, who, chiming in with the leading thought, forcibly brought out the democratic idea in the constitution of the Church. Following up this suggestion, one of the clergymen mentioned certain books and tracts, notably Bishop Vail's "Comprehensive Church" and Bishop Randall's "Reasons Why I am a Churchman," the reading of which was recommended as likely, in any thoughtful mind, to demonstrate the comprehensiveness of this grand old Church of ours, which is at once also so liberal and true. Large congregations attended the Sunday services who seemed deeply interested, and it is hoped that much good has been done and that God's richest blessing will follow and rest upon the work of this Convocation.

An edition of the New Testament with maps and illustrations is sold in London for a penny, and with profit to the publisher.

WORK AMONG OUR COLORED PEOPLE.

On the 25th ultimo in answer to a call from the Bishop to a number of laymen interested a meeting was held in behalf of the colored church of the Good Samaritan. Besides the Bishop and the Rev. Drs. Schuyler and Fulton and Rev. Mr. Robert, there were a number of prominent laymen and a considerable assemblage of the colored people present. The immediate cause of the meeting was the recurring annual interest charge of $240—8 per cent on the $3,000 due on the church property on Sixth street near Gratiot, $2,000 of the purchase money having been already paid. This could not be paid by the congregation, and a means had to be devised for meeting it.

The Bishop after taking the chair, with Mr. J. J. Wilkins as secretary, stated the case; then Mr. Mason, the Candidate for Orders, and Lay Reader serving the congregation, declared his confidence, based upon a similar situation in Baltimore, where he had been identified from the beginning with what is now a flourishing work, that the reason why the Church work among his people here did not grow faster was that the church was not placed conveniently to his people; but that if it were placed among the people, it would have a strong and immediate growth. The same hindrance had operated in Baltimore, but being removed, the church has now become thronged and self supporting. Mr. Burgess, a member of the congregation, supported this opinion from inquiries which he had widely made, and thought that a location north of Washington avenue and between Eleventh and Eighteenth streets was needed.

A general discussion followed, from which it appeared that it would be wise, in view of a prospective increase in the value of the church property, that it should still be held, and the interest be paid; and that a committee be appointed to look up a better location in which a Sunday-school and work should be begun. This committee consisted of Messrs. Crane, Leslie, Wilkins, Mason and Burgess. The interest money, together with $60 back interest due Mr. Freeborn, and $65 to secure the pipe organ in the church making $365, was voted a common burden, which the Bishop was requested to divide among the churches in St. Louis, to be paid within three weeks. The Bishop having pledged toward the sum $65 from his own trust money, and received $50 which had been generously given him for the purpose by Hon. D. P. Dyer, allotted the balance as follows: St. George's $70, Christ and Holy Communion each, $50; Grace, Kirkwood, $20; Mt. Calvary and St. John's, each, $15. Trinity, Grace and Good Samaritan, each, $10. The committee is industriously at work searching for a place to which the work may with advantage be transferred.

The response to the call so far as known when we go to press, besides the above contribution from Col. Dyer, is $100 from St. George's, in response to a call from the Rector upon the congregation for a trust sum to be placed in the Bishop's hands; $25 sent by Judge Ferguson of St. John's; from Holy Communion and Trinity that their amounts would be forthcoming, and from Kirkwood a note of disinclination.

PALMYRA.

The closing exercises of the year at St. Paul's College, Palmyra, were made unusually interesting by the attendance of a number of visitors and by the other services which gathered about the occasion. The examinations of the students finished at the close of the previous week. On Tuesday morning, 8th instant, the Bishop of the Diocese admitted to Deacon's Orders Mr. John Evans, a graduate of St. David's College, Lampeter, Wales, and for the last year an instructor in St. Paul's. He was presented by the Rev. Mr. Scheetz, morning prayer being read by the Rev. Mr. Leouard. The sermon was preached by the Bishop of Quincy, who, to the gratification of all, could be present, and kindly took the duty. The service was the more interesting as being the last held in the old chapel, which is soon to be taken down and the material used in the new church about to be built. The chapel was built for the college, and not as the parish church, and was too far away from town for convenience.

In the afternoon the corner-stone of the new St. Paul's was laid in the presence of a very large assemblage of citizens. The clergymen above named were present, and also the Rev. Dr. Runcie and the Rev. Mr. Talbot. The Rev. Dr. Wainwright, the Rector, read the contents of the box placed in the corner-stone. This box was the one which had been placed in the corner stone of the chapel in 1852, and had been removed from the old building the day before, with contents, however, so injured by dampness as to prevent their replacement. After the Bishop had laid the corner-stone, he called upon the Rev. Mr. Scheetz, who had been present in the first service held in the old chapel and also at the last service held in it that morning, to make an address. He stated some very interesting incidents of the early history of the church in the town nearly forty years ago. There were some of the old Church people and others present who remembered the circumstances. In the time of the Rev. C. S. Hedges, he and the Methodist minister used to interchange pulpits. Bishop Burgess made a capital address, stating the significance of the service and of the church in the community. After him, the Bishop of the Diocese spoke. The church will be of stone and the contract price is $3,300.

At night the closing exercises of the college began, and after some music the Bishop delivered an address on some Social and Economical Contrasts suggested by European Travel.

On Wednesday night the literary exercises took place in the Opera House. The Warden's Prize for Latin was awarded to Miss Devereaux, and the Leonard Gold Medal for Elocution was gained by Miss Berta Anderson. The literary and musical excellence of the exercises was very high. There was a very large number present from the town and the surrounding country. Rev. Dr. Wainwright leaves for the East on business this week. The high character of the teachers and the quality of the scholastic work of the college will make this year a very marked one. Prof. Vivian W. Tippet, the Associate Principal, delivered the valedictory, and the Bishop with an address gave the prizes.

CHURCH OF THE MEDIATOR, BLACKBURN.

It is not often the case that our Church is the first one erected in a town. And yet this is the fact with regard to the church of the Mediator, in the new town of Blackburn, on the Chicago and Alton railway, in Saline county. The history of the work is interesting. Twenty years ago the parish of St. Thomas in the town of St. Thomas, named from a Mr. Thomas, near Waverly was organized. It was small, and almost all its strength was among farmers, seven or eight miles south, in the county. It had no church building. Ten years ago the name of the parish was changed to St. Thomas, Waverly. The services were not held in the town, but in a schoolhouse, eight miles away, among our people. A year ago the railroad came, and made a town; and this fixed the location of the church which, while inconveniently placed for a number, was the choice of all Mr. Blackburn kindly gave excellent lots, and on the 20th ultimo, on the occasion of the Bishop's visit, the church although unfinished was used for the first time. The day was fine; the service at four in the afternoon; as the hour approached all the roads to town were filled with wagons and horses bringing persons. The sight was very animating and beautiful. The street in front of the church was crowded.

The church is frame, fifty by thirty. It will be neatly finished and be paid for. The seats were not yet made, and the congregation had to use plank extemporized for the occasion. It was so full that many had to stand or take places outside.

The services were said by the Rev. Messrs. Woodruff and Bulkley, the Bishop preached and confirmed one. He gave assurance, on request, that he would visit the parish to consecrate the church in September, provided it was finished and paid for by that time. The parish will at Convention apply to have its name changed from St. Thomas, Waverly, to the Church of the Mediator, Blackburn.

MISCELLANY.

—The Baltimore Church News, which, as a bright, enterprising paper, we are glad to welcome to our table, puts out an edition of twelve pages giving a verbatim report of the proceedings and debates in the recent Maryland Convention, which was excited and bitter.

—A Boston oculist has effected a cure of weak eyes by requiring his patient to give up tight shoes with high heels for only one month. At the end of the month the eyes were well, and the young lady learned how near she had come to no eyes at all. It may not follow that all young women equally devoted to wicked heels will be affected in like manner; but it serves to show that there is the possibility, and always the certainty that with that instrument of torture constantly at work in the center of the foot, where all those delicate nerves and tendons lie that are so intimately connected with all the other delicate nerves of the body, there must presently come some disarrangement and disease that may work fatal mischief with the health and, consequently, with the enjoyment and good looks of the wearer.—[Ex.]

—The English and American Bible Revision Committees are said to have decided to print the revised Bible in paragraphs according to the sense, rather than in chapters and verses, and the poetic parts in poetic measure.

—The Church of our Saviour New York, which it was found quite impossible to run on the plan of having no sermons, but only a liturgical service, has passed into the hands of the Baptists.

—Dr. Bellows said recently: I never knew one man or woman who steadily evaded the house of prayer and public worship on the Lord's day—who habitually neglected it, and had a theory on which it was neglected—that did not come to grief and bring other people to grief."

—Said a good lady to the preacher, as he came out of the pulpit, "You preached a good sermon to-night." "What is your standard of a good sermon?" "When a sermon makes you feel that you ought to do better, and that you can do better, I call it a good sermon." It would be hard to find a better definition than this.

—An old-fashioned minister was preaching in a tight, unventilated church, in which by some means a window was left partly open. A good deacon during the sermon closed it. The minister stopped, and turning to the deacon, said, in solemn tones, "If I were preaching in a jug, I believe you would put the cork in."

—Bronson Howard, the American play-writer, says that during his recent trip in England he observed that among the gentlemen of that country the habit of profanity has gone almost entirely out of use, and thinks the men this side of the Atlantic might profitably follow their example.

—Two boys examining a bush, one observed that it had a thorn; the other that it had a rose. Two men, being convalescent, were asked how they were. One said, 'I am better to-day;' the other said, 'I was worse yesterday.' Two boys eating their dinner, one said, 'I would rather have something better than this;' the other said, 'This is better than nothing.' Two men went to see New York. One visited the saloons, and thought New York wicked; the other visited the homes, and thought New York good. Two boys having a bee, one got honey and the other got stung. The first called it a honey-bee, and the other a stinging-bee. 'I am glad I live,' says one man; 'I am sorry I must die,' says another. 'I am glad,' says one, 'that it is no worse;' 'I am sorry,' says another, 'that it is no better.' In drinking lemonade you may detect only the sweet or only the sour. One man is thankful for his blessings, another is morose for his misfortunes. One man thinks he is entitled to a better world, and is dissatisfied because he has not got it; another thinks he is not justly entitled to any, and is satisfied with this. One says, 'Our good is mixed with evil;' another says, 'Our evil is mixed with good.'

—Rev. Dr. Guthrie says: Whiskey is good in its own place. There is nothing like whiskey in this world for preserving a man when he is dead. But it is one of the worst things in the world for preserving a man when he is living. If you want to keep a dead man, put him in whiskey; if you want to kill a living man, put whiskey into him.

—A facetious old lady, describing the rambling sermons of her minister, said: 'If the text had the small-pox his sermon would never catch it.'

—A French writer says very naively and truly 'while women go to the confessional Jesuits will reign'

—The Christian Register wisely remarks: 'With equal moral earnestness, one thoroughbred minister is worth a ore of men who are not scientifically trained in theology.'

WE see that the house of deputies of the general convention of 1880 is to meet in the church of the Holy Trinity, corner of Madison avenue and Forty-second street, New York, young Dr. Tyng's church, and the house of bishops will assemble in the Sunday-school room of the same church.

THE Methodists recently in their choice of Bishops gave a majority for the East as against the West where a great part of their strength is, all the four gentlemen chosen being from the East. Three of the four also were the heads of theological or collegiate institutions. This line of duty, as contrasted with the pastoral, has always furnished the larger supply of their dignitaries. One of the ministers elected as Bishop, Rev. D. Foss, D.D., LL.D., President of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., is a brother-in-law of Bishop Robertson, having married his oldest sister.

ONE clergyman in leaving a parish this year let it be known that he was in part moved to it by an utter and apparently incorrigible carelessness on the part of the vestry as to the condition of the church building. They would not attend to it themselves, or insist upon the sexton's attending to it. More than once when the minister came to church he found no fire made, at other times the church littered up, or with lamps unattended to, and going out during the service; or at the hour for beginning unlighted. It was not a question of money; they could afford a sexton, but would not look the matter up. The salary was not of course collected promptly; but this was not the critical trouble. In a sort of way interest in the church and the clergyman was strongly protested. But things were always late, not personally cared for; and at length the minister got tired of making the fire and lighting the lamps, and so resigned.

THERE was delivered in this city a few weeks ago a sermon by a stranger in which, with some excellent and trite persuasives to a steadfast standing by the Church's faith, there was an insistence on practice of more than doubtful usefulness. Of these it is not the purpose here to speak. But to the following sentence occurring in the sermon, there can only be the most indignant remonstrance. "The ritual of the early years of this century consisted chiefly in irreverence for holy places and holy things; in desecrated altars, neglected churches, the heathen urn, the black gown (emblem of sin and death), anything tending to exalt the creature more than the Creator, and leaving the church to the mice and spiders for six days, while the poor were driven to heresy and schism on the seventh." When we recall the quiet, unostentatious, saintly lives which were nurtured under the influences which are here lampooned; the strong intelligence as to Church principles; the well read books of devotion daily read, Nelson's Festivals and Fasts, Maut, A Kempis, Wilson; the lives all fruitful with charitable tempers and kindly deeds; the accustomed seat in church always filled, the frequented Communion holily received; when we recall these scenes of our childhood, then we cannot restrain the hot indignation at those fussy zealots who would deride what they have not the sense to admire. The words of St. James come up (see original), "The ritual that is pure and undefiled before God is this: to visit to fatherless and widows in his affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." And according to this standard the worship of that earlier day will compare well with that which seeks its glory now in bitterness and will-worship and pettiness.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

One of the most incontrovertible social facts of the day is that the business and professional force of our large cities is being kept up by the constant coming in of sturdy strength and ability from the country. In the high civilization of cities, families become small and are apt to run out in numbers and ability after a generation or two. With honorable exceptions after a few score of years or sooner the children of those who made the name and character of the city decline to indolence and are forgotten. Their places are taken by those who brought from the country sound health, simple habits and sterling character. It is hardly necessary to state the cause of this change. The fact of it may be proved by tracing back the beginnings of those who now exercise influence in business or professional life in St. Louis and other cities.

Nearly all the greater lawyers of this city were born and formed their habits and laid the foundations of their business in the smaller towns in the interior of the State. The same is true of our merchants, some bear traditional names, but the greater number have worked their way up from small beginnings on the farm or in small villages.

These facts have a bearing on our work throughout the Diocese. Our churches are mainly in the large cities and towns; we mainly reach and aim to reach only those who are accustomed to urban life. We touch but slightly the farmers and those smaller communities in which the line of difference between town and agricultural life is indefinite. If those persons come at all into contact with the teachings, worship or influence of the Church, it is only at a later period of their lives.

In the meantime these strong men, with clear minds and simple habits, who come to the city and quietly and steadily move up to the front, and are the coming leaders, have had nothing done for them by us, and swell the ranks of the opposition at the centres. All possibilities are contained in these quiet, forceful and simple lives: and our Church work for their sakes now, and for the sake of what they will afterward become, should include as full consideration and provision, not merely for the cities and towns, but for the country which is constantly recruiting the over-civilized cities with its sturdy life and strength.

LITERARY NOTES.

THE STANDARD SERIES.—We are glad that there is getting to be a wide appreciation of this remarkable library of first-class works. We find them in many hands. They are divided by subjects into different classes, and are pagged according to their class. The month brings to us more volumes of Knight's Popular History of England, which ought to be widely read. To set up the type required the handling of over forty millions of pieces of type by the compositors and the typesetting and distributing machinery employed on this work. For a man to count forty millions would take nearly three years' time, he counting 100 per minute eight hours each day. But the setting of the type is only one part of this herculean task. The proofs have to be read and corrected three and four times most carefully, so that the slightest misplacement of any one of these millions of pieces of type may be detected; then the electrotypes, the pressmen and the binders have their turn. This edition of this great work has not been cheapened by any omissions or condensation of the reading matter, nor, as is so common in the production of low-priced books, by resort being had to second-hand and defective plates, which are often purchasable for a trifle. We have also Chas. Kingsley's Town Geology, presenting curious studies of the stones found in the city streets; the two parts of Ruskin's Letters to Workingmen and Laborers; also Thos. Hughes' Alfred the Great, 20cts. The others are 15 cents each. The History is to be in eight parts at 30 cents each. I. K. Funk & Co., Publishers, 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

—The work of Dr. Rylance on Social Questions, noticed last month, is published by T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York, and its price in paper is 75cts.

—The American Church Press, 76 East Ninth street, New York, publish on card book a confirmation certificate for $1 a hundred; and a form for opening Sunday-school at one cent each.

ST. NICHOLAS for June, 1880, has an outdoor, summer-y character throughout, in the poems, the prose, and the seventy-two pictures. Among its striking features is an account of the "Summer Home" for poor city children, at Bath, L. I., with seven pictures. Another attractive paper is an article copiously illustrated, clearly explaining to young people "How to Camp Out" cheaply, easily, and comfortably. There are long installments of the two serials,—"Jack and Jill," by Louisa M. Alcott, with two fine illustrations by Dielman; and "The Fairport Nine." The number contains five complete short stories, all illustrated: "Little Miss Stone," by Mary Wager Fisher, describing the amusing way in which a very little girl was cured of sewing on Sunday; "Bessie Ainsley Doctors the Daddies," a tale of a little girl's disappointing experience with her mother's favorite patent medicine; "The 'West Wind's Last Cruise,'" a stirring sea-story for boys; "Lost and Found," and "Marion's Story." Among the funny things are the verses "Ah Lo," with two comical pictures by Hopkins, and the curious "Chronicles of the Molbos."

TOWN GEOLOGY by Charles Kingsley, with an appendix by Prof. Huxley on Coral and Coral Reefs. This is put out as one of the series of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science, costs only 15cts. It is written in the interest of those who, living in town, desire to find out something which will interest and amuse them close to hand; and forthwith even the stones of a town give instruction. The 24 yearly issues of this series may be subscribed for at $3. I. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 Fourth avenue, New York.

—The June WIDE AWAKE opens with a delightful story by Sarah O. Jewett of "Deephaven" fame, entitled "Cake Crumbs." Following is an exquisite poem by Mrs. Margaret J. Preston, "Maid Cicely's Steeple Cap"—A. D., 1480. It has a very lovely picture. "Choosing Abe Captain," by James Clement Ambrose, is an interesting reminiscence of President Lincoln. Another first-rate story is "How Patty Curtis Learned to Sweep," by Mrs. M. L. Evans. "Daisy's Bust," by Mabel Elwell, is as good as a story, although an account in detail of how a bust is made. William H. Rideing gives an interesting account of "The Language of Ships." Of the serials, "Five Little Peppers" are having all sorts of good times, while the "Two Young Homesteaders" make a new acquaintance in the pretty town-bred "Sweetbriar Rose." $2 a year; 20 cents a number. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY. June. Eugene Schuyler's Peter the Great and Cable's Grandissimes move on with power. The illustrations are marvels of beauty; Dr. Holland's Home and Society Papers are interesting and important. Scribner & Co., 743 Broadway, New York. $4 a year.

MUSICAL HERALD. June. Monthly, with some good music in every number. Musical Herald Company, Boston.

OUTDOOR LIFE IN EUROPE, by Rev. Edward Payson Thwing. Price, 20 cents. Standard Series. This new volume is full of novel interest, describing in a series of brilliant word-pictures outdoor life abroad, from the Hebrides to Venice, including sketches of people and places, and street scenes in Ireland, Wales, Scotland, England, France, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy. The whole is fully illustrated by engravings and etchings, and contains a full index. Bright, breezy, and beautiful.

THE SALON OF MADAME NECKER—Standard Series. I. K. Funk & Co., New York. Price, 15 cents. Taken from documents among the archives of Coppet. Collected and edited by her great-grandson, Othenin d'Haussonville. Parts I. and II. Translated from the French, for the Standard Series publications, by Mary Stuart Smith. This remarkable book has created much interest in France, where it has been but just issued. The translation is the first published in America. The book has the interest of a thrilling novel, yet every word is history.

PREACHER AND HOMILETIC MONTHLY. June. Sermonic: "The Beatitudes," by Joseph Parker, D.D.; "Christians and the Opera," by J. O. Peck, D.D.; "Sorrow for Sin," by William Morley Punshon, D.D.; "An Untroubled Heart," by Prof. R. D. Hitchcock, D.D.; "A Winter with Moody and Sankey in St. Louis," by C. L. Goodell, D.D.; "The Faith of Abraham," by John Hall, D.D.; "Light on Important Texts," by Howard Crosby, D.D.; "Brotherly talks with Young Ministers," by T. L. Cuyler, D.D. This will prove a valuable number to all students of Scripture. Subscription $2.50 per year, 25 cents single number. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

PERSONAL.

On the Sunday morning after his election for Midlothian, Mr. Gladstone, now Premier of England, took part in the morning service at Hawarden Church, England, by reading the Lessons appointed for the day.

—In the Bible in which Mrs. Hegeman, who was killed at the falling of the Twenty-third street building in New York had written the records of the births of her children, she had also, it was afterward found, added: "I expect to pass through this life but once. If there is any kindness to show, or any good thing I can do to my fellow-beings, let me do it now: let me not defer it, for I shall not pass this way again."

—In an Episcopal Church in Washington, of which the Rev. Clement C. Butler was pastor, an old citizen writes: "I occupied a pew adjoining 'Gadsby's Hotel' pew; and one Sunday, that pew being full, I made room in mine for Mr. Henry Clay. Soon after he had taken his seat Mr. Daniel Webster walked up the aisle, evidently intending to make himself comfortable in the hotel pew, and as he stood observing the crowded condition of the pew in question, I stood up and invited him to take a seat in mine. He declined, saying: 'I will not rob you of your seat sir,' and passed up into another pew. This was a Communion day; and later I observed Mr. Clay and Mr. Webster both walking toward the altar. The former obtained a place at once with the communicants, while Mr. Webster stood waiting for an opportunity to commune, which he did afterward."

—The Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Huntington, of All Saints' Episcopal church, at Worcester, Mass., has received a call to St. Stephen's church, Philadelphia, at a salary of $15,000, and three assistants. He declined it.

—Four of the Bishops of the Church of England are widowers—the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Rochester, and the Bishop of Bangor. All the rest are married men, and most of them have large families. The Bishop of London, for instance, has eleven daughters, the Archbishop of York has four sons and five daughters, the Bishop of Salisbury has five sons and eight daughters, the Bishop of Bath and Wells six sons and four daughters, the Bishop of Oxford three sons and four daughters, the Bishop of Hereford seven sons and three daughters, the Bishop of St. Albans four sons and daughters, the Bishop of Lincoln two sons and five daughters, and so on all through the spiritual peerage. The only two Bishops who are childless are those of Worcester and Lichfield; and the Bishop of Lichfield has not yet forgotten his honeymoon. One, and only one, of the Bishops has been twice married, the Bishop of Rochester, and he has been a widower for a couple of years.

—Dr. Tait, when Bishop of London, was present at an All Saints', Margaret street, service. The then vicar escorted the Bishop and Mrs. Tait to their carriage. The Bishop expressed his disapproval of the altar bouquets and floral decorations. The good vicar, turning to Mrs. Tait, quietly said, "Thank you so much for the beautiful flowers you sent us."

—Bishop Atkinson has been compelled to withdraw his appointments and goes to Baltimore under medical advice. It is hardly probable that he can attend the Diocesan Convention.

—Bishop Gregg of Texas has purchased a home in Austin and will reside permanently in that city. Within a few days of this announcement comes the painful intelligence that Mrs. Gregg has died, after a married life of forty years. The Bishop spends the summer in Texas, instead of as before at the University of the South.

—Bishop Kerfoot of Pittsburg and all of his family have been severely sick with scarlet fever, and his son has just died from it.

—Bishop Potter recently ordained in New York a person Deacon who had been previously ordained by Bishop Cummins, after his deposition, presbyter.

—The Rev. Dr. French, the editor of The Standard of the Cross, which, by the way, is one of the very best, most thoughtful and suggestive papers which reaches us, has held the office of Secretary of the Ohio Convention for thirty-four years in succession.

ARCADIA--A PLEASANT JOURNEY.

We had pictured to our minds in a rather indistinct manner what we would see on the journey from St. Louis to Arcadia, which we made on the Iron Mountain's now popular excursion train. Visions of shady bowers, sparkling streams and luxuriant foliage had forced themselves upon us previous to entering upon the trip. We had compared the journey to some we had made in other localities and concluded to be gratified with similar scenes on this one. Were we disappointed in our estimate of this scenery? We certainly were, for there is no such attractive and changeable scenes to be found in the same distance upon any of the numerous railroad lines centering in our city. For twenty miles after leaving the depot, an ever-changing panorama greets the eye. Spread out upon the east is the broad expanse of the Mississippi, bordered upon the Illinois shore with highly cultivated farms, and here and there can be seen the rich coloring of dense groves of natural timber; beyond this can be seen the elevated uplands in the distance. Upon the west of our train high hills with their corresponding deep valleys, through which delightful springs of clear, sparkling water flow, add interest to the journey, while here and there charming little cottages, with their beautifully laid-out lawns and flower gardens, give additional charms to the trip. Leaving the river, our train rapidly glides through upland and valleys until, as dinner time arrives, we are found rushing past the famous Iron Mountain and Pilot Knob, and finally come to a halt at Arcadia, our destination. Here we are also destined to meet with another pleasant disappointment. Mrs. Roberson, the landlady, knowing the weakness of humanity for the good things of this world, has already set out one of the most inviting of meals, which we all partake of with a relish which we seldom have in the city, and which our ride of 89 miles has furnished us with a most excellent appetite for. An hour spent in this delightful spot, with every breath of air laden with the perfume of flowers, prepares us well for the return which is made in the cool of the afternoon, and in the luxurious coaches supplied by the Iron Mountain Company. In the trip we learned much, invigorated our systems with the rich ozone of an elevated region, and returned with the determination to repeat the trip often. One hundred and seventy-eight miles ride for two dollars and fifty cents was the most we ever had for the money.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins, editor, Jaccard Building, St. Louis.

—The S. S. of Trinity church is doing most excellent and churchly work under the administration of Mr. Leslie. He takes to his work experience and tact, wisdom and energy, and, best of all, much of the self sacrificing, denying spirit of Him "who went about doing good."

—That S. S. veteran, Mr. Wallace Delafield, resigned the superintendency of St. George's school, to be succeeded by Mr. Ferris. Scarcely too much can be said of the results of Mr. Delafield's labor, and much is already said of the efficiency and zeal of his successor.

—Just now the picnic fever is at its height among the S. S. scholars of the Church in St. Louis. We have heard of three schools—Holy Communion, St. George's and Christ church—who will give the scholars a day of refreshing in "God's first temples," free from city's heat and dust.

—Mr. Ralph Talbot, for two years past the efficient assistant superintendent of the S. S. Church of the Holy Communion, resigned on Easter last. We do not know Mr. Talbot's designs toward S. S. work, or if he have any, but we know the superintendent whom he so wisely assisted places high estimate upon his valuable services and greatly regrets the circumstances which led his efficient coadjutor to such a step. We trust Mr. Talbot will soon find a home in the work for which he is so admirably adapted, and the S. S. of Holy Communion an assistant superintendent as faithful and wise as his predecessor.

—We extend our thanks to the author of the article on S. S. music, and hope that others engaged in the work will reply with equal readiness to the invitation extended in our last issue and herewith renewed. Write us fully, freely and often on the many topics which lie so near our work. With our correspondent's views on S. S. music we in the main agree, but advise the most careful discrimination in selecting from the hymnology of the day. There is too much a tendency to select hymns which "go of themselves," forgetting that our music should be one of two things—a song of praise and devotion, or an exhortation to work and faithful service. Moreover, the hymns used during the seasons of the Church year should have emphatic reference to festival or fast celebrated; for truth may be, and often is, more effectually taught by singing than otherwise. Of the many orders of Easter service sent the writer during that blessed tide there were but few having special reference to the day celebrated. One was almost wholly made up of selections from the so-called Moody and Sanky collections; another had but one Easter hymn and that of very poor quality. There is no excuse for that now. The church makes ample provision for our wants by furnishing us hymns which cheer the heart of saint and sage, priest and martyr, in the days when it was no small thing to be found on the Lord's side. And many of these are set to music which the youngest in Christ may be readily taught, since they have due respect to Church's truth and doctrine, and yet sufficient of the "go of themselves" to meet with hearty favor. In the devotional exercises of the school, exceptional care should be used. Think of opening a school with the "Sweet Bye-and-Bye," a thing parodied and burlesqued, simply because it delights the ear of the populace in nearly every concert hall and beer garden in the land; or of closing a school with the jingle and irreverent repetition of "Jesus Loves even Me." There is, can be, no excuse for this while we have the sweet "Safely through another week God has brought us on our way," Keble's "Sun of my soul," Lyte's "Abide with me," or Shirley's "Lord dismiss us with thy blessing." Our limited space forbids further notice of this subject, but we hope to hear from others of experience—the results of their labors in this direction.

GRACE CHURCH (KIRKWOOD) S. S.

The following account of the beautiful Whitsunday services of this school which has come to us we present with pleasure to our readers, feeling certain that it will offer suggestions which will be of service to other schools for similar occasions. Wisely directed, these festivals are of great value, and as this one was arranged with care and good taste, it was particularly instructive.

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

Processional Hymn 232.

Sentences, Confession, Lord's Prayer, Versicles Benedic Anima Mea, Gregorian Creed, intoned by whole school.

Collects.

Hymn 192,—Rossini.

Following which came the portion of the services which gave the exercises their distinctive character. The purpose of the occasion was to place vividly before the mind of the children the seasons of the Church year. Beginning with Advent, the Rector then called the names of the seasons in order, and as each season was called, two children bearing a beautiful banner with the name of the season appropriately emblazoned on it came forward to the chancel. The Rector made a few remarks explanatory of the teaching of the season; the children carrying the banner recited an appropriate selection of Scripture, made their offerings, and then returned to their places. The color of each banner was varied according to the season, being purple, green, orange, white, blue, crimson, etc. A hymn was also sung at the representation of each season. After the representation of each season separately, the banner-bearers formed a procession and, marching into the chancel, formed a semi-circle while Hymn 202 was sung, presenting the whole in one spectacle. They then returned to their seats, and the Bishop, who was present, made a few remarks and gave his benediction. The whole service was beautiful and instructive.

The banners were all home work and the beauties of the representation were due to the esthetic taste of the corps of teachers who worked faithfully, lovingly and energetically.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MUSIC.

It is strange that in a Church like our own in which worship, and therefore music, is so important a feature, that good and appropriate music for the Sunday-school should receive so little attention. This is not saying that we have no song-books duly edited by Churchmen for Sunday school use, nor do we mean to say that these books are not good, but only that they are not sufficiently broad in scope and do not contain a sufficient variety of songs or hymns. Such books as are now issued by Churchmen run too much in one line, which though good in itself does, in the end, if exclusively followed, become dry. We would not have supersensitive Churchmen suppose for a moment that we intend to condemn the songs and books as either bad or poor, or that we would advise the abandonment of the collections they contain, for we expressly commend them as good and most desirable to be preserved; we only urge that a reasonable addition be made to the variety and character of the music. In order also to spare weak nerves, we would say at once that we do not purpose to extend the variety so far as to include the "Sweet Bye-and-Bye" or "Hold the Fort" kind of music, but besides that silly jingle there is some music in use in other Sunday schools than our own which, while bright, cheerful and inspiring is also instructive and spiritually beneficial. We think our own Sunday-school Hymnals are admirable productions to build upon, and consider them the best collection to be found in any church; we would not reject a single song they contain—they are evidently selections made with great care, but there are nevertheless types and states of mind and feeling for which they do not make sufficient provision, either to excite or satisfy; to stir up the indolent, to solace the sorrowful or to refresh the weary.

Those who are actually engaged in Sunday-school work best know its necessities, and what teacher has not seen the time when the school seemed all tired out with dullness and hard work and longed for a good, lively song to waken it up? The doctrinal instruction which we are bound to impart in the Sunday-school will in the hands of many teachers become wearisome to children, it is hard to find teachers who can inspire the lesson at all times with a lively personality; superintendents and teachers are obliged to take whatever comes and do the best they can, and they need the freedom of resort to every unobjectionable means to overcome the weariness and dullness which, from time to time, inevitably creeps over the school, and nothing is so effective for this purpose as bright music, songs which, as some one said, "sing themselves."

GENERAL NEWS.

—The aged Bishop of Mississippi at the late Convention urged the matter of the election of an Assistant Bishop as a needed relief to himself, and offered to relinquish a part of his own salary for the purpose, but nothing was done.

—The Bishop of Tennessee was only able to be present at a portion of the sessions of his Convention, and was not able to preside. The attendance was small. It was hoped that after a year's rest from official duty, the Bishop might regain the use of his voice.

—The Alabama Convention voted for an appellate court in the trial of clergymen, disapproved of the provincial scheme according to the lines presented by the Committee of Bishops. They left the matter of giving to the University of the South to the discretion of the clergy.

—In the Springfield Convention a resolution was passed that an effort be made by their deputies to the next General Convention to effect a change in the name of the Church to something more appropriate. A proposition looking to the naming of a Board of Nominations who, instead of the vestries of the churches, should choose parish clergymen, was brought forward, but does not seem to have passed.

—There has been effected a settlement for the present at least of the ritual controversy in St. Clement's Church in Philadelphia. After the admonition mentioned in our last by the Bishop to the Rector to cease from certain ceremonials, and the declaration that the Rector proposed to resist the admonition, and then bring on a trial, it seems that the Rector proposed to resign. But now he has withdrawn his resignation, and under protest agreed to comply with the Bishop's admonition.

—A bill was presented in the Legislature of New York last week to incorporate the Cathedral Chapter of the diocese of Western New York.

—The permanent Methodist Extension Fund now amounts to $342,000, with enough pledged to make it $500,000. The Christian Advocate says this means at two churches every week forever.

—On Easter Day, as a memorial to his son, S. H. Housman paid off a debt of $30,000 that was hanging over St. Peter's, Germantown.

—We talk about the early triumphs of Christianity, but the early records of the Church pall in the light of what is taking place before our eyes. The number of converts in Madagascar alone within thirty-five years probably exceeds the number of converts in the Roman Empire for the first three centuries of the Christian era.

—An interesting feature in the aggressive Church work of Trinity Church, Iowa City, is the appointment of a committee to visit the leading hotels on Sunday morning and to address a neatly printed invitation to church to all strangers who are spending the day. The committee accompany those who accept to church and see that their guests are provided with seats, Prayer Books, and every kindly attention. This is a step in the right direction.

—St. Andrew's, Chariton, Iowa, paid off its indebtedness on Easter Monday, and as this result was effected by the activity of the ladies, the congregation adopted the novel procedure of electing eight vestry-women and two wardens to serve for the coming year.

—An ejectment suit has been begun by the Diocesan Trustees of Iowa against the occupant of the rectory in Waukon who was some time since degraded from the ministry of the Church.

—Lighted candles were used for the first time in the services at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Springfield, Ill., on Whitsunday. The rector, Rev. Mr. Larrabee, preached a sermon justifying the innovation, all of which has created much comment among those interested.

—At the Florida Convention Bishop Young was unable on account of sickness to preside. The proceedings were not important.

—The Stewart Cathedral on Long Island is not to have seats, only straw mats on which to kneel.

—In Massachusetts the confirmations last year were 1,005—of which 683 were from Sunday-schools, being 66 per cent.

—It is stated that St. Albans Church, New York City, has been sold for debt.

—In California the Whitsunday offertory is required to be devoted to the permanent Episcopal Fund of the Diocese. All parishes and missions are allowed each year ten per cent upon the total amount of their contributions to this fund on account of their assessments for the Diocesan Fund, or bishop's salary. It is therefore to their interest to contribute to this fund.

—Bishop Jaggar in his Convention Address on the question of provincial conventions, argued strongly in favor of continuing the General Convention and against dividing the United States into provinces. The Convention voted an appropriation for expense of telephone connecting the Bishop's residence in Avondale with his office in the city.

—A Roman Catholic merchant in Australia died some time ago, leaving seven thousand dollars to the Church "to deliver his soul from purgatory." The executor refuses to pay the legacy until proof shall be furnished that the soul of the dead really has been delivered.

—New York city has twenty-six Presbyterian churches—exactly the number it had thirty years ago, when the population was half a million souls. The Interior tells us that there are nine fewer Presbyterian churches in Chicago than there were ten years ago, while Cincinnati is in a worse condition than it was thirty years ago.

—The late presiding Bishop Griswold said "that of the two hundred and eighty-five persons ordained by him, two hundred and seven were from non-Episcopal families." Bishop Randall says "there are at the present time (1858) upwards of eighteen hundred clergymen in the Episcopal Church, about twelve hundred of whom, it is estimated, came into the Church from other folds." The late Bishop De Lancey said of the one hundred clergymen in his Diocese, but twenty had been reared Episcopalians.

—The Omaha Guardian suggests: "We hope that the coming General Convention will so alter the canon on the resignation of Bishops as to allow a Bishop when he has attained to 70 years of age, or has served in the office for 25 years, to retire from his jurisdiction, on his own motion, and with 'emeritus' honors. He should be allowed to retain his seat in the House of Bishops for the sake of his counsel and experience, and should be allowed to become the presiding Bishop if Providence called him to that position.

—Some idea of the steady growth of the Church in this country may be gathered from the following statistics.

We had in 1820.....	9 Bishops	301 Clergy	15 Dioceses.
We had in 1830.....	11 Bishops	514 Clergy	20 Dioceses.
We had in 1840.....	19 Bishops	1040 Clergy	27 Dioceses.
We had in 1850.....	32 Bishops	1557 Clergy	29 Dioceses.
We had in 1860.....	43 Bishops	2113 Clergy	33 Dioceses.
We had in 1870.....	52 Bishops	2786 Clergy	39 Dioceses.
We had in 1878.....	62 Bishops	3211 Clergy	48 Dioceses.

—The Convention of Northern New Jersey ruled against allowing women to vote at parish elections; and in Iowa the Bishop ruled that women elected as vestrymen in a certain parish could not hold office.

—The General Theological Seminary of New York is asking the Church for $280,000 for endowment, the Philadelphia Seminary asks for $50,000; Nashotah asks for $45,000 to relieve it of debt.

—The Virginia Convention decided by a vote, which on the clerical side was very close, to ask the General Convention for an Assistant Bishop on account of extent of territory. The other side desired a division of the Diocese, but as the Bishop declared that he would not consent to this, they tried in vain to postpone all action.

—The Episcopal Register of Philadelphia, in entering upon its eleventh volume, has adopted a smaller size and sixteen pages. It is a very superior paper, well gotten up, and of admirable tone and wide enterprise.

—Another trial has come off in this city because of marrying a minor; this time it was against a justice of the peace. The girl was fully developed and looked like a woman; she and the man declared that she was of age. The mother prosecutes; the judge rules that no assurance or affidavit even of the parties will do; there must be a certificate from parents or guardians that the persons are of age. The justice pays $300 and $50 costs.

—There were five Bishops and many clergymen and eminent laymen in attendance at Omaha at the laying of the corner-stone of the Cathedral. Rev. Dr. Runcie was present from this Diocese.

—The South Carolina Convention protests against the division of the country into provinces according to the lines reported by the Committee of Bishops, and declared moreover that they were not prepared to admit that the General Convention has the right to divide the country into provinces.

—We see that the Illinois Convention has not placed either Messrs. Courtney or Holland on the list of Deputies or Provincial Deputies to General Convention. We note also the absence of the name of L. B. Otis from the Illinois deputation, of that of the Rev. Dr. Leeds from Maryland, and Rev. Dr. H. M. Thompson from Louisiana. In Illinois the clerical personnel of the Standing Committee changes almost wholly from year to year. This year not a single Chicago rector is on the Committee.

—Dr. Tyng, Jr., says that in the city of New York 'any one familiar with Christian work among the plain people knows full well that conversions from Romanism are as common as from sin.'

—The trustees of the St. Louis Law Library, which has for some time been opened during certain hours on Sunday, decided recently to close it on that day. So much dissatisfaction was expressed at their decision that the question was submitted to the Library Association, who sustained their action by a vote of 53 to 44.

—At a meeting of the New York Presbytery it was stated by a special committee that there are no more Presbyterian churches in that city now than there were thirty years ago, while every other denomination, especially the Catholic, has greatly increased in numbers.

Unparalleled Success of the Good Enough Shoe and System!

CRUELTY

TO ANIMALS

END.

NO FROG, NO FOOT!

NO FOOT, NO HORSE!

NO BURNING,

NOR

BUTCHERING OF THE FOOT!

The Good-Enough Shoe and System has proven to be the Savior of the noblest of the animal creation, the horse, by its simple and practical method of keeping THE HORSE ON HIS FEET, LESSENING HIS LABORS, AND PROLONGING HIS LIFE. The anxiety of the ladies at rest! Their pets no longer subject to the maltreatment of the foot, as received at the hands of inexperienced horse shoers, who have not made a study of the anatomy of the horse's foot. The greatest proof of the success of the shoe and system is the innumerable cures of cripples, through improper shoeing, it has performed in the past year. Amongst the many horse owners who have given this shoe and system a thorough and impartial test, whose horses are now being shod with this shoe, and who are amongst its most staunch supporters are the Hon. Crowded in the Front, Crowded in the Rear, Crowded in the Middle, Crowded on the Sides, It is, Indeed, the Banner Stock

We feel perfectly justified in speaking pretty strongly of our work in the East this season. It was our purpose to bring the best stock of Clothing to St. Louis that St. Louis ever had, and we feel, we know, we have accomplished it. A gentleman said in our Store the other day, "As a usual thing I put little confidence in what advertisers say, but I must confess that your store, your stock and your prices warrant all that you have said or can possibly say in any advertisement."

We shall continue to do as we have done since opening in this City, namely: REPRESENT TRUTHFULLY ALL GOODS SOLD BY US, MAKE BUT ONE PRICE, MARK ALL GOODS IN PLAIN FIGURES, AND MAKE IT ALTOGETHER TO YOUR INTEREST TO TRADE AT OUR MAMMOTH ESTABLISHMENT

CONVENTION.

An offertory will be made at every Service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the clergy are requested to give notice. The Bishop is always glad to meet the people, the vestry, and the Sunday-school children, as shall be arranged; and while he is in a parish he is quite at the disposal of the parish. He desires that the parish register may be written up against his coming, and that he may see them.

KANSAS CITY.

Perhaps the differences among two of the Kansas City parishes do not touch us in this city with sufficient closeness to excite interest or concern, but intimations come to us from various sides that they are doing serious harm in the place itself. This was the burning question at our last Convention; it is sure to come up in one shape or another at the next. Kansas City is the second city in the Diocese, and instead of consuming its strength upon itself ought to be a power for good in all the surrounding country. We give the situation of the case as it now stands.

We need hardly recall the circumstances as to how the Bishop was induced, after having consented to the change of the name of St. Luke's Church to St. Mary's; to recall his approval, and reaffirm his consent for the procedure to organize St. Mary's in the First Ward. After this St. Luke's (St. Mary's) acquired from the trustees under Mrs. Troost's will a title to the Troost property, and also bought the tax title. At the Convention both parishes were accorded the same recognition, and it was determined that no legal prejudice in any other place should accrue from any action of Convention. St. Mary's, First Ward, proceeded to put up an inexpensive frame church, near the Troost property, which was not completed sufficiently for service before the Rector, Mr. Holeman, in December, left for his annual visit for the winter to Florida. Sunday-school and lay services were, however, held in it. It suffered from the heavy winds of this Spring, so that, in spite of efforts to repair it, very soon after Mr. Holeman returned, it had to be disused. Since then Mr. H. has been holding services at his residence close by. The congregation is so feeble that it has not been able to take the building down to save the lumber, and put it up again, although it is estimated that this would only cost $200.

The Troost property, close by, consists of a corner lot, say 60x275, on which is a brick dwelling. The surrounding land has been cut down to grade, but this remains, and has been secured on the two sides of the corner by a cut stone retaining wall fifteen or more feet high. Last spring Mr. Jardine of St. Mary's laid the corner stone of a church across the rear of the Troost lot, and using the stone of the retaining wall, which was taken down, for the building, which is about 60x30 feet, cutting down the earth so as to place the building on the grade of the street. This building is now drawing toward completion.

This building is within the limits of St. Mary's Parish, First Ward, as drawn by the Bishop in conference with the late Rector of St. Luke's, Mr. Buck. It is within the 500 yards of the damaged and disused St. Mary's Church, First Ward, within which, by a canon of the Diocese, it is forbidden for a church to be erected in the vicinity of another church, or land leased for the erection of a church.

The Troost property cannot be worth more than three or four thousand dollars, and has debt on it; and the neighborhood presents no prospect of great immediate results for Church work done in it. Both parties declare that they are moved by the simple purpose of exercising the trust for the benefit of the neighborhood in question. St. Mary's (St. Luke's) contends that, as the action of Convention declared that it was not to be to the prejudice of its legal rights, and as the other St. Mary's asserts that the trust can only be carried out by having a Church building in the ward in question, they are justified in putting up the building there. And they hold that the other St. Mary's building is disused, and so is no longer a church. St. Mary's, First Ward, deny these positions, claim the property in question, and that damage is being done by the removal of the retaining wall, and will ask for an injunction if services are held in the new building.

The two parishes have chosen three able lawyers as referees, to whom they propose to submit their cases. There is reserved the right of appeal to the Supreme Court of the State, and it is declared that whichever side loses will certainly carry the appeal up. This, of course, means years of litigation, and the using up of the whole property in costs and expenses. The whole thing is gone, if that course is followed, and there is besides the greater damage done to the Church in the community by bickerings and scandals.

St. Mary's (St. Luke's) a month or two ago informed the Bishop that they had made certain propositions to St. Mary's, First Ward, for the settlement of the matter; that with the express understanding to start with, that the income of the property should only be used for Church work in the First Ward, the property should be conveyed to trustees chosen by the two parishes, and be held by them, that St. Mary's, First Ward, should then be dissolved; that the administration of the property for Church work should be in the hands of the Rector and Vestry of St. Mary's (St. Luke's.)

The Bishop, from his knowledge of the situation, stated that he saw very readily, from the diverse theological views of the two parishes, the reason why the proposition had not received a favorable response, and that he would suggest certain modifications of the proposition, and if they were accepted by St. Mary's, (St. Luke's) he would recommend them for adoption by the other parish. Premising that both parties were sincere in desiring only the best spiritual results for the ward in question, he proposed that the property should, with the preliminary understanding before expressed, and now to be made formal, that it should only be used for Church work in the ward in question, remains as now with the title in St. Mary's; but that the administration of the income for Church work be with the Bishop of the Diocese, at his discretion; that St. Mary's, First Ward, be then dissolved; that the old building and property be abandoned, and work be carried on the new building; that then all legal proceeding be stopped.

To this proposition no definite reply has been received. Of course, the matter has therefore not come in form before St. Mary's, First Ward, for their action. The alternative to this is a legal action in which, whatever side gained, all will be lost, and other damage to the Church be done.

It is perhaps due to the Church that this statement should be made of the situation. Certainly, every effort is worth the while which tends to abate the unseemly strife.

A FEW days ago a young man brought to the Bishop a note addressed to one of our city clergy who was out of town. His wife had opened it, and seen that it was written to her husband as to a friend, and signed by "Rev. James H. Crawford" of Jacksonville, Florida, and asked for help for the bearer, he having given his previous Sunday's collection to him. The lady sent the person with the note to another clergyman who helped him, and sent him to the other clergy. In this way he came to the Bishop. He in a moment knew that there was no Church clergyman of that name, the prefix "Rev." in the signature was enough to raise a suspicion. On inquiry, the person persisted in saying that he was an Episcopal minister and was in charge of the church there. The Bishop then had to tell him that there was no Episcopal minister of that name, and the Rector there was altogether another person. He declared he had seen the sign over his church, "Union M. E. Church," and was not that, he asked, the Episcopal Church? He was answered that that meant a Methodist Church. "And are not," he asked, "the Methodist Episcopal and the Episcopal Churches the same?" He was assured that there was an essential difference between them. The person evidently did not know much about Churches, other than to get money from them.

NORTHWEST ST. LOUIS.

For a number of years past the tendency of a very good class of population in this city has been toward the northwestern portion of St. Louis, near Easton Avenue and Glasgow Place. It constitutes a district, in Church matters, sufficiently removed from the Church of the Holy Communion and St. Peter's in which to form a large and strong and prospectively a very important parish. Attention has been had on it for years, but the growth of the neighborhood has been much more rapid for the past two years. The Church Brotherhood for a time had a Sunday-school there, as did also the Sunday Missionary Host. The Rev. Mr. Betts for a while had services, as did also Mr. Chesnutt. For various reasons, but principally because of the lack of any proper place in which to gather Sunday-school or congregation, the work came to but little result.

In the meantime, the need is becoming more urgent. Numbers of communicants are known to be living in the vicinity who have not connected themselves with any parish because of the distance away, and others belonging to the nearer churches attend but infrequently, and are but loosely identified. Of course there are others who are connected with and deeply interested in their old parishes.

Some weeks ago, after consultation with the Rev. Mr. Robert, the nearest rector, the Bishop entered into correspondence with the Rev. Mr. Melish of Cincinnati, a clergyman of ability and possessed of private means, and who expressed a desire to come to this city. Mr. M. visited this city, and in company with the Bishop and Mr. Robert went over the ground, and looked at several possible sites for a church, north and west of Easton and Garrison. He was very much impressed with the opportunity, and the promise of the work, and was ready, under certain conditions, to undertake the duty. It is not certain, however, that the conditions can be met. They are such as gather about the beginning of any such enterprise,—the need of one or more who will purchase, or lease with provision for purchase, a suitable piece of land, and move in the matter of securing means to put up a chapel, and get together the salary of a clergyman. Mr. M. is not ready to take any risk, and his name may therefore have to be dropped.

Meantime the opportunity remains and the Church's duty is not done. It is more than seven years since a parish was organized in this city; and we do not know how many thousands the census people will allow us to have increased in that time. The Rector of the Holy Communion has taken an enlightened and just view of the movement. He knows that for the few whom he may lose by such an enterprise their places will be filled up by those nearer, and the Church at large will grow largely by bringing privileges closer to those who are too far now to use fully those which we have. His parish may not render any special help, but will not be disposed to hinder.

In Cincinnati recently, when the treasurer of the general missions of the Diocese was asked whether there had been any falling off in contributions for the general work from Cincinnati since city mission work had been commenced there, he replied that he had received more instead of less. Life begets life, and an enlightened policy, such as our situation now calls for, will help every local interest.

Let those in the neighborhood in question, knowing what has been thought of on their behalf, consult together, and take steps looking to the establishment of a parish in their vicinity. The initiative should be taken by those most concerned.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—Mr. Mason, the Lay Reader of the colored church in this city, resisted the proposition of his people that they should have a festival and raise the money assessed upon them by the Bishop as the proportion of their interest. He said it was a just charge which they should give out of their own pockets, and they did it. They used to have festivals, and nearly always lost by them. They paid the money outright, as they do now all the minor expenses of the mission, which is an advance.

—Our old and esteemed friend, the Rev. Mr. Dunn, formerly of Sedalia, who never would omit a service during his two or three years incumbency there, although he was always feeble, recently suffered an affliction in the death of his only son. Until then he had been doing full duty in Orange, Texas; but the shock precipitated his disease, and he started for New Mexico, where he hoped that the climate would help him, and accepted duty. He got half way there, when he found that the higher altitude was distressing him, and after a fortnight's sickness had to turn back. He reached this city in extreme weakness. His brethren ministered to him; he remained three days in St. Luke's Hospital to recruit, and then started with Mrs. Dunn for Baltimore. We fear that he can not live much longer. His spirit was as gentle as that of a woman, and as intrepid as that of a soldier.

—The Rev. G. C. Betts has resigned his Chaplaincy of the Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd in this city.

—At Carrollton a solid brick foundation has been put up under the church in place of the high posts before. This, done at a cost of nearly $200 and paid for, has enabled some grading to be done, adding very much to the appearance of the church.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Sedalia, 3; Jefferson City, 10.

—Mt. Calvary and St. George's in this city have recently had steamboat excursions on the river, at which very large numbers attended. They were on Saturday night, and greatly promoted the church attendance the next day.

—When St. John's Church, Cameron, was finished three years ago a debt of $500 was left on it. In the meantime, until this spring, only $30 had been paid on the principal. As the net result of the Art Loan Exhibition, Mr. Waterman paid $175 on the debt. He then went to work and secured good subscriptions for over $300, payable Sept. 1st. This covers the whole debt, and in three months will leave the property wholly free.

—The Rev. Mr. Scheetz has been giving efficient missionary service in the counties in the northeastern part of the State. This duty took him away from his parish to its injury. Such arrangements have now been made between his vestry and himself as will enable him to give all his time to his parish. This will compel him to give up all regular outside missionary work. He will, however, until a definite arrangement can be made with his former work, give it week-day services and visitation. This makes another vacancy of interest and importance to be filled, with the clergyman's residence at Kirksville.

—During the Rev. Mr. Chesnutt's clerical life in the Diocese, which has not been in large places, in something over seven years he has baptized 251 persons, an average of 35 a year; and he has presented 90 for confirmation; a very good record.

—At the ordination of the Rev. Sturges Allen last month, he was presented by the Rev. Mr. Dunlop, who had prepared him for his entrance into the General Theological Seminary, through which he passed with the name of high scholarship.

—The following warning has been received about a bogus clergyman calling himself Hughes, alias Jarvis, dark complexion, prominent forehead, high cheek bones, no beard, only mustache, stoops slightly, black clothes, open vest, clerical collar and black cravat, or turn down collar and white tie, about 32 years of age, 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, carries a cassock or long black coat, warrant out for obtaining money under false pretences. Communicate with Chief Police, Clifton, Ont., O. R. Sackett, or Rev. F. W. Raikes, Suspension Bridge, N. Y.

—The Church people in South St. Joseph have formally organized in a Mission, pledged an amount for salary, desires the Rev. F. W. Henry to be appointed their missionary, have purchased a lot, and with a considerable sum in bank propose very soon to commence the erection of a church building.

—The correction comes from Grace Church, Kansas City, that the amount sent to its former minister, spoken of in the last number of THE NEWS, was $715, instead of $300, and that this amount was raised by the exertions of the ladies, and was in full.

—The Rev. Dr. Schuyler will officiate on Sunday afternoon at St. James Church, Ellendale at half past four. He has during the summer only morning service in Christ church. He will remain in the city for the summer.

—The Rev. Mr. Woodruff of Saline county was recently called by the Church of the Holy Innocents, Oak Hill, to take charge of their work. He has, however, felt impelled to decline the overture, because he cannot feel willing to leave his churches in Saline county where he has been for seven years, and where he has wide influence for good.

—We hear that the Rev. Mr. Robert proposes to spend two or three weeks at Lake Minnetonka this summer, and that the Rector of Mt. Calvary Church will take his family to Wisconsin. He may himself go to Virginia. The Rev. Dr. Fulton passes his vacation also in Wisconsin.

—On the 24th ultimo Mt. Calvary Church of this city, accompanied by the children of our Orphans' Home, held its annual picnic at Forest Park. The school and Home went out in large omnibuses and spent a truly delightful day. About six o'clock p. m. the school started homeward and, after a charming drive through the park, especially pleasant to the members of the Home, to whom it was all new, reached the church at 7 p. m. and dispersed, having spent a day of genuine enjoyment that will be long remembered.

—The Rev. Dr. Fulton will spend his vacation at Lakeside, near Milwaukee, and will give his old people at St. Paul's, Milwaukee, services every Sunday morning.

—The Bishop of Quincy expects to be present at our Diocesan Convention in September. He has been chosen, although he is latest consecrated, to be the President of the Provincial Synod of Illinois. This is an interesting precedent, as Bishop McLaren was both the Senior Bishop and Bishop of the mother and largest Diocese. Bishop Burgess was the oldest in age of the three Bishops in Illinois and had had wide experience as a presiding officer. Possibly his more guarded Churchmanship was thought to be likely to give greater acceptance to the measures passed at the Synod, which had been anticipated in some quarters with suspicion.

—The Bishop, as the senior Bishop present, presided at the Trustees' meetings at Racine and Nashotah, which were unusually protracted and important. The debt at Nashotah had been somewhat reduced, and yet the situation seemed to require a reduction of expenses. There were seven Bishops present.

—Capt. J. H. Rollins, U. S. A., who was recently designated from the provisional list as lay deputy from this Diocese to the General Convention, has declined on account of ill health. The Bishop has appointed Mr. Gardner Lathrop of Kansas City in his stead.

—The Church people at Butler have paid for their church lot, and have $750 raised for a building, and hope to increase the amount to $1,000. The Rev. Messrs. Rafter and Rotheroe of Pennsylvania have recently visited them and held services.

—The Vestry at Columbia do not desire to defer later than September the beginning of the arrangement by which their Rector, the Rev. Mr. Gray, shall give all his time to them. The Vestry at Mexico and the people at Montgomery are also ready to do their duty, so that they can have also a minister of their own, and the Bishop is endeavoring to secure a clergyman for them.

—The Rev. Mr. Sherman of Maryville made the Masonic address at Quitman on St. John Baptist's Day. He has recently held services in the new and thriving town of Stanberry, where are a number of our people. The Church ladies of Maryville furnished refreshments at the town picnic on the 5th of July.

—The Bishop preached on Sunday, 4th instant, at the Church of Holy Communion, Geneva Lake, where his family are. He is now in the Diocese, but expects to spend a week or two in Wisconsin in the latter part of August.

—The Rev. Mr. E. Talbot of Macon has been invited by Bishop Vail of Kansas to become Dean of his Cathedral at Topeka, and to have charge of the educational work, with a salary of $1,500 and Rectory. He is going over at the Bishop's invitation to look at the situation. That which wholly troubles him where he is, is the fact that his school work must be almost wholly local, until he can build the addition to his school building, for which he has bought the land north of and adjoining the present building. This would give him facilities for satisfying the demand, and taking boarders. It would cost $1,800. He thought of going East to solicit money for this, but when the school year was over it was too late in the season to do this successfully.

We know not what Mr. Talbot may decide to do we hope on all grounds he may settle upon remaining. But will not those of our people, to whose eye this comes, for the sake of a work now strongly succeeding, and in order that it may better succeed, and for the sake of assuring to us the continued residence among us of one who has resisted many flattering pleas, to stand by and build up the Diocese of his birth, help toward making up this $1,800. Let such write immediately to him or to the Bishop. He gives twice who gives quickly. The debt on the Macon parsonage is just now fully paid.

—The Rev. Dr. Wainwright and the Rev. Mr. Dunn are now in the East, one soliciting for St. Paul's, Palmyra, the other to restore his church at Independence, blown down by the cyclone. We do not hear very encouraging accounts from them.

SCHOOL OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

The Sisters' School closed its most prosperous year on Friday night, 11th ult. There had been seventy-nine admissions during the year, and there were over sixty scholars assembled in bright attire on the evening in question. The patrons and friends of the school were present in such numbers, that the whole available space in all the rooms, halls and stairway was filled. Besides the Bishop, there were present the Rev. Dr. Ingraham, Chaplain of the school, Drs. Schuyler, Fulton, and Easter of Jacksonville, Ill., and Mr. Reed.

The musical exercises were rendered by the members of the school, under the direction of Miss Chappell, by a male quartette, Messrs. Bagshawe, McCreery, Aull and Winchester, and by Miss Blessing in a soprano solo. There were dialogues in German and French, which were freely pronounced, in good accent. Of the two graduates of the year, Miss Garth gave the salutatory, and Miss Coleman the valedictory. The Bishop made the awards of the year, admitting into the Primary Class of Honor Carrie Lowery, Nettie Witte, Bertha Branch, Ada Clark and Adela Gaye; and advanced in it to the second stage Bessie Ryder, Adela Meyer and Annie Gaye. The first grade indicated perfectness for one year in Deportment and Scholarship; the second grade meant the same maintained through the second year. He also admitted to the Class of Honor proper Miss Emily Bryan, and advanced in it Miss Coleman. This indicated perfectness for one and two years, according to all scholastic standards. To Misses Coleman and Garth were given diplomas of graduation; and to Miss Garth was awarded the Bishop's gold medal, as being the person in the graduating class who has reached the highest excellence.

Then after some music the Rev. Dr. Fulton gave a very interesting address to the school, and the children separated for the year. The lease has been renewed on the present building, and the Sisters will continue in their commodious quarters, opposite the beautiful Lafayette Park. Parents will do well to think whether they cannot and should not allow their daughters to have the rare opportunities of education and good manners and influence, which may be had at the Good Shepherd. Sister Catharine, 2029 Park Avenue, may be written to for particulars.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

AT ST. JAMES' ACADEMY, MACON, MO.

The public examinations and closing exercises of this flourishing school took place during the week commencing Monday, June 14. During the entire week the examinations were held and evinced the thorough and honest work performed during the Academical Year.

These examinations were attended by the friends of the pupils and were very gratifying and satisfactory in their results. Honorable mention might be made of nearly all the classes, but perhaps of none more deservedly than those in Rhetoric, Criticism and Physics, conducted by Miss Prewitt, the classes in Latin, Algebra and Arithmetic by Prof. Moulton, and that in U. S. History conducted by the Rev. A. A. Abbott. The Primary Department, under the successful management of Miss Virginia Frazee of St. Louis, displayed unusual proficiency in their work.

On the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the same week the Academy gave public entertainments at the large opera house, which was literally crowded.

On Wednesday evening the Primary Department gave a most delightful drama, "The Sleeping Princess," which in its excellent taste and careful rendition would have done honor to experienced actors. It was received with bursts of applause and many were the congratulations received by Miss Frazee. Other features of the evening were very interesting.

On Thursday evening the annual contest for gold medals given by the Rector for Excellence in Declamation took place. There were no less than 15 competitors. All did well. Of the young ladies, Miss Lily Cassidy was the successful candidate, while Mr. T. R. Venum carried off the palm among the young gentlemen. A gold medal was also given to Mr. Wm. Jones of Bevier who passed the most satisfactory examination in Arithmetic. The Bishop, who was with us during the entire day, awarded the prizes in a most facetious and happy manner, which was fully appreciated by the large audience.

On Friday evening the graduating exercises took place. Three young ladies received diplomas. They had been pupils of the Academy from its foundation. The Salutatory was delivered by Miss Stella Glaze; the Valedictory by Miss Lily Cassidy; Miss Fancher, the other member of the graduating class, read an entertaining and original essay upon "The Great American Craze."

Upon the whole, this week was one of which the friends of St. James' Academy may well feel proud.

The large and enthusiastic numbers in attendance, the high standard of excellence maintained both in the examinations and in the Rhetorical Exercises all point to a bright future for this young though vigorous school. The attendance this year has reached the surprising number of 121. Who can estimate the good to come from such a work? Churchmen, let us have your sons and daughters. Nowhere can you find a more healthful town, a better community, a school where a deeper interest will be taken in your children. To those who do not wish to be separated from their children we would say, move to Macon. Several Church families have already done so. Here you will find no chills, no miasma, good church advantages, rents low, good houses ranging from $8 to $12 per month, an excellent market, and living infinitely cheaper than in our large cities. For particulars or catalogue send to the Rector.

A WIFE'S FAITH.

In one of the towns of England there is a beautiful little Chapel, and a very touching story is told in connection with it. It was built by an infidel. He had a praying wife but he would not allow her pastor even to take dinner with them, would not look at the Bible, nor allow religion even to be talked of. She made up her mind, seeing she could not influence him by her voice, that every day she would pray to God at 12 o'clock for his salvation. She said nothing to him, but every day at that hour she told the Lord about her husband. At the end of twelve months there was no change in him. But she did not give up. Six months more went past. Her faith began to waver, and she said, "Will I have to give him up at last? Perhaps when I am dead He will answer my prayers." When she had got to that point, it seemed just as if God had got her where He wanted her. The man came home to dinner one day; his wife was in the dining room waiting for him, but he didn't come in. She waited some time, and finally looked for him all through the house. At last she thought of going into the little room where she had prayed so often. There he was praying at the same bed with agony, where she had prayed for so many months, asking forgiveness for his sins. And this is a lesson to you wives who have infidel husbands. The Lord saw that woman's faith and answered her prayers.

MISSIONARY PLEDGES.

It may be remembered that at the last Convention, in order to secure to the Missionary Board an income which they could rely on as a basis for their appropriations, it was determined, after the growing example of many of the Dioceses, to call the roll of parishes and stations every year, and receive their pledge for the minimum amount which they will raise during the year for our missionary work in the Diocese. An evening is to be given to this whole business during Convention hereafter.

In order not to lose a year, the roll of parishes was made at the last Convention; and while all these were unprepared for a pledge, as not having expected the action of the Convention, and, therefore, uninstructed on the subject, a number of the parishes did pledge themselves quite within their means and previous gifts for the object. The Convention is coming on apace, and only two months yet remain for action.

We give the pledges as made, and opposite them the responses which the Treasurer of the Missionary Board has thus far received. This will indicate what yet remains to be done:

There is but little time left in which to bring the amounts up, and none should be in arrears. There are parishes in the Diocese, strong and rich, which are conspicuous for their absence from the above list. They should give this year, even if unpledged, and be ready to pledge themselves in September.

This is the first month for a long while in which nothing has been received. The contributions for the Cot are not keeping up as they should. The Hospital will be built at this rate before we have the Cot ready. It is to be a bed for children, provided by children, or on their behalf. The amounts, with names, to be sent to the Bishop, No. 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. John H. Shoenburger of Pittsburg, the liberal Churchman, was recently married to a young lady to whom he gave a check for a million of dollars. He had been married before, and the splendid altar in Trinity Church, Pittsburg, is a memorial to his wife.

—The Rev. Messrs. Mortimer and Smythe, having been unable to find a congenial ecclesiastical home in Maryland, have been transferred to New York.

—The clerical list of those going to Europe this summer is a long one, and includes Bishop Perry, the Rev. Drs. Phillips Brooks, Snively, C. W. Rankin, Anstice, Warren, Miller of Frankford, Perkins, McKim of New York.

—Bishop Bedell favors no more restrictive ritual legislation, preferring an educated public sentiment on the subject as a better corrective. Bishop Lay is opposed to a provincial system and favors a reduced representation in General Convention, and one proportionate to the strength of the several Diocese, as likely to work all the relief now required.

—A son of Mr Wm. H. Vanderbilt has recently built a very handsome parish Church at Islip, Long Island, and the condition was that the parish should put up a corresponding Rectory. At the consecration diamonds worth $100,000 were worn, but Mrs. Vanderbilt, with better taste, appeared without jewelry and in plain attire. Mr. Vanderbilt has a summer residence there which cost a quarter of a million dollars. It turns out that it is he who at a cost of $75,000 is having the companion to Cleopatra's Needle brought to this country from Egypt, to be set up in New York. His daughter's approaching marriage to the son of an English earl is just announced.

—Bishop and Mrs. Bedell, already large benefactors of Kenyon College, have just given $5,000 for the endowment of a biennial lectureship upon natural and revealed religion and science, after the example of the Bampton Lectures at Oxford and the Bohlen in Philadelphia.

—Of our sixty-two Bishops, only two, Bishops Williams of Connecticut, and Seymour are bachelors. There are among them seven widowers, Bishops Pinkney, Gregg, Bissall, Potter, Welles, Dudley, Smith; of whom Bishops Dudley and Potter had been married twice.

—Bishop McLaren's residence in Chicago is having added to it this summer an office and some other rooms. It seems that recently an old parishioner of his from Cleveland was in Chicago at the Bishop's, and afterward was dining at the house of one of the prominent Church people, and said that they had taken the Bishop from them, and not given him as good a house as they had given him. The consequence was that an amount of money was placed in his hands with the request that he make the needed improvements in his residence.

—It is fortunate for the country, and a relief to the political canvass through which the country will have to pass for the next three months that little can be said against the personal character of one or the other of the Presidential candidates. Religiously it is stated that the General and Mrs. Hancock are regular attendants at the Episcopal Church on Governor's Island, and that Mrs. Hancock has for a good while played the organ for the services. The parish there is one of the chapels of Trinity Church, New York. General Garfield has been a Campbellite minister, as much ordained as any, and an admirer of his says that the last time he was in Washington he found him teaching a Bible Class in the Sunday-school of a very obscure church.

THE Executive Committee of the Church of the Advent gratefully acknowledge the receipt of the following sums toward the payment on the Church property, due on the 21st ultimo, and paid on that day, being the fourth annual payment, leaving three payments remaining: Jno. M. Gilkerson, $25; Church of the Holy Communion (Oftertory) $21 50; W. R. Pye, $10; Mrs T. H. Larkin, $15; Prof. Potter, J. W. Hull, M. S. Snow, J. W. Branch, E. Harrison, J. H. Valle, Henry Shaw, $10 each; Judge Ferguson, C. A. Kendrick, D. Durkee, M. S. Paul, Jos. Franklin, Mrs. C. S. Freeborn, Rev. Dr. Schuyler, L. E. Alexander, J. B. Gazzam, D. P. Dyer, $5 each; Capt. Bryan, $3; Mrs. J. McCreery, Judge Wickham, Hugh Campbell, Chas. Parsons, $2 each; Mrs. A. E. Peters, Mrs. Sides, Mrs. Fisk, $1 each; Cash, sundry parties, $12; From the Parish, $424 03. J. M. HART, Treasurer.

THE Hannibal Convocation will meet at Monroe City, on Thursday, August 19th.

BOOK NOTICES.

THE PIONEER CHURCH, by the Rev. Dr. Schuyler. We are glad to see that this most interesting little volume, written fifteen years ago by the venerable Rector of Christ church, has gone to its third edition. It is the story, based upon real life, of the way in which earnest laymen can help on Church work. The cost of putting out the first edition was borne by a friend in an old parish, and all the profits were given to Domestic Missions; the cost of issuing the second edition was borne by a widowed parishioner in Christ church, and the net results go to missions. This edition was issued by its publishers at their risks. For its own sake and for its work's sake, let it be widely ordered and read, and its inspiration be followed. $1.25. Pott, Young & Co., 5 Cooper Union, New York.

Convention Journal. Iowa. 1880.

The Seventh Number of the Humboldt Library of Science, published by J. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 4th avenue, New York, has been received. It contains Balfour Stewart's eminently popular work, "The Conservation of Energy," with all the original illustrations. Price 15 cents. Send direct to publishers.

THE COSMOPOLITAN QUALITY of the magazines of the present day is a curious and noteworthy fact. In SCRIBNER for July, for instance, we notice a paper on the "Norwegian poet and dramatist, Bjornstjerne Bjornson," by his former countryman, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen; an article descriptive of an excursion to "The Heart of the California Alps," by John Muir; "To Coney Island," by William H. Bishop; Russia is treated of in Eugene Schuyler's "Peter the Great"; the scene of "The Grandissimes" is laid in Louisiana; General McClellan gives an account of his trip to Sicily; George Parsons Lathrop, in "The Sorcery of Madjoon," writes of the curse of China—opium eating; the negro element is touched on in Miss Hopkins' amusing little sketch; George M. Grant does full justice to "Canada." Ernest Ingersoll writes interestingly of Denver, Colorado, and Charles F. Thwing gives an account of the experience of the "Japanese and Chinese Students in America," while Mrs. Laura Winthrop Johnson travels all over Europe in "La Sonnambula."

ST. NICHOLAS for July has a patriotic flavor appropriate to the season; and, in an article written and thoroughly illustrated by Mr. Daniel Beard, it tells the boys and girls how to celebrate the Fourth of July with "Paper Balloons." The frontispiece illustrates a stirring incident in the Revolutionary War—young "Elizabeth Zane Saving a Fort" garrisoned by a few patriots against five hundred Indians under a Tory leader. Miss Hale contributes another paper about the doings of the famous "Peterkins." There is a short story of life in a Southern State, another of life in Australia, and a story of a small but lively little New England chatter-box, entitled "Dame Durden and Little Mr. Babe," and illustrated. Of the two serials, both illustrated, "Jack and Jill," by Louisa M. Alcott, has this month an installment of strong and tender interest, and "The Fairport Nine" boys have a banner presented to them, and have an exciting time while building a "camp" in the woods.

MEMORIES OF MY EXILE. By Louis Kossuth. Card manila cover, price, 40 cents. Nos. 30 and 31 Standard Series. This work has just been issued in Europe, being published simultaneously in Pesth, Hungary, Paris and London. It is proving the literary sensation of the year. The prominent part taken by Kossuth in the events described, his patriotic singleness of purpose, and, above all, the hold he has upon the hearts of Americans, will give the book many readers in America.

POPULAR HISTORY OF ENGLAND. By Charles Knight. Vol. 8. Price, 35 cents. No. 18 Standard Series. This is the concluding volume of Funk & Co.'s popular edition of this great work. It contains the Appendix-Annals, a large number of tables of contemporary sovereigns, chronological tables of British writers, etc. This volume also contains a very complete index and table of contents for the entire work. A very great improvement has been made in this edition, in grouping together the tables of each class instead of scattering them, as they are in other editions, through the different volumes. The price now of this valuable history is so low that almost every family can possess it.

WIDE AWAKE for July is full of special attractions for the month, chief among which shines out a brilliantly illustrated and graphic paper by Mrs. Mary Wager-Fisher, entitled "The Philadelphia Newsboys and their Annual Fourth of July Dinner." Laura Ledyard's "Hippety Ho," "Jonathan's Fourth of July," by Elizabeth Cummings, will suit the little boys, and "Some Bad Boys of Bybury," will serve the same purpose for their big brothers. There is also a capital "Fourth" Marching Song, with music. The "star" story of the number, however, is an historical one by Mrs. Champney, entitled "Sally's Seven-League Shoes," for which "Champ" has drawn a fine frontispiece, with two smaller illustrations. "Five Little Peppers," the little folks' serial, has three of Jessie Curtis' best pictures, and "Two Young Homesteaders" has come to scenes of intense interest. This number of the magazine, in fact, is quite noticeable in the matter of portraits, having no less than four, viz., Miss Louisa M. Alcott, Mr. Bronson Alcott, Mr. George W. Childs, and Mr. Lafarge. 20 cents a number; $2 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston.

THE PREACHER AND HOMILETIC MONTHLY for July has the following contents:—"The Nature of Prayer," by Rev. Octavius Perinchief; "Lay Preaching," by Thomas Armitage, D.D.; "The Childhood of the Affections," by J. H. Ryland, D.D.; "Spiritual Blindness and Its Cure," by Prof. Roswell D. Hitchcock, D.D.; "The Christian Away from Home," by Rev. Prof. E. P. Thwing; "Ingersoll Reviewed," by Rev. Wm. S. Heywood; "Not Ashamed of the Gospel," by R. S. Storrs, D.D.; "Light on Important Texts," by Howard Crosby, D.D. This magazine has become a necessity to the clergy, and is almost universally read by them. Subscription, $2.50 per year, 25 cents single number. I. K. Funk & Co., New York.

THE CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE. July. A delightful family magazine, growing in value constantly. $2. No. 20 Vesey street, New York.

GENERAL NEWS.

—At the Indiana Convention the deputies to General Convention were instructed to use their influence to have the Book of Homilies revised, so that they may be read in the churches. The Bishop was given a check of $200 to procure a set of robes.

—The Chicago Tribune has adopted in part the phonetic method. It changes PH into F in such words as phrase; and drops the silent B in such words as have, definite, etc.

—In the Michigan Convention the parishes, as usual, made missionary pledges amounting to $5,200, three of the Detroit parishes pledging $1000 each, more than doubling their pledge of last year.

—The Minnesota Council requested the Bishop to ask each of the clergy to read to their congregation on one Sunday in each year the Homily on gluttony and drunkenness.

—In Fond du Lac the Convention finished up its business in one day, and had time even for a reception at night.

—The Quarterly Review states that a million copies of the Book of Common Prayer are printed every year for use at home and in the Queen's foreign possessions. It has also been translated into more than sixty different languages.

—At the North Carolina Convention there was an informal conference of the clergy to consider matters connected with clerical life. Many of the clergy in telling of their own experiences spoke very feelingly and earnestly of two very serious trials that they have to encounter; first, their loneliness and isolation; and, second, the feeling of utter disappointment that they feel after the adjournment of the Conventions, in lack of any personal help and encouragement to them as priest, and of any building up of their spiritual life, on account of the want of opportunity of consultation among themselves on matters of spiritual life and ministerial work. The report of the committee appointed on the subject comes up next year.

—The Board of Diocesan Missions in Iowa pays $100 a year towards the publishing of their Diocesan paper, which is not one-third the size of this paper. The News has always paid its own way, and turned over a balance to the Diocesan Missionary treasury.

—The two largest Presbyterian congregations in the United States, Drs. Cuyler's and Talmage's, are in Brooklyn, and in close proximity to each other. They have about 2000 members each.

—The recently reported confirmations for the preceding year at the Conventions in the following Dioceses have been as follows: South Carolina, 333; Arkansas, 59; Western Texas, 63; Western Michigan, 139; West Virginia, 196; Rhode Island, 355; Quincy, 152; Nebraska, 136; Iowa, 261; Central Pennsylvania, 722; North Carolina, 477; Michigan, 565; Connecticut, 907; Vermont, 195; Kentucky, 247; Minnesota, 522; Maryland, 1670; Georgia, 328; Northern New Jersey, 574; Albany, 1086; Illinois, 515; Southern Ohio, 249; Springfield, 303; Indiana, 224;

Pennsylvania, 1786; Alabama, 203; Pittsburg, 426; Fond du Lac, 143; Wisconsin, 417.

—More than a million of immigrants have landed in New York since the first of January.

—Approximate census returns of St. Louis return a population of only 370,000, an increase of only $8,000 in ten years. This being absurdly false, great interest is being shown in a recount. Hundreds of families report that no enumerator has been to their house. The work should be done at a time of year when, taking the country through, the people are generally at home. The best time for this would be in March and October. As it is, there must be many defects in reports from the Southern States and in our cities, from which by the first of June large numbers have left for the summer. In this New Orleans would suffer more than St. Louis, and St. Louis more than Chicago or New York. The census shows that Chicago has a population of 474,404, and that Indianapolis has from 80,000 to 83,000. Boston is reported to have 352,000.

—At the Vermont Convention two gentlemen offered the Diocese $10,000 for an endowment of the Episcopate, provided the Convention would raise $15,000 for the purpose. The Convention pledge itself to do it.

—At the Wisconsin Council the Canon about the Cathedral, prepared by the Committee, and which was thought to compose all the differences, was indefinitely postponed, with the idea apparently of taking the whole Cathedral business permanently out of Convention.

—At the Pittsburg Convention, after passing a resolution of sympathy with the Bishop in his bereavement at the death of his only son from scarlet fever, which he was himself suffering from, they asked him to take six months' rest, and five gentlemen presented him with $2500 to make the resolution effective.

—Our friend, the Rev. Dr. Cross, removed a year ago New York to Texas, and had successively two parishes there, then removed to Canton, Miss., and has now again removed to Michigan. Our quondam deacon in this diocese, Rev. A. J. Yeater, who went to Texas a few months ago, has now taken duty in Dakota.

—The Missionary Bishop of Niobrara writes to a friend, under date of June 3d: "Sunday last was an eventful day. I baptized six adults and eight children; solemnized the marriage of five couples, who had taken each other as husband and wife in heathen fashion several years ago; admitted as catechumens twelve men who had broken away from heathenism and were trying to establish a Christian farming settlement; confirmed sixteen candidates, and administered the Holy Communion to about thirty persons—and all among a tribe first reached by the Church only eight years ago. I am in journeyings often, and much under the open heaven by day and by night."

—We regret to say that owing to lack of funds, St. Luke's Hospital, San Francisco, has temporarily closed. It is extremely uncertain when it will re-open.

—One of the characteristics features of the late Annual Council of Minnesota was the presence of a half dozen young Indian clergymen.

—Chicago declares that its census returns foot up at 502,000. The letter carriers in this city by their canvass added 25,000 new names. The general impression is that our numbers will come to about 400,000, with many evidences that the enumeration has been very incomplete. The census reveals many curious results. The Northern cities grow with vastly greater rapidity than the Southern cities, or those in the old border States. Boston passes Baltimore, Cleveland presses on Cincinnati. Detroit and Milwaukee pass Louisville, St. Louis changes places with Chicago, and becomes the fifth city.

—Of the 3300 Church clergymen in the country, over 500, or one-sixth of the entire number are decorated with the title of D.D. Annadale and Racine gave no D.D.'s this year.

—The late Methodist General Conference decided that trials of heresy might be based not only upon the articles, but upon the writings of Wesley as well.

LARGE PROFITS

In Case of Long Life.

ABSOLUTE INDEMNITY IN CASE OF DEATH.

The wonderful returns made by the Equitable Life Assurance Society are illustrated by the many letters expressive of satisfaction, written by the policy-holders to the company. The following are fair examples:

YORK, Maine, March 3d, 1880.

"I note with pleasure the result of my insurance by the Equitable Society under my Tontine policy, No. 49,919. I have paid $3,075.05, and for this you have carried an insurance of $5,000 on me for eleven years, and you now offer me cash $3,434.30, or $359.25 more than I have paid you. Scoffers at life insurance should note these results and insure in the Equitable."

HENRY MOULTON.

NEW YORK, March 22d, 1880.

"I have received your statement of my life policy, No. 53,315. This is very satisfactory to me, and I recommend the Tontine plan to those insuring, as proving better than ordinary policies; the returns are so much larger."

THOS. MONAHAN.

CHESHIRE, CONN., June 25th, 1880.

"The statement of the actual results of my Tontine policy is before me. Surely such gratifying results as these add a new page to life insurance, and speaks volumes for the efficient management of the Equitable."

NORMAN S. PLATT.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 28th, 1880.

HENRY T. BROWN, Esq., General Agent
Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Dear Sir: In 1869, on the recommendation of Mr. Z. C. Rennie, who was then the agent of the Equitable in this State, I accepted a Tontine dividend policy for $2,500. This policy having a Tontine term of eleven years, has now reached its dividend period, and I have no objection to your illustrating the advantages of your Tontine system of insurance, by announcing the results of my policy as stated to me by the Society.

I have paid for eleven years an annual premium of $19.55 or, in all, $1,315.05. It was first my intention to continue this policy until it should finally mature, nine years hence. But I have since concluded to terminate the insurance and take its present cash value. I have therefore already acknowledged the receipt of the Society's check for $1,540.44, about 17 per cent of the total amount paid by me. This return, when it is remembered that I have been insured for $2,500 for eleven years, shows the advantage of the Tontine form of policy issued by your Society.

If I had continued my insurance, the accumulated surplus or dividend on my policy might have been converted into an annuity of $62.16. This would have reduced my premium for this year to $57.39, and reduced it still further for 1881 to about $25.82.

Instead of this I might have drawn the above surplus $455.62 in cash, and continued my policy by paying the full premium less annual dividends.

Or, I might have a paid-up policy for $2,150, payable in nine years, an amount equal to 163 per cent of the premiums paid by me.

Yours, truly,

VIRGIL FISHER.

With such endorsements it is not surprising that the Equitable does so large a business. All its policies become incontestable after three years, and no company in the country has so wide a reputation for the prompt and full payment of death claims.

Correspondence of the clergy respectfully solicited.

ST. GEORGE'S SUNDAY SCHOOL.

At the last meeting of the teachers of the school the Rector sketched the plan for fall work. The subjects discussed were, perhaps, not new, and the methods of meeting difficulties have doubtless been proposed before; but the subjects were none the less important, and the methods not wanting in wisdom because they have been heard of more than once. As a rule failure results because the methods are not applied with thoroughness.

To assist the teachers in preparing themselves for their work the Rector proposed to them that at some convenient time they form themselves into a class with himself for teacher, teaching them, thus, by example as well as word; sometimes the most efficient way. He also proposed that the children of the school be organized into some form of organization for collecting small sums to be applied for missionary purposes, but not to conflict with the Missionary Host. This plan if well administered can be made to yield good results.

Several other questions in S. S. work were raised and discussed, such as the importance of visiting on the part of teachers, the best and readiest way to entertain the smaller children, and others, which, for want of space, we cannot refer to at length. The latter difficulty being one of the most considerable, was naturally one of the most interesting. It seemed to be the opinion of those having most experience that entertaining stories was the easiest way to keep the little restless ones quiet. The Rector suggested the use of the parables.

Acts of love seem but little things when separately considered, but when viewed in the aggregate, who can estimate their power and influence! It is not the half dozen great favors bestowed in as many years that secure for us the name of good friend, but the continual remembrance, fidelity to plighted word and promise, faithfully kept, the sympathetic tear, the kind deeds which ever speak more loudly than words; these are the every day kindnesses whose repetition sheds a sunlight over all the neighborhood, gladdening, and cheering the hearts of the weary and sad. And how welcome they are to the "stranger in the land," who, removed from the influence of a Christian home, beset by many temptations, often wearied and depressed with that nameless sense of home-sickness, longs for sympathy, perhaps counsel, and finds them, with new strength, and joy, in the kind offices and companionship of God's people. But the influence of kindness is not limited to any sort or condition of men; its power is universal. The scholar who comes to his class with sullen look; who remains unaffected by praise or prayer; whose lessons are never learned, who rebels against all authority, will surely melt before the influence of love. The kind word will find room in a corner of his heart, and remain all the week through; the recognition on the street, the kindly hand clasp and word of encouragement, the visit to his home, the gift of a flower, the writing of note of enquiry, if he be absent. These little things combined will win the most unlovely and obdurate, and bring forth results beyond the power of any pen to write or tongue wholly to tell.

"The little nameless acts Of kindness and of love,"

"Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood."

ONCE upon a time a pebble was kicked about in the waste sand. A lapidary saw it, and when he had brushed away the dirt from the surface, he applied his chisel, and broke through the crust, and behold—a diamond pure and bright.

THE world is filled with golden opportunities for good. Do we embrace them? Are our energies, even in the S. S. in which we are volunteers, given as freely as they ought? Is every talent, every ability, used to further and increase His work? How often do we think of the powers of mind and body, given to us in trust, to be wisely used for the extension of His Kingdom? Think ye! We shall have to answer to God for the manner in which we have used these means. What could we say if called to report to Him this night all the good deeds done? How many of God's poor have we visited? How frequent have been our calls on the sorrowing and distressed, those who need the sympathetic, unspeakably tender story of the cross told anew, and how many of the weak have we encouraged and strengthened. And who thinks of the children, the waifs of humanity who wander about our streets, who never hear the holy names God, Jesus but in blasphemy. Who of us think to give unto them the sup of cold water and to bring them out of the depths of darkness "To the glorious light of the Perfect Day." These are our opportunities. Now is the time to work.

REGULARLY LATE. In every school there are but few who are there a little before or exactly at the hour. At whatsoever hour the school may meet they are there on time, and in order to do this they give themselves a margin. And in every school there are some who are regularly late. They are always a little after the hour, never on time. Dear teacher, why not do as the punctual do? They make sacrifices to be in their places exactly at the hour. Suppose your Superintendent should be regularly late, how long think you would his faithful teachers remain with him? How soon the school would lose all order and efficiency? As with the school in such a case, so with your class if you are among the regularly late. As is the teacher, so is the scholar. Remember these things, and begin now to be a punctual teacher.

A LEADING Sunday school worker lays down the following principles:

Never teach what you don't quite understand. Never tell a child what you can make him tell you. Never give a piece of information without asking for it again. Never use a hard word if an easy one will convey your meaning, and never use any word at all unless you are sure it has a meaning to convey. Never begin an address or a lesson without a clear view to its end. Never give an unnecessary command, nor one which you do not mean to see obeyed. Never permit any child to remain in a class even for a minute without something to do, and a motive for doing it. A mind unoccupied is a mind in mischief.

It never fails—ring the bell often, and at the same time do an excessive amount of talking on an elevated key, and the scholars will not be slow to discover that they can contribute more noise and irreverence to the exercises than you, and will not fail to bring you to its realization. Call frequently on them to be still; tell how much better other schools are than your own; make a second speech with a quick, jerky accompaniment on the bell; insist upon silence and also upon your prerogative to make all the noise. In this way you will certainly have a noisy, turbulent school, and you as superintendent will be chiefly to blame.

THE Church was the first on the ground at Blackburn, Saline Co., this state and now a Sunday School is in full operation, with Dr. E. J. Hayes as Superintendent, who takes to the work sound Churchmanship, a jealous zeal, and self-sacrificing devotion. We pray God's blessing will attend the enterprise.

THE picnics recently given by the S. S. of Christ Church at the Barracks, Trinity S. S. and S. S. Church of the Holy Communion at the Fair Grounds, were well attended, and gave the scholars, old and young, much pleasure.

The Christian mother, who flatters herself that her daughter can give her young womanhood to the world, rather than to God, and, not suffer permanent injury thereby; or the father who conceives that he can delegate to the Sunday School the religious education of his children, and be thus relieved from all personal responsibility for their spiritual development, have certainly but shallow views of parental duty, and are laying up for themselves multiplied disappointments and sorrows.

An up-town Sunday school of the colored mission has been organized to meet on the afternoon of each Lord's day at Trinity church chapel. Though experimental, we have no doubt that large and blessed results will, under God, follow this effort, and urge upon all to accord the work the support and sympathy it so eminently deserves.

SEDALIA CONVOCATION.

Editor Church News:

The convocation of Sedalia assembled in Grace church, Jefferson City, on Thursday evening, June 24th. There were present of the clergy the Rev. Messrs. Curtis of Boonville, Thorpe of Nevada, Sartwelle of Sedalia, Woodruff of Marshall, and Masker of Jefferson City, and, as a visitor, Gray of Columbia. The opening sermon was preached by the Dean, the Rev. Mr. Curtis, upon "The Christian Nurture of the Lambs of the Fold."

Public services followed on Friday and Saturday. On Friday, p. m. Mr. Curtis read a paper which received marked attention, entitled: "A Divine Revelation the need of Human Society, and a Historic Church the only Successful Keeper and Witness thereof."

In the evening Mr. Gray read a paper answering the questions: "Have men souls? and is the Gospel designed for them as well as for women?"

The Bishop arrived early on Saturday morning and at 7 a. m. celebrated the Holy Communion, there being present a goodly number of communicants from the parish, besides the clergy. At 3 p. m. Mr. Woodruff preached a thoughtful sermon upon "Conscience," and he was followed in the evening by the Rev. W. D. Sartwelle, the new Rector at Sedalia, with an excellent sermon of general interest. Business meetings were held both on Friday and Saturday, and matters of interest especially to the clergy were discussed. The Bishop remained over Sunday, together with Messrs. Woodruff and Thorpe. At the Sunday morning service the Bishop preached a sermon upon "Hearing and Doing," which brought its lesson alike to minister and layman. In the evening after a lecture by the Rev. Mr. Thorpe in the presence of a very large congregation, the Bishop confirmed a class of ten candidates, all being from the Sunday School, and addressed them most feelingly and instructively. All the services were well attended. The impression is left that good was accomplished. The next meeting of convocation will be at Sedalia.

On Saturday evening, after service, a reception was extended to the Bishop and Clergy at the Executive Mansion. This proved to be a very elaborate affair. After the exchange of social courtesies, Mrs. Montgomery, the Governor's daughter, had it announced that some creature comforts awaited the guests in the dining hall. Let it suffice to say the provision was most abundant, varied and choice. During the past three years the Mansion has been distinguished for its refined courtesies. It has been an Executive home of a character to honor the State.

PRESBUTEROS.

MISSION WORK IN S. E. MISSOURI.

Editor Church News:

If the Angel who was sent to Cornelius were to visit our several congregations he could not say, I fear, to most, as he did to the devout centurion, "Thy prayers and thine alms have come up for a memorial before God."

He might doubtless have something to say in commendation of the prayers offered in every parish both in public and private, but the number of those who give alms for the service of God in proportion to their means would nowhere be hard to count.

There is a feeling among a great many good Christian people that prayer, being a spiritual thing, is very acceptable to Heaven, but that alms, being material, are better suited to earth.

And hence, acting on this conviction, they give the prayers to God and keep the alms for themselves.

An exception to the above was a feature of my late visit to Cape Girardeau.

I held four services there last month, on Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings, also on Sunday morning, when the Holy Communion was celebrated, and on Sunday afternoon drove to Jackson, the county seat, 10 miles distant, where I held service the same evening.

On Sunday morning the Offertory was for Diocesan Missions, and amounted to the very liberal sum of $14 25.

At Jackson I took up no offering because the congregation, though unusually large, was made up almost entirely of those outside of our communion.

I may state here that at my last visit to Crystal City I received $5 for missions in the Diocese, and a short time before $5 from De Soto.

It is a pleasure to visit places which show such appreciation of the Church and her services.

I remember visiting a much larger and wealthier town than any of those named in this communication and bringing back to the missionary treasury an offering of $1 70. I have hardly yet recovered from the shock I then received.

The first time I have a few days to spare I will be tempted to revisit the Cape.

GEO. K. DUNLOP.

BISHOP WHITTINGHAM.

In one of his recently published sermons we find this clear view of the Church's doctrine of Baptismal regeneration. It is specially designed to show that the popular notion that Conversion or a change of heart, as it is commonly called, is not in any way denied by the Church's teaching.

"A mere question of words has given occasion to charge us with serious perversion of 'the truth as it was in Jesus.' Because we speak of Baptism as the means of Regeneration, and call baptized persons regenerate, we have been thought to hold that a change of heart accompanied the mere outward Ordinance, and thus to subvert that fundamental doctrine of the Gospel, that 'if any man be in Christ Jesus, he is a new creature;' 'Old things are passed away, and all things are become new.'"

Our whole Book of Common Prayer disproves the charge; it everywhere recognizes the doctrine of the renewal of the heart into the image of God; its petitions are founded on the assumption of that truth. The fact is, that when we speak of regeneration in Baptism, we do not mean by that word what most Denominations use it to express—the change of heart. We adhere closely to the use of the word in Scripture, while others have given it a new meaning, which it has not there. A change of state, an admission to a new condition and relations, is the proper meaning of the term Regeneration; and in the only two places where it is found in the Bible it can not have any other; since in one it is applied to the events of the Day of Judgment, and in the other is expressly distinguished from "the renewing of the Holy Ghost," and made the consequence of "washing," that is, Baptism.

The change of heart, then, Brethren, we do most explicitly recognize as indispensable to salvation, and we do not consider it as effected in Baptism. The Regeneration which we speak of in that Ordinance, is simply a change of state, from being out of Covenant, without title to the promises, to the condition of heirs of the promises by the gift of Grace connected with God through Christ."

In an article on the "Servant Girl Question," in Scribner for July, S. B. H. writes as follows:

"Special directions how to deal with servants would be almost as impertinent as such directions in regard to the training of children, but if the true relation is established and the proper feeling cherished—that feeling which recognizes the difference of station and at the same time the oneness of nature—the details can scarcely fail of presenting and adjusting themselves. It is always good policy, if nothing more, to be courteous to servants, to recognize little voluntary acts of politeness on their part. Done in the right way it never makes a rule less stringent, but only less galling. And it is always the worst possible policy to scold. Quiet and dignified reproof, of course, must be given, but scolding never. Nothing that cannot be effected without scolding was ever effected with it, unless it be the silent contempt of the servant for her mistress."

HOW MUCH IT WAS WORTH TO THEM.

Mr. A., a vestryman of — parish, listened to a missionary's statement of the work of a new mission in a destitute neighborhood.

"It is a good work," said he, "a very good work. I'll give a dollar to help it on."

The next day Mr. A. went off on a pleasure trip to a distant city; stopped at a first-class hotel, and rode around to see various parts of interest. The trip cost him one hundred dollars.

Miss B. took out of her purse fifty cents to help buy some coal for a poor widow's family in the back street, but left in the other compartment of the purse a ten dollar bill that was to be used for buying some trimming for a new dress.

Mrs. C. was very much interested in paying off the church debt. She finally concluded that she could afford to give ten dollars, but finding that the ring she was about purchasing was more expensive than she first thought, changed her gift to the church to five dollars. The other five dollars went to help pay for the ring.

Dr. D. told the committee who called upon him that he really could not give more than fifty cents each week towards the rector's salary. He thought twenty-five dollars per year a very generous allowance for him; but he sent home the same day a few ornaments, for which his wife was puzzled for house room. The ornaments cost twenty-five dollars.

The roof of the parsonage leaked badly, and the clergyman reported that the health of his family was suffering from the dampness thus occasioned throughout the house; but the people were so slow in repairing it that the winter was one of great discomfort to the clergyman's family. During that winter the rector was invited to five parties given by his parishioners, the expense of which would have put the dilapidated rectory in complete repair.

We have heard most touching appeals from the chancel for money for missions. We have heard the people sing stirring missionary hymns. We have seen the wardens carry around silver plates to receive the offerings from the rich congregation assembled. We have seen these offerings reverently placed upon the altar by the clergyman, while the people sang, "All things come of Thee, O Lord, and of Thine own have we given Thee."

And then—we have seen the money counted in the vestry room, and have heard the rector exclaim, "Is this all?"

Well, it did seem a small result. We could not avoid pitying his deep disappointment.

AS A RULE, people are not half as fearful of being a minute behind the starting time of church or Sunday-school services as they are of being too late for a railway train. How a man or woman will fly around to be in season for that next train, when they want to take it! And how leisurely the same person will be in making ready for church.

The Good-Enough Shoe and System has proven to be the Savior of the noblest of the animal creation, the horse, by its simple and practical method of keeping THE HORSE ON HIS FEET, LESSENING HIS LABORS, AND PROLONGING HIS LIFE. The anxiety of the ladies at rest! Their pets no longer subject to the maltreatment of the foot, as received at the hands of inexperienced horse shoers, who have not made a study of the anatomy of the horse's foot. The greatest proof of the success of the shoe and system is the innumerable cures of cripples, through improper shoeing, it has performed in the past year. Amongst the many horse owners who have given this shoe and system a thorough and impartial test, whose horses are now being shod with this shoe, and who are amongst its most staunch supporters are the Hon. DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

It will be remembered that our Convention meets this year at St. George's Church, on Tuesday, the 28th of next month. It is the law that the clergy shall be in attendance, and that their parishes shall pay their expenses in coming and returning. It has been our custom in the Diocese for the Offertory in all our churches on the Sunday before Convention to be used to pay the expenses of those whose places are less able, the amount to be distributed so far as it can go by a committee for the purpose. It is hoped that this will be done this year. The St. Louis clergy and delegates are not put to the cost of travel and absence, and they should make up to those who do thus sacrifice time and money for the Church. Very many of our people are out of town now, but by the first of the month it is hoped that measures as to hospitality will be taken.

Each parish and mission station is entitled as such to a lay delegate, and then for every fifty communicants above the first fifty they are entitled to one more, provided that no parish shall have more than five delegates. A standing resolution of Convention is that so far as possible communicants shall be selected. Of course, only those will be chosen who are likely to be able to attend.

Canonical collections, assessments and missionary pledges should all be made up in time; and clergy and delegates should come prepared to pledge their parish for their missionary contribution for the next year. Parishes are liable to be suspended from representation in Convention who are reported by the Treasurer as neglecting to meet for two years in succession the Convention assessment.

There is especial need this year that the parochial reports called for shall be full, be accurately made up from the parish registers, and that they be handed in, as required, on the first day of Convention. The General Convention meets the week after ours; our triennial report has to be handed in then during the first week of General Convention. Our reports must therefore be tabulated and added up within a few days of our adjournment in order to be of use. Late, vague, or imperfect reports should especially be avoided this year, as the secretary's task at the best is a very heavy and tedious one.

THE REV. J. WOOD DUNN.

Mention was made two months ago of the extreme illness of the honored Presbyterian who was for several years connected with this Diocese, and intimation was made that he could not probably live much longer. The information now comes that he departed this life in Baltimore on the 9th ultimo in great pain and weakness. He was buried in St. Paul's churchyard on the evening following. His faithful wife and his sister attended him to the last.

Mr. Dunn was fifty-nine years of age and was born in Virginia, and has a brother, a clergyman in Salt Lake City. The greater part of his ministerial life was spent in Texas and Louisiana. He was ordained deacon and priest by Bishop Freeman. The marked characteristic of his life was his persevering devotion in the line of duty in spite of the weakness and pain of disease which oppressed the later years of his life. When near his end he was anxious whether his people in Texas, whom he had left, would build the church for which he had gathered the materials and made preparations. A brave, loving, faithful priest, who bore his people on his heart to the end. A memorial service in his old parish in Sedalia is contemplated, and the Rev. Mr. Curtis of Boonville has been asked to preach the sermon.

It ought to be said in connection with what appeared in the last number of THE NEWS, as urging to help in completing the building for St. James Academy, Macon, that property valued at $12,000 has been conveyed to the Bishop for the use of the school and the Diocese; that only $1,800 is required to extend the building and make it more efficient as a means of education. There were nearly one hundred scholars enrolled last year. Mr. Talbot has attended with one or two of his teachers local gatherings in his own and adjacent counties, and on request has presented the claims of a thorough education, and so has elicited a wide interest in his school. The work deserves recognition, as does every other involving the promotion of Christian education. We know that Mr. Talbot has turned his back upon other tempting calls in order to carry on to an assured condition his school at Macon.

THE well-intentioned efforts, spoken of in the July number of THE NEWS, for the solution of the Kansas City trouble are not likely to have result in the direction proposed. No intimation is had as to the further purpose of the St. Mary's Church, formerly St. Luke's. But St. Mary's, First Ward, being persuaded of the justice of their case, will agree to no compromise, and desire the action of the courts in the matter, the arbitration being apparently given up. A note from the Vestry states that their church has been repaired, furnished with carpet and organ, and that the congregation nearly fills the building, and is growing, and the Sunday-school has 75 or 80 children. They state that the Troost property is supposed to be worth $10,000, and to have back rents enough to pay all debts, and that a population of 10,000 people would without this parish be destitute of religious services. They applaud the self-sacrifice of their Rector who serves them without any salary.

NUTRITION.

The Observer gives the self-rules of Dr. Payson when a student:

"Resolved to devote, in future, twelve hours to study, two to devotions, two to relaxation, two to meals and family devotions, and six to sleep." "But," says his biographer, "this did not long satisfy him. His rigid notions of duty led him to subtract two hours from the six devoted to sleep." It adds, however, that, as the result of this excessive discipline, his diary makes constant mention of bad health, and that he died prematurely at the age of forty-four. He himself too late acknowledged and lamented that his fastings were carried to excess and that his hours of sleep were too few. He ought to have allowed himself a more generous diet, and he ought not to have bound himself by any iron rule as regarded sleep, unless it was to sleep more.

Meeting Mr. Gough lately, the next morning after an address into which he had thrown himself so intensely that it seemed he must after such nightly work wear himself out, and yet as good as new, a person said to him, "Mr. Gough, how do you manage to keep yourself so well after such repeated exhausting efforts?" His prompt reply was, "Oh, I eat and sleep!" So we would say to all ministers, "Eat and sleep!"—all you need, and no more.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed in Boonville 2, Nevada 3, Prairieville 1, Louisiana 2.

—Mr. Gardiner Lathrop has found it impossible to act as deputy to General Convention in October, and therefore has declined, and the Bishop appointed Mr. Jesse M. Armstrong of Hannibal to fill the vacancy. Mr. Armstrong finds himself also unable to be absent from his business then to be absent so long. This exhausts the list of Lay Alternates.

—The Bishop held services on Sunday, 18th ultimo, in Butler, Bates county. The Methodists kindly offered the use of their building, and the pastor took a leading part in training the choir for the occasion. Although the weather was hot the congregation morning and night completely filled the church, and the service was taken part in by all, although the greater part was unfamiliar with it. A railroad is building through the county north and south, connecting with the Missouri Pacific at Pleasant Hill, and go through Nevada City to Carthage. This will obviate the ride of twenty miles over the prairie, which has always been necessary to reach the town. The subscription for the new church is being rapidly pushed, and plans are being prepared.

—The assessments for the interest money for the colored church of the Good Samaritan, as made by the Bishop, were all met except that of Grace Church, Kirkwood, and St. John's paid ten dollars more than the amount named, and so the shortage was only ten dollars. Of the amount from the Holy Communion $18.35 came from the Rector.

—We are glad to be able to chronicle the extrication of another of our parishes from debt—Trinity, De Soto. The church is of stone, not large, and built five years ago. The debt has not been large, but it has before this been beyond the ability of the few members there, and has stood in the way of their having continuous clerical services in the past. It will no doubt be different now.

—When the credit for the other parishes in this city for what they had done for the Society for the Christianization of the Jews was given in THE NEWS two months ago, we were not then informed that the Church of the Holy Communion in this city gave $57 75 for the object. The Rev. Mr. Chesnutt as Missionary for this Society has had his stipend increased to $300.

—The Twelfth Sunday after Trinity is the day on which several years past offerings have been asked for the Church Mission to Deaf Mutes, more especially because the Gospel for that day describes our Lord's cure of the deaf man. It comes this year on the 15th of August, the day before this paper is issued. The Rev. Mr. Mann, who has charge of this work in the Western States, reports that in five years of itinerary work, in both lay and clerical capacity, he has held sign services in upward of eighty parishes, at several State schools of Deaf Mutes, and at Deaf Mute Conventions and Re-unions in different States; that the number of Deaf Mute communicants within this time has increased to almost one hundred, and that of the 8,000 Deaf Mutes within my missionary field I reach more or less directly 2,000.

—Is it not about time to pass the inquiry how comes on the building of St. Luke's Hospital? The matter has been in the hands of the Building Committee since early spring, and we do not yet hear that they have received bids yet. In the meantime, while the whole is subscribed, and a number of thousands are in bank, a heavy rent is being paid for the present building. Press the work on, gentlemen. The public is getting impatient to see the earth broken for the work.

—The holding of the Sunday afternoon supplementary service for the Mission of the Good Shepherd in this city, in Trinity Chapel, is working with the best results. The congregations in spite of the hot weather have gone steadily up to eighty, with the prospect of reaching those who could not otherwise be influenced. Mr. Leslie of Trinity has charge of the adult Bible Class.

—The Rev. Mr. Matrau has resigned his work in Pike county, very much to the regret of his people, to whom he had endeared himself by his zeal and self-sacrifice. He goes to Owosso, Michigan, his native State. The parsonage at Louisiana, on which he has devoted so much labor, is finished, and is one of the most comfortable rectories in the Diocese. It has eight rooms, and is very conveniently arranged. It has cost a little over $1,500, and is all paid for. The most of this amount has come through the mail, in answer to solicitations sent out. The amount received in this way has been $1,900, of which, however, about $500 was taken for expense of postage and printing. It will remain as the monument of the Rector's perseverance and of the liberality of the Church at large. The Rev. Dr. Saul of Philadelphia and Mr. Maurice of New York each sent checks of $100. The Rectory will represent nearly 1,500 givers, including many Bishops. The front door will in a monogram on the glass commemorate the tribute of the Presiding Bishop for the first rector of the parish, the Rev. Dr. Worthington.

—The Rev. Joseph S. Colton, recently of Wichita, Kansas, has been called to the charge of Grace Church, Carthage, has accepted, and entered upon duty on the 1st instant. His former parish thrived very much during his pastorate; a church was built and paid for. We look for a similar prosperity in the thriving and intelligent community to which now he has gone.

—In Grace Church, Kansas City, since Easter they have raised $1,000 to pay off the floating debt, and $1,500 by a Festival. The debt is paid, the new pipe organ is all paid for; a new organ room to the right of the chancel has been built out, and the organ has been removed to it. The interior roof of the church has been handsomely ceiled, in place of the plaster which was constantly falling. The walls have been tinted; an iron fence has been put around the lot, which has been graded, and stone walks laid.

—The Church Guardian of Omaha refers thus to us:

"Nearly all the Dioceses in the new province, between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains, have their Cathedrals. Indeed, there needs but a Cathedral in St. Louis to fill out the complete set of Cathedrals of 'the Province of the Interior.' Every Bishop in this Province but one has his Cathedral work, organization and building."

Further on it says, "the Cathedral should not be a parish church;" and yet five out of the six Cathedrals named are parish churches.

—In the August Spirit of Missions we can not find a single acknowledgment from Missouri in any of the departments or of Missions. Perhaps somebody is the richer for this withholding and perhaps not.

—The Standard of the Cross lately thought Wisconsin was the first Diocese which had a Convention in which the laity represented communicants and not parishes. We adopted that provision three or four years ago. Our lay delegates in Convention represent not parishes but a certain number of communicants, and vote individually.

—The Bishop's visit to the mother parish of Pike county has to conform itself in time to the rural habits of the parishioners, who live at distances of from 2 to 10 miles from the old church at Prairieville. This year it came as for several years in the latter part of July, and was made also the occasion of the annual basket dinner, when the people gather from far and near. There were hundreds present, some coming twenty or thirty miles. A few of the older generation of parishioners, now almost all gone, were present; but the most were of the second and third generations. The Rev. Mr. Matrau, the minister of the parish, and the Rev. Mr. Masker of Jefferson City were present. The congregation more than filled the church, and after the services, which included Confirmation and the Holy Communion, all partook of a generous repast spread on the grass by the side of the church, prepared and served by the ladies. A number were present from Clarks-ville and Louisiana.

—Newton Crane, Esq., of Christ Church, has been chosen by the Bishop and Standing Committee as Deputy to the General Convention, and has accepted the duty.

—Holy Trinity Mission, South St. Joseph, has adopted the plan for a church 60x30 feet, and to cost $1,500. They have now $850 in hand. Dr. Runcie gives them Sunday night services, at which the attendance and interest is very great.

—On Sunday, 1st instant, the Bishop visited the little chapel at St. Paul Station, twenty miles from St. Louis, on the Missouri Pacific road, built by Mr. Wm. S. Cuddy, with the kind assistance of some friends in this city and elsewhere, on a corner of his property. The chapel, which has been named the Chapel of the Holy Cross, and which was opened last April, is 32x18 feet, ceiled within with yellow pine varnished, with chancel and vestry room, comfortable benches, cabinet organ and bell. Sunday-school is held in it every Sunday, and there are sixty names enrolled. A very good work is being done in the neighborhood, and we only wish that all of our people as they leave the city for the country, instead of settling down into carelessness and irreligion, would, as has been done here, make their influence felt for good around them, insist that if friends come to them on Sunday they shall go with them to church, and that the children shall be brought up in a religious way.

—The Rev. Mr. Scheetz, having resigned his position as Deputy to General Convention, being unable to go, the Rev. Mr. Betts has been appointed in his place, and has accepted the duty. The clerical deputies, the Rev. Drs. Runcie and Schuyler, and Messrs. Dunlop and Betts, all expect to attend.

—The Rev. Mr. Parker of Springfield has been fitting over the old Presbyterian Church which he bought for a parish school, and which he expects will be opened this fall. He is in correspondence with persons every way qualified to make a school which will be an ornament and help to the Church.

—If any parish desires two chandeliers of four lights each, five bracket lamps of two lights each and four of one light each, very nice and in good order, they can be bought at the low price of $20, from a parish which is thinking of putting gas into their church. Particulars can be had from the Rev. O. Parker, Springfield.

—The Bishop on Thursday, 5th instant, at the Oratory of the Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd admitted Miss Alice Adderly as a Sister Probationer. The Rev. Mr. Wright of St. John's Church assisted in the service. The Sisters' School, from the applications now coming in, is likely to be full to the extent of its capacity for the coming year. Church people need not go further to place their daughters under the most superior influences, educational, moral and social. The term opens Wednesday, 8th proximo.

—Mr. Judson Allen, the venerable Senior Warden of Trinity Church in this city, died a few days ago. He was in his eighty-fourth year, and had been confined to his house for two or three years. He was a fine specimen of a staunch old Bishop Hobart Churchman, and loved to talk of those earlier days.

—The Bishop's visitation to Nevada excited widespread interest. Thursday night the church was so crowded even after chairs were brought that many stood or went away unable to find a place. Three were confirmed, and, the Rector informs us, about eight others were "almost persuaded."

—The new church edifice at Palmyra is progressing finely. It promises to be a very beautiful structure, in this regard equal to many buildings of the kind which cost several times as much. The entire cost, including all conveniences, will not exceed $3,600.

TEACHERS' MEETINGS—THEIR NECESSITY AND USES.

[Delivered before the Church Sunday-school Association, by W. P. NELSON.]

It is hardly probable, if the question were asked whether the frequent gathering together of officers and teachers were advantageous or not, that one could be found bold enough to answer in the negative; and yet individual teachers and whole schools neglect this means of correcting mismanagement and of placing themselves on a better footing, with no good reason expressed or implied. Therefore, in treating this subject, one may be pardoned if he dwell on the necessity for teachers' meetings.

No better authority and no stronger advocate is found for this principle than the Bible, and Solomon strikes the key-note of the matter when he says, "Without counsel purposes are disappointed, but in the multitude of counsellors they are established."

The Church accepts this as good sound doctrine, and calls together her clergy and her laity by their delegates as often as practicable to lay out the plans and formulate laws that the exigencies of the past have shown to be needful in the future.

But, says one, I fail to see the analogy between the two cases. The Rector appoints the Superintendent, and his very name of Superintendent implies that that he has charge of the school with power to direct, therefore to control its laws; the teachers are selected by him and are under his authority; they are not representatives in any sense—are simply requested to teach, and if they do not like the method and management are at liberty to go. The Superintendent represents the Rector who has full control, even to the abolishing of the school if he so wills. This is good law I admit, and if either Rector or Superintendent were endowed with infallible powers might be good common sense, so far as the conduct of the school as a body is concerned; but so long as "to err is human," it will not do in Sunday schools to go upon the basis of the couplet—

"For forms of government let fools contest, What's best administered is best."

For a very bad rule may be very excellently administered. Job says, "Great men are not always wise;" so Superintendents may not always be right and their rulings may frequently bear modification for the better. Although bearing the formidable title of Superintendent, still he is not the manager of a workshop, where each workman is paid, has but one machine or article to manipulate, and is skilled in his branch by years of apprenticeship. On the contrary, the teachers have been requested to assist him in a volunteer work, and although untrained, they are supposed to be selected for their fitness in piety and intelligence, and as they have to deal with ever-varying features brought for them to mould into manly and womanly Christians, they are frequently cognizant of the necessity for changes and regulations of which they, not the Superintendent, are the better judges. The question is, when are those changes and regulations to be discussed and determined? In the school? The school hour is the time for action, there is no time then for consulting about methods, and without method no cause however right can be expected to have victory as its final result. Moreover, however good the purposes of all concerned may be, "without counsel purposes are disappointed." Some other opportunity must then be taken, and teachers' meetings have become a necessity.

Some one remarks just here, "This is all very well theoretically but, admitting the necessity of the case, practically, it is not easy to get the teachers together except on certain special occasions." Of course, this lies in a measure with the individual teacher, having accepted a duty is it right to leave that duty half done? Let it be remembered that "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well," and let each one take for a motto, "Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." This motto might well be adopted by each Superintendent remembering that a band of earnest, faithful teachers working intelligently and in harmony with him is the greatest might a Superintendent can have, and that if he neglects their full assistance he is not doing with his might; but with his weakness he is undertaking to accomplish a herculean task—he is going to the battle without a council of war, leading his soldiers to the fray before going to the arsenal for weapons, asking them to rely entirely upon his judgment while he is unwilling to put confidence in theirs. If each one will do his or her simple duty the meetings will be well attended and full of life; and that word duty! it were an easy task in our youth to do great things in the future. Great deeds, however, require detail; it is detail work that discourages, but it is that only which makes success. Don't depend upon some one else to attend the meeting for you—go yourself, and if the meeting is held in the evening and the Superintendent has failed to attend to his part in seeing that the ladies have escorts, that is one of the shortcomings of the leader of the school; he has assumed a multitude of small duties in accepting the office and if the meetings are unattended it is unquestionably partly his fault. No gentleman will decline to extend his walk by calling for several of the ladies if need be. This is a matter of no small importance, and I have never yet seen the attempt heartily made to obtain the presence of the teachers but what it met with due response.

There is an objection raised by some that the meetings are dull, stupid affairs. To one who is interested in the work this objection will not arise, unless the meetings are dull, flat and prosy. A live leader will not let such a state of things exist—he will see to it that no one complains on that score.

Let us then have our meetings, have them with regularity, not only once a month, but a definite stated time in the month, and always on the same day of the week. The trumpet has been sounded with no uncertain sound, and each one knows that on such a day of each month he has an engagement prior and paramount to anything else. This regularity of time will secure a much better attendance, and a fixed place is preferable and usually practicable and should be in the school-room or chapel where are all the books for conducting the exercises and the library for consultation.

And now let us consider a few of the main things to be attended to in the meetings. It will be well for the leader to frequently ask for suggestions from the more retiring ones, who are often the best class instructors; by so doing, he will succeed in calling forth the powers of each one present. Let no question of importance be decided hastily and without the voice of the meeting because some one of the forward ones has said, "We will let this be so and so—it is of no use to vote upon that." A whole school has been known to do what they did not desire to simply because when a strong statement has been made in that manner each one has felt diffident about speaking his or her objection, thinking that perhaps they were the only ones after all who did not agree with the idea presented, when the fact was the proposition did not meet the views of any but the presenter of it. By giving each individual an opportunity to express their assent or dissent either by voice or vote, you will save a great many little groups the satisfaction afterward of finding that the matter has been decided entirely wrong and that everybody thought so at the time. This is the deliberative time and the head of the school finds here that his teachers have many thoughts to suggest that have never before been called to his mind.

They have visited otherschools, and they would like to exchange some of their own chaff for the wheat they have found elsewhere. They would like to be progressive. There is no time in the school to speak about these matters, and out of the school, where no meetings are held, there is a constant grouping of teachers and a wondering why affairs are so badly administered, why there is no change, no keeping up with the spirit of the times.

A live man will frequently have remarks to make to his teachers which he can not say before the scholars. I have heard teachers harangued in school before their classes on the necessity of preserving order, and told that it was not a mark of ability or proficiency to let the attention of the children become relaxed, that a lack of interest on the children's part showed failure in the teacher, either in preparing or explaining the lesson. While this may have all been true, that was not the time or place for such remarks. It was painful to the teachers to have these deficiencies pointed out to the scholars; it was likewise detrimental to any future influence over them.

Let the question be put individually, how much time have you given to the study of the lesson? I think the truthful answers given by the teachers would astonish some of our superintendents and pastors. How can we expect great results from so little work? Another query, How many teachers asked God's blessing on the work? So few? Why, the self-reliance of a Napoleon could not be greater. They have endeavored to water the tender plants of God's vineyard, gone to the task with broken vessels, and failed to go to the fountain-head for the refreshing streams they expect—expect shall I say, how can they expect—they ought rather to pour out upon them. These are some of the vital questions that may come up—come up to engender the resolve that the future will find them better prepared for the work. It would seem best that each meeting should be inspired by the reading of a carefully prepared paper on some one of the many subjects in which we all are or should be so much interested, after which should follow a general discussion of what has been read. Some of these subjects will readily recur, and they demand attention or we fail. For instance, our boys leave the school at an earlier age than the girls leave it forever. They do not become teachers, they do not go to church. There is a great failure here, and there is a great responsibility. Whose fault is it? It is realized that it is no easy task to take care of a class of large boys. If this is not the case, why are they not taken care of? There are also the questions that perplex every teacher. How shall I secure the study of the lesson, punctuality, attendance, etc.? Why can not I maintain order as I see other teachers do? Other subjects suggest themselves. Have I any aim in teaching; if so, what is it? Do I attain the end and object desired? and if not, what is the cause of my failure? Do I know how to question a class, how to secure the attention, how to conduct the recitation? All of these are important questions, and the consideration of them a manifest necessity, because each teacher should utilize every instrumentality within reach. We have a mighty work before us, and if there be any one of us to whom these matters seem trivial, it is because that one has not realized the importance of small things.

We have already, as the result of our Association, begun to "gird on the armor of light" by the study meetings that have been inaugurated; but there is a better way to teach what we have learned than many of us are aware of. All of us are willing and desirous of knowing how to make our work more effective, and that is the great end and aim of the teachers' meetings. Let us then each and every school enter into the work with a new zeal, and let us, like the Apostles, often come together to consider of this matter. Then when we loudly proclaim in our hymn that "We are marching on with shield and banner bright,

We will work for God and battle for the right,"

we each may also say with St. Paul, "I therefore so run not as uncertainty, so fight I not as one that beateth the air."

—One of the saddest and most vexatious trials that comes to a girl when she marries is that she has to discharge her mother and depend on a servant girl.

PLAYING AT MISSIONS.

The pettiness of our efforts generally in our personal exertions and in the scale of our giving, for helping others to procure in their need the privileges of the Gospel and the Church, as contrasted with our zest and profuseness is a constant theme of shame to ourselves and of ridicule of us by the ungodly. If, they say, the matter is so urgent, and you are so peculiarly privileged, your actions show a strange contradiction. The danger and the blessing can not be so great as, while on your knees, you say they are, or else you would not so feebly play at missions. A great State to be helped and regenerated, and only a few hundred dollars given, with thousands spent on pleasure and dissipation, and this amount given only by a few persons; the rest praying and singing, and giving nothing.

The women of Carthage were not playing at warfare when they cut off their hair to be made bow-strings of for the defenders of the city. The people of Holland were not playing when they broke down the dykes and let in the sea over their fields and orchards that they might drown out the Spaniards. The German women were not playing at patriotism when they gave their gold ornaments to the government for the expenses of the war against Napoleon, and wore, instead, ornaments of iron. The Moravian missionary was not playing at missions when he consented to be sold as a slave that he might be admitted to the West Indies, and might preach to the negroes. But when we look at the work to be done, the millions to be evangelized, and at the scale of our preparations, we are compelled to realize bitterly that we are "playing at missions."

WE saw the other day lying on a mantel-piece side by side four pistols which had just been taken out of the pockets of as many boys, where they were being carried. They were kept for no bad intent no doubt; but, in addition to the dangers from accidents likely to result from the careless carrying and handling of firearms, when we consider the hot temper of youth and even manhood, we can all see how the spirit of quarrel and revenge so frequently has a bloody ending in the habitual use of weapons. A hot word, a fancied slight, and out comes the pistol; when without this ready agent second thought would easily bring about a settlement. Of course, the carrying of concealed weapons is against the law, and good policy demands that the law should be enforced. Our growth and progress as a State are retarded by the lawlessness consequent upon this disposition constantly to appeal to violence. The carrying of weapons is deplorable and cowardly in the old; it is unnatural and distressing when seen in the young.

It is an interesting circumstance that the growth of this State in population during the past ten years has been at a rate, so far as the counties are reported, considerably in excess of either Ohio or Illinois. The percentage of gain in Ohio is about 12½ per cent, for Illinois the growth appears to be about 18 per cent. For Missouri the increase is likely to be 573,000, which is at the rate of 33 per cent. While all of the counties, too, of Missouri, thus far reported, show an increase, some very small, as Clay and Platte and Franklin, five of the forty counties of Illinois, thus far reported, show an actual decrease. The growth both in Ohio and Illinois has been mainly in cities and towns, and it looks as though the agricultural population in both States had diminished. It is otherwise in Missouri; it is notably the country and not so largely the towns which have increased. It is well to remember these things; we have not grown as we should; but very much more as a State than we expected.

THE opening services of General Convention are to be held in St. George's Church, New York, the elder Dr. Tyng's. The business sessions afterward are to be at his son's Church of the Holy Trinity, near the Grand Central Depot. The opening services will be of a moderate character, and the Convention will apparently be under the auspices of a wing of the Church different from that under which the last General Convention in New York assembled. It is intimated that the mid-day lunch will not be provided. It began as a plain refectory for the Bishops, then became more profuse, and in 1874 in New York and in 1877 in Boston was extended to both houses of Convention. As usual, hospitality will be provided for the bishops and for the clerical deputies, though in regard to the latter there will probably be some change in the system.

THREE years ago a man by the name of Potter, claiming to be a nephew of Bishop Potter, and a graduate of Racine, defrauded a number of the clergy of this Diocese and Kansas by pretending to have had his pocket picked and asking loans. He called on the Bishop with his story, but as the Bishop had that day returned from the scene of his exploits in Western Missouri, and knew all about them, he branded the fellow and posted him in the daily papers. He asked pardon, shed tears, said he would not do it again and disappeared. He has now turned up again in Sedalia with the same story, traveling for a paint house, having a salary of $1,800, wanting a few dollars. He is about 30 years old, thick set, hair closely cut, wears moustache, but no beard, large full eyes, and is very plausible. Beware of him.

WILL our clergy and people cast over in their minds the relative advantage and disadvantage which have resulted from the change of time of our Convention from May to September. Has the failure to reach by change a larger choice of delegates, as was hoped for, and any other circumstances, made it justifiable, as some Dioceses have done, to the earlier practice? Or since the presumption is in favor of a continuance of an arrangement, in spite of a certain degree of inconvenience, unless there is a strong presumption to the contrary, should we go on, for the present at any rate, in our way as it stands?

SOMEHOW in the way in which a petty coterie of people in this city called the Liberal League, and another called the Cremation Club, get and keep before the public in the newspapers we are reminded of the three tailors of Tooley Street, London, who issued an address in the name of the people of England. Every Monday morning all the papers have an account of the meeting of the League the day before, and what was said. To be sure, when you look back you find that only three or four persons do all the talking; but the impression given out would be that they had a large part of the city behind them.

WILL persons who have interesting books which they can spare be kind enough to recall the plea which has been made by Dr. Schuyler for the library at St. Luke's Hospital. He has sent forty volumes there, and others have given some. If the matter were kept in mind there could soon be gathered a very good collection for the use of convalescents.

PERSONAL.

—Our old friend in this Diocese, Rev. J. G. Armstrong, formerly of Hannibal, now of Richmond, Virginia, recently received the degree of D.D. from the Washington and Lee University.

—Bishops Jaggard, Paddock and Burgess are for the summer in Maine, Bishops McLaren and Quintard in New Jersey, Bishop Howe of Pennsylvania in Rhode Island, Bishop Dudley and Bishop Atkinson in Virginia, Bishop Huntington in Massachusetts, Bishop Lay in West Virginia. Bishops Penick and Peterkin are at Cape May. Bishop Perry is in Europe.

—A year ago we mentioned the fact that the Rev. Mr. Siebold, once of this Diocese, had gone over to the Church of Rome. Whatever may have been his purpose in going, he has now had enough of it, and has come back.

—A great many clerical deaths are reported this month; the Rev. Drs. Diller, McElroy and Nichols, aged 93 years; Messrs. Dunn, Pander-son, aged 79, McWhorter, Lightner, Bonnar.

—The newly consecrated Bishop Ryle of Liverpool has been married four times; and yet he is a vigorous man.

—Dr. Phillips Brooks recently preached at the Royal Private Chapel before the Queen.

—The youngest son of Bishop Whittle, in his twenty-second year, is dead. He was a naval cadet at Annapolis.

THE next regular meeting of the Hannibal District Convocation is set for the 19th instant, in St. Jude's Church, Monroe. All members are expected to be present without fail; and all neighboring clergy, in the Diocese and without, are cordially invited and will be entertained to the best of our ability.

BOOK NOTICES.

STANDARD SERIES. No. 32 is MR. HORN AND HIS FRIENDS; or, Givers and Giving, by Mark G. Pearse. Finely illustrated. The aim of the author is to enforce the lesson of systematic giving. The style is very attractive. 15 cents. Nos. 33 and 34 are the two volumes of the ORATIONS OF DEMOSTHENES, and translated. A capital work for one who desires to study style. 20 cents each. No. 35 is "Frondes Agrestes; or, Readings in Modern Painters." By Ruskin. Chosen by a lady friend of the author and reviewed by himself. Price, 15 cents. These selections include the finest things said by Mr. Ruskin on the sky, streams and sea, mountains, stones, plants and flowers, education, the moralities, the principles of art, and the power and office of the imagination. It is a good book for Summer reading in the mountains. Mr. Ruskin's notes, commenting on his own writings, are quaint and instructive. No. 36 is "Joan of Arc." By Lamartine. Price, 10 cents. This book, as are all of Lamartine's books, is exceedingly interesting. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, N. Y.

HUMBOLDT LIBRARY OF POPULAR SCIENCE LITERATURE. No. 8 of this series is the Study of Languages brought back to its true principles, by C. Marcel. 15 cents. A learned book for the price of a newspaper. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 Fourth avenue, N. Y.

SCRIBNER. August. The midsummer number comes to us more than usually laden with good and seasonable things. A remarkable frontispiece engraving of Savonarola is followed by a most interesting account of that episode in Florentine history. Another brief summary of a large subject is Richard Henry Dana's "Sketch of American Diplomacy." So far as we know only one historical work was ever published on American diplomacy; and Mr. Dana's sketch, though only a sketch, is of peculiar interest, coming from so competent an authority. The most novel and interesting art feature is Philip Gilbert Hamerton's study of "Mr. Seymour Haden's Etchings." A number of etchings are reproduced in small, with an artistic accuracy which, it is claimed, has never before been equaled by similar means, namely, wood-engraving and steam-printing. It has been left to an American magazine to first enter upon the literal illustration of Dickens, by employing artists to look up the original scenes of his stories. The first of this series appears in the August Scribner. "The Western Man," by Charles Dudley Warner; "The Book of Mormon," an account, by Mrs. Ellen E. Dickinson, fortified by sworn and other testimony, of the origin of the Mormon Bible, which is claimed to have been written as a novel by her great-uncle, Rev. Solomon Spaulding. "Uncle Essek's Wisdom" is a new feature in the Bric-a-Brac department.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR AUGUST. A pleasant feature of this vacation number of the boys' and girls' magazine is the profusely illustrated article, "A Happy Thought for Street Children." This details the working of the "Fresh Air Excursions" through which thousands of city-worn little ones taste every year the delights of a summer fortnight in the country. Besides the installments of the two serials, by Louisa M. Alcott and Noah Brooks,—one dealing with sprightly home-life, the other with boys who form a militia company and have a muster and a sham fight,—there are several complete short stories. Of these, the most notable are: "Marjorie's Peril," "The Fox and the Stork," a tale of boy-life; "Why the Black Cat Winked," illustrated, and the "Coral Castle," a funny narrative, with six comic pictures by Hopkins, of how the fishes failed in an attack upon the work of coral-polyps. The pages of large-type reading-matter set apart for very little folk are made attractive with stories, anecdotes, pictures, and puzzles; and scattered here and there are many poems, single pictures, and jingles, which fill up eighty pages in a way to make even the rainiest holiday delightful to the youngster who gets this number of the magazine.

THE SANITARIAN. August. "A Plea for Sound Manhood and Womanhood," "School Hygiene," "Cosmetics," "Aulteration of Food," "Vital Statistics," "Philadelphia Sewerage." Every one of which is of practical utility to every community and family throughout the country. $3 a year, 30 cents a number. Published by A. N. Bell, New York.

The August WIDE AWAKE, with its beautiful frontispieces ought to be packed up in all the vacation trunks bound for the country and the seaside, for it is full of entertaining reading for the hammock, and the veranda. Nora Perry, in "Miss Violet," tells a story full of wisdom for all young girls just going into society, and M. E. W. S. has a beach story for the boys, entitled "Job Pigstirups." John Brownjohn begins his "Queerclow Chronicles" with the very funny account of "Miss Marrowphat's Maltee," with three spirited illustrations. Mrs. A. M. Diaz, a perennial favorite with story-lovers, has a tale of "Robbie and Robbie," for the little boys. But the merriest contribution to the number is Mrs. Clara Doty Bates' paraphrases of the "Three Little Kittens that Lost their Mittens." Only $2 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

THE WESTERN HOUSEHOLD. Vol. 1, No. 1. A new venture, published in Jefferson City, and proposing to give choice selections and some original matter. We see a well written article from the Rev. Mr. Masker. For home reading. We wish it a long and prosperous voyage. It is neatly printed, with 16 pages. 50 cents a year.

SPIRITUAL SONGS FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL. By Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D.D. If we had not such an admirable collection of hymns for our children in the Hymnal, which of course it is our first duty to use, we would recommend this collection, which contains most of the best in our Hymnal, and many other good children's hymns besides. The book is handsomely printed, and with clear type for the music. 50 cents, or in quantities, 40 cents. Scribner & Co., New York.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Kansas Convention acted in the direction of the precipitate creation of parishes by ordering that they shall only be organized where twenty or more actual communicants unite in the action, and $300 for ministerial support is raised. They voted against any general provincial system, as did also the Kentucky Convention.

—At a confirmation in St. John's church, Jersey City, among those presented were one from the Quakers, one from the Methodist, one from the Unitarians, one from the Dutch Reformed, two from the Presbyterians, and three from the Baptists.

—The national debt was reduced $85,034,961 during the fiscal year ending with the month of June, the decrease for that month amounting to $10,214,424; and the whole decrease from the highest point, $2,756,551,575 (August 31st, 1865), is $814,259,276, leaving the debt now at $1,942,172,295.

—Of the four hundred and sixty-nine deaths in Brooklyn in one week recently, three hundred and thirty-seven were children under five years of age.

—Those who are familiar with the history of Christ church, Philadelphia, will remember the active part that Dr. Franklin took in its concerns a century ago, when Bishop White was the rector. On the 4th of July the great grandson of Bishop White and the great grandson of Dr. Franklin together in Christ church chapel were engaged in the services, and doing their part as vestrymen in the same edifice.

—Much has at different times been said about the high principle of the Church of Rome about divorce; its indisposition to grant it, and then its resoluteness in again marrying to others the parties so divorced. The following account shows that now, as ever, it is indisposed to divorce, but demands for itself the power of dispensation—for consideration on the slightest grounds: "On the 2d of May Lady Mary Hamilton was married at Pesth, to Count Festetics, by the Cardinal Senior, the Primate of Hungary. In 1869 she had been married to the Prince of Monaco, to whom she bore a son. But some months ago, the Pope, after prolonged inquiries before two congregations of Cardinals, assented to her petition, and declared that her marriage was void, for want of interior consent on her part when she made the nuptial vow, and received the nuptial blessing; and the following was from a recent St. Louis paper.

KERNAN—SELLERS.—At St. Alphonsus (Redemptorist) church, on Thursday, the 6th inst., by the Rev. Father Cook, Bernard Kernan to Bettie J. Sellers (recently divorced.)

—Several of the Methodist publications have for some time netted annual losses. The National Repository has lost $30,000 during the past four years; the Southern Advocate, $16,000; the Pacific Coast Advocate, $13,000; the St. Louis Advocate, $9,000; and Golden Hours, several thousand. This only shows how great store they set on their periodicals.

—American beauties seem to be increasingly in demand for foreign husbands. Nearly every embassy in Washington has captured one. Several of the peeresses in England are Americans. Mrs. Paran Stevens' daughter married a Paget two years ago, and now Mr. Vanderbilt's daughter is announced as engaged to an Earl's son. Later still, the news is that the Marquis of Anglesey persuaded an American lady in Paris to procure a divorce for the purpose of marrying him, and then after she had done it, in a few weeks, suddenly, after an engagement of only a week, married another American lady, and the first within a few days committed suicide.

—The charitable contributions of Trinity church, Boston, of which Rev. Phillips Brooks is rector, were last year $31,395.

—Four colored clergymen are laboring in different parts of the Diocese of Tennessee, one of whom has made the fact that Mr. Anderson Taylor, himself a colored man, has paid $11,000 in one gift toward building a church.

—The Rev. A. St. John Chambre, D.D., has been admitted as a candidate for Holy Orders in the Diocese of Massachusetts. He was president of the Universalist convention of that State and of their chief committee; also Professor of Ecclesiastical History in Tufts College, and pastor of the Universalist society in Franklin.

—The biggest church debt we have heard of in this country is that of St. Patrick's cathedral, New York, for four hundred thousand dollars. It is in one mortgage, at five per cent.

MISCELLANY.

—Rev. Dr. West, of New Bedford, once heard that his choir would refuse to sing on the next Sunday. When the day came he gave out the hymn, "Come ye who love the Lord." After reading it through he looked up very emphatically at the choir, and said, "You will begin at the second verse, 'Let those refuse to sing who never knew our God.'"

—The children in one of the St. Louis public schools who live at a distance are accustomed to bring a lunch instead of going home to dinner, and they usually have a merry time eating together at noon. Among those who did not go home was a little girl who never brought any lunch, but looked wistfully at her schoolmates as they disposed of their food. But one day the little girl brought her bundle also, wrapped in paper. At noon she did not go with the others, but remained at her desk, and her teacher advised her to go to the lunch-room, approaching the desk to take her bundle. The little girl, bursting into tears, exclaimed, "Don't touch it, and oh! don't tell, please; it's only blocks!" The poor girl had no dinner to bring, but wished "to keep up appearances," so as not to seem unlike her schoolmates.

—A boy being requested to write a composition on the subject of "pins," produced the following: "Pins are very useful. They have saved the lives of a great many men, women and children—in fact whole families." "How so?" asked the puzzled teacher; and the boy replied, "Why, by not swallowing them." This matches the story of the other boy who defined salt as "the stuff that makes potatoes taste bad when you don't put any on."

—Dr. Cuyler, at the recent completion of the twentieth year of his pastorate in Brooklyn, disclosed this secret of his success. He said that he had never allowed a day to pass without a visit to some family, and a talk with some one on personal religion.

—Bishop Hopkins once said to a congregation who were complaining of the abilities of the rector, "I would like to know how many first-class men there are in the congregation? How many first-class lawyers? How many first-class doctors? How many first-class business men? Why, said he, 'if I were to give you fifty thousand dollars apiece you have not got business capacity enough to take care of it.'"

"That man is my thorn in the flesh!" exclaimed an exasperated young Christian, when some careless delay on the part of a fellow-worker had caused unusual trouble. "Make him a means of grace, then," was the cheerful answer.

"There is an argument for Christianity, which I cannot answer," said David Hume, as a young man, distinguished for his consistent life, passed by. And it's just the argument that cannot be answered! What is the use of denying the life of the Tree, when its boughs are bending with clustering fruit?

"How came you to be lost?" asked a sympathetic gentleman of a little boy he found crying in the street for his mother. "I ain't lost," indignantly exclaimed the little three-year-old; "but m-m-my mother is, and I ca-ca-can't find her."

—A little fellow, four year old, prayed thus for himself: "O Lord, bless George, and make him a good boy; and don't let him be naughty again, never, no, never!"

—Within the last twenty-five years the number of churches and chapels in New York has nearly doubled; and of the whole number some eighty-five in all, it is believed there is scarcely one which does not make the Sunday-school as much a part of its work as the preaching of the Gospel. The whole number of scholars amounts at the present time to more than twenty-four thousand, which is twice the number reported in 1870, and probably amounts to a third more that were then included in all the schools.

—"The Kindergarten in connection with Church work," was the subject of an address by the Rev. R. Heber Newton at a session of the "Congress of the American Froebel Union" on the evening of April 1st, in New York. How the exercises of the Kindergarten may be connected with those which it is deemed proper to introduce into Sunday-schools is a subject which should have careful consideration.

—Bishop H—recently related the following incident, which ought to be a lesson to those preachers who are afraid to ask the people for money. The Bishop said:

"One morning in my early ministry I started out to secure some funds to buy lamps for the better lighting of my church. Almost the first man I met was a noted atheist, who made his boast that he had not been inside of a church for twenty-five years. I stopped to speak with him, and he seemed quite friendly. I said to him, 'Mr. Lamberton, I am out this morning to get a little money to secure the better lighting of my church. I am well aware that you never go into our church, but it may be you would be willing to give something for the comfort of those who do.' He took out his pocket book, gave me five dollars, and said, 'I give this, not for the church, but for your father's sake.' What was my surprise the very next Sunday evening to see that old man in my congregation. He was on the very back seat, and went out at once as soon as the service was over. But he came again; he was convicted of sin; God converted him. He lived a Christian life, and died a triumphant death. I verily believe it was that five dollar subscription that led to this happy result."

Editor Church News:

In his recent travels through the State the writer visited many Sunday-schools, and among the number was one which he named the Go-as-you-please-Sunday-school. This letter is not written to make fun in any way with the honest and zealous efforts of Christian people to instruct the young in that knowledge which shall eventually bring them to "enjoy the raptures of the eternal years," but to make actions a phase of Sunday-school management only too common among the Church, as well as the schools of other Christian bodies. The names herein given are, of course, fictitious, used only for purposes of illustration.

The Go-as-you-please-Sunday-school meets in the afternoon, at any time, from 2 to half past two. At what he considered the appropriate time the superintendent mounted the desk and tapped the bell. It seemed to be well understood that this bell did not mean anything, for the teachers and scholars in the aisles kept on with their gossip with little or no diminution. Five minutes later the bell was sounded again, and teachers and scholars began to move toward the pews as though just realizing that something was to be done. Soon the bell was rung again, and the movement begun in earnest, two of the teachers disappearing out of the door, but this did not trouble the superintendent greatly, being evidently used to it. Taking up a singing book, he announced a hymn, and the bustle momentarily ceased, only to break out again, however, upon a dozen or more scholars starting in various directions for singing books. Finally the organist commenced to play, and a part of those who found books, to sing. Some who would have sung could not, for want of books, and some who had books and could sing would not. After the singing all were invited to join Bro. Smith in prayer, but I suspect it to have been the Bro.'s stock prayer, for no one listened to it, nor did any one kneel, but occupied such attitude as pleased him best. The next thing in order was the responsive reading of the lesson. To this the superintendent secured some attention by moving about from one class to another as he read. The next hymn, or more properly speaking, song, was much like the first, but followed by the study of the lesson. But before much could be done the many vacant places had to be supplied, and the superintendent proceeded to a Bible class of but few scholars, and commenced to coax:

"Bro. A., won't you take a class?"

Bro. A. firmly declined.

"Sister B., please take Miss Brown's class."

"But I have not studied the lesson." The superintendent gallantly answered, "O, that won't make any difference."

Sister B. persisted: "But I have no Bible."

The superintendent borrowed one, and Sister B., looking at the lesson in dismay, started for the class. The coaxing process of the superintendent was repeated, until the classes were supplied, the superintendent taking one himself, and the school settled down to work except the secretary and librarian, who plied their vocations among the classes unrestrained. The teaching was, so far as I could learn, in the same go-as-you-please style. Four of the teachers, at least, were wholly unprepared, and of the rest there was no little room for doubt.

The method pursued was for the teacher to read one of the printed questions on the lesson paper, and the reply was given by a scholar reading the verse containing it. When the questions were all asked, and the answers read, there was nothing to do but wait patiently for the superintendent to again ring the bell, which he did with the same regard to time and system observed at the beginning. After the bell and singing, the lesson was reviewed by the superintendent, who asked the questions and made most of the replies. Ten or fifteen minutes were thus spent, and in "remarks." The closing exercises, a repetition of the opening, were gone through with, and the school was closed.

Fellow workers, I have no comment to make, but ask, do you see in your own school any of the characteristics of the Go-as-you-please Sunday-school, and if so, can you not suggest and put in practice remedies that will overcome the defects so painfully evident and discouraging?

METHOD.

Who ever did a real kindness for another without feeling a warm glow of satisfaction find its way into the heart, filling it with sweetness and peace? It is much like tying a bunch of the beautiful violet and mignonnette where their perfume will deliciously rise to our sense all the day long. And what a pleasure it is to remember, when trouble is come and is past,—when hearts that should have been "tender and true though all the world come between,"—that we found time, perhaps, in our greatest sorrow to give to others a practical tenderness and sympathy which had come to us as a "scanty dole." Let us not forget that children are won to the school, and retained to the Church by the old story of divine love for man, and a timely manifestation of love for them. No character is so unlovely and perverse as to be proof against the gentle wiles of patient love and sympathy. And if he who now finds his scholars disobedient and careless would succeed, he must satisfy them by convincing manifestations of his love for and interest in them. Whatever is born of love is noble, of good report, holy and inspiring, and he who has the greatest love for human souls will be the most successful in his work.

THAT which kills in the school, as in the pursuits of the world, is rust rather than wear. Study is by far the most wearisome to those who study least. Drones have always a hard time. Poor scholars are invariably grumblers over lessons which are uniformly "hard" and "too long." The time and thought so often devoted to shirking would be ample to master their tasks. Sloth and worry kill thousands where over-work harms one. The lazy groan continually over their "arduous duties," while earnest workers, with "hearts so great they never tire," work on faithfully and lovingly. Fellow superintendent or teacher, remember that children are quick to detect the false from the true, and as you are,—earnest and diligent, or slothful and faithless,—so will be your school, or your class.

THE too frequent practice of making the Sunday school a place for the gratification of the idle and curious, by the introduction of brass bands, orchestra and opera-house accessory, and the exhibition of little ones pushed forward to display their elocutionary or vocal powers for the gratification of fond friends and parents, whereby pride and vanity in the performer and spectator are fostered, cannot be too severely condemned. There is too much tendency to indulge in dramatic and spectacular performances, a forgetfulness that the great work of the Sunday-school is the worship of God, the thoughtful and effective study of His word, the upbuilding of true Christian character, and the singing of the praise of our blessed Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, and he who contributes most to the attainment of these results fulfills the most effectively the command "Feed my lambs."

MANY parents may learn a lesson from the negro mother who led her toddling babe up to the alms basin in the church, and lifted him up that he might drop his penny into the vessel from his own fingers. "Have patience, brudder," she said to the scowling sexton, who would reprimand her boldness, "have patience, I wants to bring him up to it." She had the right principle. Let us teach the children their money is their own, and then bring them up to be such cheerful givers as the Lord loveth.

ST. JOSEPH.

Editor Church News:

There was a large attendance of the members and friends of Holy Trinity Mission, South St. Joseph, on the afternoon of the sixth Sunday after Trinity. The occasion was the celebration of the Sunday-school anniversary. The services were conducted by the Rector of Christ Church, Rev. Dr. Runcie, who also made the opening address. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer showed the school to be in a condition of gratifying prosperity. The average attendance during the year was 82. Stirring addresses were made at the close by Mr. W. A. Lord, Superintendent of Christ Church Sunday-school, and by Mr. J. J. Wilkins, Superintendent of the Sunday-school of the Holy Communion, St. Louis. In one respect this Holy Trinity Mission is especially to be commended. It pays as it goes, and is never in debt. Commencing four years ago in a hired building, with a capital of two dollars contributed by two individuals, it has not only paid rent ($312) and promptly met all other expenses, books, papers, etc., but has accumulated a fund of over seven hundred dollars now in the treasury. This speaks volumes for the wise management of the Superintendent, Mr. I. Wilkins and his associates. The money on hand is to be used this fall in building a chapel for the Mission.

A GOOD ENTERPRISE WELL STARTED.

Editor Church News:

On Sunday last the members of the Church of the Good Samaritan practicably began to hold services in Trinity Chapel under the direction of their lay reader, Mr. Mason. It was the intention to have begun the work on the Sunday previous, but the severe storm which arose shortly before the time for opening service prevented an attendance sufficiently large for the carrying out of the programme, the main feature of which was the organization of a Sunday-school.

On Sunday last, however, a goodly number were assembled at the appointed time, and the service, which was a litany service, was entered into with considerable zeal by the entire congregation. After the opening service an address was made by Mr. Mason in which he referred briefly to the history of the church and the object of its removal.

A short time was then given to the organization of a Sunday-school, which resulted in the enrollment of thirty scholars and five teachers. The congregation numbered something more than 60 persons. The services will continue to be held in the chapel at 3.30 o'clock until further notice. Persons interested in the work would do well to attend the meetings.

VOICE FROM THE PEWS.

A sufferer in the pews thus relieves himself in The Pacific Churchman:

This having all the talk on one side has a very bad effect, for it makes think back, and cherish surly feelings, which would find no permanent lodgment were the chance given to have a say and done with it. And on the other hand, the pulpit, on account of its continued immunity from back talk, ultimately settles down into a state of perfect self-satisfaction, seriously impairing its power and character. Many a true-hearted, earnest clergyman after trying this parish and that, preaching everywhere with eloquence and zeal, finds no visible result attending his labors, or worse than this, his parish falls to pieces in his hands. He bemoans the growing indifference of the age toward the Church, grows sad, perhaps morose, and wishes to be transplanted to the angelic regions before his time. He doesn't know what is the matter, and yet there is not a man in his parish who could not tell him all about it, if they could but talk back. I often think it a pity that our young clergymen are not compelled to follow some secular occupation before they enter the ministry. The apostles were all laboring men, prepared with gloveless hands to grapple with a vicious humanity, and to die in the struggle. Our young student is apt to think that dignity and eloquence is the only power. Oh, that the pews could only talk back! A friendly smile and greeting, a look of sympathy, are worth all the talk and dignity of a diocese. I actually believe that some of our clergy hate mankind; they go along as if the check-rein were strapped upon their necks; they can not see anything smaller than a three-story residence, hence the cottages are total strangers to them, and not knowing them they never learn to love them. Most of our clergy shrink from vice, dirt and rags, when their true mission is to hunt them up—at least so taught our Saviour, and so did his apostles. In short, clergymen are deficient in that attention to the outward and external exhibition of those charms of character (which many possess, but strangely conceal, or fail to exercise) which alone can hold parishes together.

A clergyman may preach excellent sermons, he may be a saint in character; but unless he gains the affection of his people by constant, pleasant and impartial intercourse with them, his parish will languish, his sphere of usefulness grows less, and pain and disappointment will be his certain reward.

SOME REASONS WHY I AM A CHURCHMAN.

1. Because I am a Congregationalist. From the days of the first and Apostolic Council the congregations, or "the brethren," were represented in all church works and conferences. The laity should have a due place in Church affairs.

2. Because I am a Presbyterian. I find the order of Presbyters very clearly appointed and referred to, both in the sacred record and in early and subsequently Church history.

3. Because I am a Methodist. I believe in method in all things; "let all things be done decently and in order," taxis, i. e. by a set rule. A Methodical liturgy, for instance, saves from much harm.

3. Because I am a Catholic. Unless the Church be Catholic, what is it?

5. Because I am Episcopalian. A Church without an "Episcopos," or Bishop, was unknown in early days.

6. Because I have High views. I could not belong to a Church which I did not think highly of.

7. Because I have Low notions. I am taught to think lowly of myself and the best I can of others.

8. Because I am a Protestant. Truth protests against error, whether from Rome or from Geneva. The Church must be a continual "protest" against sin and evil, from whatever quarter it come, and whatever guise it wear.

9. Because I am an Adventist. We believe in the first and in the second coming of the Saviour—though we avoid all pert theorizings about His future advent.

10. Because I am a Unitarian. I believe in "one God, maker of heaven and earth."

11. Because I am a Baptist. If a person prefers "Immersion," the Church says that he may have it; if some other form of Baptism, then, that.

12. Because I am Evangelical. I love the "Gospel;" and more Gospel is used in our own services than in any other.

13. Because I believe in Revivals. Lent, Easter, Advent and the other holy seasons of the Church are meant to "revive the work of the Lord."

14. Because arcs of truth make up the circle of truth. R. L.

CHRISTIAN HYMN OF BATTLE.

WRITTEN FOR THE CHURCH NEWS BY REV. THOS. MAY THORPE.

Inscribed to Bishop Robertson.

O blessed Lord, within thy Word,
What fadeless glories shine;
Thy SPIRIT in my breast hath stirred,
O make me wholly thine.
Yes, teach me in thy sacred page
Thy precious will to trace;
O help and bless thro' every age
Thy Bride to see thy face.

From earthly themes my heart withdraw,
Fill me with Thy self above;
Aid me to preach thy two-fold law,
And guide poor sinners home.

O go before in Western wilds,
Our Church in wisdom lead;
Forget thy rod, for Jesus smiles—
Behold him intercede.
Truly, THOU our land has given,
Let us then grandly give;
Thy precious blood hath purchased heaven,
Let us in others live.

BE THOROUGH.

Whatso'er you find to do,
Do it, boys, with all you might;
Never be a little true
Or a little in the right.
Trifles even Lead to heaven;
Trifles make the life of man,
So in all things,
Large and small things,
Be as thorough as you can.
Let no speck the surface dim—
Spotless truth and honor bright!
I'd not give a fig for him
Who says any lie is white!
He who falters,
Twists or alters,
Little atoms when we speak,
May deceive me,
But believe me,
To himself he is a sneak.

LAZINESS THE FOUNDATION OF SOCIALISM.

Socialism is a disease of a state of civilization in which a true science of society scarcely exists, in which false notions of life, of the relation of the individual to the society and the state are widespread, and in which all ranks are honeycombed by sentimental notions of what ought to be, and can be, in this world. Since Rousseau, a certain set of doctrines has been permeating modern society, which have no truth in history or fact at all, but which flatter human nature and are sure to be popular, because they make light of education, culture, capital, breeding, and all the excellences which, being all very hard to get, raise him who has them above him who has them not. The same doctrines teach, per contra, that the untrained man is the norm and type and standard, so that men, instead of being urged to seek the excellences, are encouraged to believe themselves superior, without them, to those who have them. Such is the outcome of the doctrine of equality, and, as it has spread, it has only grown more fallacious and shifted more and more distinctly into a thirst and demand for equal enjoyment of material luxury. Socialism is an effort to gratify this thirst in some other way than by using it as an incentive to industry and economy. Obviously, there is no other way, unless it consists in taking away the means of material enjoyment from those who have produced and saved them. Every step in that direction is a step toward universal impoverishment and barbarism, and every step will have to be won by war. The socialists assume that their victory in that war is certain, but it is certain that they are entirely mistaken.—[Scribner.]

I am reminded of an incident which touched me very much at the time, and may find a responsive chord in the hearts of some who are parents. I was sitting on my porch on a pleasant summer morning, when up runs little five year old Belle, intent on a visit to a playmate across the way. "Papa," she asks, "may I go over and play with Carrie a little while?" and then, as she seemed to discern a dissent in my face, she put her little rosebud lips to mine, and quickly added, "Please don't say no—think a minute first." Was there ever a more charming protest against a hasty and inconsiderate answer? Of course, the little girl had her wish. We are perhaps all too ready to deny many of the requests of the little ones—things that seem trifling to us, but are everything to them. And when their little appeals come, before letting the "No" rise too quickly to our lips, let us think a minute.

APPLETONS'

New Readers!

The following strong endorsements of Appletons' New Readers, among thousands of others from St. Louis educators have just been received:

From CHANCELLOR W. G. ELIOT.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY, June 24.
I have carefully examined Appletons' series of readers from beginning to end, and believe that they have not been and are not likely to be surpassed in beauty or excellence.

From EDWIN HARRISON.

I have examined the Appleton series of readers. They are admirably adapted to the purpose for which they are intended. I cannot see how or where they could be improved.

From CAPTAIN JAS. B. EADS.

I have examined the contents of these text books (Appletons' Readers) and take pleasure in stating that I have never seen anything of the kind that compares with them in point of completeness.

From THOMAS C. FLETCHER.

The readers (Appletons') will certainly be regarded by parents and teachers as a very gratifying evidence of progress in this most important branch of education.

From Rev. GEORGE C. BETTS, Rector
Trinity Church.

They are in my judgment decidedly the best which I have yet seen from first to last in every respect.

From REV. C. L. GOODELL, Pastor Pilgrim Church.

I think they have no equals.

From ISAAC H. STURGEON.

They should be in every school, and their great merits will, no doubt, speedily be recognized by all educators.

From Rev. Dr. JUNGK, Pastor St. Luke's Church.

I have examined Appletons' Readers, and take great pleasure in recommending them for adoption in our city schools.

From PROF. C. S. PENNELL, Mary Institute.

We have been using some of Appletons' Series of Readers for a year, and it gives me pleasure to say that they satisfy our expectations. We recommend them to teachers everywhere.

From JOHN C. ORRICK.

I have examined Appletons' new Series of Readers. I believe them to be the best now published, and admirably suited for the purpose intended.

From REV. M. SCHUYLER, Rector.

There can be but little doubt that they will be adopted not only in our Public Schools, but in our Private Institutions as soon as they are known.

From B. GRATZ BROWN.

I have examined Appletons' New Series of Readers with great care and much attention, and find them one and all far in advance of any before introduced.

From JAMES RICHARDSON.

Knowing that Prof. W. T. Harris, in connection with several other professional modern educators, had interested themselves in their compilation, I was prepared to find in them a great improvement both in matter and method over all former works of the kind.

From M. J. LIPPMAN.

I would state that I have examined Appletons' Series of Readers and take great pleasure in stating that I consider them the best series of readers now in existence.

From THOMAS RICHESON.

Having been long identified with the interests of the public schools of St. Louis, and after a careful investigation of the whole subject, I am decidedly of the opinion that Appletons' excellent Series of Readers for use in our schools would be greatly beneficial to both pupils and teachers.

VOLUME II, WHOLE NUMBER 129

ST. LOUIS, SEPTEMBER 15, 1880.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

THE CHURCH NEWS

Is published on the fifteenth of each month. It is a Journal of General and Diocesan Church Intelligence, and is the organ of the Bishop of Missouri.

All subscriptions for the paper, business letters, and also advertisements, should be sent to the Publisher, GEORGE W. MATTHEWS, 612 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo.

Subscriptions, $1 a year. In clubs of five or more, to different addresses, money sent at one time, 75cts. Other names may be added at the same rate.

A certain number of select advertisements will be received at rates to be arranged by the Publishers.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

26, Sunday, St. John's, St. Louis, Ordination.

28, Tuesday, St. George's, St. Louis, DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

29, Wednesday night, St. George's, Annual Meeting Laymen's Co-operating Missionary Society.

30, Thursday, night, Annual Sunday-school Meeting.

Oct. 3, Sunday p. m., Christ Church, Annual Meeting Sunday-school Missionary Host.

6, Wednesday, New York, Opening General Convention.

THE Bishop reminds the clergy and others of the good custom of a number of years by which the more able parishes, and those not burdened with the cost of travel to Convention, devote the offertory of the Sunday before Convention to a fund for the expenses of missionaries from less wealthy parishes at a distance to and from Convention. It distributes the burden evenly. A committee will disburse such amounts received. Only those of course will participate in such distribution who have taken offerings for the purpose. If the amount received is inadequate, it will be distributed pro rata.

THE Bishop would again call the attention of the clergy and the wardens of vacant parishes to the duty of making full and accurate reports of the condition of the parishes and mission stations under the headings furnished in the blanks sent by the Secretary of Convention. The figures should be taken from the parish register and the treasurer's books. These reports should be handed to the Bishop not later than the first day of Convention; or if the parish is not to be represented, they should be sent to the Bishop by mail so as to reach him by the 28th instant. Important as this is every year, this is absolutely necessary this year.

THE CONVENTION.

The Secretary will communicate in this paper concerning several matters of interest. The hospitality of St. Louis will suffice for the entertainment of all who while in attendance at Convention will avail themselves of it. If it has ever seemed to fail, it has been because of a lack of concert of action between the parts. Usually, as this year, a committee is appointed to arrange the details between the city parishes and those who will attend. But when, in order to inform the committee who in their parishes will entertain, the clergyman asks in church that those who are so disposed will inform him, a number think they will tell him, but forget all about it until reminded the next Sunday; or, being uncertain as to domestic arrangements, say nothing. The clergyman and the committee are thus wholly at a loss, until within a few days of Convention.

On the other hand, those in the interior, although written to, and asked to say as promptly as possible whether they or their deputies are coming, and if so how many, and their names, and whether they will accept hospitality, and when and how they will come, fail to write, partly because they are not sure, and partly because they do not appreciate the value of promptness. Postal cards are cheap, and information may be given as it is had, and corrections made afterward if necessary. But if all are to be informed before they start what their destination is to be in town, information must be given early. If, however, those who have been thus invited find it impossible at last to come, it will be an act of kindness to inform those who are expecting them of this, at the earliest moment.

The generous proposal of St. George's, in which the Convention meets, to provide lunch each day during Convention, will both relieve the entertainers and also facilitate the work of Convention. The domestic arrangements are so various that the Convention could not take at any hour which would suit all, and the distances to the different homes would be an obstacle. The long single session which is the alternative is wearisome.

Each night will be occupied; Tuesday night with the Bishop's address and the reception at the Episcopal Residence; Wednesday night with the general missionary meeting; Thursday night with the meeting in the interest of Sunday-schools, to which reference is elsewhere made. Of course, it is hoped that these night services will elicit a wide interest.

The Bishop hopes that in Church and in the family before and during our own and the General Convention the prayer for Convention will be devoutly said, that those engaged thus in the Church's work may act wisely and well.

HOME ATTRACTION.

Nothing is small which at all contributes to the cultivation of home attachments and virtues. At critical times in life they hold the young or bring them back to the better way. The subject at large is naturally a very wide one, and includes many particulars. But there are so many causes tending to selfishness at home—fatigue, desire to enjoy one's self privately without reference to the tastes and capacities of others, absence—that if home is to be attractive, it will only be by ingenuity and sacrifice and effort. But the object is quite worth the while.

Those are not engaged in the meanest or least effective duties of philanthropy who, not avoiding other and more demonstrative labors, think that a high and important one comes to them in interesting and holding and instructing the children. To them the fascinations of society and the drama are just as great; they could find many specious arguments, satisfying others and perhaps themselves, for neglecting home worries; it is so easy to meet the constant and often puzzling inquiries of the children with vague and careless reply.

But there are those who conceive that Christian duty is not exhausted when provision is made for the family food and clothing, who can not remit the religious care of the children to the Sunday-school teacher, nor their companionship to the nurse. For reading they provide according to their means for the children no less than for themselves; and are willing to deny themselves a pleasant hour with a novel or a tempting siesta in order to read aloud and explain to the children too young to read by themselves; who look up the matters which the children ask about and which are often too deep for immediate reply; who study to make home so pleasant that no command is required to cause it to be frequented.

All this process, often so critical in after life in its results on character, costs effort and thought. There is a room in which at nightfall the children may gather about the cheerfully lighted table; the books and lessons and sewing and games are gotten out, and the circle does not break up until a Heavenly Father's bounty has been blessed and protection invoked. More of the sons of farmers would be content at home and not be restless for the city if, cleansed after the toils of the day, the arrangements of home included opportunity for a time for quiet reading for them.

After a time the child outgrows its earlier amusements; and then there is no waste in providing, as there is taste for it, tools and books. The parent's thoughts must be alert, if they are to keep up with the widening knowledge of the children, gotten at the school and in the intercourse of each day. There comes one day a blush at the revelation of the extent to which the rusting of earlier knowledge had gone on, shown in an unexpected question by a child. But the respect for the parent must not be strained by the falling behind in knowledge and culture; and the finest sight later on is to see parent and child going on hand in hand in common interests and pursuits.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Rev. Dr. Foster of Sedalia has arranged to give services every Sunday to the parish in Warrensburg. The parish can give but a very small amount, but they do their best, and he generously aids them.

—The Rev. Mr. Scheetz will preach the Convention Sermon. His sermon at the Special Convention in Kirkwood in 1868, called for the election of a Bishop, is well remembered yet by the older members of the Convention who were then present.

—The Rev. Mr. Masker secured two or three weeks for needed rest from his work in Jefferson City, and took a trip up the Mississippi river to St. Paul and back.

—During his visit in Minnesota the Rev. Mr. Robert preached in St. Paul a sermon which was published in the local paper, and was given a reception by his former parishioner, Gen. Simpson.

—The Hannibal Convocation met according to appointment in Monroe on the 19th instant, when all the clerical members were present except the Rev. Dr. Wainwright and Robert Talbot, and with the addition of the Rev. Mr. Matrau of Louisiana and W. W. Corby of Western Texas. It was a very profitable and enjoyable occasion. The Rev. Mr. Leonard preached on Thursday night, Evans on Friday night, Abbott on Saturday night, Matrau on Sunday morning, and Ethelbert Talbot on Sunday night.

—If any parish desires two chandeliers of four lights each, five bracket lamps of two lights each and four of one light each, very nice and in good order, they can be bought at the low price of $20, from a parish which has just introduced gas into their church. Particulars can be had from Mr. John A. Futhill, Springfield.

—The heat during a portion of the last month has been something to remember. For a fortnight in this city the mercury each day rose to over ninety, and for two days over a hundred, and late at night it was above eighty. All things now, however, are putting on their autumn guise. Trade is wonderfully brisk; the wanderers are back; the expressmen say they never handled so much luggage; all are feeling bright for the next winter's campaign. The clergy, too, those who were fortunate enough to get away for a little rest, are back again and are at work. Now for the Convention.

—The Rev. Mr. Parker of Springfield gives notice of the opening of a first-class private academy in the old Presbyterian church, which he has bought, and a number of hundred dollars cost has wholly reconstructed, put in another floor, and made into a building splendidly adapted for the purpose. He has been fortunate enough to secure Miss Jackson of Westport, Conn., sister of the Rector of St. Paul's church, Washington, D. C., who will conduct the school. It will be an excellent help in the work of the parish.

—The Rev. Mr. Chesnutt voluntarily shortened the vacation of four or five weeks given him by his congregation, and gave a Sunday to his old friends at St. Charles, and opportunely, too, for the annual interest charge on their debt had become due, and no one had taken the matter up. He in a little time raised $100, which paid the interest and decreased the debt. His people at the Advent during his absence whitened the walls, put new carpet on chancel, aisles and vestry-room, and thus gave their minister a delightful welcome back, which he deserved.

—The generosity of Mr. J. W. Branch of this city has enabled the mission at Plattsburg to finish the plastering of the interior of the new church.

—Gas has been introduced into St. Paul's church, South St. Louis, and the interior has been otherwise beautified by the efforts of the ladies; and the Rector, the Rev. Dr. Ingraham, has removed to a residence close by the church.

—The Rev. Mr. Barr has been compelled, by the sickness induced by an attack of sun-stroke several years ago, to relinquish his charge of Grace church, Kansas City, and the vestry have testified in strong terms to their sense of his ability and fidelity.

—We have already mentioned that the Rev. Mr. Scheetz will hereafter give all his Sunday duty to his parish in Monroe. In consequence of this the Rev. Mr. Abbott gives now only alternate Sundays to Moberly, and goes for the intervening Sundays to Shelby. The Rev. Mr. Scheetz still has charge of Canton and Monticello, giving them week day services. At the former place efforts are making for building a church on the lots which we have owned there for ten years.

—On Sunday, 5th instant, the Bishop visited Calvary church, Columbia. The congregations were large, and at night two were confirmed. The handsome church has been still further beautified by the putting in of high wainscoting, which corresponds with the black walnut pews, and gives a very pleasing effect. After the first of next month the Rev. Mr. Gray will confine all his work to Columbia. It is hoped that Mexico and Montgomery will very soon secure a clergyman of their own.

—The parish school of St. Mary's church, Kansas City, began its second annual session on the 14th instant.

—Mr. E. H. Lycett of Kirkwood has been appointed lay deputy to General Convention and has accepted the duty.

—The School of the Good Shepherd opened on the 8th with all its departments full. The Bishop, the Chaplain of the School, Rev. Dr. Ingraham, Dr. Schuyler, Messrs. Reed and Wright, and a large number of the patrons of the school were present. A short service was said by the Chaplain, and an address made by the Bishop. All seemed very happy. The Rev. Dr. Ingraham, by reason of his removal to Carondelet, has been compelled to resign his position as Chaplain and the Bishop has appointed the Rev. Mr. Wright. A beautiful white marble memorial altar has been placed in the Oratory of the Sisterhood in memory of one recently deceased.

—The Vestry of Calvary church, Sedalia, have passed the following resolutions touching the death of the Rev. Mr. Dunn, their former Rector:

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the inscrutable decrees of Almighty God, whose ways are past finding out and who doeth all things well, and await the coming of our own summons, we yet deplore his loss, and grieve that we shall see his kindly and hear his gentle words of encouragement and consolation no more. That we recall to memory his tender solicitude for our temporal and spiritual welfare, his vigilance, his patience, his brave struggle in sickness and even at the very threshold of death, to continue the good fight for his Master's cause, his pure life and teachings, his trustfulness and steady reliance upon the promises of our Heavenly Father and cherish his example and memory, that we may like him live purely and die bravely.

Resolved, That we extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathies to his faithful and stricken wife in this her second and greatest bereavement, and that while her loss is irreparable, she too can find some comfort in the contemplation of his example and the reflection that after death comes life.

—The Rev. Mr. Githens, formerly of Grace Church, has been in this city for a week, on his way to the General Convention. He looks very well indeed, and is stouter.

—St. Mary's Church, Kansas City, proposed the terms by which they were willing to hand over the Troost property to be administered by the Bishop, provided that St. Mary's, First Ward, should then cease, and the mission be not handed over to Grace church. They were that he should assume the incumbrance of $656.50 which had been made to pay off the taxes which had accumulated; and $1,000 which had been borrowed to pay for twelve feet of ground on the north side of the property, and to aid in building the chapel; $509.67, which had been received from the city on account of damages from the widening of Walnut street, and the consequent shortening of their old church, and which amount had been spent on the new chapel; and also such other sums as might be expended in completing the chapel. As, however, as was mentioned in our last, St. Mary's, First Ward, declined all overtures whatever, the matter has gone into the courts. The chapel is of stone, and is nearly completed.

—Bishop Burgess of Quincy, who had expected to be present at our Convention, has found that he will be compelled to start for the East so soon as to prevent his coming to us.

—Messrs. Triplett and Motter have been compelled to decline their appointments as Lay Deputies to the General Convention, and Messrs. E. H. Lycett of Kirkwood and J. J. Wilkins of the Holy Communion in this city have been appointed, and have accepted the duty.

—Bishop Vail and the Rev. Dr. Nevin of Rome, Italy, passed a day in this city last week.

—On last Sunday the Rev. Mr. Mann held two services at Christ church, St. Louis, and also assisted Dr. Schuyler in the Holy Communion. He expects to be in St. Louis again Sunday, October 3, and leave for Kansas City, Fulton, Topeka, Colorado Springs and Denver. The visit to Fulton may be made on his return trip.

HISTORICAL OR BIBLE LESSON.

LEVITICUS VIII. 1-15.

"We have a great High Priest."

[The consecration of Aaron and his sons.]

To what do the earlier chapters of Leviticus chiefly relate? To the sacrifices to be offered at the tabernacle.

Were those who came to worship allowed to offer sacrifices themselves? No; sacrifices could be offered by priests only.

Might any man exercise the office of a priest? No; only those who "were called of God" Heb. v. 4.

Who were now called of God to this office? Aaron and his sons.

How were they to be set apart for it? By anointing.

By whom was this ceremony to be performed? By Moses.

Who were to be assembled to witness it? "All the congregation."

What was the first thing done? "Moses brought Aaron and his sons and washed them with water."

What did this signify? That those who are to minister before God for others must themselves be cleansed from impurity.

After this what did Moses put upon Aaron? His robes of office.

Those appointed for the priests only? No; those also which were specially appointed for the High Priest.

What did Moses next proceed to anoint? The tabernacle, and all that was in it, and the altar and the laver.

And then he poured of the anointing oil—? Upon Aaron's head.

So that it "ran down upon"—? "His beard." "Even to"—? "The skirts of his garments." Ps. cxxxiii.

Upon whom did Moses then put garments? Upon Aaron's sons.

What garments? Those appointed for such as were priests only.

After this, what sacrifices were offered? A sin offering, a burnt offering, and a peace offering.

Upon what was the blood poured or sprinkled? Upon the altar.

After which, what were sprinkled upon Aaron and his sons, and the garments of each? The anointing oil, and blood from the altar.

How long were they to remain at the tabernacle? Seven days.

During which there were repeated, each day—? The same offerings.

On the eighth day for whom did Aaron offer sacrifices? First for himself and then for the people. Heb. vii. 27.

After which—? He lifted up his hand, and blessed the people.

Who afterwards came out of the tabernacle with him, and joined with him in blessing the people? Moses.

Whereupon there appeared to them all—? "The glory of the Lord."

And "fire from the Lord"—? "Consumed the burnt offering."

Who were afterwards given to Aaron and his sons "to do service in the tabernacle"? The whole tribe of Levi.

Thus how many orders of Ministers were there in the Jewish Church? Three; the High Priest, the Priests, and the Levites.

How many orders of Ministers are there in the Christian Church? Three; Bishops, Priests, and Deacons.

How long have these three orders of Ministers existed in the Church? "From the Apostles' time." Preface to Ordination Services.

Is it lawful for any man who thinks himself inwardly moved to take upon him the office of a minister? Not until he be lawfully called and sent.

Who have received authority from Christ to ordain? Bishops only.

MEN OF ONE TALENT.

As I look out upon the world and back upon its history, I am amazed at the amount of work the one-talented men have done. It is wonderful to see what even sick men have accomplished and men partially disabled. Homer and Ossian and Milton were all blind men. Bunyan wrote his "Pilgrim's Progress" immured in a dungeon. One of the mightiest leaders England ever had was an invalid all his life through. John Calvin wrote his ponderous books of Theology with a perpetual headache. It is to be noticed that he had a headache before he began. Robert Hall was an invalid. Richard was an invalid. John Keble was an invalid, at least in the most useful years of his life. These extraordinary disabilities were enough to put these men very often into the category of men of one talent in some sense. But I speak not of that class of men. I speak of that one who has no shining parts, I mean the plain, plodding man, what we call the average man. I say I am amazed at the amount of work he has done in the world. He is the one who has done the world's mightiest works. It was he who built the Pyramids not the Pharaohs.

And it is he who built the Church for the most part. The great mass of the work which is done in the Church is done by ordinary men and women working in the rank and file; ordinary men in the congregation, ordinary men in the ministry. This is the kind of men we need. And therefore we do not need a great many Major Generals, but a great many men and women in the rank and file. It is time for a better appreciation of the value of this kind of work. Nor am I alone in saying this. Says Philips Brooks—"If the world is to make any progress, the value of ordinary work must be better appreciated. If the world is to grow better and richer in future, it is not to be done by the magnificent achievements of the highly gifted few but by the patient faithfulness of the one-talented many. It would seem as if the heroes had done almost all they could and the time has now come when common men must wake up and take their 'common tasks.'"

And my brethren, it lends great difficulty to this problem, that men are so unwilling to accept the fact that this is the kind of work they are called upon to do—and that their capacity is such that this is the kind of work that they are fitted to do.

It is of first-class importance that the man of one talent, and that means most men, should understand the full measure of his own ability, the full meaning of those words of his Catechism, "that he is to do his duty in that state of life to which God has called him." He is to work patiently in the field in which he is placed, till God calls him to another field. It must be with him as Bishop Williams said it was with one of his clergy who recently died, "that it mattered not so much to him where he was as what he was," and that "what" is just as big a word and means just as much when applied to a small man as to a great one. The fact remains that with all the restlessness of men, the majority of the clergy must continue to go in and out with out any one seeing them. Day by day, unknown they must continue to work, undermining the citadels of sin, many of them may not be very brilliant men. They are the men of one talent. They make up the rank and file but they do the work.—[Rev. G. A. Weeks, Convention Sermon.]

HELPING HOME PARISHES.

Some parishes are suffering because of the unsettled ways into which many Church people have fallen. There is a tendency, where there are a number of churches within reach, to float about from one to another without taking an active part in the work of any. It is usually far better to be identified with some one parish, and better for the people.

We might have many more strong parishes if the Church people living in their bounds were to settle down and be content to attend the ministrations provided, and to assist in the work. As it is, the class of floating attendants usually do very little work anywhere. They are apt to be mere hearers and not doers of the Word. Our parishes need workers, and there is work for every one. Sometimes the best work lies waiting in the humble mission nearest home. In many instances the mission would become a vigorous parish if it had the assistance of those who go here and there, out of curiosity or caprice. It ought to be a source of great satisfaction to any one to aid in developing one of these humble beginnings. It may be that the edifice is not attractive, but it need not always remain so. After a while the more comely structure will take its place. It may be that far more interesting sermons may be heard elsewhere, but perhaps if the home rector be encouraged he may become a much better preacher than he is. Some vigorous help may effect a complete change in many of the features which now are so unsatisfactory.

Try the plan of settling down in some one parish and giving it your generous, whole-hearted support.—The Diocese.

Editor Church News:

As the time for the meeting of the Diocesan Convention is approaching, at which time the annual meeting of St. Luke's Hospital is held, I desire to bring before the minds of the clergy and the laity a suggestion which was made in THE CHURCH NEWS of October last with regard to a special time being set apart in this Diocese for an offering for St. Luke's Hospital. St. Luke's Day or the Sunday nearest thereto was the time proposed. This plan of a "Hospital Day," as it is called, has been tried with marked success in several eastern Dioceses. The bringing of the needs of the Hospital and the benefits derived from it before all the members of the Church at the same time gives a feeling of unity to this work of the Church.

St. Luke's Hospital is not a City Hospital nor solely under the auspices of the Church in the city of St. Louis; it is a Diocesan institution, its doors are open to all throughout the State. In this large Diocese of over 67,000 square miles and over 5,000 communicants, it is the only Church Hospital, and as such each parish and missionary station is bound to contribute toward its support to the best of its ability. By referring to the Convention Journal of each year it will be seen that out of 44 parishes and 24 organized mission-stations but 13 contributed anything to the Hospital, and of the amount given more than one-half was the gift of two parishes in the city of St. Louis; the total amount contributed as reported in the Convention Journal from parishes and missions being only $2,356 86. I trust this year may show a better record for us all.

There are many persons in all parts of the State who have cause for thankfulness for the care and devotion shown to them or to their friends by the Sisters and who doubtless would be glad to make thank offering in the Church if an opportunity was presented. No gift is too large and none too small to be acceptable for this work. Let each one "do as he is disposed in his heart, not grudgingly nor of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver;" and let us also remember in our prayers the Hospital with its sick and suffering, its little band of noble and devoted Sisters, and so may our prayers and our alms go up as a memorial before God. A.

Editor Church News:

In your last issue you published a list of "Some of the Reasons why I am a Churchman." Similar lists we see from time to time in the various Church journals of the land, many of which I think the authors will admit are or ought to be untrue.

Whatever of good is mentioned in these articles is the result rather than the reason of our Churchmanship.

Happily, most of us were made Churchmen in early infancy when "in her surpliced arms" the Church made us the Lord's and signed us with His cross. Since then her solemn sacraments and holy rites have cherished our spiritual life and understanding until to-day we know her to be the Church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the Truth. She has chosen us, not we her.

We are Catholics because we are members of the Catholic Church whose Lord gave her the commission, "Go ye unto all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

We are Episcopalians because the Lord in organizing his Church placed her under Bishops. Had she made presbyters her highest officers, we must have been Presbyterians,

We believe in baptism because to this catholic commission he added the words "baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

So, whatever of religious truth it is our happiness to believe we shall discover that it has been taught us by Christ's Church. Even the Holy Scriptures are God's Spirit speaking through His Church, and but for her having decided the point for us, we should to day be asking the question which so many infidels are asking, "How do you know that the Bible is true?"

No doubt there are many honest hearts and noble intellects who are inquiring "Which one of all the religious bodies about me is God's Church?"

To such it is useless to say "Ours is the Church because it is catholic or episcopal or trinitarian or evangelical." This is arguing backward. He simply wishes to know which is God's Church and when he discovers this he will be willing to take her as God has made her. Perhaps he does not even believe the Bible, for how does he know that it is the word of God? He simply knows that there is a God and believe that He has not left Himself without a witness in this world of sin and woe.

For such we can only pray that building on this narrow faith the Holy Spirit may lead him unto all Truth; while for ourselves we should ask that we may "continue His forever and daily increase in His Holy Spirit more and more until we come unto His everlasting Kingdom.

NOTICE.

The 41st Annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Missouri will be held in St. George's Church, St. Louis, on Tuesday, September 28th instant, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The Clergy and Lay Delegates will assemble promptly at 9½ o'clock in the chapel adjoining the church. The clergy will please bring their surplices with them.

The Bishop of the Diocese desires that the clergy will bring their Parochial reports with them so as to present them to him at the opening of the Convention to enable the Secretary to prepare the necessary data for the General Convention which meets early in October in New York City. All Clergy and Lay Delegates coming to the Convention by the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific, (old North Missouri or St. L., Kansas City & Northern Railway) will obtain from the Secretary of the Convention a certificate enabling them to return home on one-third fare.

JNO. R. TRIPLETT,
Secretary of the Convention.

Do NOT ask a rector to give out unnecessary notices. The columns of the local paper are the suitable place for notices of every secular and ordinary kind.

A RESOLUTION of the Convention last requested the Bishop in calling for the annual statistics to include blanks for the number of free seats in each church, and the method of its support. As the blanks were already printed and prepared, the above inquiries could not be included in them in type; but the clergy and wardens are hereby reminded of such requirements and in the blanks furnished give the facts called for above.

THE general law of the Church requires that the Bishop shall be certified of the election and designation of all Rectors by the Vestry of the several parishes. Without this notice to the Bishop and his consent given to such election, the action is not complete, and such clergymen can not have a seat in Convention. The Bishop has to furnish a list of the clergy and their positions; he cannot report that of which he has never received the required notice. A few days since the Bishop found in making up his register that no record had been furnished of the resignation of a large parish, or of the election to it as Rector of a clergyman who has acted as such for many months, and yet his seat in Convention depends upon such notice being given. A study of our Church law is yet needed by clergy, wardens and vestrymen.

THE condition of Church life and work in the Diocese is all the while changing. Clergymen are coming and going, being ordained, taking and resigning parishes. Churches are being built and enlarged. Enterprises of moment are being undertaken and money given. All those who are at all interested in these things, who desire to become and continue acquainted with all this, should themselves become subscribers to and see that their friends become subscribers to THE NEWS. It is the monthly point of contact for all the interests of the Diocese. Those who give are here informed as to what becomes of the money given. THE NEWS has never become all that it should be, and all that our teeming Church life demands, and it will not become such until every Churchman feels and shows practically his interest in this most important agency in our work. Now is the time to put into effect the good purposes formed during the summer vacation. Let THE NEWS feel the effect of it.

BISHOP COXE in his Diocesan paper advocates the retention of gowns and bands for preaching, on the score of beauty, and as it will leave the linen of the surplice clean for the Communion service, and also as giving a distinct dress for the pulpit and thus tending to make the preparation for preaching more painstaking. For this reason he deplores the disuse of the distinct pulpit, thinking that the easy going to the lecturn in the ordinary surplice tends to the practice of making a few remarks, flat and unworthy. On the score of cleanness and the giving of distinctness to the Communion, he favors the laying aside by the Bishop at the Communion of his satin chimere and lawn sleeves, and the use of a simple fresh linen cope. He thinks that for a comely person the cassock and bands are a good preaching dress. He deprecates anything gaudy and fantastic, and thinks that, while our official wardrobe is already meagre, we should not make it more so by letting any old habit of ours become obsolete.

HARVEST HOME.

We have in past years spoken in favor of the celebration of the recurrence of harvest. In our latitude especially we can not invest a day of Thanksgiving, coming late in November, months after all grains have been garnered, and strongly charged with associations of a civil and political nature, with a sense of reality, as connected with gratitude for the fruits of the earth. To some extent the custom prevailing more and more in other Dioceses has found lodgment and observance here. We hope that it will not be forgotten this year, when the returns have been so abundant.

We have been recently cognizant of a celebration of this kind in which the arrangements were particularly pleasing. The notice given a fortnight before brought from all an offering, the members in the country sending in barrels of vegetables and fruits of the greatest variety, with jellies; those in the town giving canned and other fruits, bolts of cloth, etc.; the children their accustomed gifts which they had long been preparing for and making ready against the time. All these were arranged with the finest taste in the upper end of the nave, and about the chancel. The altar bore the sheaf of wheat and bunches of luscious grapes. The articles which were not specially designated otherwise, for the Rector, etc., and the offerings in money were to be sent to the Diocesan charitable institution, and the express company carried the articles which filled many barrels free.

Could not such celebrations be had among us? Would it not be a worthy expression of gratitude for an abundant harvest? And could it not too be made the occasion for an offering to the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital of those articles which are needed and will fill their cellars for the winter, and of a general contribution in money for institutions which belong to and help all parts of the Diocese?

THIS YEAR'S ASSESSMENT.

One of the necessary incidents of Convention is the laying of the Convention assessment. The amount to be raised is fixed by the necessary expenses of the Diocese, which come to about $4,200. This is distributed among the parishes in the most equitable manner, in proportion to the relative strength of the parts, as judged by the salary of the minister, and all the other facts accessible to the Committee. The number of communicants does not enter as an element in the matter. Naturally, many places think that they are assessed overmuch; the others loyally accept the judgment of impartial persons, and pay the quarterly installments, as they become due, which they have themselves voted. The amount laid is just sufficient to meet the need; when any neglect to pay, resort has to be had to borrowing, or else some debts are not paid.

Every year there are delinquencies caused by parishes being vacant and those who are ready to have others pay their debts. How to cure this trouble, how to put a conscience into parishes to cause them to meet their dues is the puzzle of every successive Convention. Last year the Committee cut each Diocesan obligation down to the lowest, left out indeed some debts that must be paid, in order to bring the assessment down to the lowest. Their motto was, "We are going to levy an assessment that will be paid," on the idea that it had not been paid before as being larger. Those who will compare the figures will see how much lower the figures for almost every parish for this year are than for previous years.

We have now about reached the close of another year, and it is interesting to see how the experiment of this Committee has turned out. We have not cast up the account to see how the delinquency now compares with that of a twelve-month ago. But evidently, looking at the table on another page, if the Committee or the Convention thought that by reducing the rate they would get a materially larger number of places to pay up on time, they are mistaken in the result. About the same number of parishes are delinquent, and looking more closely, about the same parishes have failed this year as had failed last year. By this it would appear that it was not the amount which was hindering, but some other cause. Indeed, that table tells more than this. It is not the abler parishes which have failed to pay by now, or that have not met their dues quarterly as the law requires. Some of the larger and wealthier have not paid, and it has been the less able ones which have paid along through the year.

It looks very much as though it were disposition and character quite as much as ability which has had to do with the paying, and probably the Committee will modify its action in view of the results of this year's experiment.

Dr. Twing, 22 Bible House, New York, should be in the hands of all who desire to know how and where the Church is pushing its lines. $1.50 per annum; for clergymen $1. Club rates, six copies to one address, $7.80 per annum.

The following are among the valuable contents of THE PREACHER AND HOMILETIC MONTHLY for August: "Our Brother's Blood," by Henry C. Potter, D.D.; "Cosmogony of Moses," by Rev. T. W. Coit; "Religion and Politics," by Canon Farrar; "The Unknowable God," by Joseph Parker, D.D.; "The Perfect Home," by Rev. G. C. Noyes; "Christian Ethics," by George B. Safford, D.D.; "Religious Education the Safeguard of Civil Liberty," by J. P. Newman, D.D.; "Ministers Exchanging Views," etc. Subscription, $2.50 per year; single number, 25 cents. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

Mrs. Clara Erskine Clement, the art writer, opens WIDE AWAKE for September with a dainty story for the little girls entitled "Patty's Travelling Bag," for which Mr. Lewis has drawn a handsome frontispiece. Another very curious story follows, by Cornelia Seabring Parker, "The Difference between Tweedledee and Tweedum." Sherwood Bonner contributes a funny story, "Why Granmammy didn't like Pound Cake," Part I. of a charming story by Mrs. Lucia Chase Bell, "The Boy that was too Beautiful," also appears. Long instalments are given of the serials, "Five Little Peppers" and "Two Young Homesteaders." The concluding paper in "How We Went Birds'-Nesting," is beautifully illustrated. $2 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

THE SANITARIAN for September contains Laws of inheritance, by Nathan Allen, M. D.; Epidemics, by Sir Joseph Fayrer, M.D., F.R.S., etc.; A Female Crusoe, by A. B. Stuart, M.D., and the Prevention of Syphilis, by E. Horne-man, M.D. Besides these a number of excellent excerpts: London Fogs What Kills, the Odor of Sanctity, Gourmands and Gourmets, a French Doctor's Story on Gluttony, Man Destroys, Dry Wells, and Adulteration of Soaps—every one of which may be read with profit. $3 a year. A. N. Bell, 8 Spruce street, New York.

"Mr. Pickwick and Nicholas Nickleby" is the attractive title of the opening illustrated paper in SCRIBNER'S for September; the actual scenes of two of Dicken's most popular works being here portrayed. Another point in the September number is a paper by E. B. Washburne, late Minister to France, on "Thomas Paine and the French Revolution," containing, as it does, several documents hitherto unpublished. The paper in the July Scribner, "Does Vivisection Pay?" meets with a temperate and readable reply entitled "The Value of Vivisection," by Dr. H. C. Wood, Clinical Professor of Diseases of the Nervous System in the University of Pennsylvania. It is not too much to say that the true story "Eighteen Years Alone" is one of the most pathetic and remarkable tales of actual experience ever printed—it is of a savage woman who leaped into the sea to save her child, and was thus doomed to a solitary island-life for eighteen years. "When Woods are Green" is a seasonable paper, illustrated by Mr. and Mrs. R. Swain Gifford. A. R. Macdonough contributes an essay (with portrait) on "Richard Henry Stoddard," and Lina Redwood Fairfax a story, "Hickett's Hollow." "Peter the Great" and "The Grandissimes" are continued; the former fully illustrated. In "Topics of the Time," Doctor Holland discusses "The Presidential Campaign" and "Dandyism"; "Letters to Young Mothers" are continued in "Home and Society"; "Bric-a-brac" continues "Uncle Esak's Wisdom," and contains "The Bal-lade of the Candidate, etc.

ST. NICHOLAS for September is a thorough seaside and out-of-doors number. Miss Alcott's serial, "Jack and Jill," and Mr. Noah Brooks' continued story, "The Fairport Nine," are continued with increasing interest. Of the completed short stories, "A Day off Barnegat," illustrated by W. L. Sheppard, narrates how cedar-logs are mined out of sunken marshes; "Roll's Runaway," tells how a kite flew out to sea, towing a boy in a small boat; "How Tom Cole Carried out his Plan" paraphrases an incident in the life of William Morris Hunt; "The Lesson of Walnut Creek" shows the advantage of girls' knowing how to swim; "The Naughtiest Day of my Life" is the first half of a characteristic story by H. H. Boys will find interest and instruction in Mr. Norton's fully illustrated article about "Small Boats. How to Rig and Sail Them," and in Mr. Barnard's "Talk about the Bicycle," with its nine pictures. There are also in this number a description of the "Girls' Swimming-Bath," with several pictures; "Chased by a Hoop-Snake," one of "The Major's Big-talk Stories," with a funny illustration, several comical pictures, a Young Contributor's story ("The Bicycle Boys"), two pages of large type and pictures for very little readers, "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "Letter-Box," and "Riddle-Box."

THE DATA OF ETHICS.—The ninth number of the Humboldt Library Series of Popular Science Literature is this significant work of Herbert Spencer. We have little sympathy with the principles of the work, but if in the battle that is joined it is best to resort to the leaders, in such case this cheap form in which this work has been put forth may be worth considering. 15cts. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 Fourth avenue, New York.

Among the new books announced for immediate publication by T. Whittaker we note the following: "After Death," by Canon Luckock of Ely, an important theological work now in its third edition in England; "The Chevalier's Daughter," a new historical story, by Lucy Ellen Guernsey; "Old Paths," by John N. Norton, D.D., being another "Course of Sermons for the Christian Year"; "The Floating Light of Ringfinneren," by L. T. Meade, author of "David's Little Lad"; a volume of discourses to the clergy by the Bishop of Long Island; a volume of sermons on the Church by the Rev. John Cotton Smith, D.D.; "Cousin Minnie," by Mrs. F. Burge Smith, a continuation of "The Bishop," etc.; new and other attractive editions of Cruden's Concordance, and the "Biblical Dictionary," edited by the Rev. Prof. Eadie, at low prices, to meet the demand for "cheap" standards.

LIBERTY AND LAW. By Britton A. Hill. This is a work in which are sketched out the outlines of a new system for the organization and administration of federative government. It is written by a successful lawyer of this city, and is an elaborate and well-wrought out scheme, which includes a consideration of domestic and social questions. We do not agree with a number of the premises or conclusions of the author, but the honest efforts to construct a philosophical and symmetrical theory of government is to be applauded. It has gone to a second edition. G. I. Jones & Co., St. Louis.

THE CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE. August. The table of contents of this valuable family magazine is full, and includes some very interesting recollections of Dr. Muhlenberg. $2. 20 Vesey street, New York.

GENERAL NEWS.

—It is said that it will take three years to cast up the accounts and complete the census of this year. It looks very much as though there must have been a huge swindle ten years ago as to the population of St. Louis. This is a more likely and pleasant alternative than that we have not grown even at the rate of three or four thousand a year since. Now we get the solution of the low average of voting and school population, and the high rate of health. Still it is clear that it is a very false count.

—A recent notice of a Convocation said that it was to meet in All Saints' church, Paradise.

—Service was recently held in a pavilion built upon the stump of one of the Big Calaveras trees of California, which was thirty feet in diameter, and held 500 people.

—The Pope has erected Chicago into an archbishopric, and made Kansas City into a bishopric, placing the former Bishop of St. Joseph in charge, leaving him still to administer his former Diocese.

—A young man, who had long been a member of a Presbyterian church in St. Louis, and had acted as an evangelist, applied for ordination, when it was discovered that he had never been baptized.

—The italics in the authorized version of the Bible are used to point out the English words that have no representative in the original Hebrew and Greek. They were, it is believed, invented by Sebastian Munster, and were used in his version of the Old Testament, A. D. 1534, and have since made a part of nearly all versions of the Bible.

—The Young Ladies' Free Bible College, Binghamton, N. Y., with their president and faculty of sixteen professors and instructors, have memorialized the star readers of America and Europe to put the "Sermon on the Mount" and other passages of the world's sublimest Book with their next course of readings, if they would have crowded houses, and exert a power hitherto lost to the professional reader.

—Our venerable Presiding Bishop completed his eighty-fifth year, on July 15th.

—The Bishops of the dioceses west of the Mississippi will hold another meeting during the session of the General Convention, and a public meeting in behalf of their Church Building Society. There is some discussion about the name of the proposed Province, the Province of the Interior, the Province of the Missouri, of St. Louis, of Minnesota, etc., being suggested.

—In the last hundred years St. Paul's Chapel has had but nine sextons. The present sexton, Mr. Henry Weld, has held the office thirty years. He is seventy-eight years old, but is full of vigor. He remembers the cutting down of the old elm on the corner of the Church lot which called out Morris's popular song, "Woodman, spare that tree." It was cut down to give room to extend the offices of the vestry.

—The Appeal, the organ of the Reformed Episcopalians, sends out the following Jeremiad: "Our Reformed Episcopal Church, from some cause, does not make the progress which its friends expected, and our Low Church friends, instead of favoring the cause, are quite as much opposed to it as the extreme High Churchmen."

—Our sprightly contemporary, The Little Episcopalian, of Collinsville, Ill., has changed its name to The Banner of the Cross. Under whatever name, it is a bright paper.

—Mr. George A. Jarvis, of Brooklyn, has given $10,000 for the endowment of an annual course of lectures for the General Theological Seminary, to be known as the Bishop Paddock Lecture Fund. They are to be delivered by a clergyman, not less than four nor more than seven lectures, and to be printed; and no clergyman to deliver more than one course, unless at least seven years intervene. Bishop Williams delivers the first course on the English Reformation.

—Some discontented individuals in Gambier, Ohio, are trying to stop the ringing of the chimes of Kenyon College there, and make use of the lawyer's argument in the St. Mark's, Philadelphia case.

—In one of the counties of Pennsylvania, Potter by name, at the last term of the criminal courts not a single indictment was found. In that county no licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors have been granted for the last twenty years.

—The fiscal year of the General Missionary Society begins on the first of September, in order that all reports may be made up for the annual meeting about the first of October. Heretofore all the nominations of Missionaries, and the stipends, have run from January to January, for the calendar year. But, beginning this year, the appropriations and nominations end and begin on the first of September, and will do so hereafter.

—In the Missionary Board of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, $100 was paid last year for clerical services, $42 for printing and postage, and $114.33 for discounts on advances made.

MISCELLANY.

—A universalist minister, called upon to attend the funeral of one who did not belong to his pastoral charge, brought suit for a remuneration for his labor, and gained it. We suppose there is no class in the community who perform so much unrewarded labor as the ministry. It was not without reason that a clergyman attributed his poverty to the fact of his preaching so much without notes—meaning bank-notes.

—A correspondent wants to know what this triennial conclave of Knights Templars is all about. All about! why, don't you know, doesn't everybody know, that the Templars have gone to Chicago to—to—what in time have they gone for, anyway?—that if they hadn't gone just as they did, there was imminent danger of—that is to say now that they have gone, we have escaped from—from—oh, plague take it! don't be bothering us with questions regarding things that everybody knows all about.

—Pay your subscription if due.

—"Maybe there isn't any God for the United States," said a Canadian Mayor to Col. Robert Ingersoll, "but there's one for Canada; and you can't have any hall in this town to defame Him."

—Each administration of the Lord's Supper is like a roll-call in the presence of the enemy. Whoever fails to answer to his name deserves to be considered a deserter.

—"Weak-backed representatives of orthodoxy are more mischievous than open opposers. "Be something or nothing," old Dr. Emmons used to say, "but don't be only somethingish."

THE LAND THAT JOINS OURS.—A minister was soliciting aid to Foreign Missions, and applied to a gentleman who refused him with the reply, "I don't believe in Foreign Missions. I want what I give to benefit my neighbors." "Well," replied he, "whom do you regard as your neighbors?" "Why, those around me." "Do you mean those whose land joins yours?" inquired the minister. "Yes." "Well," said the minister, "how much land do you own?" "About five hundred acres." "How far down do you own?" "I never thought of that, but I suppose I own half way through." "Exactly," said the minister. "I suppose you do, and I want this money for the New Zealanders—the men whose land joins yours on the bottom."

—A little boy and girl, each five years old; were playing by the roadside. The boy became angry at something, and struck his playmate a sharp blow on the cheek, whereupon she sat down and began to cry. The boy stood looking on a minute, and then said, "I didn't mean to hurt you, Katie, I am sorry." The little girl's face brightened instantly. The sobs were hushed, and she said, "Well, if you are sorry, it don't hurt me."

—Preach your convictions and not your doubts. Keep speculation for your study; eschew them in the pulpit. Do not advertise infidel books by attacking them in your sermons. Study the mind of Christ as revealed in the scriptures, and preach that mind to the best or your ability.

MISTAKES.

It is a mistake to suppose that talk, because it entertains and amuses is teaching, or to think that the mere recitation of verses of Scripture, creed or collect is the effective teaching of divine truth.

It is a mistake to suppose the work of the teacher to be accomplished by the putting of questions from "lesson paper" or the reading or telling of stories.

It is a mistake to think because we have a general idea of the lesson we shall be able to supply illustration and detail as we proceed. He is a very wise man who can efficiently teach without immediate and thorough preparation.

It is a mistake to underrate oral teaching by emphasizing the reading and recitation of question and answer. One of the most efficient and best known Sunday-school workers in the country never uses in the presence of his class, either question book or lesson paper. He makes the lesson a part of himself, and then, with Bible in hand for purposes of reference, teaches orally.

Nothing but real interest will secure attention and he who expects to receive it from motives of duty, the sacredness of the day or the importance of the subject is as greatly mistaken as he who makes no discrimination in teaching, assuming that all his scholars have the same tastes, and will be influenced by the same means.

It is a mistake not to arouse curiosity and thereby awaken interest; and also to suppose that we shall be understood by much speaking and without careful simplicity of language.

It is a mistake not to recall by a few questions the lesson of the previous Sunday; lessons from God's word should be all connected, and herein is special argument for unbroken attendance. It is a great mistake to suppose that good advice and exhortations to "be good" constitute instruction in divine truth, and to think that such terms as "Providence," "justification," "grace," "faith" and "repentance" convey any special meaning to children without full explanation.

It is a mistake to endeavor to win attention and affection by "tickets," "reward cards," or other gifts; only a manifestation of interest and love so convincing that all can understand will excite pupils to good works. It is a mistake for teachers to suppose that their ways and manners are unobserved, and that their influence for good or evil does not extend through the week and into all the pursuits of the scholar.

It is a mistake not to visit, to expect a cold reception from parents, or to imagine it unnecessary and useless.

It is a mistake to read stories. If used at all they should be made our own by close reading. There is scarcely anything so effective as the spoken word. It is a mistake not to teach the Church Catechism and the Church's system of festival and fast. Few there are who having been carefully instructed therein wilfully "depart into the far country of prodigality and sin."

It is a mistake not to teach the Church as the Keeper and Witness of the Faith, and to dwell lovingly on its eventful and glorious history, its order and beautiful ritual, its principles and blessed instrumentalities, its mission to purify, to bless, to comfort and, through the blood of our blessed Lord and Saviour Christ, to save.

Not all the woe and sorrow in the world is borne by those whose faces indicate the greatest distress, nor whose circumstances are most likely to enlist sympathy or relief. The kindly heart, as it goes in quest of the sorrowful and suffering to carry to them words of comfort and cheer, should remember that but comparatively few men and women wear their hearts upon their sleeves, and that it not unfrequently happens that those whose natures are such as to make them most keenly sensible to trouble and misfortune, the loss of friends or hope, are also those who are the last to make any sign to others. There may be in our own circle of acquaintances, and in places where we would least suspect, persons whose hearts have been tortured into submission and whose mental and spiritual distress have escaped the discovery of those who would have gladly proffered the tenderest aid and wisest counsel. God's people may often find the greatest scope and widest reach for their acts of kindness and of love in the homes which seem to have nothing but brightness and joy, or by the heart which appears to have all the gladness the world can bring. To discover such and tell them of that joy and "peace which the world can not give" is oftenest the most difficult duty that comes to those who would make the world better and happier.

Now that you have returned from your vacation there is need to do more than ever before. You owe to your scholars all the good you have gained by your recreation and rest. If, on the other hand, you and your pupils have been the losers by the separation in knowledge or spiritual life, now is the time to make up arrearages. In either case you have real hard work before you. Do it.

One of the most important features of Convention week will be the Sunday-school meeting on Thursday night, the 30th instant. Special efforts will be made to make the occasion interesting and profitable. Good speakers, clerical and lay, will deliver addresses on the subject nominated by the Bishop—"What do our Sunday-schools require in order to their fuller success?" A full attendance is desired.

THE Sunday-schools of Grace and Christ churches, this city, have been closed for the summer. Other schools, notwithstanding the absence of many teachers, and in some instances officers, have held regular sessions with results which bear emphatic testimony to the value of continuous instruction.

No power of intellect nor extent of culture in a Sunday school officer or teacher can compensate for the lack of moral purity and godly living. What he is, is of more importance than what he knows. The careful consideration of this fact is commended to all concerned

St. JOSEPH, MO., August 15, 1880.

Editor Sunday School Department CHURCH NEWS:

The Sunday-school in St. Mary's Mission, Plattsburg, was organized on Whitsunday, 1880.

No roll kept at first, but I think there were present the first Sunday about sixteen scholars and three teachers.

The school has gradually increased in numbers and we now have enrolled thirty-six scholars and four teachers.

On the eleventh Sunday after Trinity twenty-six were present. The service used in the school is a part of daily morning prayer with the addition of two hymns from the hymnal.

The children are learning rapidly and seem pleased and interested. The teachers are encouraged and the Church people appreciate the labors of the faithful instructors. The warm weather has not decreased the attendance.

The church building in this Mission is nearing completion and we trust will be ready for consecration soon.

The congregations have gradually increased in numbers since Trinity Sunday and more interest in Church work manifested.

Although weak numerically and pecuniarily, we think the Mission will be able to meet its Diocesan assessment and send a delegate to the annual council in September.

Trusting that you will continue to make the S. S. department of THE CHURCH NEWS a feature of the paper and meet with the encouragement you deserve, I remain,

Yours fraternally,
F. W. HENRY.

VALUABLE communications crowded out of this issue, will appear in our next.

THERE are 6 535 Sunday-schools in Illinois, with 65,806 teachers, and 502,898 scholars.

THE Church in the Diocese of Florida has 181 Sunday-school teachers and 1,350 scholars.

THE Methodist Episcopal Church South has in her Sunday schools 479,665 scholars and teachers.

CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The first regular meeting of the Association for the ensuing season will be held in Christ Church Chapel Friday, September 17, at eight o'clock p. m. It is expected during the coming season of '80 and '81 that a series of addresses will be delivered before the Association by the clergy of the city. The Bishop has kindly consented to open the course by an address at the next meeting. It is hoped that the teachers of the Church Sunday-schools of the city will show him the respect of a large attendance.

PERSONAL.

—After a long sickness, not unlike that of the Rev. Mr. Dunn, which we noticed last month, the Rev. Frank B. Gilbert has at length succumbed to the pulmonary disease which for so long wasted him. Beginning his ministry in this Diocese, he only left to go further south in order that a warmer climate might help him. His memory is warmly kept in De Soto and Springfield. Gradually he went further and further south, with greater feebleness of body, still keeping up his work faithfully. He died in Florida on the 20th of July. Though reduced to blindness, he was still cheerful and pleasant, expressing the comfort he would enjoy in a better life.

—The Rev. Mr. Mackonochie of London has been in this country. He officiated only in two Philadelphia churches here, and met, it is said, but few people personally.

—"I only need to leave enough to bury me," said Dr. Muhlenberg to the friend who cautioned him not to rob himself in his zeal to serve others. Having spent an inherited fortune in enterprises of education and benevolence, and drawn great sums from others for the founding of a college, a church, a hospital, a suburban village for poor families, he died in his eighty-first year, the possessor of only two twenty-dollar gold pieces, given him just before his last illness. Dr. Muhlenberg was a bachelor.

—The Pioche Record states that Bishop Whitaker, while in Pioche, called at the jail to see the condemned murderers confined there. He conversed with each of them, giving them the best of advice and counsel and presented them with a Bible, and then bid them farewell. One of them remarked, after the Bishop had left, that "a monkey-wrench or a file would have been a much more acceptable present than a Bible."

—The Rt. Rev. Edward Herzog, Christian-Catholic Bishop of Switzerland, has accepted an invitation from the presiding bishop to visit this country and be present at the approaching session of the General Convention. The visit is made for the purpose of studying the workings of the Church in this country, and with the purpose of manifesting openly his full belief in the catholicity of the Church in America. Bishop Cotterill of Edinburgh, Scotland, comes over also to attend our General Convention.

—The Bishop of Alabama, being about to leave the country for some time, on the score of health, has put out a pastoral, committing the ecclesiastical authority to the Standing Committee.

—The Bishop of Long Island has been invited by the syndicate of the University of Cambridge, England, to deliver a series of sermons in the university pulpit, a position that has hitherto been filled only by the most distinguished clergymen and bishops of the English Church. We learn that he has accepted the invitation tendered him, and will depart for England at the rise of the General Convention, and that the series of sermons will be delivered in the month of November.

—The Rev. Mr. Courtney in Chicago has sustained the fame for eloquence which he gained in the metropolis; but his new parishioners find fault with the brusqueness and imperiousness of his manners. It is extremely foolish for a man or a woman to bring a cross child to church, and yet the sympathy of the congregation is always against the preacher who makes the child's crying a source of rebuke to the parent, as Mr. Courtney did recently, stopping in his sermon until the father withdrew with the youngster. That apparent irritability might have been forgiven, but when the congregation smiled at one of Mr. Courtney's remarks, it was not flattering to them to be told: "Some of you appear to think my remarks amusing; if that is the case, may God have mercy on your souls." And what members of a well regulated temperance union could stand being told, when calling to protest against the use of fermented wine at the Lord's Supper, that they were "a parcel of bigots." Perhaps the only charge against Mr. Courtney that is not really trivial is to this effect: At a recent communion he noticed that an elderly lady only moistened her lips with the wine. She has for twenty-seven years been a communicant at St. James', but is unable to drink even a small quantity of wine without suffering nausea. Several times Mr. Courtney presented the wine to her, saying, "I command you to drink." Finally, as the lady left the chancel rail overwhelmed with confusion, Mr. Courtney is alleged to have addressed her in the following words—words applicable only to a person of an evil reputation who approached the chancel: "What dost thou here? I charge thee that thou come not here again."

—The New York Evening Post, in giving an obituary notice of the late Rev. Dr. Wm. Adams, the distinguished Presbyterian minister of that city, and recounting the volumes which he had written, gives him by mistake credit for one which was written by one Rev. Dr. Wm. Adams of Nashotah, "Mercy to Babes."

—The late John Magee, Jr., of Watkins, N. Y., bequeathed $50,000 for the erection of churches at five places specified in his will. The cornerstone of one of them was laid on July 8th at Antrim, Penn.

—In 1850 Bishop Chase was a passenger upon a steamer on the Ohio river. The boat, delayed by low water, was longer making its passage than was expected. Sunday was passed on board, and it was proposed to have religious service. Many of the passengers had never witnessed the worship of our Church. When all was made ready, the bishop, sitting in his chair by reason of infirmity, opened his Prayer Book and began with the introductory sentences, explaining their fitness to prepare the heart for worship. He then read and commented in like manner on the exhortation. That done, he said, "Now, dear friends, let us kneel down and confess our sins to Almighty God." This was a usage rather strange to most of the crowd, so but two or three Churchmen present and a few women knelt. With a little deeper bass the bishop's voice rolled through the saloon, "My friends, kneeling is the fit position in which to confess our sins to God." A few more went down. But no half-way doing would answer. The old man roared in a voice of thunder, and bringing his fist upon the table with a force which made everything shake, "Kneel down, I say, every one of you." And down they all went as if they had been shot.

—The Rev. Dr. S. D. Denison, for thirty years connected with the Foreign Missionary Committee of the Church, died of apoplexy on the 3d instant.

THE GENTLEMAN WINS.—If you speak the right word at the right time; if you are careful to leave people with a good impression; if you do not trespass upon the rights of others; if you always think of others as well as yourself; if you do not put yourself unduly forward; if you do not forget the courtesies which belong to your position, you are quite sure to accomplish much in life which others with equal abilities fail to. This is where the race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong. It is where you make people feel that you are unselfish and honorable and truthful and sincere. There is what society is looking for in men, and it is astonishing how much men are able to win for self-respect and success and usefulness, who possess these qualities of good breeding. It is almost the turning point of success in practical life.

A clergyman recently, who was afflicted with a flashy choir, and who had been accustomed to give out the hymns in old fashioned way, "We will continue the worship by singing to the praise and glory of God the fortieth hymn," made a mistake, and gave it out thus, "We will continue the worship by singing to the praise and glory of the choir the fortieth hymn." And the choir said he meant it, and they did not like it. The other long suffering ones laughed.

MISCELLANY.

'Full sermons make full pews,' it is said. It is just as true that 'full pews make full sermons.' If you want a blazing fire in pulpit, place plenty fuel in the pews.

— A sportingman said, after hearing Bob Ingersoll's lecture: 'It was a spicy thing to laugh at for an hour, but not a very cheering doctrine to have around when there is a funeral in the house.'

-- A boy can imagine almost everything; can lug an old shot gun about all day, without firing at a living thing, and be under the impression that he is having a good time. But all attempts to induce a boy to imagine that he is killing Indians when he is sawing wood have proved futile.

— A young vesryman connected with a church at Pittsburgh on a recent Sunday by mistake sent the following letter to the rector to read among announcements, supposing it to be the notice of a temperance meeting: Dear John: I am sorry I can't let you come to see me as frequently as usual, but papa and mamma think I should not receive even my very dear friends during the Lenten season. It is awfully disagreeable, if not positively cruel, but then you know we Episcopalians can not go back on Lent. I shall see you oftener than usual, I hope, when the holy season is gone. Yours, with friendship.

— Insanity to-day is on the increase, outstripping the growth of population by about fifty per cent. What is more, insanity is growing down toward a younger class of victims. At the same time, the proportion of cures is diminishing. There was a time when a superintendent was known to apologize because the proportion of cures did not rise above ninety per cent; but now they are often reported as low as twenty, fifteen, and even ten per cent.

Mr. JNO. C. WELBORN of Keosauqua, Ill., says: "I cured a little girl of Ague of three years' standing, with Dr. Harter's Fever and Ague Specific, after the best physicians failed to benefit her."

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

November 10, Wednesday, Chillicothe, Ordination.

11, Thursday, Cameron, Consecration.

14, Sunday, St. George's, St. Louis, St. Luke's Hospital.

THE Bishop's address during General Convention will be care of Prof. T. Egleston, No. 35 West Washington Square New York.

THE Bishop is cognizant of the case of a middle-aged clergyman of the Diocese who is compelled to minister without surplice and stole, because he has worn out those which he had, and cannot afford to get new ones, nor can his station afford it either. The cost of procuring a new set would be probably about ten dollars. Will not some one place it in the Bishop's power to procure these needed accessories to a reverent service for this clergyman, who knows nothing about this notice?

NOTES ON THE LITURGY.

The Lord's Prayer frequently recurs in our services because it is found in each of several offices which were originally intended to be used at different times, but which are now often said together. Thus, often it occurs in the same service in the Morning Prayer, the Litany, Baptismal, Confirmation and Communion offices. When changes are made in the arrangement, probably it will be ordered that if the Lord's Prayer have been said once, it may be omitted when it recurs afterward in the same service.

Usage varies in the Church as to the manner in which the General Confession, General Thanksgiving and the first four petitions in the Litany should be said, whether with or after the minister, so that no method is necessarily absurd or without some warrant. The former method of saying the General Confession, which is still preserved in some churches in England and Ireland, is for the minister to say a clause, and then for the people to repeat this after he is done. The remnant of this practice is seen in the printing of both the lessons in the capital letters with which every clause begins. This feature has produced wonder often as to what the reason of it is. They were the rallying words that marked the beginning of each new clause which the people repeated after the minister had finished saying it. Some of the older of our Church people still remember the habit, but it has in this country about wholly disappeared, and the simultaneous repetition has taken its place.

And so with the General Thanksgiving; in some places in this country the usage has latterly sprung up of saying it with the minister. This has been urged with some force as quickening devotion. Still, perhaps the better practice lies with the more general manner of saying it. But it is a usage which we have heard in many congregations in the old country, observed from time immemorial.

The same is true with regard to the simultaneous saying of the first four petitions in the Litany. Devotionally there is very much to be said in behalf of the use. And yet evidently the manner in which they are printed shows that it was not intended they should be so said. Still, usage is false to the direction derived from printing. Those who say the first four petitions simultaneously, almost never follow their own rule as to the petition.

They do not say the identical response with, but after the minister. And on the other hand, those who say the first petition after the minister and not with him, because they are so printed, break their own rule, because when they come to the minor Litany, in the suffrages "O Christ, hear us," etc., they do not say them after the minister, as their rule would compel them, but with the minister. After all it is the wider usage which makes the law, and governs practice, and no one way is without some presumption in its favor.

THE CONVENTION.

At 10:30 o'clock the clergy, who had robed in the chapel, filed in and marched up the middle aisle, the organ playing a grand chant. The clergy marched up to the front of the chancel and then standing on either side, allowed Right Reverend Bishops Robertson, of Missouri, and Harris, of Michigan, to pass through and take their seats within the sanctuary on either side of the altar. The clergy then seated themselves on either side and in the front pews.

The Ante-communion service was then read by Bishop Robertson, the epistle by Bishop Harris, after which Rev. Mr. Scheetz, of St. Jude's Church, Monroe City, delivered the sermon.

He took as his text the following, from Paul to the Corinthians: "Examine yourselves whether ye be in the faith; prove yourselves, be perfect, give good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

He pointed out that the Convention should be governed by these regulations and should apply these tests. He said that there was a growing doubt in the minds of many as to whether the church was not in a state of infantile ignorance externally, and pointed out that every schism had its rise in a want which the Church failed to supply, and he counseled a widening of the limits, and while nothing that was found good should be abandoned, yet imported matter, which are as little suitable to this country and time as foreign modes of dress, should be done away with. They but hamper and impede action.

The offertory services were next read by Rev. John Fulton, D. D., and the Holy Eucharist followed.

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS.

Bishop Robertson and Bishop Harris were seated in the chancel, and Mr. John R. Triplett acted as Secretary. The list of the clergy canonically resident in the diocese was called, and 32 answered to their names.

Bishop Robertson then appointed Rev. Messrs. Batte, Gierlow and Woodruff a committee on credentials of lay delegates, and a recess was taken to allow the committee to exercise its functions.

On reassembling the secretary called the roll of the delegates who were reported by the committee as properly accredited.

A resolution complimentary to the visiting Bishop (Harris, of Michigan,) was introduced, to which the Right Reverend gentleman replied in fitting terms.

Bishop Robertson then announced his intention to read part of his report referring to the condition of the church throughout the diocese, reserving his general remarks and comments for the evening exercises.

The Bishop summarized the year's work in the following manner: "I have, on seventy-five occasions, confirmed 404 persons. This number is in excess of those reported for several years, although it does not reach the best results of some of our past years. There is a decided recedence in the element of our work in this city. That it should not advance here must arrest attention; that we should in this matter lose ground from year to year, for several years past, challenges anxious inquiry as to the cause." The Bishop went on to state that there was a serious want of clergy everywhere, but especially in the city. In eight years not a single new parish has been begun. Something must be done to remedy this matter.

This year will be marked in our history in the great progress which has been had in the abatement of the burdens of debt on the parishes.

Three churches had been consecrated during the year—at Nevada, Montgomery and Blackburn; and three others are finished and free from debt—at De Soto, Liberty and Plattsburg.

It may be interesting for the Convention to know that by reference to a tabular statement of the condition of the diocese, prepared for the approaching General Convention, the total value of church property in the diocese is $936,325, of which $669,000 is in this city. On this property there is an indebtedness of about $50,000, four-fifths in the city. The number of clergy now connected with the diocese is 55, a number considerably in advance of that of any past time. He then continued, "I can not think that it is right that the Convention should lose sight of the fact that twelve years ago it borrowed, for a temporary purpose, $3,000 from the Permanent Episcopal Fund, which it promised to refund in four years, with interest. Of this amount only $1,200 has been repaid. It used to be the practice to include in the estimates for the year an amount appropriated towards repaying the advance, but this has been omitted for several years past." He recommended that measures be taken for its payment.

The address next took up the matter of the Endowment Committee appointed seven years ago to raise $50,000, and whose labors have been discontinued, and a revival of interest in the matter was recommended.

Bishop Robertson then announced the following Standing Committees:

On Admission of New Parishes—Rev. P. G. Robert, Rev. J. M. Curtis and Mr. A. A. Lessuer.

On Unfinished Business—Rev. J. P. T. Ingraham, Rev. W. A. Masker and Mr. R. Burroughs.

On Finance—Messrs. Silas Bent, J. W. Branch, Geo. H. Gill.

On Assessments—Messrs. M. W. Alexander, F. Carter, John Wickham, Gilchrist Porter, Mr. Jackson, J. B. Gazzam and H. H. Harding.

On Constitution and Canons—Rev. M. Schuyler, D. D., Rev. John Fulton, D. D., and Hon. W. F. Ferguson.

On Missions—Rev. F. B. Scheetz, Rev. G. K. Dunlop, Revs. B. E. Reed and Wallace, and Mr. J. W. Morgan.

On Christian Education—Rev. E. Talbot, Rev. H. D. Jardine, Rev. A. T. Sharp, Messrs. Johnson and T. C. Edgar.

On Sunday Schools—Rev. Jas. Runcie, D. D. Rev. Geo. C. Betts, Rev. J. T. Wright, Messrs. D. A. Stewart and J. J. Wilkins.

On Missionary and Traveling Expenses—Rev. A. Leonard, Messrs. H. W. Hough and John W. Luke.

Motions pertaining to the Bishop's address being in order, Rev. Mr. Runcie moved that a committee of ten be appointed to devise means to pay back the amount due the Permanent Episcopal Fund for several years. The money had been borrowed nearly twelve years ago, and part of it is still due. The motion prevailed, and the following committee is to report to-day: Rev. Messrs. Runcie, Robert, Schuyler, and Messrs. Pope, Gill, Ferguson and Wickham.

Referred.

Rev. Mr. Robert gave notice that he would bring up the matter of changing the time of holding the Convention in September to the first Monday in May. The matter will have to be considered at this session in order to be acted upon next year. On motion of Rev. Mr. Robert, this was made the special order for the afternoon session to-day.

Rev. Mr. Robert then introduced the following resolution:

"Inasmuch as subsection 4, section 2, canon 11, title 2 of the digest inflicts pains on the erring but repentant sons of our mother that are not visited upon those who turn to the Church after a life spent in opposing her doctrines and despising her ways, therefore

Resolved, That the clerical and lay deputies of this diocese be instructed to use every effort to secure the repeal of the section mentioned.

Rev. Mr. Robert went on to explain that the section he referred to was that which ordered that a clergyman who had left the Episcopal for any other church could not return until he had remained in the lay state for three years, while other applicants for membership were submitted to a probation of only six months. That a preacher of any other church could do as he liked all his life, and come into the church after six months, whereas a man who had temporarily wandered through conviction was kept out for three years. The preamble was adopted unanimously.

The resolution was then carried.

The Convention's hours were fixed at from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 2 to 4 p. m.

The portion of the Bishop's address read in the evening was ordered to be printed separately from the Journal, and 1000 copies distributed. It need not, therefore, be repeated here. After the adjournment the Bishop's Reception was held in the Episcopal Residence, where a large assembly gathered and spent two hours delightfully.

The Standing Committee made its report, and delegates from two more parishes appeared.

Rev. M. Schuyler, D. D., Chairman of the Committee on Canons, presented the report of that committee. The principal matter reported upon was in regard to changing the time of holding the Convention from the fourth Tuesday in September to the first Wednesday in May.

Mr. William F. Ferguson, Registrar, next presented his report.

The report of the committee appointed to secure an endowment for the episcopate several years ago, stated that soon after their appointment they began operations, and were succeeding fairly when the panic arose in 1873 and killed off all efforts in regard to the matter. It was decided to await until the country had recovered from its depression, and it is doubtful whether the time has yet arrived, for most of the parishes are struggling with large debts and returning prosperity is not yet sufficiently assured to warrant any attempt to raise the fund. The report was signed by Silas Bent and Wm. F. Ferguson, and they asked to be discharged, and introduced a resolution that another committee be appointed with discretion as to time of commencing to raise the fund.

The following gentlemen were appointed as said committee: W. F. Ferguson, Jos. Franklin, M. W. Alexander, Silas Bent, E. C. Simmons, J. M. Gilkerson, D. P. Dyer.

The committee to consider that part of the Bishop's address relating to the debt due the Episcopal Endowment Fund, reported as follows:

The committee find that the debt, principal and interest now amounts to $4,000, and they find that an assessment of 2 per cent. on the amount paid for salaries of rectors in the diocese will probably realize $800, which sum applied annually on the debt would extinguish it in six years at most.

The whole matter be referred to the standing committee, with power.

The time of holding the Convention from the fourth Tuesday in September to first Wednesday in May was changed. The final action will not, however, be taken until next fall.

Mr. W. F. Ferguson was re-elected Registrar and also made Historiographer of the diocese by a unanimous vote.

Rev. J. P. T. Ingraham introduced a resolution that the Committee on Canons and Constitutions, with the Bishop as Chairman, for that purpose, be appointed to revise and arrange the canons of the diocese, and print as many copies of the same as may be needed.

Mr. Harrison introduced an amendment that a committee of seven be appointed—the Bishop being chairman—to propose a revision of the constitutions and canons of the diocese, embodying such amendments as they think best, with a view to codification, the committee to report to the next Convention. The committee were also ordered to print the revised canons and circulate them throughout the diocese at least sixty days before the next Convention.

The Standing Committee of last year was re-elected.

After evening prayer Bishop Robertson opened the missionary meeting with a brief statement of the objects and purposes for which the society was organized.

The Bishop then called Prof. W. B. Potter, of Washington University, President of the Laymen's Missionary Co-Operating Society, to the chair.

The annual report of Mr. Frank Carter, Treasurer, was then presented, making exhibit as follows:

Rev. G. K. Dunlop presented the Secretary's report, commending on the liberality of many of the parishes and churches, and closing with a statement that he wanted $5,000 contributed this year, and hoped to see subscriptions largely increased.

The roll of the churches in the State was called and the representatives present pledged themselves to pay various amounts to the Missionary Board during the year, the largest amounts being $500 each from St. George's Church, St. Louis, and Grace Church, Kirkwood. The whole amount pledged was $1,875.

The Nominating Committee returned and reported the following names for

OFFICERS:

For President—M. W. Alexander.
For Vice-President—R. M. Wilson.
For Secretary—Rev. G. K. Dunlop.
For Treasurer—D. A. Leavitt.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Christ Church—W. B. Chittenden.

Grace Church—Dr. Case.
Grace Church (Kirkwood)—E. H. Lycett.
St. John's Church—Chas. E. Alexander.
Mt. Calvary Church—Joseph Franklin.
St. Peter's Church—Mr. Gordon.

The report was adopted by the meeting unanimously. Mr. M. W. Alexander attempted to decline the presidency in favor of Mr. Jos. W. Branch, of St. George's Church, but the meeting refused to accept his resignation. The meeting then adjourned with the usual devotions.

THIRD DAY.

Rev. B. E. Reed moved that the Clerical and Lay Deputies to the General Convention from this Diocese be requested to bring before the General Convention the late revision of the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament, looking to such action as shall settle the mind of the Church at large upon this important subject.

He then advocated the resolution in a stirring address.

The resolution was laid on the table.

The consideration of the report of the Missionary Committee was then returned to, and Rev. Mr. Dunlop advocated the plan that the city rectors spend a short time each year in missionary work throughout the diocese.

Rev. Dr. Fulton objected to the continual calls on the city rectors by the country brethren. "City clergy are always 'lambasted' by them, and here is a call that we spend our vacation in missionary work at a time of the year when under the pressure of perspiration, inspiration was likely to be lacking in the congregations to be addressed. We are not lazy fellows if we do go fishing in the summer time. We have no Sunday in our work during the year and as it has been ordained that we ought to rest one day in every seven, we do take our fifty-two days all together, and God knows we need them.

Rev. P. G. Robert objected to the lines of distinction drawn between city clergy and the missionaries. "All the work done for the church of God is missionary, and must be so as much in the city as in the country. The city clergy are very ready to assist when they can, and Dr. Fulton and I are willing to give reasonable help in this way when we can." The gentlemen were immediately engaged by nearly every country clergyman in the Convention, and if they fulfill all demands they will be busy straight along for the next few years.

Rev. Dr. Betts commented on the willingness expressed by the city clergy to get back to the country for the milk, and perhaps the fish, and declared that there were many country clergymen who are very willing to make the change for the good things of city life.

Rev. Mr. Scheetz also espoused the cause of the country clergy, and while talking about the hard work and traveling to be done by them in missionary work, being asked by Dr. Fulton how many sermons he carried on one of those tours, Rev. Mr. Scheetz answered, in the words of the itinerant preacher, "I never use a sermon more than twice before I get so tired of it that I never touch it again."

Rev. Mr. Talbot, of Macon, took part in the discussion to say that he was a country clergyman, that he dressed as well, lived as well, dined as well, dined as well and was just as happy as any of the much-envied city clergy.

Rev. Mr. Gay, of Fayette, objected to calling Macon and other such towns the country. He said he knew what the country was; alluded jocosely to the $20 horse and dilapidated buggy that carried him all over Howard county, and described the hard work and amount of travel he had to do. He described how he had many visits from the city clergy during vacations, and when he would get out of the buggy and tell them he had an engagement at a distant place and ask them would they come, they always had an engagement to dine somewhere with somebody. They never went. The country, properly so called, was starving for the Gospel, and should be helped in some way.

ASSESSMENTS.

Mr. M. W. Alexander, Chairman of the Committee on Assessment, presented the annual report, stating the amounts that were expected from each parish during the year.

There was considerable objection among the members of the Convention to the amount their congregations were expected to pay and numerous demands for abatement, but the report was adopted.

Rev. Mr. Jardine presented this resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of Convention be instructed to use all means to secure as low fares as possible for members coming to this Convention. Carried.

Rev. Mr. Jardine also offered this:

Resolved, That the actual mileage of the lay members of this Convention be capitalized and added so the current expense of the Convention and paid as part of the regular expense of the Convention. Resolution lost.

Mr. Samuel B. Gordon introduced the following:

WHEREAS, It is deemed better, and perhaps necessary, that the title to real estate of the church be held by a corporation which has no other purpose; and

WHEREAS, The corporation recently organized under the name of the Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, includes in its purposes not only the holding of the real estate of the church, but the exercising of other trusts; therefore be it

Resolved, That the charter of the Parochial Trust Fund be amended to conform to the above principle, and that a new corporation be organized for the other purposes contemplated by the Parochial Trust Fund, or that such other action be taken to effect such purposes as to the committee hereinafter mentioned shall seem best.

Resolved, That a Committee of three be appointed by the Chair, who, with the Chancellor of the diocese and the standing committee, shall be a committee having this matter in charge, and that they report their action to the next annual Convention.

Bishop Robertson then introduced the Rev. Dr. John A. Harrison, of Tenn., as a member of the Convention twenty-six years ago. The reverend gentleman responded fittingly, and took a seat on the platform to the right of the presiding officer.

Rev. B. E. Reed, Rev. John Fulton, D. D., and Rev. J. Gierlow, Ph. D., were elected as members of the Missionary Board by the Convention.

Rev. F. B. Scheetz asked that he be allowed to introduce a matter which had been rejected before, stating that the resolution had been arranged and agreed upon by several members of the Convention whose views widely differed in other regards. He then read the following:

Whereas, The body of Christ is one, holy, catholic and apostolic; and

Whereas, Every national church of Christ is a member of that one body and is virtually interested in the well-being of all the rest; and

Whereas, The prayer of our Divine Lord, six times uttered in his night of agony, was that all members of His body might be one, even as He and the Father are one; and

Whereas, All the members of the body of Christ are not only bound to pray as the Church has taught us, that all who profess and call themselves Christians may hold the faith in unity of spirit and in the bond of peace; also, to recognize and promote the unity of Christ's church in every possible way; therefore,

Resolved, That the members of this Convention have observed with the deepest interest the restoration of a truly primitive and catholic doctrine and discipline among their brethren known in Europe as Old Catholics and as Christian Catholics; that we rejoice to have heard of the visit about to be made by Edward Herzog, Christian Catholic Bishop of Switzerland, to the General Convention of this Church, and that we desire our deputies in General Convention to convey our greetings in Christ to the said Bishop Herzog, and through him to the people of his charge.

Resolved, That the delegates of this Convention to the General Convention be requested to wait upon the Right Reverend the Bishop of Edinburgh, and present to him the fraternal greetings of this Convention.

Mr. John A. Harrison introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Chair appoint a committee of three persons versed in the law to advise and assist in making the amendment to the charter of the Parochial Trust Fund Association, provided for by a former resolution of this Convention.

The motion was carried, and the Bishop appointed as such committee Messrs. James O. Broadhead, John R. Shepley and Samuel B. Gordon.

Joseph Franklin was re-elected Treasurer of the diocese.

Rev. B. E. Reed introduced a resolution thanking the Rev. Dr. Fulton and the members of St. George's Church for the way in which the members of the Convention had been entertained. Carried.

On motion, the thanks of the Convention were tendered to the Secretary, Mr. John R. Triplett.

On motion of Rev. Abiel Leonard, the Convention took a recess until 7:30 p. m.

EVENING SESSION.

The Convention met with the largest outside attendance this week. A Sunday school meeting is always attractive and this one proved no exception. The members of the Convention who spoke last night had well considered their subjects, and the addresses were more eloquent and impressive than those brought out by the routine of the Convention.

The first speaker was Mr. J. J. Wilkins, who dwelt upon the importance of the theme, and expounded both the need of Sunday-schools and the good they were doing in a way that must have brought conviction to most of his hearers.

He was followed by Mr. Ralph Talbot, who dwelt upon the importance of the work, and who said that every man should consider himself a teacher, and that the range of the Sunday-school would be widened and its power for well-doing increased.

Rev. Dr. John Fulton, of St. George's Church, followed in the same strain, after which the Bishop made a few remarks preliminary to the adjournment. He said that the Convention was eminently distinguished for the ability of its members and the wisdom of its doings. There were differences, but they were natural and honest and they were underlain by an overwhelming feeling of honesty of purpose and interest. It was both an honor and a pleasure to preside over the deliberations of such a body, and the members who left the city could go away leaving behind them a fraternal bond that never could be broken.

After tendering a vote of thanks to Mr. Andrew Leslie, the Assistant Secretary, and singing of the 202d hymn, the Bishop announced that the Forty-first Annual Convention of the Missouri Diocese stood adjourned without day.

To my Brother Missionaries in the Diocese of Missouri:

Brethren: The most earnest desire of our Bishop and the Board of Missions, as well as the whole Church of our Diocese, for the success of our work proved by their hearty and earnest effort to aid us, leads me to one or two recommendations for our increased efficiency in this department.

It is always and everywhere true that the man who makes himself useful to others will exert a corresponding influence over them. Especially is this true in religious relations. The successful minister, as a rule, is so because he is useful; the prosperous church is prosperous as a rule because people find it to be too useful to dispense with. Now, let us apply this principle of action to the missionary field; that is to say, let us be useful to the people among whom we minister, according to their idea of usefulness, so far as is legitimate. In addition to our public services and preaching, let us serve them in private life. This latter service in particular instances is most effective. The minister who nurses the sick, who stays with and comforts the bereaved, who sits by the bed of the afflicted, who busies himself in helping up any who fall, and steadying those who are weak, soon draws about him a band of loving, loyal hearts, with which he can do great things. More than this, the minister who is useful to a town, village or neighborhood, by furthering every good work, will soon find himself the centre of an influence very potent for Christ and His Church. The people will want his presence, they will recognize his value, they will feel they can not do without him, and they will give money to keep him, and to enlarge his power for helping their community.

I will say no more, for I am anxious that this thought should take possession of our minds. It was in this way our Lord won the hearts of men on earth—it is in this way He wins them yet. It is in this way the Church will disarm her adversaries and turn their hearts to herself. May God inspire us with a great longing and give us the power to be useful; and we will do a mighty work for our Lord and His Church. R.

The largest Sunday-school in the world is probably at Stockport, Chester county, England. There are 90,804 names of scholars on the register.

THE CONVENTION.

Our Annual Council was unusually full and unusually pleasant. The effect of the filling up of the parishes with clergymen was evident in the presence of the ministers and lay deputies from congregations that had for years been unrepresented. The benefit to those who came was manifest in their growing interest in the objects and methods of the Convention. The short speech of a lay delegate struck such a chord that it brought $100 to the object which he was quietly urging from a liberal layman of St. George's.

The parish in which the Convention met showed a grand hospitality all through, and the lunch had very much to do with the good feeling. It held the members together and saved time, and threatened differences were harmonized during the recess. Whether it was wise to bring in the Herzog resolution at first was doubtful, but the manner in which at length the solicitude of an anxious brother was relieved by the common action of those who differed widely was touching and significant.

The gains in the number of communicants in the parishes reach to nearly 500, and are shared by nearly two-thirds of the whole number. But the counting out in St. George's of over two hundred, who could not be found, and losses elsewhere brings the net gain of the Diocese for the year in communicants to about one hundred—less than two per cent. The confirmations are over four hundred, the removals into the Diocese are certainly as great as the removals out. Each one has to put to himself the question, why not more gain? The tables of each parish ought to be studied.

A member, recently come to the Diocese, and accustomed to other Diocesan Conventions, spoke of the degree in which he had been impressed with the ability and good sense and feeling of the Convention. Nothing could exceed the courtesy and high tone of all the deliberations.

It is too soon to summarize the results of the gathering, but it is safe to say that it will long be remembered for the honest good work done by it and the measure in which it set the Church forward.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

That which directly strikes the attention in contrasting this gathering with the last and previous Conventions is the absence of well known faces in each House. Among the Bishops we do not see the commanding figures of Bishops McCoskry and Odenheimer; the learned and ascetic Whittingham is not here, nor the benevolent face of Wilmer of Louisiana. In the Deputies' House also are many changes. Drs. Harris, Burgess and Seymour have gone into the other House. Drs. De Koven, Rudder and Chase, Messrs. Tremaine, Livingston, Nash and Welsh are no longer among us on earth. Drs. Fulton, H. M. Thompson, Leeds, Vinton and others will not be here.

The length of the sessions vary, that of 1877 lasted through 20 working days, that of 1874 held over 24 days. This is not likely to last as long. It is understood that the next Convention will be held in Philadelphia, because it is the Centennial City, and it was in that city that the first General Convention was held in 1785, after a preliminary meeting the previous year.

The opening sermon is always preached by the Bishops in the order of seniority, except as occasionally a foreign visitor is invited. In 1865 the Bishop of Montreal preached, in 1874 the Bishop of Lichfield. In 1868 Bishop Lee of Delaware, in 1871 Bishop Johns, in 1877 Bishop Williams, this year Bishop Kip preached. It will come to those who are younger Bishops now at about 1950.

The experiment of The Daily Churchman, which we have had for the last three General Conventions, was a great convenience, but was not profitable. It involved great cost, as the work had to be done with rapidity to insure the issue of the debates of the House of Deputies verbatim by 9 the next morning. Instead of this, we are to have a condensed issue of the proceedings issued as supplements of The Churchman. The daily papers must do the rest. Debates will be more concise in consequence.

St. George's Church is very large, with galleries on three sides. It was densely filled, the entrance being by ticket. There were forty-six Bishops in procession, besides the visiting Bishops Herzog from Switzerland and of Edinburgh. The former used peculiar and very rich vestments, a circular of white watered silk with a gold clasp, with rich embroidery; gold chain and pectoral cross. He read the Epistle in very fair English, and Bishop Cotterill read the Gospel. The music was very fine, the organ and the choir of boys and men being in the gallery at the other end. The offertory was "How beautiful are the feet," from Handel's Messiah. The Trisagion was Gounod's, and was beautiful as music, but incongruous in the service. After it was about two-thirds through the aged presiding Bishop rose and waved, down the vast length of the church, for the organist to stop. Of course this was impossible. The music was sublime, but was out of the reach of the chancel. Bishop Bedell, who was reading the service when the music broke in, quietly took it up at the point where he was stopped, and said it over again.

Dr. Beardsley, who was elected President of the House of Deputies, is a moderate; his principal opponent was Dr. Dix of Trinity. The Convention is very full, but the House of Bishops is weakened not merely by the death of Bishop Whittingham, but the sickness of Bishop Atkinson, which will not allow him even to appear in Convention again. Bishops Kerfoot, Wilmer and Niles are detained away also by sickness, and their absence will be felt.

THE MISSIONARY BOARD.

The space in this number is largely given to the proceedings of Convention, but something must specially be said about the Missionary Board. The pledges at the missionary meeting for the work of the coming year were nearly double those made last year. The new board has entered upon its work with great vigor, determined to reach a full knowledge of the field, and push all the work to the utmost. The Board passed a rule that only those places should receive aid which paid their Convention assessments, and took up all the Canonical collections.

The Rev. Dr. Fulton invited the Bishop, the Missionary Board and the Missionaries of the Diocese to breakfast with him at the Windsor on the morning after the Convention. The occasion was a delightful one. After a handsome repast, some speeches were indulged in, and then all retired to the parlor, and each missionary gave an account of his field, its difficulties and needs, and the possibility to reaching larger results. The older ones gave their experience of methods to be used, and only at noon did the pressure of other duties cause the gentlemen to separate, cheered and helped by the gathering, and acknowledging the courtesy of the Rector of St. George's in giving the opportunity for this pleasant occasion.

CHILDRENS' COT.

The following note, received with the large gift mentioned below, will explain the interesting method used for collections in that Sunday School.

DEAR BISHOP:—I have the honor to present to you the accompanying collection of the Pin Club of Trinity Parish Sunday School, for the Children's Cot in St. Luke's Hospital. This little Club, composed of the members of Trinity Sunday School, is organized for the purpose of making collections for charitable and missionary purposes. The enclosed card will explain itself, and also indicate fully the method of the Club's operations. The children are allowed to keep the cards one month, when they are to be returned with the money collected. The returning of the cards is made an occasion for a social gathering. I enclose also a list of the collections with the amount obtained by them. I ought to say that this collection is the result of the first month's work—August. The collection for September will be for the benefit of the Missionary Host.

Very Respectfully, Yours,

BOOK NOTICES.

CHRISTIAN SOCIOLOGY, by J. H. W. Stuckenberg, D.D. Pp., 379. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

The author claims that while theology has received large attention, the relations of persons to each other as Christians has had scant reference. He thinks there is no worthy book on Christian Social Science. The whole book is interesting; a number of the chapters are especially valuable. The reading of such a book would tend to give a generous inclusiveness to the topics of the pulpit. $1.50.

THE CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE. September. 20 Vesey street, New York, $2.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. No. 1891. A regular reading of this magazine is itself a liberal education. It brings every week together the culled thoughts of the best foreign periodicals. $8 a year. Littell & Co., No. 17 Bromfield street, Boston. THE NEWS and THE AGE may be had together for the subscription price of the latter.

STANDARD SERIES. No. 37. The Thoughts of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius Antoninus. Translated by George Long. Price, 15 cents (former price, $1.50). No. 38. The Salon of Madame Necker. Vol. II. Translated for the Standard Series by Mary Stuart Smith. Price, 15 cents. This is the first publication in America of this very interesting book. No. 39. The Hermits. By Chas. Kingsley. Price 15 cents (former price, $1.75). None of the books of Canon Kingsley is more readable or instructive. No. 40. John Ploughman's Pictures; or, More of His Plain Talk, for Plain People. By Charles H. Spurgeon. Price, 15 cents. This is a new book by Spurgeon, after the style of his celebrated "John Ploughman's talk," which has had immense sales in this country and in England. It is exceedingly humorous and instructive. Each of the thirty-nine short chapters is illustrated by a quaint, apt picture. The humor and homely wisdom of this book should carry it into every household. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

The October WIDE AWAKE opens with a suggestive story for all young girls who haven't much money. It is entitled "The Good Fairy Know How." This is followed by Part II. of Mrs. Lucia Chase Bell's amusing story of "The Boy That Was Too Beautiful." "Mrs. Hungerford's Letter From Home," with its very original illustrations, will amuse all the mamas at least. "The Lost Diamond Snuff-Box," with its two excellent pictures is a capital story; and all the boys will enjoy Mr. Stewart's account of "Sam Thompson's Horsemanship." "Behind the Barn," is a spelling-book story for the little primaries. As solid and instructive matter, there is a spirited account of the brave boyhood of Capt. James B. Eads, whose name in connected with the Mississippi Jetties. "The Conspiracy of the Weather Cocks," has three beautiful illustrations. "Our Grandmothers," by Mrs. Clara Doty Bates, has a very quaint pen-and-ink drawing by Miss Hansell. Mr. Louis C. Elson closes the number with a capital exercise song, entitled "The Children's Orchestra."

THE THEORY OF SOUND IN ITS RELATION TO MUSIC, by Prof. Pietro Blaserna. This is the tenth of the series of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science, all works of standard value, printed in full, illustrated, and at a very small price. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 Fourth avenue, New York, 15 cents.

The October SCRIBNER, the closing number of the Twentieth Volume, opens with an article on "Porpoise-shooting," accompanied by some striking illustrations. The biography of "Jean Francois Millet—Peasant and Painter," is continued, with reproductions of ten of the artist's most noted pictures. H. C. Bunner contributes a description, assisted by numerous sketches, of that feature of New York City known as "Shantytown," now fast disappearing before the inroads of civilization. H. C. Hovey gives an account of his trips of "One Hundred Miles in Mammoth Cave," aided with illustrations. There is also a thoughtful and timely paper on the present condition of affairs, especially in agriculture, in "The New South," by Sidney Lanier. There is an article on the privilege of suffrage, under title of "To Bolt or not to Bolt," and the final chapters of George W. Cable's stirring novel, "The Grandissimes."

ST. NICHOLAS for October completes the seventh volume of the magazine. The publishers announce that the increased size and number of the pages in this volume make necessary the binding of it in two parts, each containing the monthly issues for half a year. Louis M. Alcott's serial story, "Jack and Jill," is brought to a happy end, and the base-ball story, "The Fairport Nine" illustrated, closes with the decisive championship game. "H. H." concludes her record of "The Naughtiest Day of My Life; and What Came of It." The complete short tales, this month, are five in number: "Hap," "Ludovick's Rocks," an illustrated account of the amusing adventures of a discontented plowman among savages; "A Green Man and a 'Green' Beast;" "The Major's Big-Talk Stories," in which he describes how he escaped from an enraged rogue-elephant; "Zack's Excursion Trip." Many funny rhymes and comical pictures appear throughout the number, and there is an interesting account of "The House with the Lace Front." The large-type pages for Very Little Folk tell a laughable story of a little negro boy whose supper rolled down-stairs.

THE SANITARIAN.—The leading papers in October number of The Sanitarian are: Are there Diseases of Acclimation? Isthmian Salubrity and the Panama Canal; Homes for the People: Preventable Diseases; every one of which is worthy the attention of all persons interested in the preservation of health and the protection of human life. Menu is, as usual, filled with wholesome excerpts, useful to all housekeepers. The Discrimination of Wholesome Food, and How to Choose Good Olive Oil are alone worth a year's subscription. A. N. Bell, 8 Spruce street, N. Y.

THE CHURCH and MEN.—The first triennial charge of Bishop Burgess, of Quincy, is on this most suggestive topic. It is treated with the characteristic vigor, and elevation of sentiment of the Bishop. Besides this there is an elegance of literary finish which fitly clothes the deep piety and earnestness of its author.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Those who need a good appetizer or aid to digestion for home use will find a choice selection of clarets and Sauternes at Chas. E. Bicker's, 702 Olive street. He also imports the finest brands of French canned goods. New supply of each just received.

The Celebrated Steinway & Sons Pianos, and
Manufacturers of Conover Bros. New Patent Upright Pianos.

[From Kunkel's Musical Review.]

We recently had occasion to examine the new style upright pianos manufactured by Conover Bros., and were highly pleased with their excellence. All pianists know that, owing to the peculiar mechanism of their action, upright pianos generally fail, in rapid passages, to respond to the touch with sufficient promptness. The patent action of the Conover upright has overcome these difficulties, and gives these pianos a genuine repeating action, nearly equal to that of a Grand. This has been done without complicating the ordinary mechanism, but actually by a simplification of it. No description in words could convey an adequate idea of the Conover action, but we shall at some future time give cuts illustrating this really meritorious invention. Aside from this, the Conover Upright piano has a full, pure tone, with something of the quality of a Grand. The patent music rack with which they are provided is a valuable adoption, and the case is elegant.

MONDAY NIGHT OF CONVENTION WEEK.

It has become the custom of the Convention, within the last three or four years, to devote Thursday night in this week to the discussion of Sunday School work. Perhaps it would give more general satisfaction, and lead to more practical results, if all who are interested in this mighty subject were permitted freely to express their views. It is well to have certain persons prepared on certain topics, and then after they have spoken, to call for discussion upon each one. By this means Sunday School night would be relieved of much of its stiffness, that is inseparable from a meeting in which every speaker is prepared. Besides, as this is now a part of Convention proceedings, there seems no reason why the rules governing other business meetings should not apply here. But this suggestion is made subject to correction by superior wisdom.

However that may be, without doubt it is a great advance on previous experiences to have any time at all specially devoted to this matter. Our Sunday School system has been treated so absolutely as no system at all; it has been permitted so completely to run its own course, and hence has not been glorified; it has been turned over so entirely to the young, and in many cases irresponsible parties, that one who has this work at heart is greatly encouraged when the Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Missouri, under the presidency of its Bishop, regards it as a part of its grave and solemn duties, to devote a whole evening to the discussion of its welfare and promotion.

Thursday evening of the Conventional year of 1880, was one as full of interest as any that preceded it. Laymen were appointed by the Bishop to address the Convention on the best methods of making the Sunday School a success. Important principles were laid down, that if generally carried out would immeasurably promote the welfare of our Schools.

It was urged that teachers should not only devote themselves with earnest personal religion to their duties, but should carefully prepare themselves for instructing their classes, so that they might deepen the interest of the children in their lessons. For this purpose the Normal Class, as originated by the Sunday School Association of St. Louis, was commended as admirably fitted to its purpose.

This plan contemplates and provides for the meeting once a week of all the teachers of the several schools, to be taught by the different rectors (one month to each rector), in the lesson of the following Sunday. This scheme, advisable in its machiner, only lacks the co-operation of the teachers. Unfortunately it has not been able to secure this; why, it is hard to say. But this instrumentality, if faithfully used, would not only enable the teachers to give their classes more solid instruction, but would result, perhaps, in their becoming the feeders of our Confirmation Classes—in which they are now sadly deficient.

Teachers, too, were urged by the speakers to present more earnestly personal religion to their scholars—to remind them of their individual responsibility to God, and His Son, our Savior—and to teach with clearness and decision the doctrines of the Church.

A suggestion was made that ought to be pressed, namely that Vestries should include Sunday School charges as part of the current expenses of the parish.

And still another, which if observed would impress upon the minds of teachers their solemn responsibility in undertaking to guide the minds of the lambs of Christ's flock. It was that a service of induction into the office of a teacher should be framed; and each teacher, on one's first admission to a school, be solemnly set apart for this work. It is a suggestion to be weighed. It would lead to a thoughtful interest in the welfare of each child in that teacher's class, which it is feared does not always obtain now, with notable exceptions, beyond the Sunday School hour.

Within a few weeks past a case illustrative of this fact has come to the writer's knowledge. A little boy who loved his teacher very sincerely, was taken seriously sick. For three months he tossed his fevered head upon a hot pillow, and every two or three days his day-school teacher went to inquire after her little pupil with a loving and womanly anxiety. His Sunday School teacher seemed never to have missed him, or to have made any inquiries about him, nor did she ever visit him once during that three months.

Perhaps it is very wicked in that little boy never to have entered into any Sunday School since, thoroughly disgusted as he was by the contrast presented between the week-day and Sunday School teachers. But the human nature in the little fellow is quite like the same nature in boys of older growth, and calls of consideration, "lest we offend one of these little ones."

Encouraged by the attendance of so many on that Thursday night, and regretting the absence of many whose faces ought not to have been missed, we yet think that the Churchmen of Missouri have cause to be thankful for the record which its Convention has made of its estimation of the importance of Sunday School work.

SHELBYNA, October 11.

The Sunday-school at Emmanuel Mission, Shelbyna, was organized Sunday, October 22, 1880, by choosing W. C. Kemp superintendent and Miss Mamie Gerard treasurer, secretary and librarian, and the following are the teachers:

Dr. G. T. Giles, teacher of Bible class.
W. O. L. Jewett, teacher class No. 2.
Miss Blanche Anderson, teacher of class No.

3. Mrs. M. A. Seigler, teacher of class No. 4.

The number of pupils enrolled the first Sunday were sixteen, and the number has since increased to twenty-three. Mr. Kemp is an earnest, faithful man, an experienced Sunday school worker, and all that he and his able teachers need is the assistance and encouragement of all the Church people. This I trust they will get. The young ladies here raised by private subscription a sufficient amount to purchase six months' subscription of the Young Christian Soldier Sunday School lesson leaves and service books with music. The Bible and Prayer Book Society sent us one dozen Bibles. The Sunday offerings are amply sufficient to keep up all expenses, so now we feel that our Sunday-school is permanently established.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the St. Luke's Hospital Association was held at the hospital on Friday evening, 8th inst. Bishop Robertson presided, and Rev. Dr. Schuyler was also seated within the chancel.

After religious exercises, in the absence of Mr. Edwin Harrison, the President of the Association, Mr. Wm. S. Pope took the chair, and Mr. William B. Chittenden acted as Secretary. Mr. D. Robert Barclay read the report of President Harrison, in which it was stated that 228 patients had been received during the year, 62 of whom were charity patients, and 26 partially maintained by charity. The staff of physicians and surgeons is as follows:

Drs. John T. Hodgen and Henry H. Mudd, Surgeons; Drs. E. S. Lemoyne and J. B. S. Alleyne, Physician; Dr. John Green, Ophthalmic Surgeon, and Dr. William S. Barrett, Gynecologist and Obstetrician. The President reported, in conclusion, that the hospital was in a flourishing and almost self-sustaining condition.

The report of C. S. Freeborne, Treasurer, made the following exhibit:

Balance at last report.....	$ 103 48
Donations year ending September 29.....	1,794 76

Dr. John Green then made a short statement of the prospect of an early erection of the new hospital on the lot donated by Mr. Henry Shaw, corner of Twentieth street and Washington avenue. The plan was to erect a building 100 feet long on Washington avenue by fifty-seven feet deep on Twentieth street, three stories high, with a half basement and an unoccupied attic. The building will be begun as soon as possible from plans furnished by George I. Barnett, and will be ready for all uses long before the close of next year. The $25,000 already subscribed would go far to accomplish the work in question, and other donations were sure to come in.

The election of Directors being in order, the old board was returned. The board is composed of the following gentlemen: D. Robert Barclay, E. C. Simmons, Wm. H. Thompson, Chas. S. Freeborne, W. S. Pope, J. B. S. Alleyne, Newton Crane, Jesse L. January, J. J. Wilkins, Edwin Harrison, and Prof. W. B. Potter, who was put in place of Gen. Simpson, who has left the city.

After Dr. Schuyler, acting Chaplain, had read his report for the year, the question was taken up as to the advisability of holding a large public meeting at an early day in one of the churches, for the purpose of calling public attention to the hospital and its wants. It is decided to hold such a meeting on the night of Sunday, November 13, at St. George's Church.

Dr. John Green then presented the report of the physicians, stating that the dispensary service had been much expended during the year, and that the Surgical Department had been placed at the disposal of the poor, with exceedingly good results. After this statement the meeting adjourned.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—On Tuesday, 14th ultimo, the Bishop consecrated the new church just erected in the new town of Blackburn, Saline county, on the Chicago & Alton Railway. The parish at first called St. Thomas Church, St. Thomas, then more recently St. Thomas, Waverly, has moved away from the Missouri river, and now has its home on the railroad. It is of frame, not large, built on lots given by Mrs. Blackburn. The outlay has been about $1,200. Until now the parish, which was organized more than twenty-five years ago, has been without a home, and has held nearly all of its services in a school-house. But when the long looked-for railroad came through, the church was soon started on the town which sprang up. It is the only one in town. The Rev. Mr. Sharpe, with quite a party of Church people from Lexington, came, and he took part in the services. The Rev. Mr. Bulkley was also present, but was not well enough to take part. Mr. A. M. Creel read the instrument of donation, and the Rector, Mr. Woodruff, read the sentence of consecration. The congregation filled the church. At night the Bishop preached again and confirmed two persons. The greatest praise must be given to the Rector for the hard work of getting the church built and finished and promptly paid for.

—The Rev. Mr. Dunn returned on the 3d ultimo from a visit of three months to the East for the purpose of collecting money for the rebuilding of his church in Independence which was blown down last spring. He brought back, we have been told, about $1,000 clear, and a better church will take the place of the old. We hope it will not be placed again on the rear line of that lot.

—Christ Church, St. Joseph, on Sunday evening, 12th ultimo, celebrated the 29th anniversary of the introduction of our Church's services into St. Joseph. It is a feast kept every fall, at the opening of the winter campaign of work. The occasion this year drew out a very large congregation. The Rev. Dr. Runcie stated that the first of his three purposes in celebrating the anniversary was as stated above, the second because it was the ninth anniversary of the organization of the Parish Aid and Parish Missionary societies of the church, and third, to have a report of the last year's work of the church. He then read the annual report of the condition of the parish, among which were the following items:

Present number of communicants.....	305
Baptized.....	46
Confirmed.....	20
Communicants added.....	46
Communicants died.....	7
Removed from parish.....	14
Married.....	26
Funerals attended.....	27

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Contributed by the church during year.....	$5,618 00
Of which the Parish Aid Society contributed.....	294 77
The Ladies' Aid Society contributed.....	1,200 00

The debt of the church has been reduced within the year nearly $2,500. At the beginning of the year the Parish Aid Society had a volunteer income of $48 per month, but it is now only $18 per month. The Rector said he hoped this amount would be increased at this meeting and the sums promptly paid. After this the Rev. Timothy O'Connell, formerly of this Diocese but now of Nebraska City, made a glowing address.

—The Springfield Academy, under the care of Miss Jackson, and the patronage of the Rev. Mr. Parker, opened on the 20th ultimo with 43 pupils.

—The Churchman of the 18th ultimo contained a communication under the title "Divinely Led, or Robert Owen's Granddaughter," in which was narrated with great felicity the story of one who, having known nothing about the Christian religion until she was twenty-two years of age, was then drawn strangely to it and to the Church. It is thrillingly interesting, and one soon recognizes the practiced pen of the mistress of Christ Church Rectory, St. Joseph. It will be put into pamphlet form and will be widely read.

—The Rev. C. P. K. Coombe, recently of Bermuda, has been visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. Western Bascome, in this city for several weeks, and officiated in a number of the churches. On the 26th ultimo he went up to Kansas City to officiate in Grace Church at the invitation of the Vestry.

—The Bishop has been invited to preside at the annual meeting of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity of the United States, which is to be held in Hartford, Conn., on the 21st of this month. His acceptance is dependent upon the condition of business in the General Convention at the moment.

—The Rev. D. Foster has been called to the Rectorship of Christ Church, Warrensburg.

—On Sunday, 26th ultimo, in St. John's Church in this city, the Bishop admitted Mr. Chas. H. Gauthier of Mt. Calvary Church and Mr. Cassius M. C. Mason, who has been acting for the past six months as Lay Reader in charge of the services of the Good Samaritan Church, to Deacon's Orders; and at the same time advanced the Rev. Wm. C. Sherman, for the past year minister of St. Paul's Church, Maryville, to Priest's Orders. There were present, besides the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Wright, the Rev. Messrs. Trader of Marshall, Texas, and Barr, who joined in the laying on of hands. The Rev. Mr. Gauthier will take the services at St. John's for two or three Sundays in the absence of the Rector to the General Convention.

—The Rev. B. E. Reed of Mt. Calvary Church in this city has been called to Madison, Wisconsin, but has declined, preferring to remain with his own people here, who are much attached to him, and among whom he has built him a house.

—The Rev. W. C. Sherman has resigned his mission in Maryville, and removed to Minnesota.

—The deputation to General Convention from this Diocese consists of the following gentlemen: Rev. Drs. Runcie and Schuyler, Messrs. Dunlop and Betts, and Messrs. Crane, Wilkins, Lycett and Prof. W. B. Potter. The Rev. Dr. Schuyler has arranged with the Rev. Mr. Curtis of Boonville to supply his chancel during his absence.

—The Rev. Mr. Holeman has left for his winter sojourn in Florida, and will not return until next spring.

—The Rev. Mr. Wright is away making a visit to the General Convention, and has arranged with the Rev. Mr. Gauthier to take his place.

—For the first time in ten years the Sunday for the Missionary Host Jubilee was stormy. Uniformly before the weather had been bright and propitious. But anxious eyes saw that the lowering weather of the previous day was settling into a darker gray, and before noon on Sunday the rain began to fall with prospect of a continuance. Reluctantly, therefore, the officers decided that it was necessary to postpone the anniversary. Many childish eyes filled with tears at the announcement. All had been looking forward with bright anticipation for the anniversary which had always been for them a very joyous one. Still, nothing else could be done, and God knew best. We cannot say now what arrangements will be made for the future; but we hope that the disappointment will not cause any diminution of zeal for the Host's work for the coming year. The schools did not keep up their good record this last year, they can do better, if the superintendents will urge system.

—Mr. Newton Crane found himself at the last moment unable to go to General Convention.

—The Rev. T. C. Tupper, Huntington of Collinsville, Coombe of Bermuda, Dr. Harrison of Tennessee, were in the city during the Convention, and attended its sessions. The Bishop of Michigan was only able to remain over the opening day. On the Sunday after Convention the Rev. Dr. Boyd of Wisconsin and Mann, our deaf mute missionary, were in the city, the latter to hold his accustomed service in Ghrist church. A number of Western Bishops and clergymen passed through the city on their way to General Convention. The railroads would not consent to any general reduction of the rates for deputies to General Convention from here. They secured a reduction from Chicago.

—The music at the Convention was a specially pleasant feature. The hymns were arranged beforehand, and there was a public rehearsal the night before the opening service. At that service and all the night services the choir was present with a cornet and led the music strongly. The anthems also at the opening were grand. The congregations throughout were larger than ever before, especially at night.

MARYVILLE, Mo., October 4, 1880.

Rev. W. C. Sherman tendered his resignation of the pastoral charge of St. Paul's Church, Maryville, Mo., at a duly convened meeting of the vestry on the 2d day of October, 1880, which was accepted.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the vestry:

Resolved, That it is with extreme regret that we are called upon to accept the resignation of our esteemed and beloved pastor, Rev. W. C. Sherman, who, during his stay among us, has acted the part of a noble Christian gentleman, and we can not recommend him too highly to those among whom he may choose to locate as a thorough Christian and a most excellent minister, who is devoting with earnestness his whole time and energy to the interests of the Church.

PERSONAL.

—In a eulogistic notice of Capt. Eads in the October Wide Awake, it is stated that our St. Louis bridge and its approaches cost eighty millions of dollars!

—These two stories are about Bishop Tuttle: As illustrating the wild life that a great many ranchmen live, in Montana, Bishop Tuttle tells of one coming on Monday to a frontier where he was staying, for a few days, bringing his family in a rude wagon for many miles, to "hear the Bishop preach." "Glad to see you," said the Bishop, "but it was yesterday I preached." "You don't say! And it is Monday? Well now! I was working all day yesterday, thinking it was Saturday!" The man was not an ignorant man, but had been so long working the same on Sundays as other days, that he had really lost the count, and had no almanac or paper in the ranch to get his reckoning from. At another time a Methodist parson "got away" with Bishop Tuttle, as they say out West. It seems that the Rev. Mr. Stewart was driving the clerical party, consisting of the Bishop and another clergyman, in his own one-horse shay; and while en route met the Methodist minister driving two horses. The Bishop, who is always ready for a joke, sang out, "I say, Stanley, how is it that you Methodist preachers manage to drive two horses, while we Episcopalians have to put up with one?" "Perhaps you are one-horse preachers," said the ready-witted Stanley, and the procession moved on amid hearty shouts of laughter, in which the Bishop joined.

—We are assured from high authority that the item in our last number under this heading about the Rev. Mr. Courtney gave a wholly incorrect impression about facts, and the manner in which he is honored in his parish.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Roman Catholic Archbishop of Quebec has become so disturbed by the constant emigration of his people to the United States that he has put forth a pastoral, appealing to the generosity, charity and patriotism of the people to take steps to check the movement.

—Bishop Vail is putting up an $8,000 building as an addition to his girls' school at Topeka. The money for it was collected by the Bishop in the East.

—The South Carolina Chronicle, which has for ten years been the monthly organ of that Diocese, has just given place to the weekly Church Herald. We welcome it for its own sake, and as indicating life and growth in the old Diocese.

—It has cost every delegate who has gone from California to the General Convention four hundred dollars, a costly honor.

—Dr. Legge, the Professor of Chinese at Oxford, England, says if the present rate of conversion of the Chinese to Christianity continues, by the year 1913 there will be 26,000,000 of Church members and 100,000,000 of professed Christians in the Chinese empire.

—The farm fences of the United States are estimated to cost $1,350,000,000, and require $250,000,000 annually to keep them in order. Besides the direct cost of fences the land which they occupy and render worthless is an important consideration. The zig-zag rail fences, with stakes and riders, on an ordinary farm, occupy five per cent of the land, or five acres in every hundred. In view of this, straight fence, other things being equal, is the cheapest.

—Cologne Cathedral, which has just been finished, after being for four hundred years in progress, represents an outlay of $10,000,000.

—It is a rule of order in the Canadian Provincial Synod that the clerical members should wear cassock, gown and bands during the sessions.

IT HAVING been stated that the present Bishop of Toronto sat while confirming, a member of the vestry wrote his Lordship on the subject, and received the following reply:—

"SIR,—In reply to your inquiry of the 1st, I have no hesitation in acknowledging that I did on one occasion administer the rite of confirmation in the sitting posture. It was, to the best of my belief, in Holy Trinity Church, Toronto, on Trinity Sunday last year. I did so without giving the question serious consideration, on the representation that such was the practice of my predecessor. I afterward learned that it was only latterly Bishop Bethune sat while laying on hands, and that, because his increasing bodily feebleness necessitated it. On weighing the subject thoughtfully afterwards, I concluded that the posture was not only an innovation, but in itself utterly inconsistent with the act of invoking a blessing from God. I should never, therefore, adopt it again on principle unless infirmity should incapacitate me from standing.

I am, sir, faithfully yours,
ARTHUR TORONTO."

The sorrow of the sinner is the precise measure of the absolution. Forgiveness is proportioned not to sin, but to sorrow for sin.—[Dr. DeKoven.]

MISCELLANY.

—The Holyoke (Mass.) Gazette says: "It is stated upon excellent authority that in this neighborhood there is a lady who has built a house out of a fund made by selling rum to her own husband. He is a drinking man, and so his wife struck the bargain with him that if he would drink he must agree to buy all of his liquor of her. She thus pocketed the profit, instead of the regular rum-sellers. Such a plan put into general practice would build many a home, and we commend it to all the married drunkards in the city."

—A distinguished physician in the United States, who came over to the Church, was reproached for having turned his coat. "It is true," said he, "for I find I have been wearing it wrong side out for seventy years."

—A pastor once spoke from the pulpit with all possible urgency, to induce his flock to subscribe for a Church paper, and designated the persons to whom the names of subscribers might be given during the week. Only three or four responses came in answer to this appeal. The next Sunday he announced his intention to visit every family and talk with them about the matter. He kept his promise and secured one hundred subscribers.

—When Mr. Moody's congregation at Northfield, Mass., the other day did not sing to suit him he said, "Oh, you can do better than that. I want you all to sing. Now I want to say right here that you all make fun of my singing, but if you all sing as well as I do you will do well. I do the best I can, and that is all that can be expected of any one. I make a joyful noise and you can all do that."

—A trivial anecdote like this sometimes prompts serious reflections:

"Mother," said a four year old boy, "father won't be in heaven with us, will he?"

"Why not, my child?"

"Because he can't leave the store."

Our Saviour's direction to his disciples, with reference to the affairs of this life, was, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness;" let the things which absorb the thoughts and the endeavors of the ungodly hold in your estimation the subordinate place which their relative importance assigns them.

—Observe the impenitiveness of the two rubrics which follow the catechism:

"The minister of every parish shall diligently, upon Sundays and Holy days, or on some other convenient occasions, openly in the church, instruct or examine so many children of his parish, sent unto him, as he shall think convenient, in some part of this catechism." "And all fathers, mothers, masters and mistresses, shall cause their children, servants and apprentices, who have not learned their catechism, to come to the church at the time appointed, and obediently to hear and to be ordered by the minister, until such time as they have learned all that is here appointed for them to learn."

Observe, also, the positive direction of our canon: "Canon 19.—The ministers of this church, who have charge of parishes or cures, shall not only be diligent in instructing the children in the catechism, but shall also, by stated catechetical lectures and instruction, be diligent in informing the youth and others in the doctrine, constitution and liturgy of the church."—[The Pastor.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Thursday, 25th inst., having been appointed by the civil authorities as the day for Annual Thanksgiving, the Bishop recommends that the day be duly observed by the clergy and their congregations. He reminds them that the canonical object for the offering on that day is the Fund for Theological Education, which stands in much need of offerings. The treasurer is Mr. Joseph Franklin, corner of Sixth and Olive Streets, St. Louis.

It is not worth while, generally, to follow up a misprint, but in the article last month in the Bishop's column, on Notes on the Liturgy, there is a mistake which leaves the meaning wholly unintelligible. In the second column, in the third line from the top, read confessions, not lessons, with a comma after confessions.

THE extra copies of a portion of the Bishop's address has been published, according to the order of the Convention, and have been distributed among the clergy of the Diocese for reading to their congregations and for use in distribution. It is hoped that they will all be used according to the best judgment of the clergymen, so that they shall best promote the growth of the Church, and a better understanding about it. It may do good if copies are placed in the hands of candid persons out side of our borders.

BISHOP-ELECT DUNLOP.

There are probably few now in the Diocese who are unaware of the action of the General Convention in electing as Missionary Bishop of New Mexico and Arizona our old presbyter in this Diocese, the Rev. George K. Dunlop of Kirkwood. This jurisdiction was separated from that of Colorado in 1874, and to it the Rev. Dr. Adams of New Orleans was elected. After his consecration he visited the territory, but only remained six weeks, and then resigned on account of ill health. At the last General Convention the Rev. Dr. Knickerbocker was elected but declined the office. At that time Mr. Dunlop received nearly as many votes. At the recent Convention, nominated by his Bishop, he received 37 out of 44 votes in the House of Bishops, no other person receiving more than 3, and the choice was unanimously confirmed in the House of Deputies.

This strong vote was a very marked recognition of the peculiar fitness of Mr. Dunlop for this office, and will be a source of strength and comfort to him as he goes forth to his lonely and difficult work. No words need be said here, or among those who know him, and with those who have known his varied and most apt qualities, of the wisdom shown in the choice. His learning, his strong conservative principles, his clear judgment and happy faculty of putting into apt extemporaneous language the Church's doctrine, his affability and power of getting on with people, his prudence and practical good sense, all these are qualities which admirably fit him to be one of the Church's leaders in a new land.

Of course we are all sorry to have him go from us. The writer of this who has constantly found a wise helper and adviser in Mr. Dunlop does not yet see how his place can be fully filled in the varied positions he has held in the Diocese. And yet our loss is the Church's gain, and we shall follow him to his far-off home with our prayers and love.

The Presiding Bishop has appointed the consecration at Christ Church in this city, for Sunday, 21st instant. As Mr. Dunlop is the first clergyman from this Diocese who has been chosen for the Episcopate, and this will only have been the third consecration on this side of the Mississippi river, and the first in St. Louis, it will be a service of unique interest. Much thought was given to the question whether it should be named for a week day, or for Sunday. But as the service had to take place during that week in order to accommodate the Bishops who were returning from Convention, and as the week following was Thanksgiving week, and the next Sunday was Advent Sunday, it was concluded that this was the best time.

Bishop Whipple, as the senior Bishop in the West, will preside and act as the Consecrator. Bishop Clarkson of Nebraska and the Bishop of this Diocese will act as the presenting Bishops. Bishop Spalding of Colorado will be the preacher. Bishops Perry of Iowa, Burgess of Quincy, Seymour of Springfield, and probably Whittaker of Nevada will be present and take part in the services.

The Bishop has appointed Messrs. Gazzam, Gilkeson, Branch, Gill, Franklin, Simmons, Thomson and Pearce as a committee to arrange the details for transportation, entertainment, music, and all the other matters required to make the occasion a successful one. He has also appointed John R. Triplett, Esq., Marshal and Master of Ceremonies for the day.

On the evening of the same day in St. George's Church will be held a general missionary meeting especially in the interest of the newly consecrated Bishop, and his jurisdiction of New Mexico and Arizona. Bishops Whipple, Clarkson, Burgess and the newly made Bishop will make addresses.

Bishop and Mrs. Whipple will be entertained by Dr. Schuyler, Bishop Clarkson by Mrs. Lockwood, Bishop and Mrs. Burgess by the Bishop. Bishops Spalding and Seymour by Mr. E. C. Simmons, Bishop Perry by Mr. John R. Triplett; Bishop Talbot by Mrs. Hugh Campbell, Bishop Whittaker by Mr. John M. Gilkeson at the Lindell.

A reception will be tendered the visiting Bishops on Monday evening from 8 to 11 at the residence of E. C. Simmons, Esq., who has kindly proffered his spacious residence for the purpose, to which a general invitation is extended.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

The delays in the starting of the Hospital building are exasperating to the last degree. The subscription was finished last spring; five thousand dollars was collected and put in bank, where since it has earned no interest because awaiting use. Plans which when begun could have been finished in three weeks took two months; then there was strange delay in making out the specifications. But, after all, this was all done and ready for bids early in September. Then most strangely the architect placed the plans in the hands of an insufficient number of builders, and asked for bids for only a portion of the work. This would have committed the Trustees to a half finished building which would have used up all their subscription, and in finishing would have required the creation of debt, or a new levy. There were other vexations at this point as well. The Building Committee threw out all these partial bids as not authorized by them, but this consumed time; and they called for bids for the whole work, and that other builders should be consulted.

This was the point at which the matter stood six weeks ago, at the time of the annual meeting. It was then anticipated that by the middle of this month the contract would have been let out, the cellar dug, the foundation in, and the corner stone ready to be laid with appropriate solemnities. There was abundant reason for all urgency. The present building was being rented from month to month at a very heavy rate; the hospital was crowded and patients being all the while sent away; work then doing in an inconvenient building with great added labor; the beautiful weather of fall was passing, which if lost would entail delays all through the winter; subscription was complete and money in bank.

And yet, it is difficult to believe it, the matter stands at this writing precisely at the point at which it did six weeks ago. The plans are yet out; bids not received; contract not let; foundations not laid; money in bank, not a clod of dirt removed. A public meeting which was to be held at this time in the interest of the Hospital, at the time when the work was fairly under way is, of course, postponed. The winter is almost on us. With the utmost exertion now the most that can be hoped for is to put in the foundation and let the matter rest over the winter. And who has a right to be certain of even that? It is evident that the new Hospital cannot be had for use until late next summer.

It is the right of those who have pledged their money for this work that the questions which they are all the while asking, what has become of the Hospital, should be answered. It is not a pleasant duty to say all this, but there is a profound disappointment at the delay, wherever the cause of it may lie. The building could as well as not by this time have been fully under cover. Why can we not have in this matter the same energy and promptness which are a necessary condition to any success in private business?

ATTENTION is called to the statements in another column of the success attending Church work among the colored people in Baltimore. What has been done there can be done here. Very emphatic attention was drawn at the late General Convention to the work which should be done among the colored people, and the encouraging results which would follow its energetic prosecution. The Deputies, indeed, wanted a Bishop created for their care. Our own work is doing well, considering the meagre support we have so far extended to it. At the afternoon service in Trinity Chapel the average attendance is sixty, showing how much more we could hope to do if we could move the Church up nearer to the people.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The consecration of the Rev. Mr. Dunlop will make vacant his parish in Kirkwood, as well as his position on the Standing Committee, as Examining Chaplain, as Dean of the St. Louis Convocation.

—We are sorry to have to note, as announced in another column, the death of the only daughter of the Rev. Mr. Colton, our brother, the Rector of Carthage.

—The Rev. Mr. Talbot has put out a circular of which the following is a copy for the relief and payment of the Church in Brookfield. It is, we presume, being sent out quite widely, and is securing already, as it deserves, recognition and response:

WILL YOU GIVE US A LITTLE HELP?

Our little band of faithful people have struggled hard to establish the Church at Brookfield. Services have only been held there a few years. Within that time they have secured and paid for a most substantial and well located Church Building, at a cost of over $2,000. In doing this they have been compelled to incur a debt of $500. Until this debt is paid they can not contribute to the support of their minister as they would like, and the usefulness of their mission is largely crippled. After much anxiety they have now determined to make a vigorous effort to pay it off, within the next thirty days, so that the church may be consecrated, and the work go on. Of this $500 about half has been subscribed by the people themselves, but this exhausts their strength. To procure the balance they now appeal with earnest prayers to their friends elsewhere. Will you send them $1 or more in this, their emergency, and thus help a people who are especially worthy of it, inasmuch as they have done so much to help themselves?

Please send the money at once to —On All Saints Day Bishop Robertson delivered an address at the General Theological Seminary in New York at the annual matriculation of the entering class. Bishops Potter and Seymour, the Bishop-elect of Washington Territory, very many clergymen and the students crowded the chapel.

—The Rev. Mr. Curtis of Boonville took the duty at Christ church, St. Louis, for three Sundays during the absence of the rector, Dr. Schuyler, at General Convention, and the Rev. Mr. Coombs for two Sundays.

—The four clerical and lay deputies from this Diocese were in regular attendance upon the sessions of the General Convention. Prof. Potter was able to remain until within two days of the close. The others were there to the end.

—The Rev. Mr. Holland is to spend Thanksgiving Day with his old congregation at St. George's, and will remain over the following Sunday, when Dr. Fulton will be away for a few days. During this first visit of Mr. Holland to St. Louis since his removal to Chicago, a parish reception will be given him on Wednesday night.

—The Bishop has been appointed one of the deputation from the General Convention to the next Provincial Synod of Canada.

—Mr. Gardiner C. Tucker, Candidate for Orders, has been transferred from the Diocese of Springfield to this Diocese.

—On the Sunday night after his return from the General Convention, the Bishop gave in St. George's church, St. Louis, an account of the business and results of the Convention.

—The work on the new stone church in Palmyra is in such a forward condition that the first service is expected to be had in it on Christmas Day.

—The Rev. Mr. Batte has resigned the rectorship of Emmanuel Church, St. Louis county.

—The Rev. Mr. Thorpe is about to start a parish school in Nevada, which will take on the range of an academy. In his prospectus he speaks as follows:

He is prepared personally to guarantee entire satisfaction in the following branches amongst others: Latin, Greek, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, Modern Greek, Hebrew, History, Philosophy, Chemistry, Botany, Geology, Elocution, Shorthand. Competent assistants to be employed, so that each scholar shall have frequent and discriminating attention. His plan will be to use text-books as little as possible, and to cause the pupils to do their own thinking, so as to have the use of what they know.

He has an appeal in The Churchman for help to buy a Campbellite church in the town for the amount of the debt on it, about half its value; and if he succeeds, he proposes to turn the present church into a parsonage.

—Through the good Providence of God, the members of the family of our Treasurer and Mr. George Wright have almost entirely recovered from the frightful burns received a few weeks ago. Mrs. Franklin and the oldest daughter were the most severely injured, but they are now daily improving, and Mr. Wright has sufficiently recovered to go on the street, though his hands are not yet in a condition to enable him to resume his work.

THE MISSIONARY HOST.

The Anniversary of the Missionary Host has for the ten years of its existence always come upon a beautiful day. This is needed in the assemblage of so many hundreds of children from such long distances. This year it was to take place on the Sunday after Convention, Oct. 3d. It was, however, found that the rain was so heavy that it would be wrong to call the children out, so that after morning Service notice was sent forth to the Schools not to assemble. It was a difficult task to accomplish on such short notice; the best efforts were made and yet one or more of the Schools was not reached, and so came to the Church.

Later the President named Sunday, 7th inst., as the day in which the Anniversary was to take place. He was in attendance upon the General Convention in New York as Deputy. The day before was stormy, and notices were sent to the Schools not to assemble; but all were not reached, and as the Sunday was a delightful day, many came to the Church. The Bishop was present, not having heard of the countermand, but had to dismiss those who gathered there.

The next Anniversary had better be in the Spring, when the weather is more to be relied on.

DUNLOP ON DAILY SERVICE.

We find the following in the Omaha Church Guardian, from the Rector of Kirkwood:

A young man with his ordination vows fresh upon him, is sent to his first charge. His parish has 40 or 50 communicants, in a town of 2000 or 3000 inhabitants.

There are a score of smaller towns besides a large rural population, beyond and around him; but he is not responsible for them. His first and chiefest duty is to those over whom he has been placed, and he feels that he has more than enough on hand in adequately taking care of them.

But if he finds no time for missionary work, it is not because he is inclined to lead a life of lazy self-indulgence. No, he will make full proof of his ministry—but in a different way.

His will be a model parish; he will establish a daily service, and weekly celebration.

There are in his congregation two or three maiden ladies, old enough to have outlived the vanities and frivolities of youth, and have no domestic duties to keep them closely at home. And perhaps a middle-aged gentleman, a little deaf, and somewhat unfitted for the activities of life. These make the nucleus of a congregation, and are generally present at the daily service.

Now granting that these few faithful ones do really grow in grace, from month to month, and from year to year, the question still may be asked, is this the best use the clergyman could make of his time?

Is it best that he should spend his labor and strength in making a few devout persons still more saintly, while there are hundreds within his reach unbaptized, and thousands who never receive the Holy Communion during their lifetime?

A SECULAR OPINION OF GENERAL CONVENTION.

The following is an editorial from the New York Times, on the day after the adjournment of Convention. It shows how its spirit and result strikes an average and intelligent secular mind on the spot:

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

It may be doubted whether any previous Convention of the representatives of the Episcopal family has done more to adjust the working forces of this religious body to the times in which we live than the one which concluded its session last evening. The conditions have existed in the Episcopal Church for a distinct movement forward, but until the Triennial Convention met and men had compared notes with one another it was not possible to conjecture what might be done. It was clear, however, to a close observer of the contesting forces in the heart of this Communion that great possibilities might be realized by comparatively little legislation, and that the time was ripe for identifying not the polity, but the organization of the Church more fully with what are known distinctively as American ideas. This is precisely the work to which the Convention has addressed itself, without equivocation, without parlying over trifles, without undue speech-making, without show or fuss. For once, in what is now almost a centennial of corporate existence—nay, for the second time (for the year 1835 was the first point of the start), the Episcopal leaders have certainly come up to public expectation, if they have not exceeded it. Only the natural religious conservatism which rules in any branch of the historical Church has held them back. If we may trust report, conservatism has been least where it might be supposed to be greatest—in the House of Bishops. They are said as a body to be fully alive to the situation, and the work initiated by them in the Convention abundantly attests the fact.

The Convention at the first blush has done but little; that little, however, is significant; it is permissive; it makes for freedom and adaptation; it has been done in response to an evident necessity, without crisis or scare. The Boston Convention of 1877 marked the awakening from a Rip Van Winkle sleep; the New York Convention has been astir from beginning to end, and has emphasized what will generally be regarded as a new departure in the Episcopal Church. Its object has seemed to be to do the right thing, to act in the interest of the common good of the whole body. This spirit has given an unwonted elevation to its proceedings. In some respects it has touched the highest point yet reached in American Christianity. It has put itself on the record as an intelligent, progressive, positive body, in harmony with what is broadest, best, most abiding in American thought and life. The opportunity existed to take this position. In taking it the Episcopal Church stands to-day essentially where the late Dr. Muhlenberg, in his celebrated Memorial Movement of a quarter of a century ago, showed that it ought to stand.

The actual work of the Convention sustains this recognition of its general drift. Its most significant feature has been the place given to missionary enterprise. This body of 400 members has for several days, and those the best in the session, resolved itself into a committee of the whole, Bishops, clergy and laity meeting on the same floor, to discuss questions relating to Church extension and hear what was to be said by the Missionary Bishops. This rescue of missionary work from the corner into which it used to be driven, the broad and generous indorsement of the principle laid down in 1835, that the extension of itself is the essential life of a Christian Church, must be widely felt as the Episcopal leaders return to their different homes and vitalize the whole organization with their quickened zeal. Questions of party disappear in such an atmosphere, and the words of St. Pacian, "Christian is my name, Catholic is my surname," stand for the spirit of the whole body.

Without attempting to sum up the proceedings, there are several important features of the Convention which, if in the same line of movement as the development of its missionary work, are still more significant in their immediate bearings. One of these is the appointment of a committee of Bishops, priests and laymen for enriching and adapting the liturgical services of the Prayer-book to the times in which we live. This is an entering wedge which opens great opportunities and raises great hopes. The step which leads directly to such revision or change is the permission now granted to use shortened services, and give greater variety and adaptation to the different occasions of worship. The report on the relations of Rectors to Wardens and Vestrymen has shown the way out of a difficulty which has seriously threatened the usefulness of the clergy and the existence of many parishes. The report on Christian education had the right tone. The canon authorizing the order of Deaconesses furnishes a legitimate outlet for the increasing number of women who need the protection of an order to energize their efforts. The election of three Missionary Bishops to jurisdictions in the West is another forward step. The resolution to create a national centennial building fund is not a bad or impossible scheme. All this, if not specially notable legislation, leads chiefly in one direction. It shows that the Episcopal Church is awake to its duties and opportunities as a Christian organization. The prevailing opinion seems to be to consume its own smoke and find out the best possible way of doing its legitimate work. The Convention has been notable in this respect for its clear common sense and practical energy. It has had plenty of push and has attended strictly to the business in hand. The impatience of speech-making has been such that all attempts in that direction beyond strict necessity were abandoned. The moral effect of such a Convention, seen in its deeds and admirably pointed out in the pastoral letter, will be felt much beyond the limits of the Episcopal family. The ecclesiastical probity and restraint, the application of the best available wisdom to reach practical results, the utter absence of denominational buncombe, the evident honesty of intention and act, the purpose to identify the working Church system with the best interests of the American people, which have been its notable features, will have much to do with the future position and organic life of the Episcopal Church, and such admirable common sense in ecclesiastical matters is quite likely to be contagious and bear fruit elsewhere.

ETERNAL HOPE.

In reply to Canon Farrar's work under the above name Dr. Pusey in extreme old age has written a wonderfully full and satisfactory book on—What is of faith concerning everlasting punishment? Canon Farrar declares that he is not so very much at issue with Dr. Pusey's conclusions. These are put as follows in Pusey's own language, and they ought to be well weighed:

1. Without free-will, man would be inferior to the lower animals, which have a sort of limited freedom of choice.

2. Absolute free-will implies the power of choosing amiss, and having chosen amiss, to persevere in choosing amiss. It would be self-contradictory that Almighty God should create a free agent capable of loving Him, without being capable also of rejecting his love.

3. The higher and more complete and pervading the free-will is, the more completely an evil choice will pervade and disorder the whole being.

4. But without free-will we could not freely love God. Freedom is a condition of love.

5. In eternity those who behold Him will know what the bliss is, eternally to love Him. But when that bliss involves the intolerable misery of losing Him through our own evil choice. To lose God and be alienated from Him, is in itself hell, or the vestibule of hell.

6. But that His creatures may not lose Him, God, when He created all His rational creatures with free will, created them also in grace, so that they had the full power to choose aright, and could not choose amiss, except by resisting the drawing of God to love Him.

7. The only hindrance to man's salvation is, in any case, the obstinate misuse of that free-will, with which God endowed him, in order that he might freely love Him.

8. God wills that all should be saved, if they will it, and to this end gave His son to die for them, and the Holy Ghost to teach them.

9. The merits of Jesus reach to every soul who wills to be saved, whether in this life they knew Him or knew Him not.

10. God the Holy Ghost visits every soul which God has created, and each soul will be judged as it responded or did not respond to the degree of light which He bestowed on it, not by our maxims, but by the wisdom and love of Almighty God.

11. We know absolutely nothing of the proportion of the saved to the lost, or who will be lost; but this we do know, that none will be lost who do not obstinately to the end and in the end refuse God. None will be lost whom God can save, without destroying in them His own gift of free-will.

12. With regard to the nature of the sufferings nothing is matter of faith. No one doubts that the very special suffering will be the loss of God; that, being what they are, they know that they were made by God for Himself, and yet, through their own obstinate will, will not have Him. As to "pains of sense," the Church has nowhere laid down as a matter of faith the material character of the worm and the fire, or that they denote more than the gnawing of remorse. Although then it would be very rash to lay down dogmatically that the "fire" is not to be understood literally, as it has been understood almost universally by Christians; yet no one has a right to urge those representations, from which the imagination so shrinks, as a ground for refusing to believe in hell, since he is left free not to believe them.

WAS IT A DREAM?

Our readers may have seen an allegory not long since. A certain minister (as John Bunyan used to say) "dreamed a dream." He was hitched to a carriage and attempted to pull it. He reached a point not far from the church, when the mud seemed to get deeper and deeper, and the carriage drew so heavily that he gasped for breath and almost sank down exhausted. This seemed the more inexplicable, when, looking back, he saw the entire congregation behind the carriage apparently pushing it along. But the more he tried the harder it became, till finally he was forced to stop and examine the difficulty. He went to the rear, where he supposed was the congregation, but nobody could be found. He called, but no answer. He repeated the call several times, but still no reply. By and by a voice called out, "Halloo!" and, looking up, whom should he see but one of the vestrymen looking complacently out of the window, and upon going to the door of the carriage, what was his astonishment to behold the whole congregation sitting quietly inside.

A curious dream, was it not? And yet not all a dream. Many a minister has to pull the whole Church, not a soul giving a helping hand. How is it in the parish you live in? Who is aiding the minister to do good?

THE GENERAL CONVENTION.

The General Convention of 1880 met on the 6th and adjourned three weeks from that day on the 27th of October. Under the new arrangement the Board of Missions is composed of the members of the General Convention, and the meetings of the Board which, formerly comprising other persons as well, had been held at night, not interfering with the business of the Convention, were now held in the daytime, and took up nearly four of the nineteen business days of the Convention. This shortened the length of the session, and made it the briefest for business purposes which has been had for many years. In earlier days when the Convention met in New York, it held its sessions away down town; but gradually as the city has grown, it has been forced to go further and further up town. This, and the size of the city, separating the deputies by great distances, made night sessions almost an impossibility, and only two or three were held. This also shortened the time of Convention.

All the Dioceses and Missionary jurisdictions were represented by deputies, and in their House the Convention was the largest ever held. Besides the foreign missionary Bishops, there were also absent Bishops Atkinson, Kerfoot, Quintard, Wingfield and Pierce. After the opening services had been held in St. George's Church, all the remaining sessions were held in young Dr. Tyng's church, on 42d street. It was admirably adapted for the purpose. The Bishops occupied the large school-room on the side street, and there were rooms for committees, postoffice, writing, coats and other purposes. Lunch was served every day in the basement of the church by ladies of the congregation. There was but one voice in praise of the liberality and kindness of the parish. Dr. Tyng was present every day, rendering kind offices personally.

The general arrangements by the city at large for the entertainment of the Convention were, either because of lack of interest or want of system, very defective. The Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, Rev. Dr. Wildes, did his full duty; and in pursuance of the plan to pay the clerical deputies $50 each, in lieu of entertainment, had to advance large sums himself. The cost of the Convention to Boston in 1877 was $10,000, which they easily raised and $3,000 over. In New York in 1874 the cost was greater, and in the failure to pay one of the bills one of the assistant ministers of Trinity Church, being one of the committee, was arrested, and Trinity paid in consequence $8,000, and forbade any of its ministers to serve on committee thereafter. Hence in part the trouble this year. The Convention for 1883 is invited to Philadelphia, which also desires the same pleasure for 1889.

The spirit of the Convention was from the first most happy, and while as usual much more was not done than was done, yet much very significant action will date from its sessions.

There was an utter absence of all reference to ritualism during the whole time. Hardly a vote was taken which was determined on old party lines. Those who took with them books of reference on the topics which have largely held the time of several previous Conventions found no use for such books. This is a negative virtue, but it acted very positively on the spirit and time of the Convention. There was not the daily Churchman, and therefore not so many long speeches, although in the latter part of the session a complaining Southern deputy declared that Brooklyn, Pittsburgh and Chicago had taken up two-thirds of the time of the Convention. No speeches were made which will live in history. The sessions were persistently devoted to business.

The Convention early took an aggressive, missionary tone. This was given to it largely by the singularly spirited and successful speeches of the Missionary Bishops when the Convention met as a Board of Missions on the third day. In their requests for large gifts they placed a positive motive and result which served to cast out mischievous vaporings.

The Convention refused to enter upon measures looking to the revision of the Hymnal, or to bind it with the Prayer Book. Consent was refused to the application of Virginia for an Assistant Bishop on account of extent of territory. It appeared that there was a large minority that wished for a division of the Diocese, and the Convention was inclined to think that sufficient cause had not been shown for neglecting this better alternative. Nothing will be done, because the Bishop is firm against division, and thinks he can give all the episcopal services required. The Convention also refused to admit Dacotah as a Diocese, as utterly lacking the requisites for a Diocese.

All action was declined looking to the creation of a constitutional commission, to which in this and two preceding Conventions it was sought to refer a general revision of the Constitution and Canons of the Church. It was thought that there was not enough need of change to warrant such a general overturning, and that modifications could be made as need required.

The Illinois scheme for the authorization of a Province was approved of, except as to the important matter of an appellate court to which the Convention refused, both in this direct, as well as in a more direct way, to give approval; because it thought that the litigations which would be created and continued by the opportunity for appeal would be an evil greater than the occasional benefit to be derived from the facility.

All propositions for a reduced or graduated representation to General Convention were thrown out, even when it was conceded that the Convention must at length in some way pay the expenses of deputies, and raise the amount by assessments on the Dioceses, and that this would involve a smaller deputation. Deputies did not desire to diminish their own prospect of attendance, and it was thought that attendance was one of the best means for educating persons as to the broad questions before the Church.

Among the matters which were postponed until the next Convention was the question of dividing the Church into Provinces, that of the godly discipline of the laity, the adoption of the English table of prohibited degrees within which marriage may not be contracted, and legislation as to Sisterhoods and Deaconesses.

Among the things positively done was the filling of three Missionary Jurisdictions with Bishops-elect. We have spoken elsewhere of that of New Mexico and Arizona. Montana was taken off the too large district of Bishop Tuttle, and to it the Rev. Leigh R. Brewer was elected. The territory of Washington was taken from Bishop Morris' jurisdiction, and to it the Rev. Dr. Paddock was elected. It was not deemed expedient to elect any more Bishops at this time, although pressure was put upon the Bishops to do it.

A new table of Lessons was adopted, shorter and in other respects better, to be used for three years provisionally, with a choice between this and the Prayer Book lessons. The English table is withdrawn from use.

In the business of the Mexican Church, for which Bishop Riley had been elected, it was conceded that the liturgy in use was far from satisfying proper expectations, and that amendment had been frustrated by the persistent absence of Bishop Riley in Europe, from which, however, he has now returned. Two new members were elected upon the Commission, who will energetically revise the policy previously pursued; the liturgy will be improved, and Bishop Riley will be expected to remain at his post in Mexico.

The discussions of the past nine years about shortened services have at last culminated in the preliminary adoption of a modification of the ratification of the Prayer Book which allows that on days other than Sundays and certain other high days, morning or evening service may begin with the Lord's Prayer, and end after the second collect, with so much of the Psalms and Lessons used as are to edification. A contest was made to allow the use of prayers other than those authorized, but this was voted down. The subject goes to the Dioceses and will be finally acted on three years hence.

A commission of 21, seven from each order, was created to report at the next Convention whether the changed conditions of our national life do not demand alterations in the Prayer Book in the direction of liturgical enrichment and increased flexibility of use. This is a very important measure. Dr. Huntington in introducing it referred to the recent address of the Bishop of this Diocese.

A joint committee was appointed to arrange for a proper celebration of the Centennial of this Church in 1883; a canon was passed declaring it the duty of witnesses to attend ecclesiastical trials; a plan was adopted for setting on foot more systematic contributions for the Board of Missions; a plan of organization of a General Church Building Society was adopted; the Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis are to be printed in the hymnal.

This is but an imperfect sketch of a part of what the Convention did. A great part of its benefit eludes all statement in the benefit gotten from the comparison of views, and the culling out and throwing aside of merely fanciful schemes.

The Church is in a healthy condition, as witnessed by the tone of its great representative council; and we shall be greatly surprised if we do not hear of greatly increased results during the next few years. A number of very large gifts for missionary objects were announced as the direct result of the strong aggressive spirit of the Convention.

The Pastoral written by Bishop Lee was read in a very clear, strong voice by the Presiding Bishop, notwithstanding his nearly 87 years, and the Convention adjourned after a busy and useful session.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The Consecration to the Episcopate of the Rev. Geo. K. Dunlop of Kirkwood, Mo., Bishop-elect of Arizona and New Mexico, will take place in Christ church, St. Louis, Sunday, November 21, 1880, at 10½ o'clock a. m.

The undersigned, having been appointed by the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of this Diocese the Marshal for the day, would request all Bishops and other clergy who expect to be present on this grand occasion to be in the chapel of Christ church on the morning of the consecration at a quarter before ten o'clock, bringing their vestments with them.

It is particularly desired that every one joining in the procession should be prompt in his attendance, that he may be assigned to his place, as the procession will enter the church at exactly 10½ o'clock.

JOHN R. TRIPLETT, Marshal.

PERSONAL.

—When Bishop Robertson was coming West, he induced his Vestry to call the Rev. L. R. Brewer, Missionary Bishop-elect of Montana to the vacant rectorship, so highly did he esteem his ability. He had then been only four years in the ministry. It is not quite certain whether he can accept. He has left the question to his physician. The Rev. Dr. Paddock must be 55 years old, and is a brother of the Bishop of Massachusetts.

—The Living Church thus sketches off some of the members of the House of Bishops:

"The House of Bishops is a body of exceptional dignity and talent, being composed of those who have been selected from the great body of the clergy, for their learning and ability. The appearance of this House is most impressive, and the high character of those who compose it is plainly evident in its appearance. The venerable Presiding Bishop was consecrated in 1832, before some of the Deputies of this Convention were born. Bishop Lee, of Delaware, was but little behind him in receiving the Apostolic Office, in 1841. Though several years the junior of these aged fathers, in order of consecration, Bishops Green and Potter impress the spectator by their venerable and noble bearing, the sweetness and dignity of old age being conspicuous in their countenances and conversation. Bishop Williams comes next on the roll of honor and service. Bishop Whipple, though worn by bodily weakness and too abundant toil, still lifts his tall form erect, and speaks with the fervor of other days. Bishop Talbot, as hearty and jolly as ever, and as great-hearted a man as ever lived, saves the house from the over-strain of solemnity that threatens it. Bishop Tuttle, the stalwart missionary, one of the most scholarly men in the Church, still holds his own, notwithstanding the wear of five thousand miles staging a year, and the fare of the northern wilderness. Bishop Clarkson, several years the senior of the last named, shows no wear, though he carries a diocese and a territory. He is made of steel, all but his heart. Robertson, of Missouri, would be taken for a bishop all over the world. The thoughtful scholar and wise administrator appear in Bishop Littlejohn; and Bishop Doane makes a fine contrast of temperament and talent, losing nothing in the comparison.

—The most remarkable phenomenon during the General Convention in New York was the great passion to hear the Rev. Knox Little of England preach. Whether it was in the ritualistic St. Ignatius church, where he preached, or in the low church, St. George's, the congregation packed the house to the doors, and St. George's held over three thousand people. He holds not by his intellectual strength, but by his utter simplicity and earnestness.

—The Banner of the Cross, in Collinsville, Ill., thus speaks of the first Missouri presbyter elevated to the Episcopate:

"The General Convention formed several new Missionary Jurisdictions, and elected a corresponding number of Bishops to fill them. The Rev. George K. Dunlop, of the Diocese of Missouri, was unanimously elected Bishop of New Mexico and Arizona. We are glad of it;—not because it was to him a coveted promotion, for we fancy it was far otherwise, and its acceptance involves much self-abnegation; but because we know him to have peculiar personal adaptations to the necessities of that peculiar work. We doubt if another in the whole Church has them in a greater degree. We presume these qualifications were largely, if not equally shared by the other Bishops-elect; and hence, we are sorry that some of them declined—sorry for their own sakes. It is not a discreet thing to ignore the call of the entire Church—it is the voice of God! We wish the Rt. Rev. Bishop of New Mexico and Arizona, with his contemporaries, 'good luck' in their arduous work.

—Among the distinguished laymen in attendance at the late General Convention were United States Senators Baldwin of Michigan, Withers of Virginia, Edmunds of Vermont, Governor Jenkins of Georgia, ex-Governor Stevenson of Kentucky, ex-Governor Fish of New York; Hons. Montgomery Blair, Robert C. Winthrop, and many others.

—Bishop McLaren preached one Sunday in New York in Spanish at the Church of the Annunciation (Santiago), and baptized the grand-daughter of the Rector, Sofia Catalina Clemencia.

BOOK NOTICES.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY celebrates its tenth birthday with a permanent change of cover, and with a number (for November) which the conductors have done all in their power to make one of exceptional beauty, interest, and value, as it is also the largest number of Scribner ever issued. Scribner's cover has turned from violet to a warm brown, and in the design the aim has been distinctness, simplicity, and a rich decorative effect. Millet's most famous picture, "The Sower," engraved by Cole, forms the frontispiece, and among the principal artistic features of the number are a striking portrait of Gladstone, printed in the body of the magazine. With this number is begun the second and concluding part of Eugene Schuyler's profusely illustrated life of Peter the Great, entitled "Peter the Great as a Ruler and Reformer," also a new short serial by a new writer,—"Tiger-Lily," by Mrs. Julia Shaver. An illustrated paper on "Bordentown and the Bonapartes" will open a curious chapter of American society. The article on "Tableaux," with pictures by Miss Oakey, goes more thoroughly than usual into the artistic capabilities of such entertainments. "The Secret of Second-sight" is authoritatively revealed by an "ex-conjuror."

The new American Newspaper Directory of Geo. P. Rowell & Co. is a volume of more than a thousand pages, and undoubtfully the most elaborate and complete work of the kind ever issued. It is compiled with great care and exactness, and is emphatically the mirror of the newspaper business in the United States and Canada. It is the most complete work of the kind we have ever seen.

ST. NICHOLAS. November. One of the best signs of the times is the interest in the natural sciences which children ought to take, but which they never take while it is connected in their minds only with dry study, long tasks, and Latin names. The Agassiz Association—instituted by Harlan H. Ballard, now principal of the Lenox (Mass.) Academy, and indorsed by Prof. Alexander Agassiz—is an association named after the great Louis Agassiz. It is a society which children all over the country may join, and which, through the happy impetus of an earnest esprit de corps, may lead them to explore for themselves the every-day fields of Nature; and so, by free yet organized observation and a cultivated habit of thought, lay the foundation of future interest in the sciences. The St. Nicholas magazine, having taken the matter in hand in earnest, has started a St. Nicholas branch of the organization. Full explanations and particulars are to be given by Mr. Ballard himself in the November issue of the magazine, which opens the volume for 1880-81.

"Messrs. Young & Co., Edinburgh, in calling public attention to the Revised Edition of their Concordance, which they now offer to the American Religious Public through the medium of Messrs. I. K. Funk & Co., New York, beg to say that a publishing firm in America, without making the slightest effort to obtain the concurrence of either the author or the publishers, are attempting to foist upon the community an unrevised and imperfect edition of the 'Concordance,' who, when written to on the subject, replied that they did not want or care for our concurrence, and ended by generously offering to take copies, if supplied at a lower price than they themselves could produce them!

"But Dr. Robert Young is not only the author, he is also the sole proprietor of the work which cost him thousands of pounds sterling in the printing, besides three years of labor night and day in carrying it through the press.

"In the view of these facts we cannot but trust that every right and honorable minded Christian man and woman in the United States will prefer to all others the beautifully printed and carefully revised edition which we are now offering at the price of paper and press work, and will send at once their orders to I. K. Funk & Co.

"GEORGE ADAM YOUNG & Co.
"Edinburgh, Scotland."

"Connor Magan's Luck," which opens the November WIDE AWAKE, is a true story of one of the late Ohio freshets. It has four good pen-and-ink drawings. In the illustrated paper, "Buy a Broom," Miss Harris gives an account of a visit in the workshop of a blind broom-maker from the Perkins Institute for the Blind, and in a very graphic way tells how she saw a broom made from beginning to end. Eight excellent pictures accompany the description. The Old Nursery Classic, "Goody Two Shoes," versified has a wealth of illustrations, comprising seventeen pictures, very faithful to old English ways and customs, by G. F. Barnes. Mrs. Kate Gannett Well, has a fresh, piquant and true story entitled "Green Pants and a Will." The Serials go on pleasantly, "Two Young Homesteaders," evidently drawing toward the end. No young magazine heroine of the year has made more friends than Prairie Wilde. The Prospectus for 1881 is given in this number, at which all our friends, young and old, will do well to glance. $2 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

AMERICA REVISITED. By George Augustus Sala. The descriptive letters written by Mr. Sala for publication in a leading London newspaper, while on his late tour throughout the United States, are now published entire for the first time in America. These letters are most graphic, and will prove intensely interesting to American readers. This book equals in interest Dickens' "American Notes." They are now ready in No. 45 Standard Series. I. K. Funk & Co., New York. Price 20 cents.

LETTERS FROM A CITIZEN OF THE WORD; or, Europe through the Eyes of a Chinese Philosopher. By Oliver Goldsmith. "A book the world will never get done reading and admiring." No. 44. Standard Series. I. K. Funk & Co., New York. Price, 20 cents.

The thirteenth number of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science is received. It contains Prof. Alexander Bain's new work, entitled "Mind and Body: the Theories of their Relation." The author brings to the examination of the immemorial problem of the philosophers the erudition of an accomplished scholar and the method of the modern scientist. His work may be regarded as the latest expression of the modern scientific school upon one of the most important questions that have ever agitated the human mind. Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co., publishers, 143 4th Avenue, New York.

Says the Journal of Science, "Nicotine, the essential principle of tobacco, is so deadly an alkaloid, that what is contained in one cigar, if extracted and administered in a pure state would cause certain death." Says the same author, "Let it be clearly understood that the temporary stimulus and soothing power of tobacco, are gained by destroying vital force."

The Scriptures have been translated into 148 languages and dialects, of which 121 had, prior to the formation of the British and Foreign Bible Society, never appeared. And 25 of these languages existed without an alphabet in an oral form. The first division of the divine oracles into chapters and verses is attributed to Stephen Langton, Archbishop of Canterbury, in the reign of King John, in the latter part of the 12th century, or the beginning of the 13th. Cardinal Hugo, in the middle of the 13th century, divided the Old Testament into chapters, as they stand in our translation. In 1661 Athias, a Jew of Amsterdam, divided the sections of Hugo into verses, as we now have them. Robert Stephens, a French printer, had previously (1551) divided the New Testament into verses as they now are.

Sunday-School Column.

WHAT OUR SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS ARE DOING.

Do you ever reflect, dear teacher, on the great importance of the work you are doing? I often think that born as we are into an atmosphere of Christian faith, and growing up in it, many of us receive it so quietly and gently that we hardly feel how precious it is; but we have only to compare our own happy homes with the darkness and misery of pagan lands to see what a priceless legacy we have inherited from our fathers. Indeed, we do not need to go so far to see the difference between those who obey God, and those who obey Him not. There are households in our own land in which, perhaps, He is as little known and less cared for than in those of India; families almost as pagan in spirit as our forefathers were before the "heralds of the Cross" came to persuade them to accept "the tender hope in Christ," and it is in such homes, perhaps, that unknown to yourself you are doing the best work. Perhaps in the fallow ground of some little heart you are sowing seed which may yet bear fruit an hundred fold—seed which, but for you, might never have been sown. Perhaps you are putting leaven into a lump which may yet leaven a larger lump than you know, and so win a whole household to Christ. Is not such work worth doing? Is it not precious and important? Is it not worth doing at any cost? "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy."

Nor all the woe and sorrow in the world is borne by those whose faces indicate the greatest distress, nor whose circumstances are most likely to enlist sympathy or relief. The kindly heart, as it goes in quest of the sorrowful and suffering to carry to them words of comfort and cheer, should remember that but comparatively few men and women wear their hearts upon their sleeves, and that it not unfrequently happens that those whose natures are such as to make them most keenly sensible to trouble and misfortune, the loss of friends or hope, are also those who are the last to make any sign to others. There may be in our own circle of acquaintances, and in places where we would least suspect, persons whose hearts have been tortured into submission and whose mental and spiritual distress have escaped the discovery of those who would have gladly proffered the tenderest aid and wisest counsel. God's people may often find the greatest scope and widest reach for their acts of kindness and of love in the homes which seem to have nothing but brightness and joy, or by the heart which appears to have all the gladness the world can bring. To discover such and tell them of that joy and "peace which the world cannot give" is oftentimes the most difficult duty that comes to those who would make the world better and happier.

SOME idea of the extent and organization of the Sunday School work of the Church of England, may be gathered from the following: The annual festival of the Church Sunday School Choir connected with the Sunday School Institute, was held at Crystal Palace, London, on the 27th ult. The choir has been organized during the past year, for the purpose of promoting a knowledge of vocal music, especially sacred music and psalmody, in Church Sunday Schools. The members are drawn from the metropolitan districts. On this occasion the concert was given by 5000 voices in the Handel Orchestra. The programme comprised hymns, anthems, "part songs," and other school music. Ninety schools were represented. East London furnished a contingent of 1,500 voices, South London sent 2,500 voices, and North London sent 1,000 voices. For the purpose the metropolis was organized into eight districts, each with its own conductor and secretary, acting under the general conductor and honorable lay secretary and the honorable clerical secretary. Four rehearsals have been held in these districts.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL NOTES.

—There are in the entire and rapidly growing State of Kansas, but 1154 Church Sunday School pupils, with 142 teachers.

—From the Annual report of the Sunday School work in the Diocese of Long Island, we find total membership of Officers, Teachers, and Scholars of 17,746. Fifty-nine schools use the Diocesan Scheme of Lessons, and three the International Lessons. There is no Diocese in the Church where the work of the Sunday School is so vigorously pushed and the result of such work is most encouraging to the Bishop, the Clergy and the Laity.

—The emphasis given catechetical and Sunday School instruction by the Reformed Church in America, is clearly shown by the following statistics compiled by Rev. N. D. Williamson, Western Missionary Sunday School Superintendent of their Board of Domestic Missions. He says: "The statistics of Sunday School labor in the Synod of Chicago come up this year fully abreast of those belonging to the rest of our noble church, and it is fitting that we set ourselves at the blessed task of conserving and cultivating the grand old institution of catechetical instruction, so that we may become, not only more and more a Sunday School synod, but also more and more a catechetical synod. Hence, while we honor Robert Raikes and Sunday School teaching in the celebration of this year of grace 1880, we also honor catechetical instruction, by giving it a place in the annual reports of this department of our western work, which has for its specialty the religious training of our youth." Mr. Williamson notes an increase in both catechetical and Sunday School work in the Chicago synod. The statistics of the five classes composing this synod are as follows:—Grand River: churches, 15; catechetical classes, 14; catechumens, 1,613; Sunday Schools, 16; scholars, 2,393. Holland: churches, 17; catechetical classes, 15; catechumens, 2,047; Sunday Schools, 17; scholars, 2,371. Illinois: churches 22; catechetical classes, 13; catechumens, 1,028; Sunday Schools 26; scholars, 2,477. Michigan: churches, 9; catechetical classes, 2; catechumens, 188; Sunday Schools, 12; scholars, 1,551. Wisconsin: churches 23; catechetical classes, 20; catechumens, 1,609; Sunday Schools, 17; scholars, 2,033. Total: churches 86; catechetical classes, 64; catechumens, 6,485; Sunday Schools, 88; scholars 10,825. This conservative body of Christians evidently recognize the wisdom of the priest who said, "Give me the children and I care not who has the adults."

CHURCH WORK AMONG THE COLORED PEOPLE.

HISTORY OF THE GROWTH OF A PARISH IN BALTIMORE.

Editor Church News:

Upon Orchard street in Baltimore stands a large and quite an imposing structure of white Baltimore marble, 135x52 feet. In this handsome church worship the largest congregation of colored people of the Episcopal Church in the city, if not in the United States. Yet this extensive work had a small beginning.

In September, 1868, a few colored people under the leadership of two earnest and active colored laymen, James Thompson, now a priest of the Church in Chicago, and Mr. C. M. C. Mason, now in charge of the Church of the Good Samaritan in St. Louis, established a mission placed by Bishop Whittingham under the charge of the Rev. A. A. Curtis, then Rector of Mount Calvary Church, Baltimore. After a varied history, marked chiefly by earnest self-denial on the part of the congregation and that cold indifference and neglect on the part of others which has characterized the Church's work among the colored people, they were informed that the little hall—no very enviable place of worship, yet their only one—was to be torn down to make room for public buildings.

Having called on the Rectors of the city parishes for aid in their difficulty, they found none who would assist them until they reached the clergy of Mount Calvary church, the Rev. Joseph Richey and the Rev. Colbraith B. Perry, who had recently arrived in the city as Associate Rectors of that church. The former told them that Mount Calvary, being a free church, they were always welcome to the same privileges that others enjoyed, but that since they were anxious to keep up their distinct organization, he would see that a building was provided and that Mr. Perry—who had already expressed a desire to take up the work—should be put in charge of it. Accordingly a small hall was obtained not far from Mount Calvary church and the inside was made bright and attractive. The principle upon which this new mission was started (which took the name of St. Mary the Virgin) was perhaps more than any other cause the explanation of the rapid growth of the Church among a people that have had here, as well as elsewhere, little reason to believe in the Church's interest in their welfare. They can not be better expressed than in the words in an article published a short time afterward written by Mr. Mason himself.

"It is a little singular to remark that the sermon preached at the first service by the Rev. Mr. Perry, Priest in charge, was from the same text in Exodus that the Rev. F. James took for his at the last service held by us on Howard street. It caused none of us to think that we had found our Moses. At the evening service the Rector of the parish, the Rev. Jos. Richey, preached. In the course of his remarks, in stating why they expected to succeed in a work that others had so signally failed in, he said: 'We have given you an Altar no whit inferior to that in the parish church; [The present costly marble Altar of Mt. Calvary was not then erected.] your services shall be the counterpart of those in Mt. Calvary, and everything that is necessary for the edification of the people there, its likeness shall be given you.' We were treated no longer as outcasts to whom it should be considered a sufficient favor if the smallest trifle was given, but as children of the Father, bought by the blood of one Redeemer and sanctified by one Holy Spirit."

The pledge then given was faithfully carried out. A few months later a lady bought a pretty white marble chapel, improved it by the addition of a porch, and gave its use to St. Mary's congregation, with the promise that it should be deeded to the church when enlarged, upon ground which she also purchased. This enlargement has been made during the last year at a cost of about $10,000. About $1,500 was contributed by the colored people, $1,000 by Mt. Calvary, and the rest was raised in subscriptions in all parts of the country. The little band of about 30 communicants has now grown to 317; the current expenses, amounting to about $1,200 annually, are met entirely by the free-will offerings of the people through the offertory. The services are choral and hearty, the surpliced chorists, organist and all the officers of the congregation are drawn from the colored congregation itself.

In connection with the work is a Sisterhood of colored women being trained by the All Saints Sisters, an English order, working at Mount Calvary. Under these 'Sisterhoods' are a Girls' Boarding and Day School and an Orphanage for Boys. There is also a Boys' School, of which one of the pupils has already entered the General Theological Seminary, N. Y., and it is hoped will in another year be ordained to the Holy Ministry. Such has been the success of our effort to reach the colored people through the Church, a success that can doubtless be attained whenever the work is carried on in a similar manner.

HANNIBAL CONVOCATION.

Editor Church News:

The Convocation met at Shelbina Thursday evening, October 28th, as per appointment. Clergy present: the Rev. F. B. Scheetz, Dean; the Rev. Messrs. John Evans, A. A. Abbott, E. and R. Talbott and J. L. Gay.

The Rev. Mr. Gay of Fayette, preached the opening sermon, from the text, "By the grace of God I am what I am." The Rev. Dean followed him with a few remarks.

Friday at 10 a. m. the minutes of the last Convocation were read and approved.

The Rev. A. A. Abbott moved that the Secretary be instructed to complete and record the minutes of previous Convocations, so far as they can be secured. It was appointed that the Convocation be held in Brookfield, January 20th, 1881. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Dean read a paper on "Infant Church Membership." At 7.30 the Rev. Mr. Evans of Palmyra preached from the text, "I am not mad, most noble Festus, but speak forth the words of truth and soberness."

Saturday the Holy Communion was celebrated at 9 a. m. by the Rev. J. L. Gay assisted by the Rev. R. Talbot. The Dean also preached a brief sermon at the same service. In the evening at 7.30 the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot read a paper on the "Duty of Christian Giving."

Sunday—Rev. R. Talbot preached in the morning and Rev. E. Talbot in the evening. Rev. E. Talbot addressed the Sunday-school at 9 a. m. The Holy Communion was celebrated at the morning service.

The Convocation was a grand success. Great interest was manifested at all the services. Father Gay's opening sermon was very thoughtful and had a good effect.

The Rev. Dean's paper was very carefully prepared and instructive. He was followed by several of the clergy and the subject was thoroughly discussed. Quite a large congregation assembled to hear the Rev. Mr. Evans preach his very earnest sermon Friday evening. Rev. E. Talbot's paper Saturday evening awakened quite a general interest and was discussed by some of the laymen present.

Sunday the church was actually filled to overflowing at both services; indeed, many had to go away, while others stood or sat between the aisles. The people of Shelbyna are very warm-hearted and hospitable, and their kindness and faithfulness will long be remembered by the clergy of the Hannibal Convocation.

R. TALBOT,
Secretary.

ELEMENTS OF ROMANISM.

Archbishop Whatley wrote a work called "Romanism traced to its origin in human nature." Bishop Thirwall, of St. David's, the learned historian, left among his literary remains a solemn judgement delivered on the day before his death, of the elemental principles of Romanism.

The strength, he says, of the Papal Church lies in the weakness of human nature.

1. In its childish fondness for a pompous and glittering ceremonial.

2. In its slavish readiness to accept without inquiry any pretensions, however, unfounded, if they are only put forward with a sufficient degree of confident assurance.

3. In the cowardice with which it shrinks from the burden of personal responsibility, and is anxious to shift it on another.

4. In the intellectual sluggishness which makes it impatient (as Thucydides observed) of the labor required for the investigation of truth.

5. In the proneness to substitute outward devotional exercises for the realities of a religious life, and to take credit to itself for the performance of such exercises as meritorious works, and

6. The intolerance with which, especially in matters connected with religion, it resents dissent from its own opinions, as a personal injury, for which it is ever ready to revenge itself by persecution.

PRAYERS CONSTRUCTED WITH ELABORATE SKILL.

Dean Goulburn points out that the words employed in the collects in the Book of Common Prayer are the purest and best English known, "representing to us our language when it was in full vigor and just about reaching its prime," and that in the arrangement of the words, the balancing of clauses, and the giving unity to the whole composition the composers and translators have been as happy as in their choice of words. "Let any one," he adds, "try to write (say) an epitaph with as much unity of design, as much point, as much elegance, and as much brevity as the collects are written with, and in proportion to the difficulty which he finds in achieving such a task the elaborate skill with which these prayers have been constructed rise in his estimation." We do not think that Dean Goulburn has exaggerated the rhythmical movement and the singular felicity of expression which mark the collects, indeed, one has only to compare them with the prayers published on special occasion by modern archbishops, or with any modern forms of prayer, to see their superiority, not only in choice of language, but in compression of thought

"The English of our services," writes Lord Macaulay, who will be accepted as a competent judge in this matter, "is English in all the vigor and suppleness of early youth. To the great Latin writers, to Terence and Lucretius, to Cicero and Caesar, to Tacitus and Quintilian, the noblest compositions of Ambrose and Gregory would have seemed to be, not merely bad writing, but senseless gibberish. The diction of our Book of Common Prayer, on the other hand, has directly or indirectly contributed to form the diction of almost every great English writer, and has extorted the admiration of the most accomplished Infidels and of the most accomplished Nonconformists, of such men as David Hume and Robert Hall."—History of England, vol. iii. p. 475.

M. Taine, the French critic, speaks thus of the Prayer Book: "On Sunday, in the silence of business and pleasure, between the bare walls of the village Church, where no image, no ex voto, no accessory worship, comes to distract the eyes, the seats are full; powerful Hebrew verses knock like the strokes of a battering ram at the door of every soul; then the liturgy unfolds its imposing supplications; and at intervals the song of the congregation, combined with the organ, comes to sustain the people's devotion.

MISCELLANY.

What do you think the beautiful word "wife" comes from? It is the word in which the English and Latin languages conquered the French and Greek. I hope the French will some day get a word for it instead of that dreadful word femme. But what do you think it comes from? The great value of Saxon words is that they mean something. Wife means "weaver." You must either be housewives or housemoths—remember that. In the deep sense, you must either weave men's fortunes or embroider them, or feed upon or bring them to decay.—[Ruskin]

"Under whose preaching were you converted," asked a gentleman of his friend. "Nobody's," was the reply. "It was under my aunt's practicing."

A beautiful young wife has expended much ingenuity in devising a scheme to keep her husband at home nights, and it proved very effectual. She flatters her liege lord about the exquisitely dainty proportions of his feet, and induces him to wear boots two sizes too small for him. He is on his feet all day long in town, and when he gets home at night she has a soft chair and a pair of loose, cool slippers for him, and by the time he, with great drops of agony pearly his brow, has got off his boots he comes to the conclusion that there is no place like home after all, and he has no desire to go down town to the lodge or to sit up with a sick friend.

Edward Kimball, the debt-raiser, says that the three financial calamities of a church are: (1) A fund for the support of preaching, so that the people need not pay expenses for the house of God. (2) One or two rich men, on whom every body leans, and whose property the church feels at liberty to appropriate at its pleasure. (3) A debt.

It was a striking point, made by an English collier, who, when Mr. Bradlaugh, at the close of his lecture, called on any person to reply to his argument—rose and said: "Maister Bradlaugh, me and my made Jim were both Methodys, till one of these Infidel chaps cam' this way. Jim turned Infidel, and used to badger me about attending prayer meeting; but one day in the pit a big cob of coal came down on Jim's head. Jim thought he was killed, and ah, mon! but he did holler an' cry to God." Then turning to Mr. Bradlaugh with a knowing look, he said, "Young man, there's now't like cobs of coals for knocking infidelity out of a man."

The Independent condemns the practice of announcing "no collection" in the notices of religious meetings.

"Since the fall of man, there is no older or more solemn act of the worship of God than giving. As well announce no singing, no prayer, or no preaching. They are not one whit more religious or Christian than giving, as an act of worship."

GENERAL NEWS.

—The New York Central Railroad expends over $4,000 annually in reading rooms and Gospel work among its employees.

—In 1876 the accessions to the reunited Presbyterian Church of the United States were reported at 48,240. In 1877 they were 43,068; in 1878, 32,277; in 1879, 29,106, and in 1880, 26,838. The contributions reported in 1880 were $450,000 less than in 1876, when the times were harder, and this though there were 300 more ministers and over 400 more churches in 1880 than in the former year.

—The Illinois Central Railroad Co. has almost paid off the State debt of Illinois. This has been done by the seven per centum of its gross earnings, which the company is by its charter required to pay annually into the State treasury in consideration of its land grant. Since 1855 the company has paid to the State $8,104,650.

—There is another side to the pleasant condition of the Church as shown in the spirit of the late General Convention. "This sweet state of things is killing our society," remarked a person touching the Evangelical Education Society. And it was discussed for a good while by earnest Low Churchmen whether there was ground any longer for keeping up the sectional Educational Society, and the Church Missionary Society.

—Sunday, October 17th, will long be pleasantly remembered by the Coleman family, of Lebanon, Pa. On that day St. Luke's church was consecrated. It was built by the family at a cost of $100,000.

—During the recent Church Congress in Leicester, England, the hosts of more than half of those who attended it were Dissenters. The Bishop of the Diocese was entertained by a Nonconformist. The Dissenting ministers as a body came and read a welcoming address to the Congress, which was happily responded to by Bishop Magee.

—In Cleveland, Ohio, a Roman Catholic servant had contrived by self-denial to make a saving of $800, and gave the whole sum to procure a marble altar for a church in the city.

MISCELLANY.

THE UNFINISHED PRAYER.

"Now I lay me— Say it darling."

"Lay me," lisped the tiny lips
Of my daughter, kneeling, bending,
O'er her folded finger-tips.

"Down to sleep." "To sleep," she murmured,
And the curly head dropped low!
"I pray the Lord—" I gently added,
"You can say it all, I know."

"Pray the Lord—" the words came faintly—
Fainter still—"My soul to keep;"
Then the tired head fairly nodded,
And the child was fast asleep.

But the dewy eyes half-opened,
When I clasped her to my breast,
And the dear voice softly whispered,
"Mamma, God knows all the rest."

Oh, the trusting, sweet confiding
Of the child heart! Would that I
Thus might trust my Heavenly Father,
He who hears my feeblest cry.

—A colporteur asked a rough backwoodsman if he had a Bible in his house. The man rummaged on an upper shelf of a cupboard until he found a few torn leaves of a Testament. "I declare, stranger," said he, "I do need some more Bible; I did not know we was so near out!" What this illiterate frontiersman put so roughly, is literally true of too many Christian professors. They are sadly "out of Bible," and not only that, but of all sound devotional reading which can elevate and invigorate the soul.

—Fine lady in society to energetic clergyman of a city mission: "Ah, my dear Mr. P., I understand the services at your little church are so very popular now and interesting; quite the fashion, I am told; sermons, too, very fine; I want to come sometimes very much, indeed I am sure I should come very often, but do you know I never can make my way through all the ups and downs of that Prayer Book?" Clergyman, cheerfully: "Possibly, Madame, I am sorry, but after all, the amount of mind required is not so very much. I see your cook, who is an excellent member of my parish, gets through it quite well every Sunday. Perhaps you might manage it after a time." Conversation flags.

—There is, perhaps, no question in hygienics more interesting or important than sewerage. All who are interested in public health and prosperity ("Public Health is Public Wealth"), if they dwell in crowded populations, be it in cities, factories, colleges, summer resorts, or what not, are interested, most of them more than they are aware of, in this great question. It often happens that the father of a family migrates with all his flock, from a commodious city home to some great modern caravansary, which is proclaimed to be the largest hotel in the State, in a perfectly salubrious region, to gain or recover health for his semi-invalid wife and children. He is, unhappily, liable to be disappointed. The air may be pure and the water good near and around the house, but within, it is as, mayhap, the air he left behind him in his own dwelling: loaded with poisonous miasmata of purely local origin. Drains, sewers, traps, cess pools, soil-pipes and all, are arranged as if the design were to poison the house and its inhabitants. It often happens that people returning from such places bring with them the germs, or originating cause, of an attack of continued fever. In the city of Mexico, about sunset every evening, a long procession of carts, or hogsheads on wheels, may be seen traversing the streets. One of these carts stops at every door, and a servant brings out one or more covered buckets, which the driver empties into the hogshead. This bears upon it an apparently facetious label—essencais! These nameless but odorous essences are then taken off to be used as manure. We believe this is the very best plan for getting them away.—[Prof. Richard McSherry, in The Sanitarian for November.]

—Some one once asked old Dr. Cox, father of our Bishop, how it happened that out of his large family, half had left the Presbyterian Church. "Oh!" he replied, it is a case of the virgins of the Scripture—five were wise and five were Episcopalians!

—A Boston Unitarian minister recently gave the following answer to the question, What do Unitarians believe? "They believe that eighteen hundred years ago, in Bethlehem of Judea nothing in particular happened!"

"Mother," said a four year old child, father won't be in Heaven with us, will he?" "Why not, my child?" "Because he can't leave the store."

—CULTURE.—She: "Of course you went to Monsieur Renan's lecture on Marcus Aurelius?" He: "No, I did n't. Who's Marcus Aurelius?" She: "Why a Roman Emperor, to be sure, and a stoic." He: "Haw, what's a stoic?" She: "A stoic? Well, at all events, Marcus Aurelius was one—at least he didn't go as far as most stoics." He: "Didn't he? How far do they go?" She: "What a ridiculous question!" (Collapse of conversation.)

—The Christian Register tells of a minister whose sermons are so direct and searching that a lady of his parish begs him to preach to somebody else a part of the time.

—A veteran observer once declared that no one knew what envy and jealousy were until they had served in the army. The observer probably never belonged to a Church choir.

A wife was lying seriously ill with quinsy. The medical man averred that immediate relief would come if by any means the suppuration could be made to burst, and suggested that the patient should be somehow provoked into a hearty laugh. Many expedients were tried in vain, and at length the husband, who was sitting by the bedside, with his elbows on his knees and his hands upon his cheeks, looked up with a serious face and said, "Try her with a compliment, doctor." The odd appearance of the sympathetic and anxious countenance combined with the yet odd suggestion to accomplished all that was desired, the sufferer could not choose but yield. She positively "guffawed" at the ludicrousness of the situation, and the relief was instantaneous. This recipe would be worth trying for many cases.

Some time since a story was recorded in our columns of a Congregationalist, who asked how we knew certainly that Christ was born at Easter. A good lady, equally in the dark about Church observances, recently inquired "if the 'Piscopals kept Lent in commemoration of the forty days and forty nights that the flood was upon the earth."

The Celebrated Steinway & Sons Pianos, and Manufacturers of Conover Bros. New Patent Upright Pianos.

[From Kunkel's Musical Review.]

We recently had occasion to examine the new style upright pianos manufactured by Conover Bros., and were highly pleased with their excellence. All pianists know that, owing to the peculiar mechanism of their action, upright pianos generally fail, in rapid passages, to respond to the touch with sufficient promptness. The patent action of the Conover upright has overcome these difficulties, and gives these pianos a genuine repeating action, nearly equal to that of a Grand. This has been done without complicating the ordinary mechanism, but actually by a simplification of it. No description in words could convey an adequate idea of the Conover action, but we shall at some future time give cuts illustrating this really meritorious invention. Aside from this, the Conover Upright piano has a full, pure tone, with something of the quality of a Grand. The patent music rack with which they are provided is a valuable adoption, and the case is elegant.

Ladies' Tie and Handkerchief Department at Barr's.

Entrance, Sixth street, near Locust street, Aisle 1.

The advance of the season, with the chill of November, has brought no marked change in BARR'S POPULAR LADIES' TIE AND HANDKERCHIEF DEPARTMENT.

The early fall styles have only ripened with the richer and warmer tints of the more advanced season. The favorite Ladies' Tie and Scarf for the season are French plaid and Scotch tartans, in all the varied clan combinations. Cardinal, old-gold and rice effects on crepe de Chine centres, are much in use. Polka-dot Ties and Fichus are still in great demand. White mull, with princess and Breton lace ends, and lace ends on bright colors, form a leading feature for street wear. Fichus and Square Persian Centres, with variegated chenille fringe, will be much worn. These, with every other desirable style or shade produced this season, can be found in abundance at

BARR'S LADIES' TIE AND HANDKERCHIEF DEPARTMENT.

We invite special attention to our elegant supply of Princess Lace Handkerchiefs, manufactured in this country, and equal to any imported lace handkerchiefs, for half the price. The desirable Handkerchiefs for the season are: White Scalloped, with rich edges; White Hemstitched, with hand embroidery; White Hemstitched, solid colored and polka-dot borders; White Hemstitched, with fancy silk borders. Our stock of Plain, White and Fancy Borders was never more complete, and comprises all grades and prices. Special attention is given to Mourning Handkerchiefs, solid and fancy borders; Gents' Silk Handkerchiefs, plain, white and fancy, hemmed and hemstitched.

Special pains have been taken in selecting a choice lot of Gents' Silk Mufflers, which are well worthy of inspection.

A completeness has been reached in the Ladies' Tie and Handkerchief Department rarely attained in this country.

N. B.—We invite attention to several lots of Manufacturers' Seconds, slightly damaged, at remarkable low prices.

THE Bishop will be at home on New Years day, as is his custom, and will be glad to see his friends.

THE Bishop has had appropriations made to him of a quantity of Bibles, Testaments, Prayer-books; and will be glad to distribute them to places according to their need, as far as they will go, which will make to the Society which gives them a recognition in the way of an offering according to their ability.

WE are very sorry to be told by Mr. Wilkins that, on account of what we hope is only a temporary strain upon his health, and the exactions of business calling him away from the city, he has retired for the present from his superintendency of the Sunday-school of the Church of the Holy Communion in this city. We hope soon to see him again on duty.

THE Bishop has caused to be sent to the parochial clergy of the Diocese a copy of the admirable addresses to clergymen of the Bishop of Long Island. He has derived great profit from it himself, and he hopes that all will read it with attention, and be helped by the thoughtful suggestions and counsels given in it.

THE confirmations this fall have not been as large as they have usually been, and in several parishes none have been presented. The Bishop desires seriously to urge upon his brethren the great need of beginning early for the young the formation of the confirmation class, and for those who are older the duty of private conference and urgency, and public appeal and instruction, that this great duty of the Christian life may not be neglected.

THE family at the Episcopal residence had occasion to have a brighter Thanksgiving than usual by the unexpected and overwhelming evidences of kindness received in basket and store from the members of some of the parishes in this city. As far as possible the names of the donors have been ascertained, and they may be assured of the affectionate remembrance in which they are held. In their inability to reach any more personal acknowledgment, perhaps this will be taken by all who took part in devising the kind action as an assurance of grateful recognition.

OUR CONVENTION.

THE General Convention followed so quickly upon our Diocesan Council that little time has been given to consider the results of our gathering. The journal is now in the printer's hands and will soon be out.

THE first steps were taken, it will have been noticed, under the Constitution, to change the time of the annual Convention from the fall to the first Wednesday in May. This is not a replacing of the Convention to its former time of meeting. That was the fourth Tuesday in May. It will be for the Convention which meets next September to finally declare whether it prefers to have this gathering in this week in the spring.

Steps were taken to bring about a payment on the part of the Diocese of the balance of the amount which it borrowed twelve years ago from the Permanent Episcopal Fund to settle with the estate of Bishop Hawks. The amount is about three thousand dollars. The matter was referred to the Standing Committee with power to act. It would have been better to have referred it to a Committee of laymen direct to raise what, for every month that it remains unpaid, is a stain on the good faith of the Diocese to its trust funds. The Standing Committee will no doubt soon devise vigorous action in the matter.

THE Convention strengthened the Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese, by directing that its charter should be so changed as to remove from it all mention of purposes for which, by the State Constitution, it is not able to receive trusts, and appointing a Committee to consider whether it was expedient to organize another body which could execute trusts of a charitable nature. The Parochial Fund of course has all along acted strictly within the law, and is competent to receive and administer property for churches and parsonages.

THE Convention ordered a committee for the revision and codification of the constitution and canons of the Diocese, the result of their work to be made known sixty days before the meeting of the next Convention.

THE Convention reconstituted its Committee for the collection of subscriptions for the Episcopal Fund of the Diocese, and gave it discretion as to when it should begin its work.

IT will have been noticed that Mr. Carter has resigned his position as Treasurer of the Missionary Board, and that Mr. David F. Leavitt has been appointed in his place.

HOW HELP IS RENDERED.

THERE are certain principles in the conduct of our Church work, especially as it has to do with our missionary affairs, which ought to be kept clearly in mind, both in the raising and in the distribution of our means.

IN the first place, it is a business. Much more than this, it certainly is this. It is grounded on strong convictions and high sentiments, but it proceeds on what must be conceded to be business methods. Unable to reach all places at once with the message of the gospel and the Church, it seeks first to affect those places which are the largest and most influential. It must in the meantime pass by many earnest cries from lonely Christian souls; but while it would do more if it could, the Church can only use the means which its people gives to her.

IT reaches first those places which are contiguous, which can be gotten at with the least waste of time and money, which can be combined to the best advantage under the care of clergymen, and that while an adequate maintenance may be secured, the least amount shall be consumed in the cost of travel.

AS a rule, since the needs are beyond the Church's ability to supply, and choice must be used, those places are likely to be the soonest cared for which show a disposition to do all that they can for themselves. The Church is not in a position, even if it thought it was otherwise desirable, to thrust its privileges upon those who show in no practical way a disposition to use liberality and self-sacrifice to sustain the Church themselves. The basis of an application for help must be a pledge by the place to give according to what the Missionary Board and the Bishop judge to be a fair measure of the ability of the place. Help is given as persons first help themselves.

MISSIONARY aid is given for the sake of Church work and not for the sake of the clergyman. He is sustained in the work because and so long as his work is essential to the promotion of the Church's interests and growth in the place. No plea for missionary giving proceeds on the ground of pity or consideration for the individual. This would belittle both the man and the work. What he gets, he earns; he is of as much advantage to the place as the place is to him. When this ceases to be the case, he passes away.

Wonder must not be felt either that the question of the measure and continuance of aid turns somewhat on the degree of spiritual growth and result in the place. If after help has been rendered for a sufficient time, no adequate returns are seen in confirmations, in increase in numbers or tone of membership, in disposition to secure property or appliances for worship, not unnaturally impatience may be felt, and help at length be withdrawn. The Bishop and the Board are only trustees to see that what is placed in their hands shall reach the utmost result for the Church. They have no preferences; they judge places by this standard. To have help continued, it is to the interest of all to help promote that condition upon which any help is contingent.

Places can only be helped as they show growth and enable the Church by this to reduce steadily the aid rendered. The State is growing, new towns are springing up; new calls are all the while being made upon the Bishop. Experience shows that the amounts received for this purpose increase but little. If those who have received do not become more self-reliant, there can be no advance made. But the stipend is not an annuity to be steadily expected; it is a crutch to be less and less used, and as soon as possible wholly dispensed with. Too many of our places have gotten into the notion apparently about the missionary stipend that that is at any rate a steady reliance, and fail to provide against the time when it must be withdrawn in behalf of other places which should have their chance. This year and every year there must be withdrawal, or better yet a voluntary yielding up of at least a part, so that others may have a share.

ST. GEORGE'S, ST. LOUIS.

It may be interesting as a piece of contemporary history to publish the following letter which was recently addressed to the Bishop by the authorities of St. George's Church in this city. Its kind expressions were reciprocated by the Bishop and were responded to in a reply which indicated his pleasure that after so long an acquaintance his general policy and course in the Diocese had gained the confidence of those whose good opinion he so greatly values:

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

My Dear Bishop:

At a meeting of the Vestry of St. George's Church, held on October 14, 1880, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Secretary convey to Bishop Robertson the united and cordial request of the Rector, Wardens and Vestrymen of St. George's Church that he will at any and all times make use of our church and chapel for the celebration of Episcopal offices, for the ministration of the Word and Sacraments, and for the other Offices of the Church, at his own discretion; with the assurance that his use of our Church for the functions of his Episcopal office will always be regarded as an honor done to us; and that his presence and ministrations in our Parish on other occasions than those of official visitation will always be, as they always have been, esteemed as a welcome privilege by ourselves and by our congregation.

In adopting this resolution the Vestry were quite aware that the Rector had already made substantially the same request; but it seemed to us that there would be a propriety in expressing the common-desire of our whole congregation by the united voice of all their representatives.

The resolution is formal, as all resolutions must be, but it is not an empty formality; it is but one of many sincere expressions of regard and affection, which it is possible that we hear more frequently than yourself.

Trusting that you may often in the future find occasion to use our Church for the purposes of your Office, to edify us by your ministrations in our ordinary worship,

I am, my dear Bishop,
Very sincerely yours,
D. E. GARRISON,
Secretary St. George's Church.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—Grace Church, Kansas City, called the Rev. Mr. Lines of San Francisco to their vacant rectorship. He declined on the ground that his vestry had done so much for him in enlarging his church and in other ways. They then called the Rev. Arthur Piper of Racine, who declined. Mr. Lines then telegraphed that he thought he saw his way clear to accept the call, if the vacancy had not been filled. They renewed the call, and Mr. Lines handed in his resignation in San Francisco, but the vestry declined to accept it, and he again declined Grace Church. In the mean time for months the services have been supplied by different clergymen. The congregations are large and increasing.

—On Wednesday, 10th ultimo, in Grace Church, Chillicothe, the Bishop admitted Mr. Wm. A. Hatch, A. M., to Deacon's Orders. He was presented by the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, who with the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Waterman, and Carter Page, took part in the service. Mr. Hatch takes charge of St. Paul's Church, Maryville, with duty at Stanberry. He is a graduate of Waterville College, Maine. The Bishop preached again at night, and confirmed three persons at night, having confirmed a sick person in private in the afternoon.

—On Thursday, 11th instant, the Bishop consecrated St. John's Church, Cameron, the Rev. Messrs. Waterman, the minister of the church, Talbot of Macon, Smith of Cameron, Richardson of St. Joseph, and Hatch of Maryville, taking part in the service. The request for consecration was read by B. F. Bassett, Esq., Warden, and sentence of consecration by the Rev. Mr. Waterman. The church was built four years ago, but was only now completely paid for. It is of wood, and very handsome, all the frame work showing within with open timbered roof, and the pews of solid black walnut oiled.

—The contract for building St. Luke's Hospital has been let for it all complete, except the heating apparatus and elevator for $27,850. This gives a building of three stories, with a high basement covering the 100 feet front on Washington Avenue, and reaching back 50 feet on Twentieth street. The contractors are those who built the Second Baptist Church and other large buildings. Their bid was $1,800 less than the next one. This does not provide for a Chapel proper, although one of the large halls may for the present be used for the purpose. Here is an opportunity for some person or family to make a memorial of some one gone before. With $5,000 a proper Chapel could be added to the present building, and could be named as desired. The usefulness of such a building can not be overstated. It will be noticed that the amount called for by the contract, with the addition of the heating arrangements and furnishing, will take $5,000 at least beyond what has been up to the present time subscribed, and more gifts will be needed, as no doubt, when the work is seen to really be under way, they will be forthcoming.

—The Rev. Thos. H. Gordon of New Jersey has been called to take charge of the Church of the Holy Innocents, Oak Hill. It is presumed that he will accept.

—The chancel and organ rooms of St. Jude's

Church, Monroe, has just been refitted with new carpeting, the dying gift of Mrs. Dr. E. Bailey, who entered into rest Oct. 22.

—The Rev. J. Dudley Ferguson of the Diocese of West Virginia has been called to the charge of St. Paul's Church, Mexico, and the Holy Comforter, Montgomery City. He will live in the former place, but divide his Sundays equally between the two parishes. He is an intense worker, and a preacher of much more than ordinary power. He will enter upon duty on the first Sunday in next month.

—There is good prospect that we will soon put up a small church building in Canton. We have owned two good lots there for twelve years.

—The Church of the Good Shepherd in this city has just purchased an organ for $175, the old organ being about worn out.

—The parish reception given by St. George's Church to its former Rector, the Rev. Mr. Holland, and his wife on the evening of Thanksgiving Day was a most delightful occasion. It was given at the residence of Mr. John W. Harrison on Olive street, and a house any smaller would not have sufficed for the throngs of friends who filled the rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Holland were both looking very well indeed, and evidently had not lost their memory of or affection for their old people, as quite as certainly their old friends had still left space enough in their hearts for their old pastor.

—The property of Grace Church in this city went to sheriff's sale recently for non-payment of taxes. The parish was unable to buy it, and it was purchased by Mr. Joseph W. Branch. In whose name it now stands.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Chillicothe, 4; Jefferson City, 1; Boonville, 1.

—The article written by Mrs. Runcie which appeared two months ago in The Churchman has been put very handsomely into pamphlet form by Mr. James Pott, 27 Cooper Union, New York, and will no doubt be much sought for and read, both on account of the remarkable experience which it narrates and the delightful style in which it is written. Its title is "Divinely Led."

—The Bishop being in Boonville on Sunday, 28th ultimo, went over in the afternoon and visited for the first time old Franklin, and held service. The congregation was very large, as it always is there.

—The purchase by Jay Gould of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad, and its merging into the Missouri Pacific, has displaced a large number of employees at Sedalia, a considerable proportion of whom were connected with and contributors to our parish there. The effect of the change for the present at any rate is little short of calamitous, and this when Church prospects there were never brighter.

—The Rev. Mr. Coombe of Bermuda, who has been in the city for several months, has taken duty in Lake Providence, La.

—In The Churchman of the 4th instant is given a very fair likeness of the new Bishop of New Mexico and Arizona, with a sketch of his life.

—Beginning on Sunday, 28th ultimo, and continuing over the next Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Betts held a mission at Trinity Church in this city, under the charge of the Rev. Messrs. Benson and Grafton of the order of St. John the Baptist. Services were held four times each day with sermon, address or instruction. The congregations on Sundays and at nights were large. The singing was very sweet. Quite a large number of clergymen from a distance attended through the week.

—Bishop Whipple, in writing since he left the city after the consecration of Bishop Dunlop, about the reception which he and the other Bishops had received at the hands of St. Louis Church people, says: "Your people certainly know how to dispense hospitality in a princely way. I have never been present at any gathering of the Church which left such pleasant memories."

—The Rector of the Church of the Holy Communion has put out the first number of a parochial paper, The Parish Record. It is an interesting little leaflet. The printers made a funny mistake—surely it could not have been intentional—when they say that the first duty of the ladies of the parish is to call on the rector that they may supply him with the parish news. The naughty printers probably ought to have said needs.

—Christ Church in this city is at work now on a missionary box for one of the hard worked and poorly paid clergymen of the Diocese, and the Ladies' Society of the Church of the Holy Communion has just sent off a well appointed box for another. We hope that all of our missionaries will be remembered in this way during the winter. They need and deserve it.

—At the meeting of the Trustees of Nashotah last week, there were present besides the Bishop of this Diocese and other clerical and lay trustees, the three Bishops from Illinois, the two from Wisconsin and Indiana. The session was continued until nearly two o'clock in the morning.

—The publishing office of THE NEWS is changed to the Singer Building, corner of 5th and Locust streets, fourth floor, with elevator.

—Bishop Dunlop started for his jurisdiction in the beginning of the week following his consecration. He will visit the principal points in the two territories, and return at the close of this month to Kirkwood, where his family remain for the present in the parsonage. He will in January make his preparations to leave, and will with his family go west, probably early in February. In the meantime the parish has called no one as yet to the rectorship.

—The address of Rev. A. W. Mann, Missionary at large to Deaf Mutes, is No. 5 Chestnut street, Cleveland, Ohio. He will be very happy to hear from the clergy who have deaf mutes living within their cures, and desire to reach them with services in sign language:

ADVICE ABOUT FUNERALS.

In the preparation and arrangements for the burial, let as little time and money as possible be expended for showy surroundings. The less of these things the better. Have only enough show for proper respect, for public decorum and social respect. We are getting to mingle adversity and prosperity together, and are getting to be unable to distinguish the moral difference. We are now hardly able to distinguish between a funeral and a wedding. At funerals the tendency is toward extravagance and pride, and, as a consequence, toward vice and meanest folly. Funerals are degenerating into the most selfish, expensive, meaningless services. As the vulgar expression is, they are simply ceremonies to give the dead "a good send off." The coffin is covered with tinsel and finery totally out of place, considering the surroundings of the deceased when alive. A man will spend $50 for carriage hire at the funeral of his wife, when he never spent a dollar on riding for her when alive. At a great deal of sacrifice a husband will buy a profusion of costly flowers for the decoration of his wife's coffin and grave when he never bought a pot plant for the brightening of her chamber during years of sickness and suffering. If possible, the funeral should be on a day other than Sunday, so as not to interfere with the pastor's regular duties at stated service. A vigorous protest against the too frequent and very often disgusting habit of public leave taking of the body was made. The leave taking of our beloved dead should always be in private, and not before a crowd of idle, curious and unsympathising spectators. All the funeral ceremonies should be simple, but strikingly symbolical. A simple piece of crape on the door or worn on the person is sufficient to denote death in the family.

Editor Church News:

My attention was called to the article that appeared in your last number giving an account of the Church Work among the colored people of Baltimore, and also to the assertion made in your editorial columns that "What has been done there can be done here." Most certainly the same can be repeated here, if anything like the same means are used; indeed, it is surprising, considering the "meagre support" so far extended to the work, that it has done as well as it has. But no substantial success can be expected so long as the work is continued at that dilapidated structure known as the Church of the Good Samaritan, on Sixth street near Cerre street. It is too far away from the people whom it is possible to bring into the church. At the present time there are but two families living within the radius of a mile of the present house of worship and they propose at the first opportunity to move up to a point nearer to what appears to be the great centre of the colored population of this city. The other families connected with the mission reside within that center.

The same difficulty that we labor under in prosecuting the work was experienced from like cause in both Baltimore and Washington; and it continued until the present beautiful and commodious churches of St. Mary the Virgin, Baltimore, and St. Luke's, Washington, were gotten possession of, since which there has been no complaint of want of progress.

Since I have been in this city I have observed a decided tendency toward the Church, particularly since a new element, mainly composed of public school teachers, has made its entrance in to colored society. This movement only needs an accessible house of worship to take definite shape.

About the close of last summer, with the kind permission of the Rector and Vestry of Trinity Church, I commenced a Sunday-school in their chapel, and soon after added a litany service with lecture; the result has been very encouraging. I have now four of the public school teachers assisting me with ninety scholars upon the roll. The Church of St. Mary the Virgin was the gift of a single lady to the colored people of Baltimore—she investing more than $20,000 in the property. St. Luke's, Washington, costing about the same sum, was given mainly by the Church people of that city. If the good people of St. Louis would but purchase or erect for our mission a church of a like commodious structure somewhere between the boundaries of Eleventh and Eighteenth streets and Washington avenue and Wash street, I will answer from experience that it will thrive as well as any in the country and be no longer a burden upon the Diocese.

Respectfully,
CASSIUS M. C. MASON,
Deacon in Charge of the Church of the Good Samaritan.

DR. LYMAN BEECHER used to say that the reason why his ministry was so blessed to the salvation of men, was that he had so many pulpit reflectors in the Christians who lived out and diffused in every practical way the gospel which he proclaimed. A light placed alone scatters its beams on every hand, but a number of well-placed reflectors can concentrate and reflect its rays, and cause them to reach places where the direct rays of light never would go; so these pulpit reflectors, these Christians who take the Gospel up into their lives, and who talk it, and act it, and live it from day to day, multiply the preacher's usefulness an hundred fold, and carry down into the deep and hidden corners where sin and darkness lurk those beams of light which without their aid would never reach the souls that sit in the shadow of death.

—It is narrated by the great sculptor, Michael Angelo, that when at work, he wore over his forehead, fastened on his artist's cap, a lighted candle, in order that no shadow from himself might fall upon his work! It was a beautiful custom, and spoke a more eloquent lesson than he knew! For the shadows that fall on our work—how often they fall from ourselves!

PERSONAL.

—When Mr. Gladstone is at home at Hawarden he begins the day with Morning Prayer at the village church. His theory seems to be that prayer may help but will not hinder work.

—The announcement is made of the engagement of marriage of Bishop Pinkney, of Maryland. He is a little over 70 years of age. His former wife was 20 years older than himself and worked his baptismal robe. His to-be-wife is 20 years his junior.

—At the recent meeting of the Nashotah trustees the Rev. Dr. Egan presented his resignation of his professorship of Ecclesiastical History, to take effect from the 1st prox. It is understood he has received a proposition from an Eastern Bishop for duty in his Diocese. His removal takes away a learned and competent professor from Nashotah. Several legacies have recently come in, and the financial condition of the institution is greatly improved. It has been stated that the Rev. Dr. Cole may soon carry out a long cherished purpose of retiring from the arduous duties of Presidency at the end of thirty years incumbency, still retaining his Professorship.

—Dr. John Adams Paddock has signified his acceptance of the Missionary Episcopate of Washington Territory. The parish which he leaves in Brooklyn has twice as many communicants as has the jurisdiction to which —Dr. Prime says of Dr. Sam. H. Cox, the father of Bishop Cox: "I was by his side on the Platform when he was moderator of the New School Presbyterian General Assembly, in Philadelphia. He was offering the prayer in the morning, and in the midst of it he said, 'O Lord Jesus Christ, thou art the ne plus ultra of our desire, the sine qua non of our faith, and the ultima thule of our hope.'"

—Miss Sarah Smiley, the Quakeress, who it will be remembered preached for the Rev. Dr. Cuyler, of Brooklyn, sometime ago, was received into the Protestant Episcopal Church at a confirmation in Philadelphia recently.

—Dr. Pusey is a scion of a family which, though untitled, is one of the most ancient in the kingdom—the Puseys, of Pusey in Berkshire. Unlike most academical students of eminence, Dr. Pusey has been, and is, a man of opulence. In person Dr. Pusey is rather below the middle height, and his features bear a striking resemblance to those of two very opposite thinkers—the late Bishop Wilberforce and Mr. Brillaugh. He has always stooped, and in conversation he rarely meets your eye. But his manner, voice and accent are all infinitely charming, and, indeed, gracious. He looks, as he is, a casuist and hair splitter, and there is nothing in his priestly,—still priestly, be it added, though he has grown a stubby beard—appearance to indicate the singular benevolence which is one of his characteristics. He has had his sorrows—heavy ones. He married, and his wife died. Their son a cripple, passed away also quite recently, and the poor old priest has been bowed ever since.

—Dr. Paddock will be consecrated to-day in his parish Church in Brooklyn. This is the fourth set of brothers who have been in the House of Bishops: B. T. and H. T. Onderdonk, and H. and A. Potter of New York and Pennsylvania, and G. and A. Burgess, of Maine and Quincy. Twice have father and son been in the House, of course not at the same time,—the Bishops Doane, of New Jersey and Albany, and the Bishops Elliott, of Georgia and Western Texas.

—A parson who wanted to change wrote to Dr. Dobbs, at the same time the society in which the parson ministered, wrote; and while one set forth the kind of church he wanted, the other described the kind of minister it wanted. They both aimed high. The shrewd doctor replied to both by telling a story:

"A minister not much versed in worldly affairs, and least of all, in horse nature, wanted to buy a horse. He found a group of plain men, to whom he stated his case. He said, 'I want a horse of a good deal of spirit, for my son is fond of such a horse. And he must be a quiet horse, so that my wife can drive him. And he must be quite strong and have a good deal of endurance, for I shall want to plow with him. He must not be a large eater, nor choice in his eating. I want a young horse, so that he shall be growing better all the time. And he must be well broken, for I shall not have the time to break him. And he must not cost above fifty dollars, or at the outside seventy five dollars.' When he had finished one of the plain men said: 'Why, you fool, there ain't no such hoss.' The advice given in conclusion is excellent: 'I recommend you to worry along with each other, and neither of you to expect perfection in the other, till you can show an example of it in yourselves.'"

—The iron railing enclosing the front of St. Paul's Church has been removed. This is as it should be; all churches ought to be free and open, and about them ought not to be any irony or railery.—[Ex.]

THE following is a rule of the Diocesan Missionary Board reported to the late Convention :

That hereafter no missionary shall be paid his quarterly stipend who neglects to make the canonical collections which have been ordered by the Convention, or whose parish or mission fails to meet the assessment on it laid by the Convention.

As an evidence of the increased sense of duty in bringing high religious influences to bear upon public questions, such as would have been denounced a few years ago as a dangerous interference with politics, was the passage at the late General Convention of a resolution looking to influence in Congress against polygamy, and also to watch and influence legislation likely to be unjust to the Indians. The Methodist conference of Minnesota adopted a resolution asserting the obligation of the State to pay the $5,000,000 of repudiated railroad bonds, and promising that each minister shall do all in his power to create a right public sentiment on the question. The late Congregational National Council in this city passed a resolution against polygamy similar to the one passed by us.

THE NEW VOLUME.

With this number of THE NEWS our Eleventh Volume comes to an end. We did not look forward to such an age for our bantling when it was begun. But the same need which caused it to begin, makes its continued and growing life a necessity. It has been an invaluable aid in all departments of our Church work.

But it comes back constantly to its friends to ask them for a continuance of their practical good will, by a personal renewal of their own subscriptions promptly as they fall due, and an effort to extend more widely its circulation and influence. We fear that much less of this is done by clergy or people than might naturally be expected. Some parishes show by long lists what could be done in all, and what there is accomplished by one person making the business his or her own. Will not now clergy and laity see that subscriptions are renewed before our next issue, and names and money sent in promptly. Do it, and do it now, and do it yourself.

OUR MISSIONARY WORK.

The spirit with which our home missionary work was taken up at the Convention promised one of our very best years for growth and work. The city clergy expressed themselves ready to go out and help with voice and presence as they could in the special efforts which should be made by their brethren in the interior. There was a cheerful recognition of the community of interest and duty in the matter. The parochial pledges made for the pushing on of the work, while not complete or uniform, represented a much higher aggregate than we had before reached. That aggregate, however, if it had been much larger, would not have been an impossible one to reach, and if we do not come up to it, it will for lack of interest or system, or both.

Now cannot we have some meetings held in our parishes this winter, where, with some spirited singing, statements can be made by those who have possessed themselves of the facts and principles, illustrating what they say perhaps with maps, so that there shall come to be more than a selfish parochial life, content if one's own debts are paid. Cannot we show better than in protestations our belief in the Church as a Community with one life? And then can there not be collectors appointed, who will, with regularity, seek for definite subscriptions, and then the prompt payment of them, and sending them forward to the Treasurer.

We should raise this year thirty-five hundred dollars at least, if we would meet the calls on us. Let each decide what his proportion is toward this amount. One good quarter is gone.

THE CONSECRATION.

The ceremonial which changed the Rector of Kirkwood into the Missionary Bishop of New Mexico and Arizona has taken place with all the happy accompaniments of a wide public interest, grand congregations, and generous offertories for the work of the new Bishop. Mr. George Kelly Dunlop was born in Ireland, Nov. 10, 1830, but came to this country as a young man. He was ordained in Palmyra in 1854, and Priest in 1856. He has lived in Kirkwood since 1866, and was the first rector of that parish.

Several of the Bishops who were expected to be present could not attend. Those who did come were most handsomely received by the efficient Committee of Arrangements, and generously entertained, and departed with a high appreciation apparently of the heartiness of Church life, and the abundant hospitality and generosity of St. Louis.

The day, 21st ult., was cold but fine. Christ Church was densely packed long before the hour for beginning the service, the transept galleries were thronged, seats were filled where persons could see nothing, and hundreds stood throughout the service. The Bishops robed in the Vestry room, and joined the rest of the procession in the Chapel. The efficient Marshal of the day, Mr. John R.

Triplett, led the procession, followed by the wardens and vestrymen of Christ Church, and of Grace Church, Kirkwood, and the Committee of Arrangements. Then followed the clergy, of whom from this Diocese were the Rev. Drs. Berkley, and Ingraham, Messrs. Betts, Leonard, E. Talbot, Woodruff, Wright, Reed, Chesnut, Dunn; Messrs. Millspaugh, of Nebraska; Corbyn and Maycock, of Iowa; Chase, Moore and Huntington, of Springfield. Then came the Bishop Elect with his attending Presbyters, Drs. Schuyler and McNamara. Then came the Bishops of Springfield, Quincy, Iowa, Colorado and Missouri, the presiding Bishop of Minnesota closing the procession. It left the chapel, went down the south and then up the main aisle, where ranks were opened, and the Bishops passed within the chancel, the clergy to seats in the choir, and the others to seats reserved for them.

The choir was strongly re-enforced and consisted of twenty trained voices, under the leadership of Mr. W. C. McCreery, with, for the hymns, a cornet accompaniment. There had been careful training; the combination of solid with high class music was excellent. The whole vast congregation rose and sung the processional, "The Church's one foundation," as they did all the hymns. The service was made enjoyable by the handsome scheme of the service which had been printed.

Morning Prayer was begun by Dr. Ingraham, the Lessons were read by Dean Millspaugh, the Creed and Collects by the Rev. Mr. Coombs, of Bermuda. The Communion Service was begun by the presiding Bishop, the Epistle being read by the Bishop of Iowa, and the Gospel by the Bishop of Missouri. The sermon, preached by the Bishop of Colorado, from 1 Timothy 2:7, was on the character and functions of the Missionary Episcopate. It was printed in full in the next morning's papers. It was a very strong sermon, which closely held the attention of the congregation. The address to the Bishop-elect was very touching.

Mr. Dunlop was then presented to the Presiding Bishop, whose chair was moved to the front of the Holy Table, by the Bishops of Missouri and Iowa. The questions were asked, the testimonials from the House of Bishops were read by the Rev. Mr. Betts, and the certificate of election by the House of Deputies by the Rev. Mr. Reed. The Bishop-elect retired to the vestry-room, attended by his Presbyters, to assume the remainder of the Episcopal habit, while a hymn was singing, and returning knelt while all the Bishops present laid hands on him, repeating with the presiding Bishop but in a lower voice, the words of consecration. After the delivery of the Bible the grand strains of Handel's Hallelujah Chorus were sung, while the new Bishop was received within the chancel. There were a large number of communicants.

The procession returned to the chapel in the same order which it had entered during the singing of a recessional. The Bishops then signed and sealed duplicate certificates of consecration, one for the Registrar of the Church and the other for the new Bishop. There was singular carelessness on the part of the Secretaries of the House of Bishops and of the Deputies, and of the Registrar in not furnishing proper documents in time for the consecration.

The morning offertory was devoted, as were those of the other services of the day, to the new Bishop's work in New Mexico and Arizona, and amounted to $243. A special train came in from Kirkwood and brought very large numbers from there. The service was over at about two o'clock. The robes were given by the Bishop's friends in Kirkwood, and cost $150. They were not wholly satisfactory. The Bishop's clerical brethren in St. Louis propose to present him with an Episcopal seal ring. There was common consent among the Bishops and others who had been present at many consecrations that they had never been present at any in which the arrangements were so exact and faultless. The whole ceremonial was most dignified and real, and a deep feeling pervaded it throughout.

At night there was another full congregation in St. George's Church to attend the missionary meeting in the interest of the new Bishop's work, and to express interest in him, and to give him a farewell greeting. The Bishop of the Diocese presided. The Bishops of Quincy and Minnesota made addresses which will long be remembered, the latter, of course, alluded to his Indians, that on the day following some person sent the Rector a check for $25 for his work. Bishop Dunlop spoke most tenderly of the work in this Diocese which he was leaving, and urged as his last counsel the completion of two things in his judgment of commanding importance,—the building of a proper building for the Sisters' schools, now overflowing its quarters and paying a high rent, and the endowment of the Episcopate. He thought the one could be done in '81, and the other in '82. Then he urged the need of charity among themselves. The offerings amounted to $112.

The same night Bishop Seymour preached in the Church of the Holy Communion, and the offertory was devoted to the jurisdiction of Bishop Dunlop, and amounted to $32, making the offerings for the day amount to nearly $400; a very fair start on his work.

Several of the Bishops had to leave the city on Monday morning. Those who remained, were taken about the city, and visited the objects of interest, the Chamber of Commerce, St. Luke's Hospital, the Simmons building, the Sisters' school, Shaw's Garden, &c. Bishops Whipple, Burgess and Spalding visited the school, and the last two made addresses to the scholars.

On Monday night a delightful reception was given to the visiting Bishops at the spacious residence of E. C. Simmons. Hundreds from all the parishes thronged the rooms and partook of the sumptuous collation. Thus ended most happily an occasion of the deepest interest to us all. The new Bishop will not forget Missouri, nor will his brethren of many years ever fail in affection for him or interest in his work.

CHILDREN'S COT.

In the crowd of other interests lately the Cot has been almost wholly forgotten. No gifts were made last month and you can see how little has been given this month. It surely would not linger thus if children and those having charge of children would draw their attention to it, and the great permanent blessing which would come to the Hospital now building if this endowment could be completed. Send in to the Bishop.

BOOK NOTICES.

TRINITY CHURCH CATECHISM.—There are 4500 children on the rolls of the Sunday-schools of Trinity church, New York, and failing to find a satisfactory manual of instruction otherwise this Catechism has been prepared by one of the clergy, under the supervision of the Rector. It is singularly full and clear. Generally its statements and views are good; we cannot indorse all; but children taught in its book will be ground on the principles of the faith. Pott, Young & Co., New York.

BRIAR-HILL LECTURES.—Certain aspects of the Church, by the Rev. John Cotton Smith, D.D. This is the collection in one volume of several sermons which have been delivered during twenty years, and published in pamphlet form. There is a unity of purpose running through them, and they make for a broad, generous Church polity. They are written in that clear, characteristic style which made their author in the late General Convention, although a new member, one of the most valuable members of that body. 60cts. T. Whittaker, No. 2 Bible House, New York.

SILVERDALE RECTORY; or the Golden Links, by Grace Stebbing. This is a most delightful Christmas book for boys, interesting, boyish, and handsomely illustrated. Order it for the children. $1. T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York.

THE LIFE AND WORK OF SPURGEON, by Rev. William H. Yarrow. No. 46 Standard Series. 20cts. I. K. Funk & Co., New York.

In press: "These Sayings of Mine." By Joseph Parker, D.D., London. Published simultaneously in England and America. The American edition is issued by I. K. Funk & Co., New York, through a special arrangement with the author. Dr. Deems has written an introduction for this edition. Price in paper, 40 cents; Cloth, $1. Dicken's Christmas Books Complete. Illustrated with 16 full page engravings, will soon be issued in two numbers of the Standard Series, (I. K. Funk & Co., New York) for 25 cents each. The same will be finely bound in cloth, in a single volume, as a holiday book, and sold for 75 cents. This is a capital book to present to children, as well as people of older growth.

CONCIONES AD CLERUM. By Bishop Littlejohn. These were addresses made to the clergy of his Diocese assembled during Lent in 1879 and 1880. The scope of the book may be judged from the title of the addresses: Clergy and People; The Cure of Souls; The Grace of Ordination, how to quicken and develop it. The subjects are of vital interest to the clergy, and they are treated in the fresh, strong way which marks the Bishop of Long Island. They would be a wonderful freshness of thought and impulse if they could be read by all of our ministers. If only some layman would put it in the Bishop's power to send a copy of this book as a Christmas present to all the parsonages of the Diocese! $1.50. T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York.

CHURCH MONTHLY MAGAZINE. November. This admirable family magazine increases in varied interest. It would not only be valuable but interesting in any household. The second year begins with the December number. $2. Post-office box 2074, New York.

THE old Church book firm of Pott, Young & Co., in New York is dissolved, and Mr. James Pott, the head of the old firm, may be addressed No. 27 Cooper Union, where orders may be addressed to him. He has still the agency of the Prayer Book Society.

PROCEEDINGS OF SECOND ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE MISSOURI BANKERS' ASSOCIATION. These minutes of the Convention held last summer at the Sweet Springs, and edited by Mr. George Wilson of Lexington, are made more interesting by an address put forth a year ago against taxation on deposits, also one by Henry Clay Dean on the utility of banks for the promotion of commerce, and a paper read by Mr. Wilson on the uses of organization in banking.

THE LORD'S SUPPER.—Fourth Triennial Charge of Bishop Vail's. This pamphlet, in which the Bishop develops with great fullness his view of the Holy Communion as a Covenant, is published by the Evangelical Knowledge Society, which in its annual report shows but small work done for the salary and office expenses paid.

WONDERS OF THE DEEP, by C. Flamenarion. No. 14 of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science. Price, 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald, New York.

Doctor Cunningham Geikie's new book, "Hours with the Bible, the first volume of a contemplated series (each volume will be complete in itself) will be shortly published by Mr. James Pott, New York. Dr. Geikie's "Life and Words of Christ," being so popular, will no doubt create a want for this work.

DIVINELY LED. By Mrs. Runcie. James Pott, publisher. Cooper Union, New York. We have noticed this remarkable little book in another column, and recommend persons to procure and read it.

NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW. December. With other valuable articles in this number, those on Rational Sunday Observance, and the Public School Failure are particularly worth reading. This old Review keeps up its old reputation. Monthly. $5 a year. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

ST. NICHOLAS distinguished its Christmas issue of last year by an illuminated cover bearing a head of the jolly old Saint; but it proposes this Christmas to come out with a still more striking holiday cover, in which the familiar form of Santa Claus is to be seen driving his reindeer team earthward from the moon, in a cloud of snow, and standing up sturdily in his sledge—a monthly number of the favorite magazine, opened wide. To this same December issue Mr. Inness will contribute two fine illustrations of life on the plains of the great Southwest; one of these shows a young herdsman leaping from back to back of the buffaloes of a vast stampeded drove.

A. D. F. Randolph & Co., 900 Broadway, New York, have put out two beautiful emblems, one in the shape of a book in the form of an illuminated maltese cross, with appropriate verses and hymns for Christmas. This is called the Star in the East, and would be a pretty Sunday-school and family present. The other is the Hour Glass Calendar for 1881, with a leaf for each month, with verses, tied together with ribbon, with colored pages and covers. This would be a good New Years gift. The price of the first is 50 cents, and of the other 40 cents.

CHRISTMAS DAY.

A merry, merry Christmas to all our readers, and to all those throughout the world who love our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Ere many days have come and gone the very rich and altogether beautiful service of the Church for Christmas Day will again be said; from every altar and pulpit of the Church Catholic will ascend glad and grateful praise, words of joy and comfort to all mankind. Our Lord's birthday! What a birthday it is! No wonder we regard it the happiest day of the year—that even children's hearts are gay and voices glad; that we make church and home bright and beautiful with the box, the cedar and the pine; that every heart consciously or unconsciously sings a jubilate; that every Christian soul unites in praise to the Lord our God. Through all the years, midst the decay of empires, the crumbling of dynasties, the disappearance of nations, Christmas Day has lost none of its power on the hearts of men. "Peace on earth, good will to men" comes with its old time sweetness and tenderness, telling all the multitude who toil on "from the cradle to the grave" that in the time to be there is a Paradise of God where the sin, sorrow and suffering of the world shall be forgot. Before its beneficent influence the prejudices born of intolerance and hate have disappeared like the mists of the morning in the glorious sunlight. Pulpits which not many years ago sought to prove the day of the Nativity unknown, and declaimed against the "folly of maintaining a popish superstition," now discourse in grateful strains of the blessings secured to man by the birth of our Lord and the charms of the day the Church has ever celebrated. But, unfortunately, while the observance of the day is general, there is still in some quarters a kind of protest against it because of the supposed uncertainty about the exact date of the Nativity. It may be interesting, therefore, as well as instructive, to briefly consider the argument for the 25th day of December as the exact date of the Birth. It is hardly worth while to more than allude to the stereotyped objection that the Birth could not have taken place in December because at that season the shepherds could not watch their flocks on the Judean plains, and hence not in the winter but summer the great event must have occurred.

But it is a well attested fact that the shepherds are on watchful duty in December and that now they do watch their "flocks by night" just as they did 1880 years ago. Bethlehem is in about the same latitude as Savannah, Ga., and in that country the temperature is about ten degrees higher than in the same latitude in our own land. But the positive testimony is more convincing. It is not to be supposed that the Xian Church in all lands from the remotest antiquity would have observed this day and none other without good authority for so doing. True, the Greek or Russian Church observes the 6th of January as Christmas day, but this is owing to the difference in calendars, the Eastern Church still using the Julian, according to which the 6th of January is the same as our 25th of December. It is a variation only in the computation of time. Surely, the concurrent testimony of the Church Catholic in all ages is entitled to and ought to receive the fullest consideration, and, in the absence of better evidence to the contrary, be accepted as final.

But let us briefly consider the nature of the evidence upon which the Christian testimony is based. At the time of the Nativity there went out a decree that all the world should be taxed, and Joseph and Mary went up from Nazareth to Bethlehem, where Jesus was born. Now the Romans, as all scholars know, preserved with the greatest care their public records, placing them in the public archives where, under proper limitations, they were open to inspection. And there among other documents was the very enrollment made in pursuance of the Augustine decree, and upon which was registered the name of Christ. And this was frequently referred to by the fathers of the Church.

Tertullian, who wrote in the 2d century, in his disputations with Marcion the heretic, refutes him by the enrollment; and in reasoning and arguing with the Jews he contends that the Blessed Virgin Mary was of the Root of Jesse, and says that the census reads, "Mary from whom Christ was born." These appear to have been the very words of the record. True, Christ was not our Lord's name, but as an objection it has no weight, for he could have no name until eight days after his birth, and when enrolled by the Roman Notary with his Mother, Joseph, instead of giving him a name, called him the Messiah or Christ. Justin Martyr, writing in defense of Christianity from Rome in the year 140, referred the Emperor and the whole Roman Senate to their own records in the Archives, saying, "There is a certain village in the land of Judea, distant about 35 stadia from Jerusalem, in which Jesus Christ was born, as ye may learn from the enrollments completed under Cyrenius, your first Procurator in Judea." Surely, Justin Martyr would scarcely refer the Emperor and his counsellors to documents of whose existence he did not have absolute knowledge. St. Augustine, who lived during the existence of the Archives, and who was 65 years old when the city was sacked, left thirteen sermons on the Nativity, in each one of which he speaks most positively of the 25th of December as the "very day" of our Lord's birth.

St. Chrysostom of the Eastern Church preached a sermon on the 25th of December, 386, in which, quoting St. Luke, xi., 1-7, he says: "Whence it is manifest that he was born at the time of the first enrollment. Listen, and be not unbelieving, for we have received this day from those who have actually examined those things and are inhabitants of that city (Rome) and have now transmitted the knowledge of it to us." And again he says: "Although it is not yet the tenth year since the very day became surely known to us, nevertheless through your zeal it hath been so celebrated as if it had been from the beginning handed down by the tradition of many years." From which we are to understand that the Eastern Church, which had been accustomed to celebrate the Nativity on the 6th of January, changed its Christmas feast to December 25th so soon as it consulted the enrollment at Rome.

Such is the evidence. Is it not conclusive? Surely, none can deny, in view of such testimony, that the day of His birth was the 25th of December, and that the Church is unquestionably correct in its observance.

Destructive critics of every age have sought to destroy its power, but it has been from the earliest ages a voiceless yet eloquent witness to the great truth of the Incarnation; and the truth thus celebrated has been its preservation. It lives in the hearts of men not because, as some would have us believe, there is in it that "touch of nature which makes the whole world kin," but by reason of the divine touch which makes it the representative of the greatest truth of all time.

THE following circular letter has been prepared by a Committee of the Church Sunday-school Association, and sent to all engaged in Church Sunday-school work. It is hoped the labors of the Association will receive the encouragement and aid they deserve:

THE CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION,

ST. LOUIS, Mo., December 1, 1880.

To the Members of the Church Sunday-school Association:

At a meeting of the Sunday-school Association held in the Chapel of St. George's church on Monday, November 15th, 1880, a committee was appointed to select a series of subjects for addresses to be delivered before the Association during the coming year. That committee have selected the following, and the Executive Committee have requested the clergyman named below to address us on the topics designated. These gentlemen having kindly consented the Association looks forward to a course which will be instructive and entertaining to all persons interested in Sunday-school and Church work, and all of our friends of the Church and Sunday-school are earnestly invited to be present, whether they are actively engaged in Sunday-school work or not.

December, Rev. John Fulton, D. D. Subject: "Position of the Church in the Past in Regard to Catechetical Instruction."

January, Rev. M. Schuyler, D. D., "Relations of Parents and Teachers."

February, Rev. E. F. Berkley, D. D., "Importance of Catechism as a Course of Instruction."

March, Rev. J. P. T. Ingraham, D. D., "Correct use of the Bible as a Book of Instruction."

April, Rev. J. Gierlow, Ph. D., "Relation of the Sunday school to the Church and the End to be Sought in Sunday school Instruction."

May, Rev. Jos. T. Wright, "What is Essential to be Observed in Selecting Songs, Hymns and Music for Our Sunday-schools."

June, Rev. P. G. Robert, "The Summing Up—What the Sunday-school Owes to the Church."

The committee also desire to draw attention to the following endorsement of the Course of the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of the Diocese, the same having been submitted to him for approval:

"This is an admirable list of subjects, and the names of the speakers insure an excellent lecture in each case. Their labor and the pains taken by the Association should be recognized by a full and persistent attendance.

"C. F. ROBERTSON."

In compliance with the foregoing, notice is given that the next meeting of the Church Sunday-school Association will be held in St. George's Chapel Monday, December 13, at 8 o'clock p. m. The time of meeting is changed from the third Monday to the second on account of the former being the Monday next before Christmas.

ROGER HAYNE, Secretary.

St. Louis, December 1, 1880.

SAYS The Parish (Church of Holy Communion) Record:

"Bring your children to church with you. The Sunday-school is a 'school'—the regular service, the worship of Almighty God."

Correct; and since it is so, how necessary service and sermon should be made interesting to the children. Not the least among many sad scenes in our churches is the children standing dumb during the praise and "worship of Almighty God," and their departure from His house before the sermon.

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED.

[Adapted.]

The primary object of the Sunday-school is to convey religious knowledge to the children, to instruct them in the duties and doctrines revealed in God's word as held by the Church, to teach them to understand, know and obey the truth.

The Universe is our library; conversation, living studies and observation our best tutor. The aim of intellectual culture should be to develop the faculties of the mind and to give knowledge and dexterity of execution. As wax is ready and pliant to receive any print or figure, so is the child's mind apt to receive any kind of learning.

The highest perfection of human reasoning is to know that there is an infinity of truth beyond its reach.

A desire to know is the very soul of education, without which she is only a statue, lovely indeed to behold, but dead and motionless. This must oftentimes be created.

None but a good man can be a successful teacher. What a man is, is of greater importance than what he knows.

The end of Sunday-school instruction is to inform the understanding in holy things, to rectify the heart, and, by means of the emotions and feelings, to regulate the will.

Curiosity is a useful spring of knowledge; it should be encouraged in children and awakened by frequent and familiar methods of talking with them.

QUIET and unobtrusive but very effective is the work being done by Mr. A. M. Leslie and his corps of earnest teachers in the Sunday-school of Trinity Church. This school received valuable instruction from "Father" Benson, Superior of the Order of St. John the Evangelist, during the Mission services recently held in the church.

MR. RALPH TALBOT has been appointed to the Assistant Superintendency of the Sunday-school, Church of the Holy Communion. The Rector who, in view of the resignation of Mr. Wilkins, long time Superintendent, has assumed charge of the school, will find in him an admirable officer, earnest, faithful and capable. All interested have our sincere congratulations.

ST. GEORGE'S Sunday-school, under the earnest and capable management of Mr. Ashcroft and his corps of officers, is increasing in numbers and interest. Situated in a most promising part of the city for missionary endeavor, it is hoped and believed this school will rise to its opportunity for aggressive work.

THE sessions of Grace Church Sunday-school have been changed from afternoon to nine o'clock in the morning with most gratifying results. The attendance is not so large, but is made up of those whose interest is manifested by faithful teaching, good lessons and reverent worship. The contributions to the support of the school are as great as before the change.

THE fruits of the quiet but earnest and self-denying labors of Mr. Roger Hayne, Superintendent of St. Peter's Sunday-school, are seen in increasing numbers, interest and spiritual power—results desired by every true Sunday-school worker.

MISCELLANY.

—One of the most absurd of all foolish customs is that of inviting a crowd of friends or strangers up to the bar "to take something at my expense." Now, boys, if you want to be generous and treat each other, why not select some other place besides the liquor shop? Suppose, as you go by the postoffice, you remark, "I say, my dear fellow, come in and take some stamps;" these stamps will cost no more than drinks all around. Or go to the clothier's, and say, "Boys, come in and take a box of collars." Walk up to the grocer's, free and generous, and say, "What kind of coffee will you have?" Why not treat to groceries by the pound as well as liquors by the glass? Or take your comrades to a cutler's, and say, "I'll stand a pocket knife all around." This would be thought a strange way of showing friendship; but would it not be better than to offer to your friends a maddening, poisonous, deadly draught?

—When a man tells you he doesn't believe the Bible, quote something from Aristotle or Shakespeare, and ask in which portion of the Scriptures the same passage occurs, and ten to one he will assure you that he has often read it in the sacred book, but he cannot recall the chapter and verse. —[Norristown Herald.]

—Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, the director of Harvard College gymnasium, says that at least half the students he has examined suffer from palpitation of the heart, caused by excessive cigarette smoking and drinking strong coffee.

—"Twenty-nine new preachers graduated yesterday. It is to be hoped that they have learned their business thoroughly, for there is no nonsense about their great enemy, who graduated thousands of years ago and has had his eyes and ears wide open ever since." So writes The New York Herald of last week, referring to the graduation at the Princeton Theological Seminary.

—"I was once very shy," said Sydney Smith, "but it was not long before I made two very useful discoveries; first, that all mankind were not wholly employed in observing me (a belief that all young people have), and next, that shamming was of no use; that the world was very clear-sighted, and soon estimated a man at his just value. This cured me, and I determined to be natural and let the world find me out."

—A minister went to dine at the house of one of his hearers, whom he was in the habit of visiting. Dinner being placed on the table, the master of the house requested the minister to ask a blessing. It was no sooner done than a prattling boy, about seven years old, asked the following appropriate question: "Papa, what is the reason we always have a blessing asked when Mr. — dines with us, and we never at any other time?"

—Among the discoveries made by Colonel Rawlinson in the excavations of Babylon was Nebuchadnezzar's hunting diary, with notes, and here and there a portrait of his dogs, sketched by himself, with his name under it. He mentions in it his having been ill, and while he was delirious he thought he had been out to graze like the beasts of the field. Is not this a wonderful corroboration of Scripture?

—The Central Presbyterian thinks "it could not fancy St. Peter in faultless black, with a coat cut straight down the front." "Perhaps," says the Southern Churchman, "it fancies him in a cut-away coat, white vest, and striped pants."

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Protestant Episcopal City Mission in Philadelphia, gets one-sixth of the three million dollars left by the late Mrs. Shields.

—The Andover Theological Seminary, yielding to the sentiment which demands fuller and more thorough preparation for all kinds of professional work, has decided to lengthen its term of study from three to four years.

—The Church of England, in thirty-seven years, has erected 2,581 new churches, and in thirty years has expended $200,000,000 on church buildings.

—Bishop Harris, of Michigan, recently confirmed a young Methodist minister of much promise, who is now studying for orders. It seems that the Bishop met him, after service, on the occasion of a visitation last December and this casual meeting has since been followed by a correspondence opened by Mr. Osborne, who has gradually been feeling his way toward the Church. The Bishop reports the case of Mr. Osborne as one out of many. The ministers of the various Protestant bodies are frequently present at parochial visitations, generally introducing themselves at the conclusion of the service, and speaking kind words of the Church. This general friendliness often assumes the form of a marked and inquiring interest in the case of the young and more cultivated men.

—Counting twenty tons load to a car, six freight cars loaded merely with postal cards were shipped from Holyoke, Mass., to the Post Office at Washington, as a month's supply from the manufactory.

—The revised census of St. Louis shows that the population of the city on June 1st was 350,915. This is an advance of 25,000 on the first census taken last summer. A loss is had also in the inability to procure the names and particulars of all who were in the city last June and have since removed. Of those who have come in since no account could be taken.

—The Rev. Legh R. Brewer has accepted the Missionary Episcopate of Montana, and will probably be consecrated in December.

—A project is on foot on Long Island to secure the means to build an Episcopal Residence for Dr. Paddock in his missionary jurisdiction before he goes out. Dr. Paddock has been for more than twenty years in his present parish in Brooklyn.

—Capt. Eads' jetties have had a remarkable effect on the commerce of the Mississippi Valley. Since January 1, St. Louis has shipped to Europe twice as much grain by way of New Orleans as passed out of the country by that route in the corresponding period of last year.

—Until the end of January the Living Church, of Chicago, is offered to all who subscribe through the clergyman for a year at one dollar for the volume. It is a vigorous paper, and this is a wonderfully cheap price to pay for so much.

—The Bishop of Manchester England, confirms about 11,000 candidates each year, and the proportion of males to females is about 4 to 7. He has introduced what is an unusual thing in England—confirmations at night.

—Young Dr. Tyng, of New York, has preached a sermon which has produced a wide sensation, declaring his belief in the miracles produced at Lourdes, in France and Knock, in Ireland, where there were said to have been apparitions of the Virgin.

—The Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, the noted Presbyterian minister, in a paper read recently before the great Presbyterian council in Philadelphia strongly advocated the adoption by them of forms of prayer and the Church year.

—Dr. Ewen says that the custom in the English churches is for the congregation to stand when that portion of the second lesson is read, which contains the Lord's Prayer.

—At a recent choir festival of the Trinity Choirs, in New York, the Rev. Dr. Swope declared that congregational singing was impossible, unnecessary and undesirable. He said that better than singing was the passive reception of the music. He will hardly convert many to his views.

MISCELLANY.

—In the following anagram, which was contributed by a lady to one of Dr. Muhlenberg's publications, is to be found a happy specimen of the art, and it teaches a valuable lesson:

Pray tell me where is Christianity?
Transp se the letters:—"It's in charity."

—The following is the Apostate's Creed: I believe in the chaotic Nebula, self-existent evolver of heaven and earth, and in the differentiation of its original homogeneous mass, its first begotten product, which was self-formed into separate worlds; divided into land and water; self organized into plants and animals; reproduced in like species; further developed into higher order, and finally refined, rationalized, and perfected in man. He descended from the monkey, ascended to the philosopher, and sitteth down to the rites and customs of civilization, under the laws of a developing sociology. From thence we shall come again, by the disintegration of the culminated Heterogeneousness, back to the original Homogeneousness of chaos.

—A clergyman recently preaching at Chalfin, Conn., on Abraham's call to offer up Isaac, very gravely remarked: "It was no doubtful voice. I believe that Abraham knew that he heard the voice of God just as plainly as you know you hear me if you are awake." A straightening up of the congregation followed quickly.

I believe in the wholly impersonal absolute, the wholly un-Catholic Church, the disunion of the saints, the survival of the fittest, the persistence of force, the dispersion of the body and in death everlasting.

—The late George Merriam, the publisher of Webster's dictionary, who se early life, though spent in poverty, gave token by its diligence, purity and kindness to his mother of what a true, noble man he would become, said when an old man: "I trace my success in life to a desire to please. To try to please was my great aim; first, my father, and then for the sake of my employer. I lived with my mother, and took four or five apprentices to board with her and if, at the end of the year, she came out short I evened it up." The one who tries to please makes many friends, and therefore has wide influence. One need never sacrifice principle, but one can always be kind. "What is the secret of success of Miss —?" one of the belles of Washington last winter, we asked of a friend. "She does not appear remarkably intellectual, and she is not very beautiful." "No," said the person addressed, "but she tries to please people." And this was the secret of her being loved.

—In a paper entitled "How to deal with Young Men Trained in Science," which Dr. McCosh read before the recent Presbyterian Alliance, he says:

"Let us guard ourselves against the temptation to deny any scientific truth established by the sure methods of inductive science. The God who has made these wonderful works and given us these high faculties means that we should search into them as for treasure; and when gold is dug for us so laboriously by scientific men, it may be as well to enrich ourselves with it. Let teachers beware of speaking to their pupils authoritatively on difficult subjects which they have not studied. If they do so their pupils will be sure to find a malicious pleasure in exposing them to ridicule and contempt. Some years ago an excellent professor in a theological seminary wrote me saying that he had to prepare a paper on development, of which he acknowledged that he knew nothing, and writing me to explain the whole subject in a few pages. I advised him to read Darwin, and Spencer, and Huxley, and St. George Mivart, and Dr. Daws n, and certain articles in The Princeton Review, and then write his paper, which I believe has not yet appeared. I have sometimes feared that, if infidels are produced in any of our colleges it may be in those in which Spencer and Huxley are denounced by teachers who have never studied the questions discussed. Our first inquiry, when a supposed discovery in science is announced, should not be, Is it consistent with Scripture? but, Is it true?"

—A clergymen who has been discoursing about boys has devoted considerable attention to the cost of boys, and he estimates the expense of bringing a good boy, with all the advantages of city life, to the age of fifteen, at about $5000. These figures are about doubled by the time the boy is of age, if he goes through college. A bad boy, arrived at the age mentioned, cost fully as much, even if he has not been to college, and the computation, as the reverend gentleman suggests, does not include the value of the mother's tears and the father's gray hairs. Most men who have brought up boys will agree that the estimate is not too high.

—A minister was once riding through a section of the State of South Carolina, where custom forbade inn-keepers to take pay from the clergy who stayed with them. The minister in question took supper without prayer, and ate his breakfast without prayer or grace, and was about to take his departure when mine host presented his bill. "Ah, sir," he said, "I am a clergyman!" "That may be," responded Boniface; "but you came here, smoked like a sinner, slept like a sinner, and ate and drank like a sinner; and now, sir, you shall pay like a sinner!"

The Celebrated Steinway & Sons Pianos, and
Manufacturers of Conover Bros. New Patent Upright Pianos.

[From Kunkel's Musical Review.]

We recently had occasion to examine the new style upright pianos manufactured by Conover Bros., and were highly pleased with their excellence. All pianists know that, owing to the peculiar mechanism of their action, upright pianos generally fail, in rapid passages, to respond to the touch with sufficient promptness. The patent action of the Conover upright has overcome these difficulties, and gives these pianos a genuine repeating action, nearly equal to that of a Grand. This has been done without complicating the ordinary mechanism, but actually by a simplification of it. No description in words could convey an adequate idea of the Conover action, but we shall at some future time give cuts illustrating this really meritorious invention. Aside from this, the Conover Upright piano has a full, pure tone, with something of the quality of a Grand. The patent music rack with which they are provided is a valuable adoption, and the case is elegant.

Santa Claus' Annual Address.

Once more age is creeping over the latest member of old Father Time's large family, and the year 1880 has declined into the sere and yellow leaf, bringing about the season when I must again visit St. Louis, and scattering through every household remembrances and tokens of the most joyous time in the whole circle of the months.

The past eleven have been busy months for me, as then I had to visit my factories in all parts of the world, directing, advising and suggesting.

I have not neglected to patronize every new thing of any merit that has been proposed to me, but I have never forgotten to keep my factories busy making those good old Christmas Boxes that my young friends seldom tire of.

Not for the world would I neglect Dolls, Noah's Arks, Drums, Animals, and such like.

Now I am in St. Louis, and, after looking well through the city, and examining every store and warehouse offered for my use. I have selected for my headquarters

BARR'S GRAND NEW BUILDING,

Sixth, Olive to Locust Streets.

My reasons for this selection will, I think, be satisfactory to both old and young patrons.

1st. Because BARR'S has satisfactorily done my business in this city for over thirty years.

2d. They have always given me a fine space for the display of my wares, and this year surpass all former efforts, having devoted nearly an acre of their basement for my special use.

3d. Their store is the most central in the city for people to visit and examine my goods, and will be the most convenient for me on my busy night before Christmas, when I must reach every house without loss of time.

There are many other reasons I might give, but the above were quite satisfactory to me.

Let me say to all pa's, ma's, sisters, cousins or aunts who want me to make presents for them. that they must at once visit my headquarters, and leave with me the name and address of those they wish me to visit.

If this information is delayed till just before Christmas, I am apt to get my address books so full and confused that I cannot arrange for prompt delivery.

This annual address would not be complete if I did not warn my young friends that, although I have been so busy preparing my grand display, I have not forgotten to keep a record-book of their bad and good deeds, and shall examine same carefully and when their names are suggested to me by any one.

Remember, bad boys or bad girls should expect nothing from me.

Let all, however, go to BARR'S and make their selections, and hang up their stockings, retire to bed early on Christmas eve, trusting that old Santa Claus will not forget them.

Good-by, now. Don't stay awake to see me come, for you will only delay me in the chimney, and perhaps make me late in visiting some poor child, whose only yearly present is the gift I bring at Christmas.

Your Old Friend,
SAINT NICHOLAS

VOLUME 12, WHOLE NUMBER 1.

ST. LOUIS, JANUARY 15, 1881.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

THE CHURCH NEWS

Is published on the fifteenth of each month. It is a Journal of General and Diocesan Church Intelligence, and is the organ of the Bishop of Missouri.

All subscriptions for the paper, business letters, and also advertisements, should be sent to the Publisher, GEORGE W. MATTHEWS, Room 39, Singer Building, 5th and Locust.

Subscriptions, $1 a year. In clubs of five or more, to different addresses, money sent at one time, 75cts. Other names may be added at the same rate.

A certain number of select advertisements will be received at rates to be arranged by the Publishers.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

January 16, Sunday a. m., Mt. Calvary, St. Louis.
26, Wednesday, Davenport, Iowa, Trustees
Western Church Building Society.
30, Sunday, Sedalia, Convocation.
February 6, Sunday a. m., Good Shepherd, St. Louis.
9, Wednesday, Racine College, Trustees' Meeting.

SOME persons in the Diocese have kindly sent the Bishop a copy of Roper's Church Calendar. He thanks them for their attention, but is emphatic in declining to endorse or approve of many directions which the editor takes for granted as a part of the Church's teaching and worship.

THE Church interests and work in Kansas City are becoming so large and varied that the Bishop can not visit the three parishes on a single Sunday. He can be at one church in the morning and another at night; the afternoon is a time at which a congregation can not be assembled with advantage. A year ago the Rev. Mr. Jardine had expressed a desire that only one appointment for confirmation should be made in his parish during the year, and this in the spring. During his recent visit, therefore, to Kansas City the Bishop visited the vacant parish of Grace Church in the morning and St. Mary's in the First Ward, from which the Rector is absent at present, at night. Of course this arrangement and the reasons for it were fully known to Mr. Jardine, whose parish the Bishop offered to visit this month if desired.

THE Bishop, on application from the Domestic Missionary Secretary, has written a pastoral to the Diocese approving of the plan recently adopted by the General Board of Missions for the securing of systematic offerings for the missionary work. Probably it will very soon be sent by Dr. Twining with subscription books to all the clergy with a request that the matter be prosecuted. It was hoped that, in view of increased receipts from this system, a larger appropriation would have been made for our great necessities. It was not done.

It would be well for the clergy to canvass their parishes for systematic subscriptions for missionary work, using the books sent for this purpose, and then apportion out that which shall go for Diocesan purposes and that for general purposes, say one-half to each, except that the pledge made at Convention for our home work shall be at least redeemed. The idea is that more regular and conscientious and principled giving by deliberate subscription will both yield more in money and awaken more interest than a hap-hazard dropping of a nickel or a dollar into the plate, as the humor and the condition of one's small change at the moment directs. It will better represent what the distinct purpose of the Church is in this matter. Full acknowledgments of what each person has done will be given in the Spirit of Missions at the end of the year.

SOMEBODY has anonymously sent the Bishop on a sheet of paper the following notice cut out and pasted, with the subjoined texts added:

THAT DOLL.

The raffle of the doll at Gumersell's for the benefit of the Episcopal Orphans' Home will take place at Armory hall on Wednesday next, December 29.

1 Thessalonians, v, 22. Philippians, iv, 19.

Probably the person who sent this had some idea in doing so, although what it is, is not quite clear. The Church as such has again and again in the Bishop's Pastorals and otherwise condemned practices like the above. The Bishop of this Diocese has also more than once expressed his mind on the subject in these columns. What more he can do is not apparent. The House of Bishops this year passed a canon for the godly discipline of the laity, but it was thrown out in the House of Deputies of General Convention.

MORE SELF-HELP REQUIRED.

In view of the extent and needs of the Diocese, and the probable increase of the income of the Domestic Committee, the Bishop asked for an increase of the appropriation made to this Diocese from $2,100, given last year, to $3,000 or $3,500 this year. He conceived that this was the least amount which fair dealing would allot. This is the largest Diocese in the Church; it includes one-fortieth of the population of the United States. There are two millions of people in it outside of St. Louis. It has grown one-third in ten years. The entire receipts of the Board reached last year $160,000. Many Dioceses and Jurisdictions not one tenth as large received many times as much more as we did. What has been spent here shows for itself in large and steady growth.

While we believe in helping ourselves as much as possible, it was thought that equitably we should receive as much as Dioceses all around us very much smaller than this. We needed it for pressing work.

The reply has, however, come that there will be no increase granted; that the charge for the three new Missionary Bishops and their work will allow no increase to us. It is a great disappointment. It means less means with which to enter upon new openings, and it means also more work to be done by ourselves for ourselves. It means also that, if there is to be advance into new towns this year, and several new missionaries have already been appointed, more must be raised in the Diocese, and places already helped must yield a portion of this that other good work may be begun.

PARISH SUGGESTIONS.

When a Rector is elected or resigns, the law is that the Wardens or the Clerk of the Vestry shall immediately officially notify the Bishop. If all is regular, the Bishop certifies the fact to the Secretary of Convention for record.

The Warden should sit at the end of his pew and near the front, that he may easily take the offertory basin, or seat strangers, and be ready to render any office to the minister on intimation. He should always have a prayer-book and take a leading part in the responses. Of course he should be in church in time, and come to the Vestry-room, and see if he can be of any use.

The Church lot should as soon as possible be fenced, and trees set out, and they should be kept neat. The ash-heap should not be by the side of the front door. People will honor the Church as we respect ourselves. Ashes will make a good dry walk through the mud from the church to the opposite side of the street. Do not make a litter of old Christmas greens outside the door; save the rope and twine for next year, and burn up the rest. Keep the church and its surroundings neat; this will attract people.

Now is the time to look after broken windows and wide cracks. No fire can fight a broken pane, and spirituality goes out along with the heat. Let the ladies caulk up the spaces that have warped and widened with the summer sun. It is work that will pay. In cold days there should be a time, say, when the first hymn is given out, when the fires should be replenished. The helplessness of some officials in this matter, when the congregation is shivering and determining they will never be caught in that church again in winter, is amazing.

The parish Convention assessment amounts generally to about a dollar a year for each communicant. The way in which some of the clergy who are exact in this matter is to collect themselves, or by some special agent, twenty-five cents each quarter from each communicant, and remit. Some can pay more, fifty cents or a dollar a quarter to make up for those who are unable. In this way the duty is made easy, and no arrears accumulate.

Cut out these suggestions, preserve and occasionally read them.

IMPRISONMENT FOR CONSCIENCE.

They have been having lately their troubles in England about ecclesiastical matters, the result of which is that two or three clergymen have been put into prison for disobedience of the mandate of a court which commanded them to refrain from certain ceremonial observances. They disobeyed because they thought the court was in error, and also because they conceived that the court was not such as to have authority in conscience. Some clergymen and papers in this country are trying to join cause with them, because of alleged persecution.

It is altogether likely that the course of the prosecutors, if they simply desired the suppression of the obnoxious practices, was very unwise; they could have better reached their end than by proceeding to the imprisonment of the clergymen.

The imprisonment, however, is of the mildest kind, and the punishment is robbed of every disagreeable feature so far as physical constraint is concerned. The matters, too, for persistence in which the trouble has arisen are, most persons will think, of very inferior moment, not such as would justify the stirring of a great broil. No point of faith, no historical position can be made or lost by the lighting of two candles, or by the shape or color of some vestments. How much else must have been crowded out of the thoughts before so much could be made of these things. Lord Coleridge, the high Churchman, the son of the sympathetic biographer of Keble, in giving judgment against Mr. Dale, urged that the matters in question are not the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith, but at the best points more or less interesting of ceremonial observance—points on which prior to experience it would be difficult to believe any man could persuade himself that disobedience to the law was a matter of moral obligation.

Furthermore it should be noted that the judiciary against which the gentlemen protest was a part of the law when these persons entered the ministry, and made their pledges, and received the offices which they now hold. They disregard the decisions of the Privy Council, leaving out all consideration of the Public Worship bill. They fight the Church's courts from the positions which the Church itself placed them in. It is a mere revel of self-will that they are now desiring.

The disestablishment of the Church which these gentlemen are now seeking will be the very last thing to help their purposes. Without the freehold entrenchment of a fixed position, and depending on voluntary support, and with laws made summarily by a majority and then strictly applied, they will have a more difficult position than they have now.

But whatever all this means to our English friends, the contention in behalf of disobedience made by these persons, if honestly made, because Bishops are not elected by their Dioceses freely, and because the judge is also a civil officer; all, if applied to this country, should make for obedience to Bishops in their monitions in ritual and other matters, because they have been elected by the Diocese. The judge should be obeyed here because he has the quality which these English persons say if he had there would compel for him respect and obedience.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: St. Mary's, First Ward, Kansas City, 1; Rolla 1, Joplin 2, Carthage 3, St. James 3, Cuba 1.

—Hon. Gilchrist Porter has recently conveyed to the Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese for the Church at Joplin a most eligible lot of ground there, on the corner of two good streets. Across the rear of this a very neat and comfortable chapel has been built, largely of course by the energies of the ladies, for the immediate wants of the congregation, which has before been worshipping in a hall. It is not thought that this will materially retard the building of the church itself on the front of the lot.

—The Bishop was compelled to interrupt his visitations and return to this city to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law last month. He only omitted Springfield, and he has already made this up to them, by giving them Sunday, 9th instant. Perhaps the readers of THE NEWS noticed the extraordinary offering on Thanksgiving day in Springfield of $64 for St. Luke's Hospital. The deep interest of the Rector in this institution has aroused an interest which has twice now within the year called forth very liberal gifts for St. Luke's.

—The Rev. Mr. Crouch is engaged temporarily in giving services to St. Mary's Church, First Ward, Kansas City. The Rev. Mr. Holman's father has recently died in Florida.

—The Rev. Dr. Fulton has been elected a member of the Standing Committee in place of Bishop Dunlop.

—Mr. Wm. Barr of Wm. Barr Dry Goods Company sent to the treasurers of the Orphans' Home and St. Luke's Hospital respectively checks for $100 for a Christmas gift.

—The Rev. Mr. Jardine of Kansas City is evidently intending to widen his work in that growing city, as is indicated in the following advertisement of his recently published in the Standard:

"TWO ASSISTANTS WANTED."

"Priests, thorough Catholics, unmarried, to work in a large and growing Western city, living in community, under simple rule. Grand chance for work. One should be musical. Address (D. V.) Standard Office."

—The Sunday-school at Elleardsville was recently re-opened. On the first Sunday there were 50 scholars present, on the second 74, and on the third 78. Dr. Drake is the Superintendent. The Rev. J. J. Corbyn gives them services on Sunday mornings.

—The Rev. Peter Wager, recently of Corsicana, Texas, took charge of Trinity church, Kirksville at the beginning of the year. His work in every place where he has been shows the evidence of his determination and energy, and the same results will no doubt follow his entrance upon his new work. He will also have charge of Greenwood, Luray and Memphis, formerly under the care of Mr. Huntington, and more recently Mr. Scheetz.

—On the 23d ultimo, on the occasion of his service to Cuba, the Bishop visited for the first time the new church which has been built about two miles and a half north of the village on the State road by Mr. Fairclough from means which have been furnished by friends in England. It is of concrete, solidly built, the outside plastered and marked off in blocks, the inside smooth. It is about 35 feet by 20, with a recess chancel, and an open roof. It is all paid for, and the building and two acres of ground about it will be conveyed to the Bishop. A considerable settlement of Englishmen lives in the neighborhood. A church will also probably be soon built in Cuba, to serve the needs of the growing congregation there, and then a clergyman can hold services in both churches on the same day. Before the service in church the Bishop baptized the grandchild of the gentleman named above who lives close by. It was very sick. During the sermon, less than an hour after, word came to the church that the little child had died.

—The Rev. Mr. Betts made his usual visit and address at the House of Refuge on Christmas day. He has become one of the institutions there for that day.

—The Rev. Mr. O'Connell, formerly of this Diocese, took Dr. Runcie's service on Sunday during his absence, and the Church Guardian thus speaks:

The Dr. writes: "As I walk down the streets the young men will rush out of stores and offices and tell me how much they enjoyed Mr. O'Connell, and to ask when they could have him again. I wish he were here altogether." So do not we, Dr., be content with such things as ye have. Dr. Runcie is one of the best of men, made up of the strangest compound imaginable, consisting of the extremes of selfishness and self-sacrifice. It may be said of him as it can be said of very few: "He and his parish are one," and we take this to be the key to the mystery of his character. He, himself, esteems himself as nothing. His church, his people and his work is a whole, in which he is bound up, and which he raises to a sublimity which sinks every thing else out of his sight, in his desire to attract to it all that is good and great and glorious in man, and then is willing to take a back seat.

—The Rev. Mr. Thorpe of Nevada has had a plea in The Churchman for several weeks asking for help to buy a Campbellite church at an advantage. He has received about $140 of the $1,000 asked for, and is with this going to strengthen and improve the present church building.

—The work on the church at Butler in Bates county is begun. This place, as well as several others, is greatly helped by the new railroad running south from Pleasant Hill, which goes through Harrisonville, Butler and Rich Hill, and has now reached Nevada, and is pushing south to Carthage.

—The musical services at St. John's, St. Louis, on Christmas Day were of unusual merit and interest; and included a Te Deum, and other pieces composed by the Rector, the Rev. Mr. Wright. They still hope to have the debt fully paid by Easter, in which case the church will be consecrated then.

—Mr. Bernard Harding, the notice of whose renunciation of Romanism in Dallas, Texas, appeared in a recent number of The Churchman, has applied to the Bishop of this Diocese to become a postulant. He has been admitted to Faribault, and is studying there. He is of English birth, but has been a number of years in this country.

—No acknowledgments appeared from the Treasurer of the Diocesan Board of Missions in THE NEWS for October or December, because there was nothing received during those months to acknowledge. This is not helpful toward paying the January stipend, or making the appointments for the year. The treasurer is Mr. David F. Leavitt, No. 400 North Second street.

—Another bed in St. Luke's Hospital has been endowed by the gift of $3,000 from the Sanitary Commission Fund, under the direction of Rev. Dr. Eliot and Mr. James E. Yeatman. This gives them the privilege of naming a person—generally the widow or orphan of a soldier in the late civil war—for care and treatment. This makes the second complete endowment of a bed, with the Children's Cot partially endowed. Ground has been broken for the Hospital building.

—The Bishop has appointed the Rev. P. G. Robert an Examining Chaplain of the Diocese.

—A pleasing incident of New Year day took place at the Bishop's residence. Whatever other days in the year he may be away from home, he has always made it a point to be at home to receive his friends on New Year day. This year the Rector, wardens and vestry of St. John's Church made their two fth annual call upon him in a body. Assembling in a body at Judge Ferguson's on the next square, they came at twelve o'clock, and take lunch at the Bishop's. This year a beautiful tablet of the commemoration of the occasion was engraved and was given with flowers to each of the gentlemen, and to the Bishop. The call in which recollections of earlier days was made was greatly enjoyed by all. Several attended this year who took part on New Year day, 1869.

—In Christ Church, St. Joseph, the bad air of the gallery has compelled the removal of the organ and choir down into the body of the church. The music at Christmas was very fine. Dr. Runnie spoke with his usual force and feeling, impressing all hearers with the solemnity of the hour. We think, says a local paper, the leading thought of all of his admirable discourses is consolation, hope and help for the weary and the disheartened. And that too is the spirit of his daily walk among the sick and the afflicted. During the week following the Sunday-school festival took place. The Superintendent reported that the largest number in attendance during the year was 145, and the least 75. An easy chair was presented to the Rector, and slippers to the Superintendent, and after services in church, the school went down to the basement where a collation was served for them, and all were happy.

—Emmanuel Church, Laclede, is vacant, and they do not feel disposed to do anything toward filling the vacancy until spring. The Rev. Mr. Batte has removed to Snow Hill, Maryland.

—Christ Church, Lexington, has been able to increase its salary to its esteemed Rector to $1,000 a year, which it pays in monthly installments, and there are rumors of a very interesting character astir in the parish. It is being thoroughly worked.

—The Southern Churchman recently copied with some additional comments an article from The Independent, giving strictures upon the trustees of an Episcopal hospital in this city, who were said, after having consulted the vestries of their churches, to have hired a theatre for the benefit of the hospital. Then came a reproof to all from the Bishop down. The fact was that two or three of the trustees happening to be in New York at the same time and noticing the success of a certain meritorious piece, decided on their own responsibility to undertake the enterprise of engaging it. They did this with no consultation with the other Trustees; the Trustees as such had nothing to do with it, did not know anything about it, indeed, until it was all done. Of course, there were no vestries consulted. If there had been loss, the few gentlemen involved would have borne it. As a matter of fact it cleared, we believe, over $4,000. Last year a gentleman, thinking to help a certain Guild in this city, engaged an art exhibition for a week; it failed, and he paid out of his own pocket over $600 for his venture.

—The Rev. J. Dudley Ferguson, who comes to us from West Virginia, took charge of his work in Mexico and Montgomery in the first week in this month:

—On the night of the first Sunday in January Grace Church, Jefferson City, was filled on the occasion of a musical service to be held, during which were sung Millard's "Hear our Prayer," Gloria in Excelsis, and anthem "Great is the Lord," a Sanctus and Benedictus of Mozart, and a number of solos and choruses which were capably rendered. The Rev. F. W. Henry was present and took part in the service, and the Rector delivered an address on Praise, and announced that several such services would take place during the winter.

—The Rev. Dr. Gierlow has resigned the rectorship of Grace Church to take effect, we believe, at Easter. This is occasioned by the sale of the property, and the immediate necessity to cut down the lot to the grade of the street, and thus reconstitute the church. The desire of Mr. Branch in purchasing the property is one which, if it can be carried out, will make the parish strong and assured. It will require, however, for its completeness quite an expenditure of money. His idea is that a private court should be put through the middle of the circle, that the church and parsonage should be one half, and on the other some residences facing on the court, the rents of which would assure the support of the church.

—The interior of Grace Church, Carthage, has been newly decorated and carpeted and made to look very bright and handsome.

—Attention is called to the notices of the Sedalia Convocation to be held at Calvary Church there, beginning on the 26th instant. Special efforts were made to repair the losses to the parish from the removal of the M., K. & T. railroad offices to this city, and the deficiency has about been made good. The interior of the church has been handsomely decorated. At Christmas very kind presents were made to the Rector.

—The Bishop has withdrawn the appointment which he was requested to make for the consecration of the church in Brookfield because the amount of money to cover the debt has not been fully provided.

—The Rev. Mr. Masker, Rector of Grace Church, Jefferson City, has been elected Chaplain of the State Senate.

—It may be interesting to some persons to know, as giving some impression of the duties of a Bishop's office, that, in addition to what the Bishop of this Diocese did last year in the way of public services, confirmations, consultations with vestries, etc., and sermons at the rate of four or five a week, his correspondence included over four thousand letters written, and he traveled during the year on official duty 16,400 miles.

—The Rev. Mr. Curtis of Boonville has been called to Calvary Church, Louisiana, with charge of Clarksville and Prairieville.

—The Rev. Cameron Mann of Watkins, N. Y., officiated in Grace Church, Kansas City, on the 2d instant. We have not heard whether a permanent arrangement was consummated.

—The Rev. E. R. Richardson, lately of Dakota, will soon remove to Moberly to take charge of Christ Church there, the people having made an especial effort to secure a salary.

—The swindler, Potter, of whom warning was given several months ago in THE NEWS, and who was last heard of in Sedalia, has turned up in Illinois as a Congregationalist, and is still swindling ministers. Look out for him. He is 25 years old, stout, fine-looking and smooth-tongued.

—Grace Church, Kansas City, has called the Rev. Cameron Mann of Watkins, Western New York, as Rector, and it is thought that he will accept.

—The Bishop has appointed Newton Crane, Esq., as Counsellor of the Chapter of St. Louis. The vacancy in this office had not been filled since the resignation of Judge Ferguson, who retired from physical inability to attend.

—At a joint meeting held at the Bishop's House on the 4th instant of the city clergy, the Diocesan Missionary Board, and the officers of the Laymen's Missionary Society, the evening was spent in considering the manner of working the recently proposed scheme of systematic collections for general missions, along with the pledge for diocesan missions, and any parish missionary work. The following resolution was passed:

WHEREAS, The Diocese of Missouri is distinctively Missionary Ground, therefore, Resolved, That our first care must be for our Diocesan Missions, and that while in the opinion of this meeting the plan of systematic contributions for the General Missions is admirably devised, it ought to be adopted in this Diocese with prime reference to our Diocesan Missions.

The general agreement was that for simplicity and efficiency the parish collectors should at the same time solicit and receive the pledges for the various objects, as the donors preferred, only that the pledge for Diocesan Missions should in any case be redeemed, leaving to the Rector and parish missionary society to apportion out what had been given in a lump sum.

—The Bishop visited Springfield on the 9th, and confirmed 11 persons. He also visited the School, which has been purchased and fitted up by the Rev. Mr. Parker. It has had a surprisingly good success. There are now 56 scholars, and the teacher, Miss Jackson who came on from Hartford to take charge, has had to call to her help another accomplished lady, Miss Barrington of Philadelphia. The growth of the school would have been even greater had Mr. Parker the means to fit up the other rooms in the building.

—The Bishop was present at a parochial missionary meeting in St. George's Chapel on Friday evening, 7th instant, and with a large map prepared for the purpose explained the work doing in the Diocese. A great deal of aggressive work has been laid out in the parish and is being executed with rare energy and system. All of the people are being set at tasks and show how much they are willing to do, if there is competent leadership.

CHRISTMAS AT THE HOME.

There is no household in this city where the annual visit of St. Nicholas is anticipated with so much pleasure as at the Orphans' Home. The many kind friends who send tokens of good cheer would be well paid for their remembrances could they spend an hour with the children on Christmas eve. After the service, carols and address by the Chaplain, they repair to the Kindergarten, where Mr. Shaw, not forgetful of the little ones, has provided two Christmas trees, and busy hands have adorned and filled them with presents for the expectant crowd. Happy indeed are the possessors of these gifts, trifling to the donors, but treasures to the recipients. Even the babies in the cradles are not forgotten, and all can make merry with whistles and horns to their heart's content.

Christmas day was not forgotten as in times past. A visit to the store-room showed that the hearts of the good people had overflowed with love, and a week of Christmas dinners was in store for the fortunate ones; and while "King Frost" reigned without, with plenty of fuel, a score and more of turkey, chicken, beef, hams, vegetables, pies, cakes, candies and sauce the children held high carnival within. VISITOR.

CANTON.

Editor Church News:

I enclose this slip from Canton News of roth instant mainly to correct certain blunders it contains.

The commencement of work depends on whether we are able to sell our present lots, which are larger than we need, and secure a smaller in a better locality; and this in such wise as that we may be able to pay off a small debt on the present lots and pay for the other. Bids will, I hope, be received this week.

Yours, etc.,

F. B. S.

The members of the Episcopal Church in this place have made arrangements to build a house of worship and work will be commenced within the next two weeks. It is to be located on their lots at the corner of 9th and Lewis streets; will be of wood, 22x42 feet, and from the design we think it will present quite an unique and attractive appearance. When commenced, the building will be pushed forward to completion, and as there will be no plastering, with fair weather it can be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. The plans are in the hands of Mr. W. H. Beach, and the contract will be let early next week.

THE CHURCH NEWS

JANUARY 15, 1881.

No communications can be inserted, in any current number, which reach the office after the 10th of the month.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT THE THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL CONVENTION.

RESOLVED, That the CHURCH NEWS be made the official medium of communication between the Treasurers of the different Diocesan Funds and the Parishes, and that the Treasurers be instructed to receipt for all payments to the several funds through the NEWS.

RESOLVED, That it be made the duty of the several rectors and missionaries of the Diocese to extend to the utmost of their power the circulation of the Diocesan paper, the CHURCH NEWS.

CHRISTMAS or the Sunday nearest to it was the time for taking the Collection for the Aged and Infirm Clergy Fund. This is obligatory on each parish and station; and it, as well as the other canonical collections, is a condition for receiving any missionary stipend. If the duty has not been done, better do it at once, and remit.

THE attention of subscribers is again called to the matter of renewing their subscriptions promptly, that they may receive their papers regularly. We have no reserve fund, and can not afford to send to those who do not think enough of the paper to ask for its continuance. We do not stud our columns with begging pleas that debts due the paper may be paid. Attention is called to our club rates. Clergymen are urged to act as canvassers, and send in new names. Those paying the regular rate for Littell's Living Age ($8.50), and subscribing through THE NEWS, receive THE NEWS for the year free.

OUR CONVENTION JOURNAL.

The journal came out about the middle of last month, and is before now no doubt in the hands of many of our readers. It is interesting to those who keep up with our work and purposes in the Diocese. One copy should be kept in every Vestry room, and none of the others should be destroyed. One copy should be for the Treasurer of the parish, that he may learn about the assessments, the friends of the Diocese, and the address of the several Treasurers. Another copy should be for the Warden, and the others for those most likely to be interested.

Making allowance for the imperfect returns, there are 55 clergymen reported as against 48 last year, with 20 of the 41 clergymen employed in parochial work receiving missionary stipends. There is an increase in the number of adult baptisms of 23, of infant baptisms 68, of confirmations 36, of communicants 186 (total 5335), of Sunday-school scholars 413. In the contributions an item of $59,000 for the payment of the debt on St. George's Church in this city is included this year, but should have been reported last year.

Making this change, the total of last year would be $144,611.50 and this year $128,320.44.

The Bishop delivered during the year 245 sermons and addressed in 88 places within and many others outside the Diocese, and on 74 occasions confirmed 404 persons, ordained 5 persons to the Diaconate, and advanced one to the Priesthood, received 8 clergymen into and dismissed 5 clergymen from the Diocese, and held 43 consultations with vestries, trustees, etc.

We commend the tabular statement for examination as to which of the parishes have fully complied with the law as to making the canonical offerings, and which have failed. Not many have done their entire duty, and a number which had ministers completely neglected their duty in this regard.

The experiment of reducing the Convention assessments to the lowest point did not serve to reduce the delinquencies very materially. The total of about $2,000 is made up of some large amounts due from some of the parishes in this and Kansas City; but the greater number owing are places which do not send delegates to Convention and do not understand the nature of the assessment, and have therefore a low sense of obligation; or they are places which have allowed amounts to accumulate during a clerical vacancy, and make no effort to catch up.

If any persons interested have not received a copy of the journal, and will send a request with postage to Mr. John R. Triplett, Secretary of Convention, No. 118 North Third street, doubtless he will send a copy so long as his supply allows.

THE YEAR'S FOOTING UP.

With the issuing of our two Church almanacs comes our means for making up the comparative exhibit of the Church's work and growth for the year. The figures in the two books differ somewhat, with evidence that Whittaker's is the fuller of the two. Taking this last, the statistics of the year are as follows:

Clergy deceased 61, deposed 9, present number 3,435, being a gain of 111; candidates for orders 431, gain of 62; ordinations—deacons 136, gain of 32; priests 96, gain of 12; baptisms 47,962, gain of 2,487; confirmations 25,903, decrease of 1,452; number of communicants 345,841, gain of 20,846; marriages 12,163, burials 22,516, Sunday-school teachers 34,041, scholars 299,070, contributions $7,013,762.86, gain of $430,783.

Both of these almanacs have their characteristic excellence, and every Church family should have one or the other of them. The Church Almanac, Jas. Pott, 27 Cooper Union, New York, 15 cents, or 40 cents with the clergy list. Whittaker's Almanac, T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York, 25 cents, both postpaid.

There is the usual complaint of a want of exactness in making returns on the part of parishes and Dioceses. This produces some curious results. Thus the gain of clergy by ordinations to the diaconate as above is 136; the losses by death are 61, and by deposition 9, which would seem to make the net gain 66, and yet the above reported gain in the number of clergy is 111; showing that either there have been fuller reports this year or else that a number of English clergy have come to us.

In the matter of communicants we rank as the 20th Diocese out of the forty-eight in size, having let the Diocese of Illinois pass us this year.

In the number of clergy we stand the same, and 19th in the number of confirmations for the year. We are 12th in the amount of contributions.

Speaking at large, the number of Sunday-school scholars and teachers always about equals the number of communicants in the Church. But there are some dioceses which always have pressed the Sunday-school work, and show what could be done in all. The Dioceses in Pennsylvania excel in this respect those of New York, except Long Island, which makes a specialty of this work. Illinois does better than Missouri, and Nebraska than Kansas, and Nevada than California.

Many interesting conclusions could be drawn from the returns of the year, and we commend the examination to our readers during some quiet evening this winter.

THE Domestic Committee of the Board of Missions has sent the following request to the several Bishops of the Church:

Resolved, That the Secretary be requested to ask the Bishops the names of the Stations that have received aid from this Committee, within the past five years, that have become self-supporting Parishes or are approaching self support.

There is a very natural supervision kept up by the Committee, to see that places put to good use their aid, and become self-reliant; otherwise help is only a snare and a hurt. A parish recently in applying for continued aid used the expression that "the Church in this place should surely be maintained." The truth of the proposition as put in this generalized form is indubitable, but it is not so clear that it requires indefinite giving on the part of the Missionary Committee. The place had received during thirty or more years probably not less than $10,000 from outside to maintain services, and a very good argument could be made that it was about time it could go without help, and let other places come up to the crib.

PERSONAL.

—Bishop McLaren during January is to deliver a course of lectures before the General Theological Seminary on "Dogma and Doubt."

—The following is authentic: In Mr. Gladstone's household at Hawarden was an old woman servant who had a son inclined to go wrong. The mother remonstrated with and advised her boy, but all to no purpose; he seemed determined on a headlong course to ruin. At last the mother in her desperation caught the idea that if she could persuade the Premier to take him in hand, perhaps the prodigal might be reclaimed. She approached her master, and in trembling tones preferred the request. Mr. Gladstone responded at once, and, though the affairs of the kingdom pressed on him, with genuine simplicity of character he had the lad sent to his study, when he spoke words of tender advice and remonstrance, and then knelt down and prayed a Higher Power to help. The kindly action was effectual, and the lad became a reformed character.

—Bishop Littlejohn of the diocese of Long Island began life as a school-teacher in Montgomery county, N. Y., and saved from his hard earnings enough money to get a liberal education.

—The Rev. Dr. J. A. Paddock was consecrated Missionary Bishop of Washington on the 15th ultimo in his parish church in Brooklyn.

—The Rev. Dr. Washburn of Calvary Church, New York, is sixty-one years old, and has in preparation a work on Church Polity, on which he has been engaged for some time.

—The Pacific Churchman in speaking of the new Missionary Bishops, Brewer, Dunlop and Paddock, in this order, says:

"As to Churchmanship, they may be put, moderate, moderate high, and moderate low. Time alone can decide whether they have special aptitude for the Episcopate—especially for the Missionary Episcopate. The most successful parish priests sometimes fail in the broader field, the one calling for minute detail, and the other for broad generalization, the one requiring aptitude for dealing with women, the other with capacity for leading men."

—Bishop Whipple is sick, and has had to go to Florida sooner than usual for his health.

—Bishop Kerfoot is still in a very feeble condition, and fears are had that he will not be able ever again to resume his work. The Bishop of New Jersey is now making visitations in his Diocese.

—Bishop Atkinson, of North Carolina, died on the 3d inst. at Wilmington. He has been ill for over six months with heart disease, and could not attend the last General Convention. Trained to the law, he had a full, round, judicial mind, of singular clearness and calmness. He was a prelate of very high authority in the House of Bishops. He was nearly 73 years old, and will be succeeded by Bishop Lyman, the Assistant Bishop.

BIBLE LESSONS FOR CHILDREN, James Pott, 27 Cooper Union, New York. A little lesson book, covering more ground than the Calvary Catechism.

The new revised edition of Young's Analytical Concordance will be very soon published by I. K. Funk & Co., New York, and will be sold at the slightest possible advance from the Edinburgh prices.

PROGRESS, ITS LAW AND CAUSE, by Herbert Spencer. Humboldt Library of Popular Science Literature. 15 cents. This Library, of which there are 24 numbers in a year, costs $3 a year. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 Fourth Avenue, New York.

The January issue of St. NICHOLAS, "the New-Year's number," was published on December 28th, giving the young people time to forget a little the glories of "the wonderful Christmas number." Among the contents are several capital things which were crowded out of December. "Bright Eyes," the young Indian girl, makes her first contribution to literature in a charming story of Indian child-life. There is an account of "The Children's Fan Brigade," another of the novel entertainments for children's festivals which have been suggested in the pages of St. Nicholas; "Every Boy His Own Ice-Boat," describing a new sport for all skaters; the first of Mrs. Clara Erskine Clement's "Stories of Art and Artists," which are to be one of the special features of St. Nicholas during the coming year; one of Frank R. Stockton's funniest fairy stories, a poem by H. H. Boyesen, pictures grave and gay, continuations of the serials, etc., etc. The issue rivals the Christmas number in good things.

Gen. Grant is writing an article for the February number of the North American Review, advocating the Nicaragua Canal Scheme. The same number of the Review will contain a contribution by Judge Tourgee, author of "The Fool's Errand," entitled "Aaron's Rod in Politics," and one by Wendell Holmes, on "The Pulpit and the Pew."

WIDE AWAKE for January, 1881.—Santa Claus himself could ask for no better gift-book for his pack than the Christmas Wide Awake in its handsome new cover and new type. It is filled with live stories about live boys and girls and contains dozens of exquisite pictures.

Mr. McCormick furnishes the opening story, "The Children of the Koppenburg," which is accompanied by a beautiful Frontispiece. Sophie May has never written a better story than "Flakie Frizzle's Crazy Christmas;" and Mr. Hezekiah Butterworth's exquisite story of "How Dot Hoard The Messiah," will take by storm the hearts of all music lovers,—this story, with appropriate music, is admirably adapted for Christmas Eve reading. "Uncle Tom's Mince Pie Story," with its wonderful monkey Nick, will delight all the little boys and girls. Mr. G. B. Bartlett, the great Amusement Man, gives some hints for a good time in a story called "Christmas Eve at Grandpa Longlegs." Then there comes a wonderful Cipher, "A Flower Puzzle," for the first and second correct reading of which two money prizes of $10 and $5 are offered. The number is strong in serials, "Rocky Fork," "Polly Cologne," with ten illustrations, and

"The Story of Honor Bright," by the author of "Royal Lowrie." This last named is illustrated by no less an artist than Mr. Walter Shirlow. "Polly Cologne" is by Mrs. A. M. Diaz.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY is about to do a thing perhaps without a precedent in our magazines, namely, reprint a serial story which has already run through six numbers of another American magazine. The serial of Mrs. Barnett, "A Fair Barbarian," which is announced for the "Midwinter Number," is said to be altogether the brightest and most amusing this popular author has ever written. It will occupy two or three numbers only of Scribner's, the first installment covering about twenty-three pages. Apropos of the new revision of the New Testament, now on the eve of publication in this country and in Europe, Scribner's Monthly will contain three articles, one of these by Rev. Chas. S. Robinson, D. D., on "The Bible Society and the New Revision," in which the record of the society on this whole subject is traced with some care; the second by Professor George P. Fisher, of Yale College, showing "How the New Testament Has Come Down to Us," and the third a review of the revision of itself, in which the excellence and thoroughness of the work of the American scholars will be pointed out. The first appears in the January number.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES.

Of all the days in the year Christmas is to childrens' heart the gladdest and merriest. There is that in the birthday of our Lord, and in the knowledge that He was once a babe, a child, a boy, the same as boys are now, which fills even the youngest heart with joy and gladness. And the Church, the mother of us all, delights to add to the pleasure of all her children on that blessed day, by providing means of enjoyment, and the giving of presents as reminders of that great gift of our Father to all the world, his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him might have everlasting life. For all the Sunday-schools, affectionate friends, loving rectors, officers and teachers, made ample provision for joyous celebration of the blessed time. Advent Sunday-school, with characteristic progressiveness, took the lead by holding its service on Christmas eve, certainly the most proper time, and that fitness is then in singing Christmas Carols after the day celebrated. The children gathered in the church, under the direction of the efficient superintendent, Mr. Dana Mansfield, and after a hearty service of prayer and praise, in which all heartily joined; were made glad by a generous distribution of candies and fruits.

On the afternoon of the Sunday after Christmas it was our good pleasure to attend the celebration by St. Peter's Sunday-school. The service was reverent, Carols, which were exceedingly well sung, bright and joyous. Interesting remarks were made by a friend and former teacher of the school, Mr. Cuddy, and by Mr. Owen. Before dismissal teachers and scholars were each presented with a Christmas card as a memento of the pleasant hour. All that was required to make the occasion complete was the presence of Mr. Roger Hayne, the capable and earnest superintendent.

At night the children of Mount Calvary were delighted with a mammoth Christmas tree, loaded with good things and beautifully illuminated. The singing by the children was most excellent, the entire service dignified and hearty. The average attendance on this school is 250.

On Monday night the thoroughly reorganized school of St. John's held services in the church, the rector officiating. We need not say to those who know St. John's, that the music was not only excellent, but inspiring, and that under the blessed influence of the day celebrated, and the presence of the genial rector, all went as merry as heart could wish.

On the same night, Grace Church Sunday-school celebrated in Union Hall. The attendance was large. After the distribution of good things from the Christmas tree, old and young, large and small united in games and other sources of harmless amusement until a later hour.

At 5 o'clock p. m., Holy Innocents' Day, the Sunday schools of St. George's had service and Christmas tree in the chapel. The attendance, notwithstanding the severity of the weather, was good. The rector, Dr. Fulton, conducted the service, and happily introduced the hero of the occasion—Santa Claus. On the night of the same day Christ Church and Holy Communion Sunday-schools had appropriate services in their respective churches. The severe weather prevented in both cases a large attendance, but all that were present had a joyous time, and doubtless carried away pleasant thoughts of their festivities. An agreeable feature at Holy Communion was a presentation to Mr. Robert, the Rector, by his Bible class and the members of the Sunday-school choir, and also to the former superintendent of the school by the same choir which he organized and trained.

One of the best services of the blessed season was prepared by Mr. Leslie, Superintendent of Trinity Church Sunday-school. Undeterred by the fact that Wednesday night, the 29th ultimo, was the coldest of the winter, the members of the school turned out in full force, and were encouraged by the presence of not a few members of the parish who are not actively engaged in Sunday-school work. After the service the school and friends marched in orderly procession to the chapel, where was sung "Gather Around the Christmas Tree." It goes without saying that they heeded the sung exhortation. Here mirth was unrestrained until time for little ones to be at home, when all united in singing "Merry, Merry Christmas," the Rector pronounced the benediction and the last Church Sunday-school service in honor of Christmas day, 1880, came to a happy conclusion.

We are under obligations to "S. S." for the full account, in another column, of the Christmas service of Holy Innocents Sunday-school. We repeat the invitation, so often extended, and so little heeded, to all Rectors and Sunday-school workers to furnish us with any items of general or special interest to those engaged in the common work.

CALVARY SUNDAY-SCHOOL, LOUISIANA, MO.

In place of the usual Christmas tree this School had a celebration at which the children received no presents except a silver medal, which was awarded to Miss Annie Linkhorn, a girl who had not missed a Sunday and not been tardy for six years. In place of receiving presents, the children brought presents; that is, their offerings, amounting to $15, were set aside to help pay the removal expenses of a minister whenever they get one. The offerings were presented in beautifully decorated baskets and by classes. The children entered heartily into the service, which was very interesting and of practical benefit.

D. A. S.

HOLY INNOCENTS' S. S. FESTIVAL.

The annual Sunday-school celebration in this Parish took place on the evening of Innocents Day and was a very interesting affair. Notwithstanding the intense cold, nearly a hundred of the children were in attendance, who with their parents and friends completely filled the little church. The Christmas tree, which came from the Botanical Garden, a donation from Henry Shaw, Esq., was placed under the central arch of the chancel, a smaller one filling one of the side arches, while the organ occupied the other. A row of wax candles following the gothic lines of the three arches, with a tasteful arrangement of candelabras on the organ, and a hundred wax tapers distributed among the branches of the trees, produced, when lighted, a very fine effect. The trees were very handsomely decorated in the usual manner.

The celebration began with the opening service, in choral use in the school, under the leadership of Mr. George Eckols, Jr., the Precantor, consisting of the sentences and responses, the general confession, Lord's Prayer, Versicles, and ending with the Gloria in Excelsis. Then followed a series of bright and pretty carols. Between these were given appropriate lessons, reports, addresses and other matters connected with the church and school.

Noticeable among the Carols were, the "Three Kings of Orient," the music for the verse being taken from Hutchin's Hymnal, to which was adapted a beautiful Chorus, and "See amid the Winter's Snow." The music selected for the latter was the "Agnus Dei" from St. Albans' tunebook. The Solo was very nicely rendered by Mrs. Samuels, the organist of the School, while the Chorus was very effectively sung by the teachers and children.

The report of the Secretary, Mr. John Eckols, showed the school to be in a very flourishing condition. An interesting feature of the evening was the display, with appropriate readings, of the beautiful banner presented to the Parish by Miss Larrabee of Chicago, memorial of the late Rev. Louis S. Schuyler, former rector of the church. A handsome set of library books was also displayed, which the generous donations of the people toward the festival had enabled the school to purchase.

After the closing prayers the children were presented with a bountiful supply of oranges and candies, when in a quiet and orderly manner they dispersed to their homes.

The church, for a long time past without a rector, has called the Rev. Thos. H. Gordon of Glastonbury, Conn., who holds his first service on the 9th of January. S. S.

EPISCOPAL RESIDENCE, TUESDAY EVENING, January 11, 1881.

At a meeting of the Missionary Board held this evening the following resolution offered by Rev. Dr. Fulton was unanimously adopted, and the Secretary instructed to have same inserted in THE CHURCH NEWS:

"The Missionary Board have heard with equal surprise and pleasure the unprecedented increase in the number of clergy now laboring in the Diocese, which appears to be as follows: Six months ago the number of clergy in the Diocese for the first time since its organization amounted to fifty, and within those six months it has been further increased to nearly sixty, or if we reckon from the list of January, 1880, to this date the increase amounts to nearly 30 per cent of the number then in the field.

"The Board can not but regard this unusual growth of our working force with great satisfaction. It is an indication at once of the greatness of our opportunities, and of gratifying success in meeting them. It is an encouragement to all the members of the Church to hope for speedy growth in all parts of the Diocese, and it ought to be a stimulus to all to give generous support to a work which under the wise administration of our Diocesan gives such evidences of practical success; therefore,

"Resolved, That clergy be requested to make known these facts to their several congregations, in such manner as they may see fit.

"D. F. LEAVITT,
"Secretary Missionary Board."

Editor Church News:

The Christmas tree at Nevada was a great success. The music, in charge of Mrs. B. O. Graves, was especially fine. The Rector and wife wish to return heartfelt thanks for many valuable presents. Amongst them, large turkey, basket of "every thing nice," elegant china cup and saucer, carpet parlor chair, and, above all, a complete china tea set, and many others. Such kindly acts tend to link parson and parish together and are highly provocative of better sermons.

GEO. K. DUNLOP.

THE REV. J. L. GAY, Missionary in Fayette and other points in Howard county, respectfully solicits gifts of books and pamphlets for distribution in his Mission. Bishop Randall's "Why I am a Churchman," and his tract on Confirmation and Dr. Thompson's "Kingdom of God" and "First Principles" are most desired. Anything clean and fresh will be read. Even old things, such as Chapman's Sermons, Kip's "Double Witness," Clark's "Walk about Zion," Wilmer's Manual, Bishop Hopkins' "Primitive Church," and Richardson's "Reasons" will be gladly received and placed where they will do the most good. A new supply of Mission Services also is greatly needed.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The papers sometimes get things strangely mixed. The Guardian's account of Bishop Brewer's election, which took place in Watertown, N. Y., where he was rector, on the 8th ult., says that Bishop Huntington, the Consecrator, recited the Veni Creator Spiritus, and pronounced Mr. Brewer Bishop of Montana, and then the ceremony of the laying on of hands was performed. We hope this paper may not fall into the hands of a future historian.

—The next General Convention is to be held in the old historical Christ Church, Philadelphia.

—An invitation which had a singular significance was made by the non-Episcopal minister of Boston to the Rev. Knox Little, the English preacher, to deliver an address in Boston on the objects and results of Ritualism. He complied, and before an audience that crowded the large Tremont Temple, and was remarkable for ability, delivered a lecture of an hour and a half, in which he put the case with great boldness and ability. He was introduced by the Rev. Dr. Duryea, a Presbyterian minister.

—Dr. Boyd, of the Baptist church in St. Louis, in his Christmas report, shows that there were 19 children who were baptized into the church from his school during the year. What does this mean?

—Two new Church papers have recently been started in the South,—the Southwestern Churchman at New Orleans, and the Church Times at Atlanta, Ga. The Southern Churchman fears they are becoming too numerous.

—The Twelfth Chinaman ordained to the ministry of the Church of England is the Rev. Sia Sen-Ong, who was admitted to deacons' orders by Bishop Burdon on Sunday, May 30.

—The population of St. Louis, as published by the census bureau, is 350,552, and that of Missouri officially is 2,169,001. The increase in the State in the ten years is 447,705, or 26 per cent.

—The Board of Managers of the Church Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews met recently and appointed new missionaries for Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, New Orleans, and Louisville, and made provision for work in Chicago and in the Diocese of Iowa. Local secretaries were appointed in nineteen additional dioceses on the nomination of their bishops.

The Society's second anniversary was held during the session of the late General Convention, in Zion church New York. Addresses were delivered by the Bishops of Minnesota and Missouri. Bishop Robertson called attention to the fact that 130 Jewish clergy now ministered at the altars of the Anglican Church, three have become bishops. He frequently admitted persons of Jewish race to confirmation in his diocese. Bishop Whipple testified to a similar experience, and said that his cathedral at Faribault, and almost every mission station in his diocese, was partly supported by offerings from the Jews who were there very kindly disposed toward Christianity. Difficulties existed, of course but he was greatly encouraged at what had been done and at the outlook of the work. There was no room any longer to question the facts. It was a work having a just and peculiar claim upon the Church, and he knew it would be supported.

SIXTY THOUSAND PATIENTS AFTER THIRTEEN YEARS.

The treatment of sixty thousands patients should establish without doubt the effectiveness of Rev. T. P. Childs' "Catarrh Specific," the advertisement of which appears in this issue of the Church News.

Mr. Childs gives his own experience after thirteen years relief from the dread disease. No doubt many of our subscribers will find their own cases stated with startling clearness. The discovery of his cure for Catarrh has attracted great attention. Leading men everywhere publicly states that Childs' treatment has cured them or their families of Catarrh or of Throat difficulties, not obscure, unknown men but men whose reputation is national—among them clergymen, physicians, lawyers, merchants, bankers and business men. Editors and publishers of our leading periodicals, and many others, have personally investigated the facts, and they are satisfied that Mr. Childs has made such a study of the disease known as Catarrh as to have enabled him to treat it with most extraordinary success. The statement of, the causes and symptoms of the disease given in the advertisement are wonderfully accurate, and the sufferings endured by those afflicted are certainly appalling. That Mr. Childs has been able to cure himself and heal the ravages made in his own system by the disease, and then, after thirteen years of perfect health, to make the assertion that he has never once had a return of the disease is wonderful, and shows the power and effectiveness of the remedy.

It is said he has treated and cured thousands at their own homes, never having seen them. In a thoroughly honorable and characteristic manner he publishes the names and addresses of a few of those he has cured, that any who desire may inquire of the patients themselves what Childs' Catarrh Specific has done for them. To judge from the published statements of some of his patients, the medicine Mr. Childs continues to place, by the use of his inhalers, just where it is needed, must be the most powerful and searching in its character to produce such surprising results. None need feel any hesitancy in placing their case in Mr. Childs' hands for treatment. We would call especial attention to the advertisement, and request a careful perusal of the facts as set forth.

Many who do not receive our paper would doubtless be very thankful, should our readers call attention of such to the advertisement of Mr. Childs. Catarrh is a common and disgusting disease, but Childs' Catarrh Specific may be relied on as an effective and certain cure, and you may recommend it to your friends with every confidence.

BUTCHERING OF THE FOOT!

The Good-Enough Shoe and System has proven to be the Savior of the noblest of the animal creation, the horse, by its simple and practical method of keeping THE HORSE ON HIS FEET, LESSENING HIS LABORS, AND PROLONGING HIS LIFE. The anxiety of the ladies at rest! Their pets no longer subject to the maltreatment of the foot, as received at the hands of inexperienced horse shoers, who have not made a study of the anatomy of the horse's foot. The greatest proof of the success of the shoe and system is the innumerable cures of cripples, through improper shoeing, it has performed in the past year. Amongst the many horse owners who have given this shoe and system a thorough and impartial test, whose horses are now being shod with this shoe, and who are amongst its most staunch supporters are the Hon. Erastus Wells, President Mo. R.R.; Julius S. Walsh, Esq., President City and Union R.R.; Capt. John D. Scullen, President W. D. & M. C. R. R.; Daniel E. Walsh, President People's R. R. Co.; E. C. MISCELLANY.

—We think it was Dr. Chalmers who first called attention to a matter of political economy. He remarked, that Christ never refused to heal the sick; but only on two occasions supplied the multitude with food. The reason of it was plain; giving food was a premium to laziness; the more he gave the more poverty he occasioned; and so the more evil. But no matter how much sickness He cured, it had no tendency to increase the amount of sickness. Dr. Franklin, when a member of the City Council of Philadelphia, refused to vote for building a poor house on the ground "if you have pigeon houses you will have pigeons; if you have poor houses you will have paupers." The principle is a right one; with exceptions, no doubt. Hence we cannot err in giving to hospitals; we alleviate human misery and at the same time do not increase the number of the sick. But indiscriminate alms-giving is an evil. Archbishop Whately, who gave away many thousands of pounds, "thanked God" he had never given a penny to a street beggar."

—Nickelism is a new complaint made in the churches. It is the next thing to Nihilism; that is, it comes within a nickel of putting nothing into the contribution box. This disease is not confined to religious tramps and repeaters, but attacks well-to-do pew holders, who thus keep up appearance at the smallest cost. The widow's mite, it is well to remember, was commended, only because it was all she had.—[Presbyterian Journal.]

—"Believe and be baptized, and thou shalt be saved." Infants cannot believe, therefore they ought not to be baptized. Exactly so. "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." Infants cannot repent, therefore they must all likewise perish. This we command you, that if any would not work, neither should they eat." Infants cannot work, therefore they must not eat. It is all equally logical.

—The engineer of a train near Montreal saw a large dog on the track. He was barking furiously. The Engineer blew the whistle at him, but he did not stir, and crouching low, he was struck by the locomotive, and killed. There was a bit of white muslin on the locomotive, and it attracted the attention of the engineer, who stopped his train and went back. There laid the dead dog and a dead child, which had wandered upon the track and gone to sleep. The dog had given his signal to stop the train, and had died at his post.

—Bishop Coxe speaks of persons who with jeweled fingers, will give ten cents to foreign missions and then sing:

"Love so amazing, so divine.
Demands my heart, my life, my all."

—Mr. Moody, lecturing on the Lord's Prayer in St. Louis and dwelling much on the forgiveness of trespasses, noticed that while he was speaking fifty or more persons rose and left the church; whereupon he said that he had known persons who had heard about this requirement for forgiveness hastily leave the church and seek out those who needed to forgive, and he hoped that those who were then leaving the congregation were prompted by such a spirit.

—Dr. Noah Porter, President of Yale College, thus describes the effects of denying the existence of God and his authority in the world: "So far as man denies God or denies that God may be known, he abandons hope of every kind—hope for his own moral progress, hope for the progress of society, hope for guidance and comfort in his personal life, for which the present is a preparation. As he lets them go one by one his life loses its light and dignity, morality loses its enthusiasm and energy, and science has no promise of success, sin gains a relentless hold, sorrow and darkness have no comfort, and life becomes a worthless farce or a sad tragedy, neither of which is worth the playing, because both end in nothing."

—The Religious Herald hits the gold in these half dozen lines: "We heard a Preacher, a few days ago, who 'talked his sermon,' and the congregation listened with tearful interest. How different it would have been had he declaimed. 'If you want to speak well,' said Brougham, 'learn to talk well.'" It would be well for Ministers to ponder this: many an earnest appeal to the hearts and conscience of men passes for nothing, because delivered in an ore rotundo voice instead of using the sympathetic power of the conversational method."

CATARRH CAN BE CURED.

CHILD'S CATARRH SPECIFIC!

THE PERMANENT CURE OF CATARRH.

Do Not Use Nostrums in Attempting Its Cure!

THIRTEEN YEARS AGO

Catarrh was considered an incurable disease. I had then suffered for eighteen years in a manner only known to those who have had this disease in some of its worst forms. My professional duties made exposure a necessity, and I was first attacked by a slight cold; terrible headaches, which would not be cured, followed, with deafness and ringing in the ears, soreness of the throat, disgusting nasal discharges, weak, inflamed eyes, hawking, raising of vile matter, black, and sometimes bloody mucus, coughing, with great soreness of the lungs. The liver and stomach were polluted with the mass of diseased matter running from the head, until dyspepsia indigestion and liver complaint made me a wreck, and incapacitated me for my professional duties, and confined me to my bed. Compelled to resign my pastorate, and feeling that my end was near, in desperation I gave up the physicians, compounded my CATARRH SPECIFIC, and wrought upon myself a "wonderful cure." Now, at the age of sixty-seven, I am wholly restored, can speak for hours with no difficulty, and never have had, in the whole thirteen years, the slightest return of the disease. EVERY PHYSICIAN who has examined my Specific, says it is Certain and Thorough and Perfect. Compelled by the calls of fellow-suffering friends, I have given my specific to the public. The great success that has followed has given rise to a host of imitators. Thousands now are suffering ailments of various kinds which have their source in various forms of catarrh malady. Many thousands who should be cautious and not trifle with health, go to the nearest druggist's and buy one of the many "curealls" that advertise "catarrh" among all the other ailments the body is heir to. This method of seeking relief is not only useless, but positively dangerous, and many victims, after spending large sums in trying this class of remedies, realize, perhaps when it is too late, that catarrh cannot be trifled with, and should be met in the same determined way that it attacks the system.

T. P. CHILDS.

Thousands suffer without knowing the nature of this almost universal complaint. It is an ulceration of the throat. Its indications are hawking, spitting, Weak, inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, dryness and heat of the nose, Matter running from the head down the throat, often ringing or deafness in the ears, loss of smell, memory impaired, Dullness and dizziness of the head, often in the first stages, but more commonly in its advanced stages, attended with pains in chest or left side, and under the shoulder blades. Indigestion usually attends catarrh; a hacking cough and colds are very common. Some have all these symptoms, others only a part.

Very little pain attends catarrh, until the liver and lungs are attacked in consequence of the stream of pollution running from the head into the stomach. All persons thus affected take cold easily, and have frequently a running at the nostrils. The breath sometimes reveals to all around the corruption within, while the patient has frequently lost all sense of smell. The disease advances covertly, until pain in the chest, lungs or bowels startles him; he hacks and coughs, has dyspepsia, liver complaint, and is urged by his doctor to take this or that; perhaps cod liver oil is prescribed. Perfectly ridiculous! The foul ulcers in the head can not be reached by pouring such stuff into the poor, jaded stomach. The patient becomes nervous; the voice is harsh and unnatural; he feels disheartened; memory loses her power, judgement her zeal; gloomy forebodings hang overhead. Hundreds, yes, thousands, in such circumstances feel that to die would be a relief, and many even do cut the thread of life to end their sorrows.

There is one other form of catarrh that we must refer to. A hard substance forms in the head, becomes very painful, frequently breaks; and is blown with great pain and difficulty from the nose. In other cases it will eat through and discharge itself by the side of the nose making a terrible gangrenous sore. One of my patients was in this condition, She is now getting along finely: the sore healed up, the stench and acrid matter all gone.

For All Afflicted With Catarrh in Any of its Developments, CHILD'S CATARRH SPECIFIC affords a SAFE, SURE AND PERMANENT CURE.

My Treatment.

By my manner of treatment the applications are made to reach the diseased parts in the most thorough manner possible, immediately penetrating every cavity of the head that communicates with the nasal passages, and subjecting every portion of the lining membrane to the cleansing, soothing and healing action of the remedies employed, with the most salutary effects. So effective is our plan, that a single application generally produces a decided relief, the cavities are thoroughly cleansed of the accumulated mucus, and morbid matter, the offensive smell, if any exists, is removed, and relief from all the other troublesome symptoms is almost immediately obtained. The discharges soon become lessened, the irritation is soothed and allayed, the inflammation subsides, ulcerations are made to heal, the constitution soon rallies and is built up, so that the whole system, relieved from the drain of the poison, is in a manner revitalized and made new, and finally a radical cure is effected.

To All Who Suffer With Catarrh.

60,000 Catarrhal Cases have applied to me for relief. Many thousands have received my Specific, and are cured. We deem it only fair that every one that wishes should have the opportunity to ascertain whether we are able to accomplish all that we claim; and for this purpose we add a few of the many hundreds of unsolicited certificates which have been sent to us by grateful patients—as well as the addresses of some who have been successfully treated, almost any of whom will doubtless respond to any inquiry by letter, if accompanied by a stamp to pay postage. Having been cured themselves, they doubtless will be willing to let the afflicted know where they can find certain relief. We have thousands of these certificates from all classes—physicians, clergymen, lawyers, judges, merchants, bankers and business men.

REFERENCES AND CERTIFICATES.

- 193 E. FAYETTE ST., BALTIMORE, MD., Dec. 20, 1879.
- REV. T. P. CHILDS:—I have the pleasure of informing you that after a faithful use of your remedy for eight weeks ending March 28, 1879, I am completely rid of a stubborn case of catarrh of three years' standing—breathing tubes clear as a whistle appetite good and digestion good.
- Yours,
THOMAS B. HAND.
- DR. CHILDS: DEAR BROTHER.—This is to certify that I have used your "Catarrh Specific and Cold Air Inhaling Balm" in my family with most beneficial results. My son, now in Madison University, New York, was so badly afflicted with catarrh, I feared for a time he was incurable; and when I applied to you for medicine my hope was faint. It acted speedily and efficiently, and I believe saved him from an early grave. He is now perfectly cured. My wife, who had become very much reduced by a residence in Farther India as a missionary, has derived great benefit from your "Inhaling Balm." I can most heartily commend these medicines to the afflicted, believing they are all they profess to be.
- THOMAS ALLEN, Dayton, O.
- REV. T. P. CHILDS: DEAR SIR.—I think you have the true theory and practice for cure of nasal catarrh, and also the treatment of the respiratory organs. My throat is now so well restored, that I can lecture daily without any difficulty, and find no difficulty whatever in preaching. You are at full liberty to use my name for the benefit of others.
- Yours very truly,
E. B. FAIRFIELD, D. D., LL. D.,
Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb.
- REV. T. P. CHILDS: DEAR SIR.—About three years ago a severe attack of measles left my daughter with catarrh of the head. A severe cold aggravated the disease. I commenced using your treatment, and she commenced to improve at once. Now my daughter is entirely well—all the horrible disease gone. Your treatment is marvellous in its effects.
- JOHN W. RILEY, U. S. Express Ag't, Troy O.
- Ofahoma, Leake Co., Miss., May 28, 1880.
- REV. T. P. CHILDS:—Since receiving your specific I have been hitting hard. It takes hard hitting to make such an enemy as catarrh surrender—at least it did in my case. There remain still some symptoms of bronchial irritation, but that is now so slight, and the symptoms appear so seldom, that I scarcely regard them. Whatever may be said of other cures effected either by your remedy or any other, mine is really a marvellous one. I feel as if I had almost taken a new lease on life, so great is the change of my whole being. I am close to sixty-nine years old, and can endure nearly as much labor as I did at forty. I have a good appetite, not ravenous, but a healthy one; good digestion, and enjoy excellent sleep, undisturbed by any of those symptoms of strangulation of which I wrote last fall.
- R. E. MELVIN.
- REV. T. P. CHILDS: Dear Sir.—It affords me great pleasure to notify you that I have (as I sincerely believe) entirely recovered from that loathsome disease, catarrh, through your very beneficial treatment.
- Very respectfully yours,
B. BENEDICT.

TO THE READER!

Child's Catarrh Treatment is not sold in the drug-stores as a patent medicine, because it must be adapted to the wants and constitutional needs of each patient. A knowledge of this is of importance, and of this we make a special study. We desire communication with the sufferer, that the treatment may be suited to his case. We especially seek to treat those who have tried other remedies without getting the expected benefit. We send to any one earnestly seeking the cure of this most vile and distressing disease, on receipt of a 3-cent stamp, a full statement of method of home treatment and cost, with scores of testimonials from those who have been cured. An offertory will be made at every service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the minister is requested to give notice.

A SUNDAY-SCHOOL in the Diocese wants some second-hand library books. If any school or person has any such, now disused, and if in this city will send them, or if in another place, will send account of them to the Bishop, he will be able to help a worthy missionary work.

WHEN persons borrow books they are much more willingly loaned if they will only remember that it is fair and kind to the owner and to others who may desire to borrow the same books that they be returned directly they are read. Many clergymen have lost scores of valuable books from inattention in this matter.

THE Bishop reminds the Diocese that the second Sunday in Lent, the 9th of March, or the Sunday nearest to it when it may done, is the day in which the Canon enjoins that the collection shall be made for the Permanent Episcopal Fund in all the churches. The treasurer is Mr. C. S. Freeborn, No. 309 Olive street.

A LADY in this city in whose word the Bishop has entire confidence desires to sell to some congregation her Burdett combination organ, two banks of keys, eight stops, and pedal base, a powerful instrument, used at the first Easter services in St. John's Church. Its cost was $450, it would be sold now for $100. Any person who is interested may address the Bishop.

THE Bishop has recently received an interesting letter from Miss Davison, whom he met several years since at her relative's house in Jefferson City. She is now connected with the Mary Baldwin Memorial School, Jaffa, Palestine. She seeks to create an interest in this the only effort that our Church is making to bring back the light of the Gospel to the land whence we received it, and which our Saviour hallowed by His presence in the flesh. The school is supported wholly from voluntary contributions from Sunday-schools, woman's auxiliaries, sewing circles, private donations from friends and travelers. Contributions could be sent, stating the object, care of the Rev. Joshua Kimber, 23 Bible House, New York City.

WHILE we have been talking of the increase of our work, and plans to carry out the recommendations of the General Board of Missions in New York, we are in some danger of coming to the end of the next quarter with not enough money on hand to meet the stipends voted. This would bring dismay into many a household. If you will look back for several months you will see that the receipts acknowledged by Mr. Leavitt have been very small. The collectors appointed in the several parishes do not seem as yet to have report ed much. Will all remember that the year began in October last and that their collections must be for two quarters in arrears because of the slowness in getting to work. The need is urgent and immediate. The treasurer reports to the Bishop that he has but $280 on hand and that his needs next month will be $600.

VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT.

The idea has prevailed about a town that when it stops to make itself pretty, it is a sign that it is no longer growing. But in making of our villages along with all other enterprise there are efforts making to beautify the streets and plant trees out in the parks and take care of them. A few years ago the administration of the North Missouri road showed an excellent spirit in laying out grass plots and planting trees about a number of its stations.

It is needless to say that there is much that is very unsightly in most of our towns; and it is not necessary that it should be so. Animals run in the streets and burrow. Rubbish lies about the buildings and alleys. Trees are not set out, or if they are, they are not protected, and so are broken and killed. Sidewalks become a dangerous snare with holes and loose boards.

There are plenty of reasons why with improving times now there should be a local pride which will make our villages more handsome and worthy. For this money is not so much needed as personal attention and public spirit. Each person must begin by seeing to it that his own premises are what they should be.

There ought to be organized a village library. In the towns in this State where there is a library, or where for a generation a public institution has been, the difference can be seen in the appearance and intelligence of any audience that gathers there. Where it is possible there should be had in the winter reading circles. A small amount contributed by several in concert would secure for all the reading of all the better periodicals of the day.

Much could be done in many towns in the matter of drainage, in the removal of waste, and in guarding wells and water supplies from impurities. The road sides could be improved by clearing them of rubbish and planting lines of trees. Kirkwood has recently done something in this. Neighborliness is promoted by having good roads, sound sidewalks and good lights in the streets at night. Walking in England and good health among women is greatly promoted by the splendid roads found everywhere.

Village parks and cemetery, the grounds around the court-house, churches and schools should be better attended to. There should be a good stock law enforced to begin with, then trees should be planted early and looked after, seats provided, and abuses severely dealt with. From all this will result a growing local pride. This interest promotes the growth and prosperity of a town by inviting desirable residents. The development of a love of flowers, vines, shrubbery and trees fosters domestic attachments. A sordid carelessness about decency in a place, an illiberal, selfish policy about improvements is most wasteful, as it causes better persons to remove to the city, and decides others not to come in. In this city, even, it could be proved that our coal smoke and griminess in winter and our limestone dust in summer loses us tens of thousands of dollars every year in driving wealthy persons to New York and Europe.

This whole matter is deserving of more attention from those who wish well for our towns and our State. In many towns over the land Rural Improvement Associations have been formed. Much that is interesting on this whole subject could be found in the following pamphlets: Northrop's Rural Improvement and Tree Planting, Forestry in Europe, and other papers by the same author, both published by Tuttle, Morehouse & Taylor, New Haven, Conn., and the West Ewing Improvement Association papers, 50 cents. LENTEN CONFERENCES.

Allusion is made elsewhere to the series of Lenten Conferences which it is proposed to hold in Christ Church Chapel. The object is to open up and consider from a Christian standpoint, and with the aid of clergymen and laymen, matters which have common and vital interest, and which have usually to be treated in a partial manner. These conferences are held at the instance of the Bishop, clergymen and laymen of this city represented in Chapters, and with a deep interest shown for their success.

They will be held at eight o'clock at night on Ash Wednesday evening, and the Tuesdays in Lent until Holy Week. The Bishop will preside, and will previously request a clergyman and a layman to open up the subject. Any other persons will then be at liberty to present their views on the matter, and it is hoped that this opportunity will be made use of promptly and to the point.

The following is the order of subjects to be considered:

MARCH 2, ASH WEDNESDAY Is it not possible that there should be more co-operation in our Church work, on the part of men, and of lay persons generally? What are the hindrances, and how may they be overcome?

MARCH 8, TUESDAY. Do any changed religious or social conditions suggest any modifications in our public worship, in the order or length of the services, in the preaching, in the music, etc.? How far is it possible to modify the increasing neglect of the evening service?

MARCH 15, TUESDAY. The Distribution of Charities. Can any better methods be devised for the systematizing and better use of the benefactions of our congregations?

MARCH 22, TUESDAY. Recreations and pleasures. Can any better rules be formulated for Christian action concerning them?

MARCH 29, TUESDAY. The Public School System. What is the benefit to be expected from it? What are the limitations of its usefulness? Are any modifications needed?

APRIL 5, TUESDAY. Is our Church in St. Louis doing all that could properly be expected? Does the city present any new opportunities for greater growth and usefulness?

It is hoped that an especial point will be made of these conferences and continued attendance throughout secured. Very much benefit will come from the acquisition of clear views of these important questions.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

— Letters Dimissory to this Diocese have been received recently from the Bishop of New Jersey for the Rev. Thos. H. Gordon, from the Bishop of West Virginia for the Rev. J. Dudley Ferguson, from the Missionary Bishop of Northern Texas for the Rev. Peter Wager, and from the Missionary Bishop of Colorado for the Rev. E. R. Richardson. The Bishop has given Letters Dimissory to the Rev. W. C. Sherman to Minnesota, and to the Rev. A. Balte to the Diocese of Easton.

— Mr. M. L. Quinn, postulant for the ministry from this Diocese, has recently been admitted into Seabury Theological Seminary at Faribault.

— The Rev. Mr. Thorpe, in answer to his appeal in The Churchman, along with other amounts received for the repair and strengthening of his church in Nevada, has received one gift of $100, and another of $200.

— Of a Churchman in this city, who is not one-fourth as wealthy as scores in our churches, and who gives by the hundreds of dollars, it was told us as a fact the other day that he gave away more than half of his entire income for religious and benevolent objects. He was not sorry or proud over it.

— The Rev. Cameron Mann, of Western New York, has accepted the call to Grace Church, Kansas City, at a salary of $2,000 a year, and enters upon duty on Septuagesima Sunday. In the meantime the services are maintained regularly, the Rev. Mr. Morrison of Chicago and Dr. Ashley of Milwaukee officiating among others.

— The Bishop of Oregon spent Sunday, 30th ult., with Dr. Runcie at St. Joseph, and with consent of the Bishop of the Diocese confirmed some candidates under special circumstances.

— Mr. James Pott, Church Bookseller, has removed to No. 12 Astor Place, New York. He is the publisher of The American Church Review under its new auspices, and keeps on hand all books, tracts and Sunday-school requisites.

— The Rev. Mr. Masker, in a recent sermon in Grace church, Jefferson City, on good government, paid a deserved tribute to the administration of Governor Phelps. He said: "When one retires to private life, as we have lately seen done in our midst, after a faithful service extending beyond an ordinary generation, without having been once touched by the breath of calumny, without having for an instant swerved from the line of strict rectitude in his official career, he goes crowned with the greenest of laurels. No man could meet the high demands which had been made upon him and could make so satisfactory a record, who had not, consciously or unconsciously, followed the highest and purest principles of law and justice. May those who come after do as well."

— The Bishop visited Mt. Calvary church, St. Louis, on Sunday, 16th ult., and confirmed 17 persons. A number of the candidates were necessarily absent. The service was one of very deep interest, and the congregation crowded the church, the seats of which are all taken.

— After all, the Rev. Mr. Ferguson did not remain in Mexico after he got there but one afternoon. The first thing heard from him was a letter from Denver, in which he said that he had gone there, and concluded to stay. He said that he found everything at Montgomery pleasant. He made an appointment for a certain Sunday, but when he went on did not let them know of the change, and did not recall it. He explained that he found indifference at Mexico. But on the other hand it is said that he was told, on account of the cold and repairs on the church, the Baptist church would be rented for their use. He stayed only a few hours, made arrangements for his quarters in Mexico, and said as he was leaving that he was going to Leadville to visit friends, and would be back in a week. He did not go to Leadville, nor return in a week. He had been in correspondence with Colorado before he saw Mexico.

— The annual meeting of the incorporators of the Western Church Building Society, which was to have taken place in Davenport on the 26th ult., had to be postponed, on account of the inability of the greater number to be present. The time when the meeting will take place is not yet announced.

— The death of Mrs. Bodley, the wife of Mr. Harry I. Bodley, of Kirkwood, has about it much more than parochial interest. We may not enter into the sorrow of a household where for 54 years there had been a happy wedded life. But in the days of long ago, when Mrs. Bodley was in her prime, it was her strong, sterling character which did very much to establish the parish of Grace church on its strong, Churchly lives. She was a person of rare qualities, of wide range of thought and reading, of a beautiful clearness and confidence of religious trust, of a strength and definiteness of purpose altogether consistent with an entire gentleness. At her funeral the church was filled, and there were many present representing her wide range of kin. The Bishop of the Diocese, Bishop Dunlop and Dr. Berkley took part in the service at the church, and the Rev. Mr. Robert joined the cortege when it started from the Union Station for Bellefontaine. On the casket was most aptly a full sheaf of ripened grain.

— A few Sundays ago a very interesting circumstance took place in Christ church in this city. The Bishop had been asked by the Rector to make a statement to the congregation concerning the missionary work in the Diocese, its progress and needs. After he returned to the vestry room a stranger came up to him modestly and said that he was a stranger, a Boston man, and said: "Here is a little for your work, it was saved last night by not taking a Pullman car," and he slipped two silver dollars in the Bishop's hand.

— Holy Trinity Chapel, St. Joseph, is finished at a cost of $1148, with a debt of $60. It is a frame building, 48 feet by 25, with a porch in front 8 by 10 feet. There is neither chancel nor vestry room. The people in the vicinity of the chapel, nearly all of moderate means, gave $1000. About $200 besides has been given for font and organ and chandeliers, leaving the seats to be provided for. It was to have been opened on the day of Bishop Morris' visit, the 30th ult. The Sunday-school in the Mission has up to this time been paying rent. There should be a clergyman in charge at once.

— It may be remembered that the Bishop was obliged to postpone his appointment to consecrate the church at Brookfield, because of the inability to raise the balance of the debt in time. He was, however, telegraphed to two days before the time that the amount was raised, and asked if he could come. He was unable, however, because of two or three other engagements which had in the meantime been formed. He has, therefore, appointed the service for the 27th of this month. Much energy has been shown by the Rev. E. Talbot in raising the amount.

— A few days ago one of the Rectors of this city being informed of a special stress under which one of his clerical brethren in the Diocese, not a missionary, was laboring, after consulting the Bishop, presented the matter to four other clergymen and three laymen of this city, and had a refusal from no one. He sent a check of $75 to the clergyman. A few days after the Bishop was mentioning to another clergyman the cases of two ministers in the Diocese whose situation was giving him anxiety, for the purpose of his mentioning the matter to a layman of his congregation. The next day he sent word that he had not spoken of the matter to his laymen, because he knew that he was doing so much, but himself sent $35, and wished that he could do more. Comment on such acts of brotherly kindness is needless.

—The Rev. Wm. Johnson is about to remove from Lebanon and take up his residence in a position more central to his work in Rolla. He will hereafter include in his duty the care of Cuba, where he will give the forenoon of one Sunday in the month to the English neighborhood three miles out of town, and the night service in the village. He will for this purpose take one of the two Sundays in the month which he had been giving to Lebanon.

—The Rev. Mr. Curtis has resigned his rectorship of Christ church, Boonville, and removed to Louisiana to take charge of the parishes in Pike county. He begins his duties at Quinquagesima. He has also resigned his position as dean of the Sedalia Convocation, and on nomination the Bishop has appointed the Rev. Dr. Foster to the vacant place.

—At a meeting on Monday evening, 31st ult., at the Bishop's Residence, there was a large attendance. A number of matters of deep interest touching Church work in this city were considered, and among other things it was determined to hold a series of conferences in Christ Church Chapel during Lent, at which matters of wide interest should be considered by clergymen and laymen. The list of subjects to be considered will be found in another column. The first conference will be held on Ash Wednesday night, and the others on the succeeding Tuesday nights. They will afford an opportunity for a free interchange of views on matters of vital interest, and should be largely attended. Here is an opportunity for laymen to talk back if they have anything to say.

—The Kalendar of Western New York thus speaks of the new Rector of Grace Church, Kansas City, who has just left Watkins in that Diocese: "We are sure the Diocese will receive the intelligence of the Rev. Mr. Mann's departure with sadness. Mr. Mann has done a faithful work in St. James' parish, his first field of duty, and we can wish our brother no better fortune than that his future relations may be as happy and prosperous as his past relations have been."

—The Rev. Mr. Betts has issued a pastoral Letter, in which he sets forth a systematic plan by which his parish can give for all objects, parochial, diocesan and general, by pledges on a card. He states that out of all the communicants and attendants in the parish only 47 contribute steadily to its support, throwing thus upon a few a heavy load. The like disparity is seen in very many of our parishes. If each was lead to give a little the result would be surprisingly large.

—The Rev. Mr. Thorpe of Nevada recently paid a visit to Rich Hill in Bates county, the new coal town of such surprising growth. He had good congregations, and reports good prospects.

—The old Episcopal church in Palmyra was used during the war as a barrack by the federal troops and severely injured. An effort will be made to recover damages from the government.

—Whittaker's Almanac has got us in St. Louis credited with a Rev. Mildred Clendenin. No such person is known there, nor does such name appear on the other almanac clergy list. The first name looks suspiciously feminine. Our friend Abbot leads the clergy list of the country alphabetically, and unless some one of the family of Aaron arises, is likely to do so for a good while. The degree of LL.D., held by the Rev. Dr. Foster of Sedalia is from the University of Oxford, of which from Christ Church College he is a graduate. He was ordained in 1837.

—The Rector of the Holy Communion Church in this city in his parish paper pursues the very good plan of announcing the hymns for the month to come, the tunes to which they are to be sung, and the page in the hymnal where the tunes will be found.

—Dr. Hopkins has recently made from the late census some interesting comparisons of the number of communicants of our Church in the different States to the total population. Connecticut stands at the head of the list, with one communicant to every thirty of the population. Missouri in its relative strength comes far down, the thirty-fourth in the total of forty-two States and territories, having only one communicant in every 406 of the population. We have relatively gained in communicants during the last ten years, since the last census, in a ratio only surpassed by two States, Kansas and Iowa, and in the last by the merest fraction. We then had one communicant to 574, now we have one to every 406 of the population. There has been a relative gain of the Church on the population over all the country, a loss only in Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

—The Rev. Mr. Mann, the missionary to deaf mutes, had a service for them in this city on the first Sunday in the month, when he baptized three children of deaf mute parents. He will be here again on the 3d of April, when the Bishop will in the afternoon at Christ Church administer confirmation for them. Mr. Mann has now seven places to which he gives Sunday services,—Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago and St. Louis, and many other places between times. The number of deaf mute communicants in his charge now has increased to one hundred.

—St. George's, St. Louis, has sent an excellent surplice to a missionary who had just gone to duty in the northern part of the Diocese; and the Guild of Trinity Church, through Mr. Wm. H. Cheetham, has sent another to a clergyman in the southern extremity of the Diocese.

—At a meeting on the 7th instant the Standing Committee recommended Mr. Floyd E. West as Candidate for Orders, and the Bishop has admitted him; recommended Mr. Gardiner C. Tucker for Deacon's Orders, and advised the Bishop to consent to the alienation of All Saints' Church, Nevada, for the purpose of purchasing a more commodious and valuable Church property.

—The Rev. Dr. Ashley of Milwaukee has officiated for the last three Sundays in Grace Church, Kansas City. The new Rector entered upon duty on the 13th instant.

—At the meeting of the Trustees of Racine College on the 9th instant the honorary degree of Doctor in Divinity was conferred on Bishop Dunlop. At the meeting very much important business was transacted. Seven Bishops and ten other trustees were present.

—At a late meeting of the Vestry of Christ Church, Springfield, the salary of the Rector was increased, a month's leave of absence was granted him in which to recover his health which has lately been somewhat impaired, also they voted to buy a lot in North Springfield near the railroad for a chapel, and it was decided in the near future to begin the building of a Rectory on the lot in the rear of the church.

—The Bishop has purchased an excellent residence with four large and two small rooms, on corner lots in Kirksville, well shaded and with fruit trees, well and cistern, for a parsonage there. He has received a portion of the money for the purchase from some interested friends in the East, and from a lady in Christ Church in this city. The relief which this gives from a rental of a house for from ten to fifteen dollars a month is very great, and the missionary has new heart for his work.

—As soon as the spring fairly opens they propose to begin in Lexington the long contemplated improvement of the church, involving the construction of a recess chancel, wainscoting throughout the church, painting, etc.; probably also the building of a chapel, to be for Guild and Vestry room. They have also in contemplation the securing of a Rectory.

—Mention has before been made of the property, the old Presbyterian Church, in Springfield which the Rev. Mr. Parker bought last summer, and had thoroughly fitted up for a school. The change involved the making of another story, and the division into rooms, eight above and five below. The school began last fall, and now with two teachers has between fifty and sixty scholars. The teachers carry on the school on their own responsibility, and have had more applications for admission than the unfinished condition of the building would allow them to receive. Recently an emergency arose in which the Bishop had either to take the building, and relieve Mr. Parker of the pressure under which he had been personally laboring, and which was affecting his health, or let the promising work stop. The Bishop has therefore taken the property, and with amounts loaned and in part given to him from the East for the purpose has paid a portion of the debt. The school now has the assurance of permanence, and a new impetus has been given to it. It will be of the greatest benefit to the Church in the town and vicinity. Naturally the Bishop shrank from adding thus to his cares, and was only induced to do so to give guarantees of permanence to what was already proving so useful a help to the Church, and to secure a valuable property for it. It will also serve as a Rectory until one is had.

PORTABLE CHURCHES.

The Rev. Mr. Hatch in writing about the desire for a church building in Stanberry in his mission makes a suggestion which may be worth thinking about.

I am very forcibly impressed with the importance of having a churchly place for worship, but can not our architects devise some form of a portable chapel of wood, iron or paper, or all combined, that can be moved on one flat car when outgrown, or when a mission is so crippled that it no longer has use for it?

I believe that I could in a few minutes show an architect how with a frame of iron and pressed paper boards such a building covering a hundred sittings could be made inside of the weight of a carload and costing less than a thousand dollars. A few such chapels, the property of the diocese or of the building association, would save some foolish building and worse than foolish debt.

Of course a rental should be charged, unless an outright purchase is made. I have been considering this subject for more than a year, but have not talked it much for the reason that I have had no means of calculating an exact cost, but I do not think the problem will be a difficult one for architects. Some simple devices for fastenings I have in my invention which may be useful and are public property whenever they are wanted.

SEDALIA CONVOCATION.

The Convocation met at Calvary Church, Sedalia, on the 20th ultimo. Present, the Rev. J. M. Curtis, Dean of the Convocation; the Rev. C. A. Foster L.L.D.; the Rev. T. M. Thorpe, the Rev. W. A. Masker, the Rev. W. D. Sartwelle, and the Rev. M. S. Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff preached the opening sermon, on the Continuity and Principles of the Church.

The Holy Communion was celebrated on Thursday morning at 7 o'clock. At 11 o'clock morning prayer was said; and an extended exegesis given by the Rev. Mr. Thorpe of the text "Thou art Peter," etc. The preacher conclusively showed the shallowness of Romish pretensions, as well as the utter groundlessness of many of the novelties of that church.

On Monday night the Rev. Mr. Masker preached a sermon on Christian Unity, organic as well as spiritual. It was a very strong argument expressed in Mr. Masker's clear and scholarly style.

The Rev. Dr. Foster delivered a sermon on

MISSIONARY PLEDGES.

The following is the list of the pledges made at the Convention in September as the minimum amount which the places would give for our Diocesan missionary work during the Conventional year. This involved its payment in quarterly installments according to the demands made upon the missionary treasury. One such quarter closed on the 31st of December, when money had to be found for the stipends. Another such quarter closes with the end of next month. Let the amounts come in promptly.

A number of the Rectors besides declined to pledge because they had not been instructed to do so, but declared their purpose to secure liberal gifts. Other parishes were unrepresented at the meeting. They may give notwithstanding.

The Missionary Board has made its pledge on the faith of being sustained, and it will need all the help that it can receive. We notice that other Dioceses are pursuing the same plan decided upon in this, to collect pledges for Diocesan and general missionary work at the same time.

THE Clergymen's Mutual Insurance League was organized in 1868 and incorporated in 1869. It has been in existence, therefore, more than twelve years. It has paid to the families of its deceased members three hundred and nine thousand dollars ($309,000). It receives as beneficiary members clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church who are in good health and are not more than 55 years of age; and it invites such laymen as wish to aid widows and orphans of deceased clergymen to become co-operative members. The entrance fee is two dollars. Each member is assessed two dollars when a member dies. The sum thus assessed is conveyed to the family of the deceased member. All applications for membership should be sent with the membership fee to the Treasurer, Rev. Wm. N. Dunnell, Rector of All Saints Church, Station B, New York City, who will forward a certificate of membership to the applicant.

THE DIOCESAN ASSESSMENT.

So many new clergymen have recently come into the Diocese, and there being on hand no copies of the Diocesan Canon to instruct them as to their duty, it may be well to state what our law is with regard to the manner in which the expenses of the Diocese are met. Amounting to something over $4,000 a year, the exact amount being reported to Convention by the Committee on Finance, the Committee on Assessments takes it in hand, and divides it as equitably as possible among the parishes and stations of the Diocese. The committee reports to the Convention the assessment which it has laid. These are based, not upon the number of communicants, but upon the strength of the places, as nearly as may be judged from the salaries which it pays, and the reports made to Convention. Of course, as this is not a tax upon the clergyman's salary, the assessment is laid whether there is a minister or not. The expenses of the Diocese go on.

If there are objections to the assessment, there is a chance in Convention, before the report is adopted, to state the objections, and this is always listened to respectfully, and if reasonable, the report is modified. But as the total amount has to be raised, if something is taken off of one place, it must be put on another. But as all have a right to representation, the time to object is in Convention.

When the report is accepted, it stands as the action of the whole body. It is a compact each to pay what is assigned, and this holds all who neglect to be present as well as those who are there. This action goes to the Treasurer of the Diocese, and he charges the several places with the amount. They are by canon payable in quarterly installments on the 1st of October, January, April and July. For instance, one-half of the assessment laid by the last Convention is payable now, and another quarter will be due on the 1st of April.

If the amounts are not paid by all, large places and small, for the assessments are barely sufficient to meet the known demands on the Diocese, then, either printing bills, Bishop's salary, General Convention assessment and other charges must remain unpaid, and inconvenience follow; or else the Finance Committee must borrow money in bank to meet the bills and pay discount for the loan. Then this appears next year as an additional charge to be paid.

Sometimes parishes fail to pay in whole or in part; perhaps they ask to have their delinquencies remitted, having failed to object when the assessment was laid; then this follows if the request is granted. What is taken off from them must be put on those churches which have paid up all that was first charged against them, must pay double oftentimes for those who are quite as well able to pay, but who have put the matter off and failed to take effective steps to do their duty. How fair this is, any one can see.

WE have turned the corner of another hundred dollars; now let us see how long it will be before we finish it and begin on another. There are rumors about that the ladies of several of the city parishes are concerting plans to make up a fund to furnish the new Hospital with. It will take a good deal, judging by the size of the hole that they are digging now for the foundation. Shall we be able to have a room in which the Children's Cot shall be placed? We have only gained $225 for the past year. It will take six or seven years to furnish our work at this rate.

BOOK NOTICES.

CHURCHMANSHIP.—WHAT IT IS, AND IS NOT.—A little pamphlet which reasserts more moderate principles as against sacerdotalism. Evangelical Knowledge Society, 2 Bible House, New York.

HOURS WITH THE BIBLE, by Cunningham Geikie, D.D. This is a first volume of a promised series extending in subjects from the Creation to the Patriarchs, written by the accomplished author of the Life and Words of Christ. The design of it is to illustrate the Scriptures by the varied lights of modern research and discovery. The result is a most learned and attractive series of chapters on such subjects as Ancient Legends of Creation. The Age of the World, The Story of Eden, The Descendants of Adam, and many others. Nothing better could be in the hands of a Bible class teacher, or any other Bible reader. This is Mr. Pott's first publication, and its make-up is very handsome. James Pott, 12 Astor Place, New York. $1.50.

THE PANSY.—A small weekly leaflet, illustrated handsomely, for little children, published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, of the Wide Awake. 50cts. a year.

The OMAHA BEE has put out a handsome issue describing the industries of that vigorous city.

The Living Church will shortly begin the publication of an original and valuable series of papers on Genesis and Modern science, by C. B. Warring, Ph. D., of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. It is probably the most satisfactory and most exhaustive argument ever produced, in vindication of the astonishing accuracy of the Mosaic account of Creation, as tested by the latest discoveries and methods of modern science. It will probably run through a whole year, appearing weekly in the Living Church, and in no other paper, being copyrighted.

IMPRISONMENT OF ENGLISH PRIESTS.—Sermon by the Rev. Dr. Ewer, preached at Trinity Chapel, New York. This matter has been already treated in these columns. E. & J. B. Young & Co. New York.

LESSONS IN ELECTRICITY, by John Tyndall. To this is added an elementary lecture on magnetism. The eighteenth number, handsomely illustrated, of the Humboldt Library of Popular Science Literature. 15cts. Familiar Essays on Scientific Subjects, by Proctor. No. 19. 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co., 143 Fourth avenue, New York.

The February WIDE-AWAKE comes packed with matter for the delight of the entire family circle, for certainly the great thirty-two page supplement containing the first portion of George MacDonald's new story, "Warlock o' Glenwarlock" will be as warmly welcomed by thousands of adult readers, as the funny seven-paged illustrated ballad of "Jan Upernavik of Omenak" by hosts of school boys everywhere. Very dramatic, too, are the illustrated poems of "Tatts," and "Nobody's Cat." Rev. Edward Everett Hale gathers his club of young folks to talk over the Southern Educational Fund and the Irish land-troubles. Mr. Arthur Gilman, in his "Battle of the Types" will hold the attention of all interested in the spelling-reform. Mrs. Emily Huntington Miller has a capital story, The Reign of the Georges; Anette L. Noble tells "A True Bit of History," and A. G. Plympton of "Dolly's Valentines," while the most stirring story of all is "Racing a Thunder Storm." All these stories are illustrated. The serials, "Rocky Fork" "The Story of Honor Bright," and Mrs. A. M. Diaz, "Polly Cologne" are delightful and much superior to the juvenile serial. On the "Money Page," four Cash Prizes are offered for the four best black and-white drawings. Only $2 00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co. Publishers, Boston, Mass.

THE SATIRIAN in its February number has this list of important subjects: Memphis Sanitation and Quarantine

The Storm Water Question in Relation to Sewerage, The Relations of Schools to Diphtheria and Similar Diseases, The Criminality of New York Tenement Houses, The Relations of Certain Filth Diseases to Cold Weather. 113 Fulton street, New York. $3 a year.

The NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for February is the literary phenomenon of the month. First we have an earnest and patriotic article by General Grant, advocating the Nicaragua Canal project. The genial Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, Oliver Wendell Holmes, follows with an essay entitled "The Pulpit and the Pew," written in the best spirit of the Christian philosopher, in which he endeavors to show the need that he believes to exist for a revision of the prevalent theological creeds. Under the quaint title of "Aaron's Rod in Politics," Judge A. W. Tourgee emphasizes the obligation, imposed upon the Republican party by the Chicago platform, of making provision for educating illiterate voters. James Freeman Clarke makes a valuable contribution to the discussion of the authorship of Shakespeare's plays. The grave evils that may result from the partisan character of the United States Supreme Court are pointed out by Senator John T. Morgan. The sixth of Mr. Channay's papers on the "Ruins of Central America" is devoted to a description of the Pyramids of Comalcalco, which must rank among the most stupendous monuments ever erected by man. Finally Walt Whitman writes of "The Poetry of the Future." The Review is sold by booksellers generally.

A Perusal of the table of contents of the Midwinter February SCRIBNER shows it to be a number of unusual variety, and of notable features of the kind the public is accustomed to expect in this particular issue. The first of these in popular interest is, perhaps, Mrs. Frances Burnett's serial "A Fair Barbarian," which is considered good enough to be reprinted from "Peterson's"—the audience of the two magazines being thought to be sufficiently different to insure the welcome for the story in its new home. This is a recent story, and is likely to be one of the author's most popular ones—the "fair barbarian" being a piquant American girl, who raises a flutter in an English town. "How the New Testament Came Down to Us," by Professor George P. Fisher, of Yale College, will be eagerly read by those who are looking forward to the new edition of the New Testament,—which, it is announced, Professor Fisher will review for an early number of Scribner. "Thackeray's Relations to English Society," is a thoughtful study, which will interest readers of Thackeray whether they dissent from its conclusions or not. It was written before the publication in "Endymion" of Lord Beaconsfield's satirical treatment of the same theme.

The most striking feature of the number is, however, the illustrated papers, embracing a number of beautiful engravings of more than transient value. Mr. G. P. Lathrop's essay on "John La Farge" is a critical sketch, with a pictorial presentation of some of this artist's best work; it is the first adequate account of an American painter of great versatility and reputation. "An Old Virginia Town," is a full and careful portrayal of old times at Alexandria. The former contributes a striking drawing—"A Colonial Governor taking his Ease"—to a paper by Mr. Rideing on "Garrison Life at Governor's Island."

ST. NICHOLAS. February. This beautiful magazine commends itself to the lovers of artistic work, while it does not lose its hold upon the children. They seize and hold it until the beauties and resources are exhausted. The notable subjects in this number are Cousin Charley's Story, Mystery in a Mansion, In Nature's Wonderland, The True Story of the Obelisk and Phaeton Rogers. Before these stories are read and the pictures exhausted, the book will be about worn out. Scribner & Co., 73 Broadway, New York. $3 a year.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. No. 1912. Always full and fresh. A monthly every week. $8 a year. Makes four large volumes. Littell & Co., 17 Bromfield street, Boston.

PERSONAL.

—The Rev. Dr. John N. Norton of Louisville, Kentucky, died on the 18th ultimo. He had been declining in strength for several years, and so was not able to resist an attack of pneumonia. He was 62 years of age. Called to assist the venerable Dr. Craik in Christ Church, his senior survives him. This is a loss to Kentucky and to the whole Church. Only one or two persons shared his wonderful power of interesting and instructing children.

—The Rev. Dr. Shelton has resigned the Rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Buffalo, at the age of 83, and after an incumbency of 51 years. He will remain as honorary Rector, and have a life-lease of the Rectory. Long may the sturdy old Nestor live to illustrate the manly virtues which he has so long taught.

—It is a fact that some twenty-two or twenty-three years ago Mr. A. A. Talmage was a brakeman on the Lake Shore railroad at a salary of $35 per month. From the Lake Shore Mr. Talmage went to the Indianapolis & St. Louis road, where he passed through the grades of freight and and passenger conductor up to that of assistant superintendent. He is now the general manager of 1900 miles of railroad. The brilliant career of this gentleman illustrates what every sober, steady and intelligent railway employee may accomplish if he will strive to rise in his profession.

—Bishop Morris of Oregon spent a day in St. Louis with Bishop Robertson on the 28th ultimo, on his way to his Western home after an absence of five months. He had realized about $10,000 in special contributions for his work.

—The Rev. W. A. Leonard of Brooklyn, who did not see his way to leave his parish in October to take the Missionary Bishopric of Washington, has accepted St. John's Church, Washington.

—Rev. W. B. Huntington, D.D., of Worcester, Mass., has declined the call to become Associate Rector of St. James' Church in this city.

—Bishop Riley has gone to his diocese in Mexico, now 18 months after his consecration; but it is said as from him that he proposes soon to return to Spain.

DEPARTED this life on Tuesday, 11th of January, at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Anna S. R. Waddell, in Kansas City, after a lingering illness of three months, Mrs. ANNA D. GREGG. She suffered long with Christian patience and fortitude, strengthened in her last hours by the holy rites of the Church. "Blessed are they who die in the Lord."

ENTERED into rest at Kirkwood, January 19, 1881, in her 78d year, Mrs. JANE G. BODLEY, wife of H. I. Bodley, senior warden of Grace Church, of which the two, under God, were the founders.

Mrs. Bodley was a woman of rare intellectual endowments, and while her reading covered a wide field, she was especially devoted to those studies which throw light upon the word of God and the history of his Church. Her strong faith never seemed to waver, and her influence for good, over all who came near her, was very marked. After serving God faithfully in her generation, she was gathered unto her fathers, having the testimony of a good conscience; in the Communion of the Catholic Church; in the comfort of a reasonable, religious and holy hope; in favor with her God, and in perfect charity with the world. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; even so saith the Spirit; for they rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." G. K. D.

JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

NOTICE.

There is now due by all the Parishes in this Diocese two quarters of their last Convention assessment, and from above statement it will be seen that out of 75 churches but 5 have so far paid in full.

There is also a large delinquent amount due from many parishes.

I would ask Parish Treasurers how the expenses of the Diocese can be promptly met while this state of affairs continues?

Please send in your first two quarterly payments at once and also all amounts that are delinquent.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH FRANKLIN, Treasurer.

IMPORTERS.

[From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

This great jewelry house, founded in 1829, and recently incorporated as the Eugene Jaccard Jewelry Company, occupies a more prominent place to-day than at any previous period of its long and successful business career of over half a century.

Friday morning on Christ the Way of Salvation; in which the learned gentleman, contrasting human efforts with the Divine remedy for sin, left a cheering and comforting impression on his hearers which will not be soon forgotten. A graduate of Oxford, from which university he received his Doctor's degree, the power and simplicity of his discourse bore witness to the school in which he had been taught.

At the evening service the Dean closed the Convocation with a sermon most appropriate for the conclusion on the text "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts." The preacher eloquently pictured the progress of the Church in early times, because God's spirit was with it, aiding it in conquests beyond all human expectation, and to the end of the world the same spirit should attend it. The Reverend Dean made his special appeal to the clergy not to forget the blessed, strengthening presence of the Comforter when troubles rose up against them. And more generally, and with earnest words, he made his application to all the flock.

The sermons throughout the Convocation were vigorous. Mr. Leonard's absence was regretted, who, though not a member of the Convocation, was announced as one of the preachers.

The weather was pleasant, the attendance excellent. The Convocation was a most happy gathering. All Saints, Nevada, was selected as the next place of meeting.

The removal of the Dean to Louisiana, Mo., made it necessary to choose a successor; in connection with which the following memorial was offered and adopted by a standing vote:

"With unfeigned regret we learn of the prospective withdrawal from this district of the Rev. J. M. Curtis, our esteemed Dean. With one mind and heart we have been united under his oversight, and we pray God to bless him and give him good health in his new field; and to give us a successor of wisdom and kindness to take his place."

The Rev. Dr. Foster was elected to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Curtis.

On the Sunday following the Bishop visited the parish and administered the Apostolic rite of confirmation to seven persons presented by the Rector. The congregation was very large. At night the aisles were filled with chairs, and many left the church unable to gain admission. Mr. Sartwelle has the hearts of all his people. Sound-hearted, earnest, and possessing unusual gifts, the Rector of Calvary has but to stay at his post to have, at a very early day, one of the best parishes in the Diocese.

SECT.

WESTERN parishes would be ashamed to continue so long dependent upon the help of Mission Boards and others if they could only be made to realize that the bounty temporarily afforded them is the result of pinching self-denial. A little child in New York sent 50 cents to a church in Missouri. His father (a missionary clergyman) wrote concerning it: "Willie's fifty cents was a 'liberal' offering for him to make. It was from his own hard earnings last summer in the garden, picking potatoe-bugs. It was the price of 1,000 bugs."

Who of you, brethren of the Diocese, moved by this, will double your Church offerings? T.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins, Editor, Olive street, between 4th and 5th, St. Louis, Mo.

At a recent teachers meeting in a Michigan parish, the following was offered:

Resolved, That the teachers and officers request the Vestry to show a little interest in the Sunday-school work.

ALL who have the best interests of Sunday-school work at heart will rejoice with the writer in the appointment of Mr. Talbot to the Superintendency of the Sunday-school Church of Holy Communion, vice Mr. J. J. Wilkins, resigned. We bespeak for him a hearty and sympathetic support; for his services glad and willing recognition.

AMONG the difficulties that come to us from within and from without, there are none greater than discouragement—a fear that what we do is of no account.

We are impatient of results, and oftentimes strongly tempted to give up. "Unstable as water thou shalt not excel." In the face of the promise of God's word that "Our labor is not in vain in the Lord," we act as though He were mistaken and we knew better. Poor human nature! How much better to "trust in the Lord and do good." Leave results to Him, for they that strive to do His will shall have knowledge.

A TEACHER, says Mr. A, works by "fits and starts." For days, and occasionally weeks, he is constant, and then he drops out and we do not see him until he gets a new fit. "This one thing I do" seems to be his motto, but not very long at a time.

Bro. A, distribute the energy and devotedness you show for a little time through the whole year, and the results will surprise you. Your class will prosper under your continued labor, and all the school be benefited. As it is, your example is pernicious—injurious to class and school. If all should follow it, nothing would be accomplished. Enthusiasm is good only in proportion to its wisdom and constancy.

NOT unfrequently boys are heard sneeringly to say, "That boy's father is a pedlar, or 'that girl's mother is a washerwoman.'" The sneers, of course, are directed against those who are striving to make the best use of their opportunities. Now, boys, would it not be well for us all to put on the robes of humility? For, aside from the great fact that God created of one blood all the nations of the earth, and that all are equal in His sight, we have nothing of which to boast. The ancestors of the whole human family were only savages; the ancestral beginning of every one of us was hardly worth speaking of, and we have need to fear that a thousand years from now posterity will be heartily ashamed of us. Boys, honor those to whom honor is due, regardless of vocation.

KINDNESS begets sympathy, love, friendship and happiness. It is the chain in warp and woof of life that gleams the brightest when evening has come, when shadows darken and the gathering gloom bespeaks the coming of the night. It brightens the future and illumines all the past. To soothe and comfort the sorrowful; to still the throb of pain; to bring sunshine and the "glory of the perfect day" into troubled homes; to sympathize with and encourage the young is its office. The sweetest joy the heart can feel is the consciousness of having lifted the fallen, comforted the weary, and given consolation to the despairing. He that gives himself to this blessed ministry of kindness creates a grander coronation than kings, builds that which shall live when earthly empires and dynasties shall have crumbled and been forgotten.

"I AM too busy to take an active part in Sunday-school work," said one to the writer not long since.

When Churchmen talk in such a way it ought not to be surprising that those who are not in Christ should urge the same thing for not being Christians. The world and its multifarious demands should never take such hold that no time can be spared to the service of Him who prayed that we might be delivered from its evil. Some one has said, "The ship is in the sea to be useful," and the Christian is in the world for the same purpose; but when the sea gets into the ship, its usefulness is gone. The world has gotten into many a professed Churchman—Christian—his usefulness is gone. He is worse than useless, he has become a wreck who will misguide others.

THE fields of labor in the Church are many and the demands pressing, but we doubt if any have greater need of the best efforts of godly men, and women, too, than the Sunday-school. We do not make too sweeping a declaration when we say that of all the Church's interests this is the most important, and that those who are the best fitted by nature and education for the proper discharge of the overshadowing duty of instructing the young for the most part ignore it, satisfying conscience and replying to appeal with the lame excuse of not "having time to make the needful preparation, or to call upon and look after the members of a class." Parents who ought not only to instruct their children at home but assist in the Sunday-school are content to delegate the religious instruction of their little ones to teachers whose ability to teach the most elementary principles of secular education they would most seriously question. The number of fathers and mothers in our Sunday-schools is alarmingly small. Youth and inexperience are the rule. No amount of earnestness, zeal or enthusiasm can compensate for the tact, skill and knowledge of God's word and human nature that only close study and increasing years can bring. The crying want of our schools is godly men and women—men of strong purpose, wisdom and power, all consecrated to the instruction of the young in those things that make wise unto salvation, and women of large knowledge and skill, full of sweetness and light, with the wise experience and judgment that only motherhood can give. Such are needed, and such must be had to raise our schools to the dignity the supreme importance of the work demands. Christian men and women, Churchmen, Churchwomen, think you of the grandeur of building character and of the duty resting upon you! The proper education of the young is one of the greatest concerns of life, howsoever and from whatsoever standpoint we may view it, and he who imagines he can delegate to another the performance of the duty God has imposed upon him is certainly laying up for himself multiplied disappointments and sorrows.

Editor Church News:

In the summer and in the country the Sunday-school perhaps must be held in the morning; but is it well in the city and in cooler weather to put it in the morning? Is it not the experience of all that something like this happens? The days are short, teachers and children come late and the work has to be crowded into a short hour. The family rises and breakfasts later on Sundays than on other days. The chances are that the lessons for the day were not learned on the previous Sunday, and on the day before were too much excited with play to learn and are too tired at night to study. There is no time Sunday morning. They are hurried off to school after a search for mislaid catechisms and overshoes. They do not take their offering, do not know their lesson, can not find their library book. Is as good work done, is as satisfactory result accomplished thus, as if the hour were put in the afternoon when there is more time, and can be better preparation?

PARENT.

FROM THE DIOCESAN FIELD.

Editor Church News:

Would that we had some Horace to say "Sol-vitur acris hiems" for us. A general break-up would be a great relief. Most of the toughest days this winter happily struck us at the parsonage, not on the prairie beating time to the whistling wind. Yet we had a taste! I get cross, sometimes, and think it takes men of angelic strength to make good missionaries—that is, strength to stand snow and ice and rain and storm. I suppose angels are out in all sorts of weather. I don't know, however, whether they are forced to clinch their jaws to face the driving elements: they have armor of their own sort. But I know, with all my exposure, my wincing and whining and grumbling, I am in better trim to-day, as respects flesh, than when I entered on this out-door work. Yet I can rejoice and do rejoice in the comforts which surround me. A missionary of the Church, while he aims to turn souls toward heaven, doesn't stand in a bank of clouds, like some of the old pictures of angels and saints. To make him hearty and vigorous and cheerful in his toil he has to have a home, and some of life's comforts in his home. Last summer I dug a cellar, over which our parsonage kitchen was built. I dug it myself. This winter we had it filled with fruits and vegetables.

While parading my achievements I ought to tell you that I hauled a load of framing lumber from the saw-mill to build our kitchen. I am not much of a teamster. The tire came off going down; I barked my leg, about two feet, at the mill; the coupling-pin fell out coming back; the breast-straps broke running down hill; the irons which hold the traces went flying from the double-trees; and, finally, another tire flew off! The lumber was just about an inch from dropping off the front wheels when I got into camp. I think this is all; and I am certain it is all the lumber I shall undertake to engineer from the Napton mills for a while. If it hadn't been for a noble young son of the Church who fortunately accompanied me (to haul a load of lumber for himself), and who hallooed my horses out of the Blackwater hills, I suppose I should have been there yet!

We had a merry Christmas; the people remembered us as usual. And we have to thank the good people of St. George's for their added kindness. During the holidays my wife had the Church children at the parsonage. We men—the fathers—got into the back room, and let the children have the front of the house. They enjoyed it. My wife was as young as the youngest. It was a regular frolic. I hope it will be a standing arrangement hereafter.

I know you like to hear from the missionaries. But when you call upon them to give you some music, you don't like them to string it out too long. But I want to tell you of a new way I have discovered for getting over rivers. In going from this county into Carroll, I have to cross the Missouri, and then a stream called the Wakenda, about a mile beyond the Missouri. When I got to the Missouri, some time since, before the river closed up, the ferry boat was not running, and I had to cross in a skiff. The cars to Carrollton are two miles from the river. I was forced to leave my horse on this side. The young man who rowed me over told me before starting that the flat-boat for transporting passengers over the Wakenda was on the other side, and that I could not get over unless I could "coon a rope!" That was a new art to me. I asked what "cooning a rope" was. He said it was climbing the rope stretched over the river, crawling along it with my feet and hands! As doubtless some of your readers are aware, in streams where there is some current the ferry is made by stretching a rope from a tree on one bank to a tree on the other. And the ferry-boat is fastened to this rope, and run along it, by means of short ropes with rings in the end which slip along the first rope. This long rope was the one I had to climb. I got a strong piece of twine to tie up the skirts of my overcoat before I left town; took my saddle-bags off my horse and started. I got to the rope; tied my coat so that when I got to the middle of the stream it would not be dripping in the water, tied my saddle-bags securely to the rope, so that I could slide them along, and started off. The rope was about an inch thick. Before I got half way over, it seemed to me like a small twine. It cut my hands so that I had to use my elbows. At each move I had to draw my saddle-bags after me. It was a tiresome job. I had a good deal of time to study and think while I was traveling across. I think it is a good thing to keep at your work and not speculate too much. I thought to myself, supposing this rope breaks! It was not a cheerful, not a comfortable thought. I think it had the effect of hurrying me forward. I finally got across in safety, and trudged on to the train. If any one who reads this letter ever hears the expression "cooning a rope" hereafter, they will know what it means; but I hope they will find an easier mode of getting over the rivers which may lie in their path. I suppose this roughing it has its effect; for two men, good, sound men, and men of some influence, came into the Church on that side of my field to my great happiness. Since I wrote to you last I baptized a man eighty-four years old. And we have built a church and parsonage, both of which are out of debt. Though the advance may sometimes seem slow, yet the work goes on.

Just before Christmas I was summoned to the funeral of a devoted Church lady whose home was in a neighboring town, and within the week to her aged mother's burial, also one of our dear and faithful communicants. They had lately come into the county; but God took the light away almost as soon as it flashed forth. I had been down to hold services for them the month previous. The younger lady, not strong or well at the time, went with me over the town to get the people out. The husband of this lady is an engineer on the Chicago & Alton railroad. His railroad brothers in this sore trouble which fell upon him stood by him like brothers. The roughest outside sometimes has a child's tenderness and pity within. I never look at a railroad man but my heart goes out to him. The iron look of the man, the hard, rough life they lead; the many cases of heroism they exhibit—giving their very lives for the sake of others; the power and strength of these men, who always speak to the point, and come to time in their contracts; men who are holding the handles of that power which is becoming so mighty in this land—they are worthy of our respect. The gentleman—for he was a thorough gentleman—of whom I have just spoken is a Churchman, a thorough-going one; a man who believes in praying even for railroad safety. And there are more religious men on our railroads than some might suppose. It seemed to me like meeting a brother, when I got into this man's inner thoughts. There is a dear brother-hood in this Church of ours, which has its kings and peasants, all uttering the same prayer and saying the same words.

The lady whose death occurred last was a native of Virginia; from which State she moved to North Carolina. She was a very superior woman; intimately acquainted with Bishop Atkinson. I have just received a letter from a lady in North Carolina, stating that she belonged to one of the best families in Virginia. When I was summoned to the funeral of her daughter, she was confined to her bed. She raised herself up as I drew near the bedside. I held my hand out to her. She reached me both of hers, and told me to "take them both," and "tell her about Jesus." "Comfort me," she said. I had my little Vade Mecum. I told her I would read to her from my little book. She replied, "Don't read to me; talk to me." And so I tried to do; and knelt down and prayed God to comfort her by His spirit and through his blessed Son. But she was better fitted to raise me to the heavenly world and to heavenly things than I to raise her. But I loved her, and my heart was pained sorely when a man stood at my door a few days later bearing a message to me from her town saying that she too must be laid in the earth. It is a sorrow to me to lose any true soul from my missionary territory; and I grieved for the children who had been left motherless but a few days before, and who had so much of blessing in her presence. But God knew what was fitting. She has gone to her sure reward; and those who remain have her memory left them, for which they can be thankful.

Our little paper is a religious paper, and I suppose this true story might be put in it, though none of your readers know anything of the parties, and I have not given any names. All of us should try to "work while it is day," and leave a good name behind, when our time is come to lie down and sleep with the dead. This tribute from a missionary of the Church to a departed saint, it seems to me, is only just.

Our Church has earnest hearts in it, and good work in this field before it. I can see how I am getting nearer to some good men, the best men, as I deem, as the years glide on. The Church will commend herself on acquaintance, if we, her ministers and members, praying that we may "ever be defended by God's most gracious and ready help," will do our share. It is cheering to gain ground, as our dear Church in this great Diocese is gaining ground. W.

Editor Church News:

A correspondent of The Southern Churchman, writing from Baltimore referring to the week of prayer recommended by the Evangelical Alliance, says:

"We leap over our denominational fences and shake hands with one another, and then jump back again, practically no nearer a true union than before our hand-shaking. If to have denominational fences be wrong, the only way to strike at the root of the evil is to pull them down altogether. The fact, however, is that after our hand-shaking we build the fence a little higher; and this is done not only by those who call themselves Protestant Episcopal, but by other denominations as well."

I presume the writer is one of those "who call themselves Protestant Episcopal," and that he is in the habit of "jumping fences" and then building them up higher, and I would not be disposed to hamper him in order to keep him within the fence of his own building.

I am not aware, however, that the Church which, for convenience and legal status, calls itself Protestant Episcopal, has any "fence" other than what it has had from the beginning, which no Christian need or nor should be inclined to "jump."

The Evangelical Alliance, if its spirit were as broad as its name indicates, might have selected its "week of prayer" out of the many special weeks of prayer which have been observed by the greater part of the Christian world for many centuries. One would rejoice to have the whole Christian Church "praying with one accord."

FASHIONABLE CHURCHES.

The following is from The New Orleans Times, and gives some wholesome truth on a matter about which much cheap wit is written by those who have not the first right to say anything on the subject, knowing nothing about it:

Most of the churches of this city, and precisely in the measure by which the newspaper man calls them "fashionable" are centres of active benevolence, and their members more or less engaged in works of relief among the sick and poor. The doors of their pastors are besieged by the needy.

The work of a pastor of any large congregation in a great city is not chiefly done where the newspaper reporter sees or hears him. The "eloquent sermon," the "elaborate music," the "large and fashionable congregation," and all the rest of it are but episodes in a life that is one perpetual strain and that never knows rest.

His time is at anybody's service. Any beggar can command his attention, any sick man or dead man his services. If he is found in the drawing room of the rich at one hour, at the next he may be found kneeling on the sodden floor of the poorest tenement house, praying with the dying or asking mercy for the bereaved.

He goes at midnight as quickly to baptize the dying baby of a negro washer-woman, as the dying heir of a millionaire. There is no call of mercy in any need to which he must not hold himself ready to respond, and these calls take him into services where no reporter follows him.

Yet these inexorable demands furnish no excuse for any deficiencies in the sermons and the lectures which an intelligent and cultivated audience expect to hear as regularly as the hour comes. There is no man whose services are considered so public a possession, and whose time and sympathy, without fee or reward, are so held as common property.

And it must be remembered that these men must be men whose abilities, culture, education and force of character are such as would make them leaders and masters in any field of human endeavor. They are the peer of the foremost lawyers: the foremost business man; the foremost man in any department.

In our own city the pulpit is by no means, the smallest power in our city life. It is telling, as it deserves to tell, by its power, its honesty and its manliness. Our clergy are more than theologians many of them. They are recognized in every work for the advancement and benefit of this community.

And their congregations are composed of our foremost men in every line of human effort and in not one of our churches, "fashionable" or otherwise, will any decently behaving man, woman or child fail to find a place to worship God.

The cheap Creamcheese and Mrs. Potiphar wit is sadly out of place among us, and can be indulged in only by those who know little of our churches but their outer walls, and nothing at all of the men and women who worship in them or the clergy who serve them.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Prang & Co., who gave last year $2000 for premiums for the four best Christmas cards, and drew out six hundred contestants, have offered the same amount for premiums this year for cards.

—Grace church, Sandusky, by a system of stated monthly contributions, with a communicant list of 328, and an income of $8,400, was able to spend $4,400 away from home, $3000 for city missions, $762 for diocesan objects, and $622 for domestic and foreign missions. It is needlessly added in the report that the parish is growing.

—The postal receipts in Arkansas last year were only $194,000, and outlays $719,000. Every letter posted in Arkansas for which the government receives three cents, cost eleven cents. This State showed the largest deficiency.

—There are five times as many Jews in New York City as in the whole land of Palestine.

—Father Burke, the Dominican priest, attributes his recovery from a dangerous sickness to the miraculous cement from Knock chapel, a portion of which he always places beside him when he sleeps at night.

—The salary of the rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Chicago, has been twice increased, once on the occasion of his marriage, and again on the birth of his first child. This is a good idea.

—Kenyon College, Gambier, Ohio, has received a gift of $10,000 from Columbus Delano, for the building of a preparatory school for the college.

—Bishop Gillespie recommended the 16th ult. as a day of intercession for schools and colleges, and set forth a Service for the purpose. The Bishop is also urging the systematic study of sacred learning at home. There has been formed a society, very like the Cambridge Society, for the promotion of home reading. Persons anywhere, being more than 17 years of age, can join. The annual fee for postage, &c., is 50 cts. The plan is formed under the impression that Christian persons know little of the Bible or the history of the Church. There is heads of departments who will direct study, and receive reports. The books are of limited size and price, and if not bought application may be made for their use to the Bishop. The person signs an agreement to devote at least an hour a day to study; a prayer is set forth for use. These are some of the rules: If possible, assign a time for study. Begin with the use of the prayer. Read slowly, investigate all that you do not understand, from a word to a paragraph. Make an analysis in writing of what you read. At the close of each paragraph, or part, recall or even express in your own language the thought or statement. Memorize important dates, places, etc. Before entering on the lesson of the day, recall the study of the previous day.

The heads of departments are for:

Holy Scripture.—The Rev. J. A. Spencer, D.D., 71 Lexington avenue, New York.

The Creed.—Bishop Gillespie, Grand Rapids, Michigan. Ecclesiastical History.—The Rev. J. T. Magrath, Torresdale, Penn.

The Prayer Book.—Mr. Arthur Sands, Bayonne, N. J.

—If one wishes to hire a seat in Professor Swing's church in Chicago he can take the choice of one in the parquet, dress circle or balcony. If he should fail to find one to suit in either of these places he can have a box. The best seats in the parquet rent from ten dollars to twenty-five dollars a year; seats in the dress circle for fifteen dollars; the most desirable boxes rent for one hundred and twenty-five dollars a year, and one considered pretty good, but not so situated that a bonnet or dress will show off to great advantage, can be had for one hundred dollars. A single seat for one service can be had for the sum of ten cents. The society is in a flourishing condition. Professor Swing is to have a salary of $10,000 the coming year. The church revenues for the year just closing were more than $23,000.

—In the Protestant Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia, the $50,000 needed to endow the children's ward has been all obtained. The cost of maintaining the Hospital last year was $46,000.

—The first lectures on the foundation established last year by Bishop and Mrs. Bedell at Kenyon College for a lectureship on Christian Evidences is Bishop Williams of Connecticut. This would hardly have been possible in Bishop McIlvaine's time. It is a worthy choice.

—Is a person a proper nominee for Commissioner of Police in St. Louis who gets into a common brawl with another Commissioner, the one striking with his fist, and the other with a chair? Who can enforce law who so stupidly breaks law?

—The population of St. Louis is thus classified: Total population, 350,522; males, 179,484; females, 171,038; native, 245,528; foreign, 104,994; white, 328,232; colored, 22,217; Chinese, 59; Indians, 14.

—President Porter of Yale College, at an alumni dinner in Cincinnati, accounted for the large number of Ohio men coming to prominent positions. He accounts for it by the colonies that came to the Western Reserve from Connecticut, where for generations there had been steady training, by the infusion of Scotch and North Irish blood, and by the colleges early established in Ohio. The wisdom of Bishop Chase's work in founding Kenyon College in 1818, in what was then a vast wilderness, is now seen in the number of its alumni filling so many positions as President, Governors, Senators, Judges, Bishops and other honorable posts.

—At the recent Albany Diocesan Convention, only 45 parishes out of 113 were represented, and yet the Bishop said that this was the best attended Convention of any before.

—Miss Margaretta Scott, who visited this Diocese two or three years ago, in the interest of a girls' school at Cape Palmas, Africa, has raised the $10,000 required, and it is on hand ready for use. The trustees of the fund in Baltimore think that a like sum should be raised for the endowment to insure the security and permanence of the school, and she is now seeking to secure this and the furnishing. Miss Scott's expenses of collecting the amount for four years were only $682.60, which were paid for by the sale of her handiwork. The credit of this Diocese towards the amount raised is $342.60, of which $48.46 was from colored people. Miss Scott's address is corner of German and South streets, Baltimore.

—On the day of the election for President, a son of General Garfield was kept in after school for playing truant, by hanging around the voting stands. It is a curious illustration of republican equality.

Mr. Peyton Morgan, another of their ministers, in Brooklyn, N. Y., has left them, and is applying for Orders in our Church. The Appeal, their organ in Chicago, has ceased. Their two organs are quarrelling like two fish women. One speaks of the other's "violent, unchristian tone," and says it "persistently and recklessly injures the cause of our dear church."

—The Epiphany offerings for missions at Grace church, Brooklyn, amounted to $13,730.56, the largest ever made there, and some of the largest single offerings ever made in the United States.

—Bishop Huntington, from the committee appointed at the late General Convention, to consider the tenure of Church property, says that the reports already received of losses resulting from imperfect legislation and neglect and ignorance, are extraordinary. He recommends to all the dioceses the following action:

1. To consider the expediency of obtaining, if possible, from the legislative authority in each State or territory an act making the diocese itself, or its convention or council, a legal corporation, qualified to receive and hold in trust any Church property designed for religious, benevolent, or educational purposes, under suitable conditions.
2. To appoint from time to time a committee to examine the state, title, and securities of all funds or investments or real property having a diocesan character.
3. To require every parish to report to the diocesan convention or council whether there is good ground to believe that its right to receive and hold property is good under the provisions of the common or statute law.

—Bishop Mullen, of Erie, has publicly condemned the custom of placing floral emblems on the coffins of deceased members of the Church. He directs in future only a black pall to be placed over the casket, so that all gaudy trimming and decorations shall be concealed from view.

—The cot for incurables having been fully endowed now in the sum of $3000, in St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, there has been begun the endowment of a cot for crippled children.

—Trinity church, New York, is the owner of 750 lots, the income of which amounts to $456,785.45. With the exception of the ground occupied by seven churches, four school-houses, four cemeteries, and a few vacant lots, all are productive. The corporation pays out by way of taxes and the like $100,000.

—In the death of the Rev. Dr. Washburn of Calvary Church, New York, the Church has lost one of its clearest and most pronounced scholars and thinkers. His parish was that which Dr. Hawks formerly had, and was remarkable for the amount of judicial and legal ability in it. He died of disease caused by defective sewerage under his study in the rectory. There are getting to be vacancies at the front for those fitted to go up.

Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the minister is requested to give notice.

THE Bishop recently received, from a lady of the Church of the Holy Communion in this city, five dollars, "to help feeble parishes." He is grateful for the remembrance, and will give it the direction desired.

THE journals of the General Convention are no longer sent to individual clergymen, but by freight to the Bishop. He has recently received the box. There is one for each clergyman having parochial duty, and a copy of the canons for each cand date for orders. If twenty cents in one case, and five cents in the other for postage, is sent to the Bishop, he will see that the Journal, which contains the Canons as an appendix, or the Digest, is sent to those who thus express desire.

MAUNDY THURSDAY.

This day in Holy Week is so called from the Maundy or Mandate addressed by our Lord instituting the Holy Communion on this day on the eve of His passion. This is the anniversary, therefore, of its ordering, and the Epistle and Gospel of the Day take their key-note from this circumstance.

For many years past it has been the custom on the evening of this day, the anniversary of its institution, for our congregations to gather in Christ Church, the old mother Church, and join in the celebration of this blessed privilege together. There has seemed to be a peculiar appropriateness about it. The day suggests it. It is the only time in the course of the whole year when our communicants in the city can all gather about the common feast; at other times congregational lines divide them. In its quiet simplicity, with the Communion service alone, at night, in the grand old church, the experience of many has been that they never come nearer to the scene of the Lord alone in the upper room, instituting the sacrament of His love.

It has long been one of the features of our Church life and year in St. Louis, and few who have ever taken part in it would desire that the occasion should cease. If at any time the Church for fear of disorders has shown a caution about the frequency of evening communions, it must have been felt that no such fear could prevail in our case after the simpler habits of eating and drinking to which we are accustomed. The Lord's Supper was instituted at night, and by our Lord and His apostles was partaken of not fasting, and the earlier canons make special mention of the Holy Communion as administered on the evening of this day.

Many of the larger churches in New York and Philadelphia as well as other smaller congregations throughout the country observe the custom, but for none has it the associations that it has for us in this city, of the one day in the whole year, and that the anniversary of its institution, when our communicants, separated through the rest of the year by parochial lines, come together to partake as one family of the Communion of our Lord. May it for many a year to come be devoutly used, and be as of old the means of increasing our spiritual strength and unity.

WHAT IS THE GOOD?

A few days ago the popular pastor of a Baptist Church in this city started a proposition for a hospital in the upper part of this city. It does not seem as yet to have attained much size, and probably before this time it has been found out that a hospital is not started for nothing. The subject would not be one that we should notice except as one or two Churchmen were put on the committee, with a view, no doubt, by means of this to secure subscriptions from our people. It is only thus that we speak of it.

Now what is the good of it? For fifteen years we have fought the battle of a Hospital in this city during times that tried men's souls; and when our parishes were heavily in debt have spent tens of thousands of dollars for no selfish advantage, and have given help to hundreds utterly strange to our Church, never asking questions as to faith when ministering to the sick and dying.

Now when we are nearing the end of our hopes, in securing an established and convenient Hospital building, in which the better to do our work, there comes the project to establish another institution, and with the idea of doing it in part with help from our people. We have no objection to the minister in question trying the experiment of a hospital, but we do say that it would be a most unwise thing for any of our strength to be diverted in this matter.

The work for us is by no means over. We will need from seven to ten thousand dollars to completely finish the building which we have begun for St. Luke's. We can not afford now to waste our force on another Hospital experiment which may only be the result of the hostility of rival medical schools.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Young Ladies' Society of St. Jude's Church, Monroe, have for some time past been saving their proceeds for the purpose of carpeting the church. This was effected a few weeks ago, and it adds greatly not only to the appearance but also to the comfort of the building.

—The Iowa diocesan paper seems to be unhappy over what was said in this paper a month or two ago about the growth and the increase of the number of clergymen in this Diocese. We are sorry that it feels badly. Our growing does not necessarily imply Iowa's loss.

—The Rev. Sturges Allen of Kansas City has been for weeks extremely ill of bronchial pneumonia. Several times it was thought that he would not have strength enough to rally from the disease, and his life was despaired of. He is, however, now so much better that he has been removed to his home in South St. Louis, where with loving attentions we hope that his recovery may become complete. He will, however, be a good while in regaining his strength from his utter prostration.

—All Saints' Parish, Nevada, is arranged, with the concurrence of the Bishop and Standing Committee, for the sale of its church property, in order to the purchase of the stone Presbyterian church. Our church was built ten years ago, is of frame, and had too heavy a roof, and has needed internal bracing, and external shoring timbers against the prairie winds. The building that is bought is newer, in a better location, of the same size, but with a smaller lot. We get a very much better property, and in a more eligible position. The Presbyterians were in debt and had to sell, and we were out of debt. The properties were bought and sold about evenly.

—The Rector of St. John's in this city has recently written, and Balmer & Weber have published for him, a capital Te Deum which has been sung a number of times in his church. It is a strong and expressive piece of music, and will, we think, become a favorite in our churches. It shows to best advantage with a body of voices. We are strengthened in our estimate of it by the praise given to it by those who are better entitled to judge than we are. The music is dedicated to Mrs. W. F. Ferguson, to whose energy the increase in the interest and beauty of the music at St. John's is largely due.

—The vestry of the parish at Boonville have informed the Bishop that they are not able at present to employ a rector, they having rented the rectory out for a year, and that when they do engage another rector they must engage a young man without a family, one who will be content to live on a small salary. Their last rector was a clergyman with a wife and three children, and the stipulated salary was $600, and the use of the rectory.

—Grace Church, Brookfield, was consecrated by the Bishop on Sunday, the 27th ultimo. The building is admirably situated on the public square, and is seen from the railroad before one reaches town. It was formerly, we believe, the only Universalist church in the State, and after being bought was ceiled throughout within with pine and oiled, vestry and chancel and organ recess made, carpeted, and made very neat. This last fall it was painted. It has cost about $2,200. Only the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot of Macon and the Rev. Robert Talbot, the minister of the mission, were able to be present.

—Trinity Church, Hannibal, has had a new roof put upon it. The Rector is at home on Friday evenings to his people. On a recent Friday evening they came in larger numbers than usual, and with arms filled with good things for their minister.

—The Bishop recently visited Cape Girardeau and held service in the church where they have had no minister for over a year. The congregation crowded all the pews. The chancel and vestry have never been made. The offertory, amounting to over $20, will be applied for that object. A very prosperous Sunday-school is being carried on by two of the ladies, the effects of which were seen in the excellent singing of the chants in the service. In the afternoon the Bishop went over the heavy roads for Jackson where he had service at night.

—The Rev. Mr. Gray of Columbia has been very sick, having been absent from his parish for nearly two months. He returned from Tennessee just before Ash Wednesday, and, we are very glad to say, much improved in health.

—The Rev. Mr. Masker had on the 28th ultimo in his church in Jefferson City another musical service under the charge of his enthusiastic choir-master, Mr. Grimshaw, assisted by others of competent ability, when some excellent music was sung. The church was overflowing full. During Lent the Holy Communion is celebrated every Sunday at 8.30, and there are daily services, at 4 p. m. on every day but Wednesdays and Fridays, when they are at 9 a. m. and 7.30 p. m.

—The Rector of Hannibal has out a pastoral letter for Lent, and announces, besides the Holy Communion every Sunday at 9.30, (except the first Sundays in March and April), daily services at 5 p. m., except on Wednesday, when it is at 7.30 p. m. The Sunday-school has just given $4.50 for the S. S. Missionary Host.

—The Rev. Dr. Schuyler, in his Lenten Pastoral, gives notice of daily prayers at 4.30 p. m., and on Wednesday and Friday at 9 a. m. The Holy Communion is celebrated every Sunday at 8 a. m., and at St. Luke's Chapel on Thursdays at 10 a. m. In his letter he calls especially for the means by which an Assistant Minister may be had without delay in the parish. He has a Sunday afternoon sermon at St. Luke's Hospital, and no second service in Christ Church.

—The Bishop recently visited St. Joseph Lead Mines in St. Francois county, and held the first of our services ever had there in a Union Meeting House there. We have nearly as many members there as any denomination, and there may soon be an opening for us, as there is now a strong desire. The congregations were large, and with the aid of the Mission Service books, the responses were full and strong. The chants were led by a lady who used to sing in Bishop Bedell's church in New York City. The Bishop met several whom he had confirmed 12 years ago and had not seen since.

—Some time since Dr. Schuyler from the savings from the offertory for several months bought a burial lot in one of the cemeteries near the city for Church people unable to provide for themselves, and who else would be buried in the Potter's Field. Already in a year he has had occasion to bury there six persons, five of them communicants of the Church. The offertory in Christ Church on Ash Wednesday was for the burial expenses of such persons.

—The Bishop recently received a letter from the Rev. Mr. Lawrence of this Diocese, now on duty in England, in which he says that in the parish of which he is the sole curate, the rector being aged, and which is eight miles long and five miles wide, he is very busy. He has six confirmation classes, and one class for communicants every week, and in addition twice a week walks eight miles to hold two other classes. On Sundays he has four services with four miles of walking, and within three weeks had walked besides 168 miles. He does not want his name taken off the roll of this Diocese. He has been in his parish sixteen months, but has not yet seen his Bishop.

—The Rev. Mr. Sartwelle of Sedalia recently received a very urgent call from Grace Church, Galveston; and although he feels upon him the claims of his native State, of which he is one of the only two native clergymen of our Church, he declined, in view of the importance of his present work.

—At Trinity Church in this city during Lent there are daily prayers at 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. The Holy Communion is celebrated every Thursday, Sunday, and daily during Holy Week, except Good Friday at 7.30 a. m., and also on the 1st, 4th, 5th and 6th Sundays in Lent at 11 a. m. There are classes for instruction on Saturdays at 3 p. m. and Sundays at 4 p. m.

—The Rev. E. Talbot of Macon has recently been repeatedly urged by Bishop Spalding to come to Denver to take charge of Jarvis' Hall, the boys' school. He is, however, engaged in such an important, profitable and growing work where he is that he is not inclined to leave it.

—The Rector of Sedalia in his Lenten card announces daily morning and evening prayer, and the Holy Communion every Sunday, with a sermon on Wednesday nights and an instruction on Fridays.

—The Rev. Mr. Sharpe of Lexington publishes his Lenten pastoral on the first page of a leaflet of which the other pages are devoted to the synopsis of Historical facts concerning the Church, prepared by the Rev. E. D. Bradley of Indianapolis, and sold for this purpose in quantities. It is an excellent notion.

—The Rev. Mr. Purucker of Sherman, Tex., has been called to the charge of De Soto and Crystal City, and proposes about this time to make a visit to the field to judge for himself.

—Lenten services in St. John's in this city are held daily except Saturday at 7.30 at night; on Tuesday the hour is 5 p. m. On Wednesday and Friday Litany is said at 9 a. m. The Holy Communion is celebrated on every Sunday.

—In Springfield the Rector's Pastoral Letter announces week day services on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, and two celebrations of the Holy Communion on Easter Day.

—The Rev. A. A. Abbott of Macon, who took the Diaconate after a business life and with few opportunities of preparation, will go to Fairbault at the close of this month to prosecute a more complete course of studies. His work at Shelbyville will be taken by the Rev. Robt. Talbot in connection with Brookfield. The people in Shelbyville are pushing a subscription for the building of a church, and it is altogether likely it will be begun this spring.

—The parish at Kirkwood is busily engaged now in securing the means required to put their rectory in good repair. Bishop Dunlop, who returned from New Mexico at the end of December has been detained in Kirkwood since by sickness in his family and the preparations for removal, spent the first Sunday in Lent in Louisville. He starts with his family for Santa Fe about the middle of this month.

—Of the present clergy of the Diocese only the names of the following appear on the clergy list of forty years ago in the Church Almanac of 1842: the Rev. Dr. Berkley then of Lexington, Ky.; Dr. Foster, Holly Springs, Miss.; L. A. Freeman, Brownsville, Penn.; Wm. Johnson, Lowndes, Ala.; and O. H. Staples, Windsor, Vermont.

—The Guild of Christ Church, St. Joseph, held its quarterly meeting on Ash Wednesday night, when Dr. Stringfellow read the report which showed that they have 16 members all told, who have associated to promote mutual acquaintance and Christian love among the parishioners, and enlisting their active co-operation in the social, benevolent and spiritual work of the Church. They had received $32.50, the greater part of which has been spent in alms and wood for the poor. An efficient member, Mr. Lucian T. Hanisee, had died since the last meeting.

—Mrs. John T. Douglass has resigned her position as First Directress of the Orphans' Home, on account of her inability longer to meet its exacting duties.

—The Standing Committee have recommended Mr. Thomas Henry Smith of St. John's Church in this city to the Bishop to become a Candidate for Holy Orders.

—One of the Hospital Sisters of St. Luke's has been presented with a gold watch and chain from a person who gave it "in remembrance of her affectionate care of the best friend that he ever had." Another person has sent a Sister a massive silver cross in gratitude for kindness received.

—The Lenten letter of the pastor of the Good Samaritan Church in this city announces with other services a series of Lectures to be delivered in the Chapel of Trinity Church on five Wednesday evenings beginning on the 9th. The first was by the Bishop, and the others are to be by the Rev. Mr. Reed, Dr. Fulton, Mr. Wright, and Mr. Betts in this order.

—Christ Church, Springfield, has deeded its property to the Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese. The Fund has also received a number of other pieces of property which it holds in trust for the respective congregations.

—The Lenten Card of the Rector of St. Joseph announces services morning and evening on Wednesdays and Fridays, and on the afternoons of Thursday and Saturday, and at the Chapel of the Holy Trinity morning service on Tuesday and evening service on Thursday. The Holy Communion is celebrated every Sunday morning. Confirmation classes meet on Monday evenings and Thursday afternoons. The Easter offerings are for the reduction of the Church debt. It now amounts to $4,700, having been abated $3,000 in three years. One gentleman now offers to give one-tenth of the amount due.

—A number of the ladies of the St. Louis parishes are organizing for the purpose of creating a fund for the furnishing St. Luke's Hospital. As the building is large, the sum required will be considerable. There will be three large and three small wards, and twenty-five other rooms of different sizes. A number of persons and families have bespoken a room with a view to furnishing it, and several of the churches will probably take a ward and several rooms each. The building will not be ready until late next fall probably. The next meeting of the committee will be at the Bishop's Residence on Saturday, 19th, at 2 o'clock.

—At a special confirmation at Mt. Calvary, St. Louis, on the 10th inst., the Bishop confirmed six persons, making since January twenty-three persons confirmed in this church. The church is in a prosperous condition. The congregations crowd the building and the finances are met by the regular income of the parish. The basement is being enlarged on account of the growth of the Sunday-school. Service during Lent is had daily except on Saturday; and at 5 p. m. except on Wednesday, when it is at 8 p. m.

THE LENTEN CONFERENCES.

At this time two of the Conferences have been held, and if largeness of attendance, in spite of bad weather, and from all the congregations, and an interest that prolongs the meetings late, and would apparently continue them later, is a test of success, then they are being eminently successful. The subject involved in the first almost compelled warm and personal speeches, and the evening did not result in as many practical suggestions as might have been hoped. The second Conference was in every way admirable. The lady's written contribution, read by Dr. Schuyler, was not the least interesting feature. All felt at the close that they had only just gone into a most interesting subject. The number of gentlemen present has been noticeable.

The following is the list of remaining subjects:
MARCH 15—TUESDAY.

The Distribution of Charities—Can any better methods be devised for the systematizing and better use of the benefactions of our congregations?

MARCH 22—TUESDAY.

Recreations and Pleasures—Can any better rules be formulated for Christian action concerning them?

MARCH 29—TUESDAY.

The Public School System—What is the benefit to be expected from it? What are the limitations of its usefulness? Are any modifications needed?

APRIL 5—TUESDAY.

Is our Church in St. Louis doing all that could properly be expected? Does the city present any new opportunities of greater growth and usefulness?

The conferences will begin with a short service at 8 o'clock. It is hoped and asked of all who can, in our congregations, that they will attend regularly all these conferences, and contribute in every possible way to their usefulness.

COMPTON HILL.

Editor Church News:

As an example of good work I would cite the progress of a little circle of faithful people on our borders who eight years ago numbered five communicants.

The Master vouchsafed a leader and pastor in the person of the Rev. B. E. Reed; and the neighbors tell how the man struggled and how the little leaven in this small gathering slowly expanded. Prayers were earnest and often; and the little band held firmly to their post. Three years dragged slowly by with scarce a perceptible change. At length, through the business efforts of the pastor, a more commodious building was erected on a more convenient spot. The Sunday-school grew apace, and the adults came bravely to the rescue. From the start the rector had assumed the active superintendency of the Sunday-school, and this position he has held in all its busy parts for eight years.

Now view the result:

The first of this year the rector, under the pressure of accumulating duties, transferred the active work of the school to that veteran superintendent and Christian worker, Mr. Joseph Franklin, who had been for some years the pastor's faithful ally. Mr. F. immediately commenced work by providing each of his teachers with a valuable Bible Commentary. He has also engaged Mr. Seifert to fill the musical vacancy caused by Mr. Reed's withdrawal, and in the matter of discipline, system, order, the school finds many incentives to move upward and onward. Already its regular rooms have proven too small, causing an overflow into the body of the church.

And now for the adult portion. Under the visiting and preaching of its pastor we find that the congregation has so grown as to leave for rental but two pews. The needs of the congregation demand a larger building, and with such a live congregation the time is not far distant when this will be had.

On the 16th of January the Rt. Rev. the Bishop of the Diocese visited and confirmed 17 persons ranging in years from 15 to 50.

A library has been formed consisting of Church history and contemporary literature, as well as works embracing every branch of practical education; and that nothing pernicious may creep in, every volume is submitted to inspection. Membership fee, $1; and that over 200 volumes have been taken from this library within the last six weeks is proof of its need and keen appreciation. The Missionary cause has not been allowed to languish, over $150 having been contributed, besides $400 and large quantities of clothing, food, blankets, etc., for the relief of the poor, (all since November, 1880), this last having been distributed under the auspices of the Compton Hill Humane Society, of which Mr. Reed is president. This society was organized three winters ago and has administered to the wants of hundreds of sufferers, regardless of sect.

OBSERVER.

"I AM resolved to 'turn a new leaf,' " many have said in this the beginning of a new year. If it is only turning a "new leaf" it will amount to little. It is what is recorded on the new leaf that will tell. Teacher, see to it that your "new leaf" bears the record of awakened and renewed interest in the souls of your children; of conversation of Christ and His undying love; let it speak of duty performed until all under your charge are brought to Him, first in Holy Baptism, and then in the Apostolic rite of Confirmation. Be sure, dear teacher, the "new leaf" makes a better record than that of the past.

ONE must be good before he can do good. He can not bestow what he does not possess—can not impart what he has not received. We must be in Christ and then for Him. "We are created in Christ Jesus unto good works." If we are His, our lives will manifest His spirit. "He went about doing good." "Without me," He says, "ye can do nothing."

TWENTY THINGS

IN WHICH THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH WAS FIRST.

BY I. WAINWRIGHT RAY.

There are three words that Churchmen repeat with great confidence and great comfort in connection with their ministry: their way of worship, their doctrines, and those animating annual ordinances which are in themselves a kind of pictorial and illuminated edition of Holy Scripture, the words, "From the beginning."

1. The Episcopal Church was the first ever organized, having three grades of orders both in the Old Testament dispensation and in that of the New Testament, as the Bible and ecclesiastical history assert.

2. The Episcopal Church began the first Christian missions, the apostles acting as missionaries, and St. Paul probably founded the Church in Britain; and when Augustine was sent there from Rome in the sixth century he found the Episcopal Church already there in full success.

3. The Episcopal Church was the first and the only one for ages to meet and hold back the claims and encroachments of the papacy.

4. The Episcopal Church was the first that translated the Bible into English, and has made almost every great translation into English that was ever made.

5. The Episcopal Church was the first that came to America. It made the first prayer, baptized the first convert, married the first couple, buried the first dead, and administered the first Holy Communion. This was in Virginia, ten years before the Mayflower came to New England.

6. The Episcopalians of Virginia were the first to organize a free and equal government in this country, and this was at a town meeting in an Episcopal Church in Virginia—so says Bancroft.

7. It was an Episcopalian who was the first commander-in-chief of the army in our revolution, and the first President of the United States—Washington.

8. It was an Episcopalian, the Rev. Mr. DuChe, who made the first prayer in Congress.

9. It was an Episcopalian, the Rev. Thomas Steck, of Gloucester, England, who originated Sunday schools, and then, in 1780, called in as his assistant Robert Raikes, an Episcopalian.

10. It was an Episcopalian, William Wilberforce, who was the first to move in England against the slave trade and slavery.

11. It was an Episcopalian who kept the first Christmas in this country, and was persecuted for it in New England.

12. The first church founded in Boston was Episcopal, "the King's Chapel," and the building is there to this day. And the first in New York was built by Episcopals—old Trinity.

13. The first Prayer Book was introduced by Episcopals, and all the best liturgies of Christendom, like that in the Book of Common Prayer, are taken from the same source.

14. The Episcopal Liturgy begins with a sentence of Scripture, and the very first words after that are, "The Scripture moveth us;" and the clergyman and people read the Scripture some half-dozen times in each service.

15. The first Gothic church in this country was built by Episcopals, and they first used an organ, chants, crosses, etc., which other denominations of Christians are now widely copying.

16. The Episcopal Church was the first to say, "Dust to dust," etc., at a burial; the first to use the ring in marriage; the first to say "Amen" in prayers, and now nearly everybody is using and saying the same.

17. The Episcopalians were the first to take a rational and scriptural view of amusements, viz., to be cheerful without being light, and serious without being gloomy and sanctimonious.

18. The Episcopal Church is the first that ever set apart a day in honor of conversion; a day in honor of the descent of the Holy Spirit; a day in honor of the Resurrection; and this she does in the celebration of St. Paul's conversion, the Pentecost and Easter.

19. The Episcopalians were the first to baptize children, whether the parents were either of them members or not, with sponsors, and to regard them as members of the Church, under the covenant of God's grace, to be brought up for Christ, and how many not Episcopalians are doing the same essentially.

BOOK NOTICES.

The contents of the North American Review for March must win the attention of all by the timeliness of the topics. First, we have a thoughtful and moderate article by Bishop Cox on "Theology in the Public Schools." The author would sternly exclude from the schoolroom all sectarian dogmas, whether Papist or Protestant, but he insists on the retention of the Bible, first because that book is the principal fountain of our English speech, and secondly because it is really the base of our social system. The second article is by Captain Eads, who endeavors to show the practicability of his ship-railway, its advantages over all canal schemes, and why the United States can without risk guarantee the payment of 6-per-cent. interest on $50,000,000 of the capital stock of the proposed company. Judge H. H. Chalmers, writing of the Effects of Negro Suffrage, bespeaks for the Southern States, while engaged with the solution of the great problem that has been forced upon them, the sympathy and counsel of the North. The other articles are "The Free-School System," by John D. Philbrick, being a reply to the recent strictures of Mr. Richard Grant White on the public schools; "Theological Charlatanism," by Mr. John Fiske, whose typical theological charlatan is Mr. Joseph Cook; and finally, a review of some recent publications in Physics, by Prof. A. W. Wright.

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT.—Shall we have a cheap official edition? The help of our readers asked to secure it. It is believed that the English Oxford Press (the official publishers) would be willing to issue a cheap popular edition of the New Testament, provided they can be convinced that the demand for such an edition in this country is great enough to warrant it. To test the extent of this demand our readers are requested to send at once to I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey St., New York, their names, stating how many copies they are willing to take for themselves and friends, provided the price per copy be not more than 25 cents, postage free. These would be the official copies, printed in Oxford, England, from the original plates, and would be delivered in America simultaneously with the high-priced edition.

Scribner for March has a number of interesting points. The second part of Mrs. Burnett's piquant novelette, "A Fair Barbarian," will be eagerly read by those who have read the first part, and will be found even more interesting. That this story adds new laurels to the authors reputation is not doubted by any one who has read it through. "Ericsson's Destroyer, and her New Gun," is the subject of a paper, which has the advantage of Presenting the first drawings of this long expected piece of armament, with some fresh details. In "Musical Possibilities of America," Mr. Theodore Thomas writes practically of vocal and instrumental culture, church and theatre music, bad and good methods of teaching, and of American violins. Never-before-engraved portraits of Charles and Mary Lamb, from old paintings, embellish a short paper by Mr. John Arbuckle. "In London with Dickens" is a chronicle of the localities of Boz, including Mr. Tulkinghorn's house, Limehouse Hole, Jenny Wren's house, the Inns of Court, etc. There is an illustrated article on "John Singleton Copley," by his granddaughter, Mrs. Armory, and presenting engravings of "The Boy and the Flying Squirrel," the "Boy Rescued from a Shark," "Lady Wentworth," and other illustrations. Still further variety is given to the number by a second paper of "Recollections of American Society" by Mrs. S. W. Oakey; an account of "Protestantism in Italy" by Rev. Washington Gladden, more "Notes of a Walker," including discussion of Shakespeare's natural history, by John Burroughs; "A Dangerous Virtue," a striking short story, by Mr. H. H. Boyesen; the fifth part of Mr. Schuyler's "Peter the Great as Ruler and Reformer." Among the poems there is a sonnet by Dr. Holland, who, in "Topics of the Time," takes note of Bishop Cox's exception to a recent paper in Scribner on the Bible Society, "Home and Society" treats of "A Mother's Duty to her Girls," "A New Cooking-Stove," and "Servants' Rooms and Quarters."

The most striking things in the March St. Nicholas are Mrs. Oliphant's admirable paper giving the touching story of "Lady Jane Grey" (to be followed in April by the companion article on "Mary Queen of Scots"); an illustrated account of two sturdy Icelandic boys and their desperate "Encounter with a Polar Bear"; "Mary Jane Describes Herself," an illustrated autobiography of a Sunday-school scholar; a new scientific in-door amusement called "The Magic Dance"; an incident of Adelina Patti's childhood, when traveling in the United States, in 1854, with Ole Bull and Maurice Strakosch; and the four serials,—the fourth installment of Rossiter Johnson's story of "Phaeton Rogers," in which is described that young inventor's disastrous "horizontal balloon-ascension"; Dr. Oswald's stirring "Adventures in Nature's Wonderland"; Mrs. Clara Erskine Clement's second paper of "Stories of Art and Artists," with six pictures; and the anonymous "Mystery in a Mansion: a Story of an S. S." There are more than fifty illustrations, a page of music, and an Anglo-Chinese story for the boys and girls to interpret.

Messrs E. & J. B. Young & Co., Cooper Union, New York, are the agents in this country of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, which issues many hundred volumes of excellent reading adapted for Sunday School libraries and presentations, and at prices very low, from thirty cents upward. It might be well to send for a catalogue which gives a description of each volume.

WIDE AWAKE for March is more than usually pictorial, no less than five full page drawings being given, in addition to the ballad "The Beggar King," which has six full-page pictures, while all the other articles are also lavishly illustrated. "Mr. Slocum" is one of the most amusing stories of the season; and the boys will enjoy "How Philip Sullivan Did an Errand," and "How Jonathan Ran Away from School." "The Girl that Had Patience to Practice," relates to the opening of Camilla Urso's splendid career. "Bessie's Story," by Frank H. Converse, is an account of a recent ocean adventure. "Tot, the Dwarf," by Margaret Eytinge, is a dramatic little story, full of breathless interest and is exquisitely illustrated by G. F. Barnes. Of the three serials we can say that three brighter stories were never offered to the juvenile world: "The Story of Honor Bright," with its three delicious pictures; "Rocky Fork," the Ohio story, and "Polly Cologne," the little folk's own special serial. There is also a grand fourth serial which comes as a Supplement, "Warlock of Glenwarlock," by George MacDonald. There are also four Money Prizes offered to students in History for the four best essays on given subjects. Only $2.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publisher, Boston, Mass.

CULTURE AND RELIGION, in some of their principal relations. By Principal J. C. Shairp. (No. 50 Standard Series.) This excellent work which treats most ably and in a way very timely the important relations of faith and progress, and which we bought years ago for two dollars, is now sold in good type and paper for fifteen cents. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

EPISCOPAL REGISTER CHURCH CALENDAR. This annual for 1881, put out by our excellent Philadelphia contemporary, comes to all its subscribers with a continuation of the valuable historical notes and statistics which have marked previous issues. McCalla & Staveland, Publishers, Philadelphia.

THE DIARY OF A MINISTER'S WIFE. By Almedia M. Brown. Part I. in No. 53 Standard Series. Octavo form-price, 15 cents. I. K. Funk & Co., New York, Publishers. This book is pronounced one of the most humorous and witty books of the day, showing the trials, expectations and actual experiences of a minister's wife in a country parish. It will lessen the burden of many a country preacher's wife if this book is placed in the hands of the laity.

THE PREACHER'S CABINET. A Handbook of Illustrations. Second Series. By Rev. E. P. Thwing. Price, 25 cents. I. K. Funk & Co., New York Publishers. This little book is brimful with bright epigrams, beautiful similes and elegant extracts from the literature of all ages. Teachers, writers and public speakers will find here fresh, vivid and quickening truth on more than two hundred literary and religious themes, the whole indexed and conveniently arranged.

STANDARD HYMNS, with Historical Notes of their Authors. By Rev. E. P. Thwing. Price, single copy by mail, 6 cents. I. K. Funk & Co., New York, Publishers.

This little book contains nearly 150 hymns, with tunes indicated, and names of authors and dates of composition given. The biographical notes are interesting and valuable. It is a very unique and cheap book intended for Sunday-schools and for family worship.

The following are among the contents of the March number of The Preacher and Homiletic Monthly: Sermonic: "Ministers of Christ," by C. H. Hall, D. D.; "The Immortality of the Affections," by Charles S. Robinson, D. D. "Eternal Life a Gift," by R. S. Storrs, D. D. "The Christian Pilgrimage," by Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D. "Ministerial Solitude," by Rev. Thomas Kelly. "Light on Important Texts," No. VII., by Howard Crosby, D. D. Under "Sermonic Criticism," we have the following suggestive articles: "The Preacher Abreast of his Times," "Originality," and "Stick to the Text." Then we have "Hints to Clergymen," "Preachers Exchanging Views," "Suggestive Themes for Sermons," "Books of Homiletic Value," by Dr. J. Stanford Holme, and "Illustrations and Similes." Clergymen and all Bible students will find this Monthly very important. $2.50 per year; 25 cents single number. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey Street, New York.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Bishop Howe, of South Carolina, has recently admitted to the Diaconate the first colored person ordained in our Church in that State.

—The Diocese of Kentucky, at its last Convention, subscribed $1,500 for the first year's salary of an Evangelist, but for some reason the project is now abandoned, and he has accepted a parish.

—A number of very important parishes are now vacant: the Church of the Redeemer and St. Peter's Brooklyn; Calvary Church, New York; St. Paul's Church, Buffalo; the Associate Rectorship of Christ Church, Louisville; St. Paul's Cathedral, Indianapolis.

—The vigorous Living Church is about to make a new departure and issue an eastern edition from New York City, printing the same news. The Rev. C. Ellis Stevens is to have charge of the Eastern office.

—During the year 1880, with about 325,000 communicants in our Church in this country, only about $160,000 was given for domestic missions, an average of fifty cents each. Of this $160,000 for the whole country, three Dioceses, New York, Pennsylvania and Long Island gave $80,000, one-half of the whole amount. Of this $80,000, two parishes, Grace church, New York, and Grace church,

Brooklyn, gave together $20,000, one-fourth of the amount. Of this $20,000 two individuals gave $10,000. Now, the question is, when the rectors of those two noble parishes become Bishops, and when those other two generous souls go to Heaven, what is to become of our domestic missions?

—The Rev. Dr. Hale of Baltimore, who is very much interested in the inter-communion of the Churches, was recently in Europe, and he says of his experience there that in five consecutive Sundays I used five different liturgies. At Baden-Baden, with Bishop Reinkens, an Old Catholic German Liturgy; at Paris, with Pere Hyacinthe, a French Liturgy; at Risholme and Lincoln, the Liturgy of the Church of England; at Inverness, the beautiful Liturgy of the Scottish Church, to which our Prayer Book owes so much; at Queenstown, that of the Church of Ireland. "Thus," he continued, "in a little over six weeks I was welcomed as a brother Churchman by representatives of six Churches besides our own, with all of whom we are in communion."

—In Holstein a new use has been discovered for ministers. A peasant, killing a pig, sent a portion of it to the parson, and then, before he could eat it himself, waited two weeks in order to ascertain if there were trichinae in it.

—Our Presbyterian friends, who, for want of unity, could not join in the Lord's Supper at their Pan-Council, have ever since been casting around to find some plausible excuse for it. At length the Presbyterian Review says: "We do not see the propriety of the observance of this sacrament in ecclesiastical bodies."

—The following resolution among others was adopted unanimously by the late General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church:

"Resolved, That every minister in charge of a congregation be requested to reserve from this time forth, out of the 'alms and other devotions' of the people collected upon each and every occasion of the administration of the Lord's Supper, a percentage of the whole amount, not less than one, nor more than ten per cent, at the discretion of the minister; the same to be forwarded and paid over to the trustees of the Fund for the Relief of the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Clergymen, and of Aged, Infirm, and Disabled Clergymen."

—One publisher announces that he will be ready to put out an edition of the revised version of the New Testament, type setting, proof reading, press work and binding included, within twenty-four hours after the copy is in hand.

—The startling combinations and consolidations of railroad and telegraph corporations, wielding enormous capital and influencing legislatures and courts, has caused the organization of a National Anti-Monopoly League, which has held some large public meetings. An article in the last number of the Atlantic Monthly shows what a terrible power is exercised by the Standard Oil Company, which controls the produce and price of all the petroleum produced in this country, overawing railroads and courts, and crushing out all competition.

—In the Arkansas senate a joint resolution has been passed fixing the pronunciation of the name of the State as Arkansas.

—There were 192 marriages recorded in Stoddard county, in this State, during 1880, and there were filed in the circuit court, during the same period, thirty petitions for divorce.

—Of the quarter of a million endowment of the General Theological Seminary in New York, asked for two years ago, more than a half has been received and paid in, of which $75,000 is from the family of the present Dean, of which $50,000 is for the endowment of the deanship. The present dean, Dr. Hoffman, will not receive anything, and the interest will be added to the Endowment during his lifetime.

—Recently in Austin, Texas, one Sunday morning the minister received to the Communion a convert from the Roman Catholics, at night the Bishop confirmed a Methodist minister, and the next day two persons who had been Baptists.

—The editor of the Young Churchman of Milwaukee says that his paper has always paid more than its expenses, and that if his paper had the circulation of the Young Christian Soldier of New York, he could support one of our Missionary Bishops out of its profits, instead of its being a charge on the Church.

—The Bishop of Virginia refused to admit a young man as Candidate for Orders because he was a member of the General Theological Seminary, and says that all students for the ministry in Virginia must study within the State.

—In 1873 James M. Allen of Carthage, N. Y., married Mary McNulty by mutual agreement, without the aid of clergyman or civil officer. The agreement was written out, and was limited only to the time when God parted them. After a while Allen wearied of the woman, and he denied in court recently that he was married to Mary. The jury found that the marriage contract was valid.

—St. John's church, Detroit, has only had two rectors, Bishop Armitage and the Rev. Dr. Worthington. It has over 800 communicants and three assistant ministers, attending also upon two chapels connected with the mother Church. There are many societies, all in vigorous operation.

—The receipts of Mr. Beecher's church for pew rents this year are $45,000, but the trustees complain of the great lack of spiritual interest, and so Mr. Beecher has commenced a revival.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins Editor, Olive street, between 4th and 5th, St. Louis, Mo.

A VERY earnest brother is discouraged because so few attend the meetings of the Sunday School Association, and repiningly wonders and inquires, "How can the Rev. so and so and Mr. — and Mrs. Doe, remain away when we have such addresses as were recently given us by Drs. Schuyler and Ingraham?" He should not forget to thank God for the few anyhow, and for the encouraging words that are said. It is much better to have a few than none, and now, just now, is an excellent time for the few to pray and work for more. We are to "provoke one another to love and to good works." What better work could the few do than go after clergy and laity who do not come? Set about it, brethren, with energy and tact. If it does not benefit those whom you seek it will be good Christian exercise for you, and that is the object of the Association—work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES.

Mr. V. W. Tippet, Superintendent St. John's Sunday-school, reports an encouraging state of progress.

Notwithstanding Sunday morning, the 27th ult. was the most inclement of the season, the attendance on Christ Church Sunday school was gratifyingly large. Mr. McMasters' zealous energy and ability are followed by most excellent results.

Mr. W. B. Chittenden, long time a successful teacher in the Sunday-school, Church of the Holy Communion, has, to the sincere regret of all interested, resigned his class. His former pupils will miss his presence and words of wisdom and all the school his example.

CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

The Association has been specially favored this Winter in the way of addresses. Two of our oldest and most faithful clergymen, at no small cost of pains on their part, have addressed the Association in a very full and very interesting manner on two very important topics. The first of these, by the Rev. Dr. Schuyler, on the "Relations of Parents and Teachers," was received with lively interest by the few who were present. It was prepared, evidently, with unusual care and presented with that fullness and clearness which marks all of the Rev. Dr.'s addresses. The "Relations of Parents and Teachers," as they ought to be, was very fully and clearly shown. The valuable services which the faithful teacher could render the Church was also clearly drawn out and emphasized. The far-reaching influence which she or he might exert through the children of strangers who come under their influence, being the point most conspicuously set forth. Space forbids us giving more than a very brief notice of a most valuable address. It is to be regretted that, considering the pains which had been taken to make this address not only profitable but interesting, that more of the members of the Association did not show the Rev. Dr. proper respect and appreciation by their attendance.

We regret that want of space will not allow us to give a fuller abstract of the address by Doctor Ingraham. His subject, "The Proper Use of the Bible as a Book of Instruction," was presented clearly and forcibly, and those who followed him attentively did not fail to profit largely by the remarks. From the stand-point of the lecturer the Bible presents that unity in all its parts which it is absolutely necessary that the teacher should see and comprehend in order to faithfully use the Bible as a Book of Instruction. From the stand-point of the address the Bible from first to last has but one thought of Christ. The Old Testament telling of this expectation of God's people waiting for His coming. The New of his birth, his labors, his death, his resurrection and constant presence with his Church. In other words the Bible gives the teacher the lesson which the teacher is to teach—that Christ is all in all, the one thing needful for the human soul.

It is also to be regretted that a like indifference was shown by so many members of the Association toward this address as toward the former.

On the third Sunday in January the Sunday-school of Trinity Church, Hannibal, had the pleasure of a visit from Mr. J. J. Wilkins, President of the Missionary Host. At the invitation of the Rector, Mr. Wilkins addressed the school, telling the children something of the work of the Host.

For the past three years this school has been accustomed to contribute to the work of the Host, but at the suggestion of Mr. Wilkins, it was determined to organize a branch of the Host in the Sunday-school. Accordingly upon the following Sunday the names of 50 scholars were enrolled who pledged 5 cents each per month, making a total of $2.50 per month, or at the rate of $30 per year. Other names have since been added, and it is hoped before Easter the list will be still longer. The amount of money thus pledged is not large, but it is more than we have given here before, and such work as this is following out the plan proposed by the Board of Missions at its late session in New York. And there is this very valuable feature about the matter, it will enlist the sympathy and aid of the children in Missionary work early in life, and so be more apt to secure their aid and sympathy in behalf of the work in their adult years. Every Sunday school in the Diocese ought to contribute to the funds of the Host, even though it be impossible in some instances to organize branches of the Host. It would seem to be well, too, that the contributions received by the Host from the different Sunday-schools should be published each month in the columns of THE CHURCH NEWS devoted to the Sunday-school department, inasmuch as the receipts of the Missionary Host do not appear in the Convention Journal, at least in that of 1880.

L.

ONE of the most successful—in every sense—Sunday Schools in the West is that of Christ Church, Collinsville, Illinois. For the encouragement of fellow-workers and to furnish demonstration of what can be accomplished under great difficulties by earnest effort and singleness of purpose, we publish an extract from the Superintendent's report of the work of the school from Jan. 19, 1880, to Dec. 18th of the same year. He says:

Your Superintendent desires to briefly review the work of the Sunday School during the past year.

On the 11th of January the School was reorganized with seven officers and teachers and 74 pupils; total 81. The rolls now contain the names of 9 officers and teachers, and 146 pupils; total 155.

This enormous increase, it is but fair to say, is partially owing to the enrollment, at the beginning of the year not being quite full, because of the fact that the names of all the children really belonging to the school could not be obtained. It is also proper to say, at the reorganization for the ensuing year, quite a number of names now on the rolls will be dropped on account of non-attendance for a long period of time, in some cases owing to removal from the parish and in others from manifest indifference to the work of the school. Of this latter class most of them can be restored to the rolls by proper effort on the part of the teachers.

After making due allowance for the two items above alluded to, it will still be found a very large increase has been secured during the year, and it is but fair to attribute it, under God, to the close attention, earnest endeavor and faithful work of the teachers in charge of the school.

The School has, during the year, contributed the handsome sum of $28.60. Of this sum $10.85 has been expended for cards, leaflets and other incidental expenses of the School. $5.00 were paid toward purchasing the new organ for the Church, and $4.00 were given for papers—The Little Episcopalian and its successor, The Banner of the Cross—to be distributed to persons more or less connected with the School and Parish. For this sum the paper has been regularly sent for twelve issues to twenty-five different families or persons, and to nine other families or persons for six to nine issues. The remainder has been appropriated toward purchasing the prizes, etc., distributed at this celebration. In addition to this, the school has received, from other sources, the following amounts:

From Mrs. Powell, proceeds of fancy work.....	$ 1.00
Miss Meggie Bassett, collected.....	2 35
Miss Maggie Killinger, collected.....	2 50
Mrs. Wing, donated.....	2 10
M. M. Powell, do.....	2 50
Dr. Powell, donated balance.....	4 22

Total.....	$14.67
Amount of contributions as above.....	$24.60

Total from all sources.....	$43.27
-----------------------------	---------

—Contra—

Amount incidentals, organ and papers, $19.85
Bill of Committee on prizes and refreshments.....	$23.42
	$43.27

All of which has been expended under direction of the officers and teachers.

The attendance of the teachers has been remarkably good, averaging 41 out of the 49 Sundays taught since the reorganization of the school. The Superintendent has managed to be present at 47 roll calls.

Respectfully submitted,

THERE has never been a year in this Diocese when the arrangements and services for the Lenten Season have been as full and complete as they are this year. Pastoral letters with a strong statement of the claims and duties of the season have been put out in many parishes where this was never before done. The attendance so far as we have observed has been exceptionally large.

THE missionaries at the end of the quarter will need to send in their quarterly reports and missionary collections and also the offering for the Permanent Episcopal Fund, from each place, which is taken on Sunday, 13th, or as near that as possible. If the amounts are sent to Mr. Leavitt, he will send to Mr. Freeborn, the Treasurer, the portion designated for the Permanent Fund.

HOLY WEEK.

According to the usage of many years in this city, there will be united services during Holy Week in the churches. According to the appointment of the Bishop, the following will be the preachers this year and the places:

April 11, Monday—Trinity, the Rev. B. E. Reed.

April 12, Tuesday—St. John's, the Rev. J. Fulton, D.D.

April 13, Wednesday—Holy Communion, M. Schuyler, D.D.

April 14, Maundy Thursday—Christ, ———.

April 15, Good Friday—St. George's, G. C. Betts.

The services will begin at a quarter to eight o'clock. The offertory on Thursday night will be as usual for St. Luke's Hospital—on the other evenings for the missions in the Diocese.

Last year at a venture a service was appointed for Saturday night. It was found, however, as had been the case in earlier years, that such a service was inconsistent, only the Rector, the preacher, and the Bishop, with a small local congregation, being present. It was evident that the arrangements for Easter evening should be parochial.

The seats in church at all these services are free, and it is hoped that the season will be well observed to the end.

THE QUIET DAY.

For several years past the custom has been growing in England and in the Eastern Dioceses of this country, for the clergy to withdraw for a day or longer apart to engage in devotions and conferences with a view to the special duties and difficulties of the ministerial life. Their duties are so persistently with others that there is danger that they forget the sources of their own strength. Our Lord probably had some such weariness and desire for refreshment when He said to His disciples (St. Mark VI. 31.) "Come ye yourselves apart and rest awhile; for there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure."

Moved by these thoughts, and in the near approach of Lent, when clerical duty becomes so much more exacting, the Bishop wrote a personal note to each of the ministers in this city asking them to join him in spending a quiet day on the Friday before Ash Wednesday in Christ Church Chapel. The responses made showed that the suggestion was hailed with pleasure.

At nine o'clock the Holy Communion was administered by the Bishop and Bishop Dunlop, and a short address made as to the objects and the distribution of the day, and quiet was enjoined on all. After a short pause, the time from 10 to 11:30 was given to devotions and to a conference as to the personal life and duties of the minister. From 11:30 to 12:30 was given to a consideration of the administration of the priestly office, and especially here in St. Louis. An interval of an hour was then taken, and from 1:30 to 3 P. M. there was a slow, quiet going over the questions of the ordination service.

There were, besides the two Bishops, thirteen other clergymen present, all with three exceptions of those within reach, and two of these at least were detained by sickness. The feeling was solemn and tender, and all deeply enjoyed the privilege, and were strengthened by them in brotherly love, and for the duties of the sacred season on which they were about to enter.

BETTER ACTION.

While it is asserted that there is a strength and venom in the assaults of irreligion now greater than has been before known, it is well for us also to note the positive advance of Christian principle as affecting and educating the public conscience on social matters. Evils once mooted and disputed are treated now summarily by law, and the highest points held only by a few, some years ago, are the common places of action now. We need not speak in this connection of slavery and serfdom; how they have passed away with a practical unanimity. It is very much the same with dueling; persons having been recently found guilty in criminal indictments on this issue in South Carolina and Virginia. So, too, with gambling in this country and Europe, and with cruelty to animals, imprisonment for debt, and the condition of prisoners. Railroads now forbid their employees to enter a bar-room. The Wabash recently forbade bar-rooms at their eating stations.

It is quite the same with the rights accorded to women in respect of property and voting in matters of education and of taxes on property owned by them. And so in England, the matter of according rights in the parish Church and to the dissenters, even for a sentimental grievance, and the firmness with which all traffic in livings in the English Church is being condemned; this shows how a conscience is made of what once was slighted.

The teachings of our Lord are all the while becoming more generally operative as a force in society. At first their principle, as touching some duty or abuse, affects one person or a few, then like the rising sunlight irradiating the hill-tops, it gradually goes down to the lower levels until the whole plain is bathed in its glow.

IMPORTANT EDUCATIONAL ENTERPRISE.

Ten years ago the Methodists bought five acres of ground on the borders of Macon City, less than a hundred rods from the Court House, and on an eminence overlooking all the surrounding country. Here they began the erection of a brick building for Johnson College, of large size, of over a hundred feet front and thirty feet deep, with a T in the rear connected, over fifty feet square. The first they carried up two stories, and the last three which they finished with a roof and plastered. The front is left unfinished. On it they spent $30,000 and stopped. The building, as designed, presented a stately appearance. To finish, as intended, required from $12,000 to $15,000. This property the Methodists and Presbyterians have lately been negotiating for, with a view to complete the former design of establishing the College. The Rev. Mr. Talbot has, however, anticipated this purpose and secured the property for the very small amount of $2,000. This was necessary in order to secure the results which he had reached in his school, and to develop worthily the success he has already gained. Growth for him lies in the direction of the boarding department. Parents desire to place their children at school. The present school building has served admirably, but it is in the town, and flush on the corner of the street. When the scholars leave the building they are in the public thoroughfare. A school such as would have justified Mr. Talbot to give himself up to it required a still larger building, one designed for a school, with separate wings for the sexes and ample ground about it for recreation and exercise and a little out of the town to secure seclusion from its influences.

In the many appeals which Mr. Talbot was receiving to transfer his work elsewhere, the time had come for him to consider whether he could enlarge his work as its growth seemed to demand, or let some other influence secure the vantage ground of this eligible property. He has made the venture and bought it himself in the hope that he will be sustained in his action. He has received assurances that lead him to expect that the town and the county of Macon will pledge him $10,000, provided that he can get a reasonable amount of help from Churchmen outside. If he succeeds he will finish and make available a property which would be a solid gain and credit to the Church in the State. No impression can be had in reading of the beauty of the location, or the massiveness of the buildings. The town, by its railroad connections, commands a wide country, and students have come under Church influences by means of this school who, before, were utterly unused to them. It has the assurance of years of steady growth. It means the retention, in this Diocese, and in a work for which he is eminently qualified, one who is ready to venture much for the Diocese in which he was born.

It is along these lines that the Church must go to reach the position to which it is entitled in this Western country. Let the project receive a warm welcome and help from our people.

WARNING.

I desire to warn the clergy and laity against a class of unprincipled persons who pretend to be deaf and dumb to obtain charity, and deaf mutes who have gone down so low as to make a trade of their misfortune, going about begging and swindling. Of late cases of swindling have come to my notice and I have thought it a matter of duty to warn as above.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The Nebraska Church paper urges that all of our missionary money be massed for work in this vast West, rather than spend half of what is raised in foreign lands; and that we should hand over our foreign work to the Church of England, and those who desire to contribute to it should send to the English societies which have this in hand.

—There are now three Reformed Episcopal bodies, vials, each refusing communion to the other.

—The Living Church is about to begin a series of sketches of the early American Bishops by the Bishop of Iowa, prepared from MSS. and rare volumes. The offer of subscription for clergymen and for laymen, whose names come through their clergymen for $1. A year is extended to the first of April.

—The Rev. Mr. Courtney conducted the two days pre-Lenten retreat of the clergy in Chicago.

—A person in Chicago, on two Sundays in December, took the statistics of Church attendance in fifty congregations, and of all the principal religious bodies, five to eight churches of each, with the following result: In the Episcopal churches, with an average membership of 495, the morning attendance was 379, evening 279; the Presbyterians, with an average membership of 752, had an average of 346 at morning service and 279 at evening; the Methodist, with an average membership of 430, had an average of 243 persons in the morning and 261 in the evening; the Baptists, average membership 559, attending in morning 320 persons and in evening 317; Congregational, average membership 329, attendance morning 256, evening 194.

—The population of New York is 1,206,590; Philadelphia, 846,984; Brooklyn, 566,689; Chicago, 503,304; Boston, 362,535; St. Louis, 350,522; Baltimore, 332,190; Cincinnati, 255,708; San Francisco, 233,956; New Orleans, 216,140; Cleveland, 160,142; Pittsburg, 156,381; Buffalo, 155,137; Washington, 147,307; Newark, 136,400; Louisville, 123,645; Jersey City, 120,728; Detroit, 116,332; Milwaukee, 115,578; Providence, 104,850.

—An incident occurred in the Legislature of South Carolina, which adjourned a few weeks ago. There was a negro senator from Beaufort county who made an impressive speech touching the impartial and generous manner in which he and his Republican allies had been treated by that Democratic Legislature. To be sure, this looks like a small matter but as an indication of the temper and spirit of Southern people, it is not a trifle.

—Nine brothers from one family at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, have entered the ministry.

PERSONAL.

—The Rev. John W. Brown, of Cleveland, has declined an election to St. Paul's, Buffalo, to take Dr. Shelton's place, and St. Peter's, Brooklyn, Bishop Paddock's parish.

—Moses Coit Tyler, Professor of English Literature in the University of Michigan, is about to take holy orders in the Episcopal Church. He was for two years the pastor of a Congregational church at Poughkeepsie. For years, however, he has devoted himself to a literary life, and he will be an accession to our ministry very like that of Drs. Huntington and Osgood.

—Of the late Rev. Dr. Washburn, Dr. Storrs, his early and long Congregational friend, thus with warm appreciation testifies:

"His affection for the church of his adoption was abundant and beautiful, because it rested on his assurance that in that church the most catholic sympathies were properly at home, and the freest research was incited and protected, while in its relation to art, learning, the culture of devoutness and reverence in character, and the accomplishment of a diversified Christian work, it seemed to him to offer the fairest attainable field. I know that he constantly felt that his early ideal was daily nearer to being realized, in the freedom of its teaching, in the broadening aims and temper of its clergy, in the happy fellowships established among them, in the more alert sympathies rising within the circles which he influenced toward Christian scholars of whatever name; and that in connection with this that he found at last his full enjoyment in the tender, majestic and rhythmic forms of the worship of his Church in the ancientness of its creeds, in what he recognised as the beauty and strength of its organization.

—The Rev. J. W. Cracraft, who was deposed in 1868, and joined the Cummins movement, has recently been restored to the ministry by the Bishop of Ohio.

—The Rev. Dr. Hall, of Brooklyn, has been called to succeed Dr. Washburn at Calvary church, New York. The Rev. Chas. A. Tibbals, of Red Bank, N. J., a young clergyman, will succeed Bishop Paddock at St. Peter's, Brooklyn. The Rev. B. Falkner, of Brooklyn, who came to us recently from the Congregationalists, succeeds Mr. Leonard at the Church of the Redeemer, Brooklyn. The Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, D.D., of South Bethlehem, Penn., has been called to succeed Dr. Shelton at St. Paul's, Buffalo, and will probably accept.

—Bishop McLaren and family have gone to New Orleans because of an attack of laryngitis, from which he has not wholly recovered.

—The Rev. Mr. Holland went through the city this week on his way south for a three weeks rest. He has been off duty half the time since the first of January, on account of sickness, caused by the severity of the winter. Latterly his spine has been affected. It is hoped that rest will bring relief.

This beautiful Piano Upright Cabinet or Parlor Organ (Like Cut), The Paris New Style, No. 5,500, Height, 70 in.; Length, 43 inches; Depth 24 inches; Contains (5) Five Octave, (5) Five Octave of the celebrated Golden Tongue Reeds, as follows: Set powerful Sub Bass Reeds, set of 2 octaves of the famous Vox Celeste Reeds which produce the sweetest tone ever heard; set of 1 octave of the new solo combination the Celestina or French Horn reeds, which exactly imitates a French Horn, besides 2 sets of 2 1/2 octaves each of the principal or regular Golden Tongue Reeds, making in all a beautiful combination, with which the performer can (by the aid of Beatty's new patent stop action) produce any variety of tone desired. It is, therefore, necessary to connect (17) seventeen stops with the above action in order to get the greatest possible variety. (No "dumplings.") This combination is something entirely original. Names of stops are as follows: (1) Diapason, (2) Grand Organ, (3) Celestina, or French Horn, which imitates the human voice; (4) Aeolian, (5) Echo, (6) Dulciana, (7) Clarinet, (8) VOX CELESTE which is by far the sweetest and most perfect that has ever been attained.

—Charming! is the universal exclamation of critics and lovers of sweet music who have heard it; (9) Dulciana, (10) Flute, which doubles the power, (11) Flute Forte, (12) Grand Organ knee stop, by the use of which the entire power of the instrument can be thrown on or off by the knee without taking the hand from the key. It is a valuable improvement in real Organs. The name of this Organ, THE PARIS, because it has such a beautiful appearance; the case is built of solid black walnut, elegantly carved, fancy veneered, with costly wood placed on the top, front, and ends, as shown in cut; handles, lamp stands, fancy pocket for music, two knee swells, rollers for moving, upright bellows, made of the best quality of rubber cloth; stool springs. The pedals are covered with metal, instead of carpet, which will last a lifetime. This Organ is truly a beautiful piece of parlor furniture, and the home of the wealthy, the millionaire, banker, or business man will find it an ornament to their parlor. I will sell this instrument, boxed and delivered on board cars at this place, including Stool, Book and Music, for only $85. Please send in your orders at once. You may order by letter or telegraph; can be shipped at an hour's notice. Remit by Post Office money orders, Express prepaid, or registered letter, or by bank draft. Money Refunded and freight charges will be paid by me both ways in any way you wish to purchase. Nothing saved by long correspondence. Order direct from this Advertisement.

NOTICE.—Those desiring to buy the above instrument are earnestly requested to visit my Factory here and make their own selection in person. To all such I will allow a reduction of $5 from the above price to pay your expenses. This is certainly a very fair offer. Please come and examine the instrument. IT SPEAKS FOR ITSELF. If you do not purchase now, no harm done; you are at least heartily welcome to look through my establishment.

Improved Shoulder Braces.

WHO NEED SHOULDER BRACES.

Girls at school, with hips and shoulders uneven, in some cases, scarcely perceptible, and others a positive deformity—hollow chest, the back being large in proportion to the chest and lungs.

Boys who stoop, with round shoulders and sunken chest, weak lungs, and delicate constitutions. Some are so badly deformed that their chin appears to rest on their breast.

Young Ladies, with narrow, sunken chests, and who are occasionally or continually pulling the dress, front and back to keep it straight, not seeing or not knowing that the spine is a little curved and the tendency of the uneven growth of the body twisting or carrying with it the dress or garment, causes it to get crooked and makes it impossible to straighten it while the body is deformed by spinal curvature.

The anxiety of the ladies at rest! Their feet no longer subject to the maltreatment of the foot, as received at the hands of inexperienced horse shoers, who have not made a study of the anatomy of the horse's foot. The greatest proof of the success of the shoe and system is the innumerable cures of cripples, through improper shoeing, it has performed in the past year. Amongst the many horse owners who have given this shoe and system a thorough and impartial test, whose horses are now being shod with this shoe, and who are amongst its most staunch supporters are the Hon. The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

An offertory will be made at every service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the minister is requested to give notice.

THE Bishop will remind those clergymen, who will remit to him the necessary amount of postage, twenty cents, that he will send them the copy of the last General Convention Journals which he has received for them.

WHILE the Bishop cannot be held to approve of all that has been said at the meetings for Sunday observance in this city, and thinks that positions, indefensible by Scripture, and injurious to the cause in hand, have been taken; he early signed the paper in favor of the closing the theatres on Sunday nights, and was glad to make this small contribution of protest against a practice wrong and loathsome on every ground, and one which he thinks should secure the adhesion of every person who desires the perpetuity of a day for Christian rest. This is even more needed by the poor than by the rich.

THE clergy are requested, under the Canon, to give to the Bishop, at the time of confirmation, a list of the persons presented. When this is not done, it involves the inconvenience of subsequent correspondence, and sometimes the list is lost altogether. The lists, at the following confirmations, have never been received. Will the clergy, in the parishes named, see that the Bishop receive the names? St. Mary's, Kansas City, Dec. 1, '79, and May 9, '80; Moberly, March 19, '80; Monticello, April 19, and Glenwood, April 23, '80; Christ, St. Louis, May 7; Nevada, July 15; Lexington, Sept. 12; Springfield, Jan. 9, '81; Trinity, St. Louis, April 3. On the occasion of confirmation, the congregation remains standing until the Lord's Prayer, the class kneeling just before the laying on of hands.

EASTER ELECTIONS.

This number of THE NEWS will reach most of the parishes only just before the Easter Monday elections. The Bishop will only remind the clergymen, who have now recently come to the Diocese, and who have not had any copy of our canons, that the parish meeting is to be on Easter Monday at such houses as may be selected, after due notice given in church. At such meeting the minister presides, and the polls remain open two hours. The electors are those of full age, who have been communicants, or stated contributors to the support of the parish, for six months before the election. The Vestry consists of from three to thirteen members, as the parish determines.

The outgoing Vestry, at this annual meeting, must make a full report of its proceedings, and a complete statement of the financial condition of the Parish.

The ministers must call the new vestry together so soon as practicable for organization. From their number the ministers may designate one person to be the Senior Warden, or he may devolve the choice on the Vestry, and the Vestry shall elect the Junior Warden, both of whom must be communicants. A Clerk and Treasurer must also be elected. The Vestry can fill vacancies in their body.

It is of the last importance that the best possible material be put into the Vestry, those who are interested in the Church and will give it their attention. A smaller number of such persons will accomplish their business better than a larger number elected for the purpose thus of making them interested. The regular meetings of the Vestry are held on the first Monday in each month; special meetings may be called on the written call of the Rector or of any three members.

WITHDRAWING.

There are many reasons for the marked infrequency of communicants of our Church leaving it to join another body. Seldom occurring anywhere, it probably takes place more frequently in those places where the Church has been long established, and is strong, and the faith has been handed down from parent to child as a traditional thing. In this case it has never been studied out, and fought over. Church principles are a matter of family habit, are less known, and not so intelligently valued and tenaciously held.

The Bishop recently received the following letter:

"Will you be kind enough to tell me the requirements of the Episcopal Church, of one of its members, who desires to leave the Church, and unite with another orthodox denomination? I am thinking seriously of joining a — church in our neighborhood; because it is the most convenient church, where I feel that my spiritual life is most fully nourished.

"And I should like to know if the Episcopal Church gives letters to a church of another denomination? and also, if in the future circumstances should arise, when I would again like to join the Episcopal Church, could I do so?

"Could I become a communicant and a church member, and would confirmation be necessary the second time? These questions are of much importance to me."

The Bishop replied to this letter as follows:

"I have your note. I am sorry at what it intimates. Our Lord prayed against schisms among His people, and His apostles denounced those who encouraged divisions among Christians. So we, in the Litany, pray to be delivered from false doctrine, heresy and schism. Our Lord established His Church with which our own is in direct descent and union. In it all spiritual graces are nourished. Our Church makes no declarations against the denominations of more recent origin about us, and I do not. But there is no harm from which the Christian religion is at this day suffering more than from the weakness and bigotry and bad blood caused by the almost numberless divisions among Christians. This is giving infidelity its weapons to fight with.

"Anything tending to create, or prolong, or widen such results can not but be counted a great harm and wrong. I can hardly think of an occasion which can justify it. God's blessing can hardly follow that which defeats what our Lord, in the last hours before His death prayed, that 'His children all might be one.' Pardon me if I suggest that the causes which you name do not, in my judgment, constitute a justifying reason for what in principle and in fact is working such harm.

"Of course, I am not faulting those who are, in ignorance causing divisions.

"A minister could and would certify your standing as a communicant in his church, but he could hardly commend you to those from whom he is in principle separated. If there was nothing but taste, or inclination, or convenience separating us from others, we would be sinning in not abandoning everything and going to those who have the largest number, and thus present the greatest likelihood of absorbing all. We stand in faith and worship just where the Church stood, before all the modern denominations began; and there we will be when possibly they will have passed away.

"When persons have been received into the Church's communion, they are only cut off from their spiritual privileges when they consciously commit grievous sin. When, unaware of the wrong principle involved in their action, they abstain from the services or the Communion, the Church treats them as prodigals, hoping for their return, the door for which is always open.

"Persons are made members of Christ and of His Church in baptism, they afterward may attain the fuller privileges of their membership in Confirmation and the Holy Communion. Confirmation of course can not be repeated. It is an Apostolic ordinance in which, for those who come to it rightly, the fuller gifts of God's Holy Spirit are imparted.

"I may not measure or define the lines along which God's Spirit works; but situated as you are, within the communion of His Church, with manifold advantages, the value of which you will perhaps better appreciate as you lose them, and which others in their hearts desire, you will, I fear, be doing yourself grave wrong if for any cause you leave the communion of the old Church. I affectionately counsel you to pause before you do it.

"I am, very faithfully, yours."

A GREAT NEED.

One of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, who was advancing in years, and not of strong health, with the concurrence of the Sister Superior, lately withdrew from residence, so as to be near her relatives, and in doing so writes to the Bishop: "I think I must say here, if you will pardon me for alluding to it as one reason for my leaving, that our Sisterhood has no accommodations for delicate Sisters; no home to which those who are declining in age can look. I hope that in a few years St. Louis will have a home, a resting-place for the Sisters who have given their lives for the Church's service, and have toiled so incessantly without any reward but that which the Master gives to all those who take up their cross and follow Him."

The case in the above lines is not overstated. The School of the Sisters is overcrowded, and every room is occupied, and their whole life is a public life; with no home or provision for the quiet and privacy required by those who are sick or advancing in years, and worn in Christ's service.

In the Hospital the case is precisely the same. Very often the Sisters have to take into their own rooms those who are sick, sometimes those who are painfully so, so that the strain of ministering to disease is not even relaxed when they can go to their own rooms. And this gives the sadness and the pathos to that strange, unwise delay which, with land secured and subscriptions made, allowed months to go on in entire inaction, in not pushing forward a proper building.

And it is to be feared that, with the plans of the new building as made, as extensive as the money would allow, no proper provision in it can be made for a resting place such as is needed by the quiet workers.

Could any of our wealthy people do better than, while enjoying their own homes, provide either by the extension of the Hospital as planned, or by securing of a School building, or in some other independent way, for a modest home or quarters for the Sisters, who will work and die, and not speak for themselves.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

--Mr. James Potts, of New York, is publishing a new edition of Bishop Robertson's Lecture on the Churchman's Answer as to the History and Claims of the Protestant Episcopal Church, delivered three years ago in the Unitarian Church in this city. The previous edition was exhausted, inquiry was yet made for it, and it was requested that another edition be put out with notes.

--The editor of the St. Joseph Gazette thus warmly praises a recent love poem of Mrs. Runcie's:

"It is clear and chaste, without being severe. It appeals forthright to one's appreciation of poetry. It not only pleases the ear by its perfect rhythm, and the imagination by its rare fancy; but its metre and imagery contribute to its force and beauty. In clearness it reminds one of the love songs of the Greek lyrists; it is as warm as Tom Moore, as artistic as Tennyson. Austin Dobson nor F. W. Bourdillon have written nothing more tender."

--Prof. E. A. Angell, well known a few years ago in Warrensburg and Columbia, has recently been admitted to Deacon's Orders in Pittsburg, Penn. He is Assistant at St. Andrews' Church, has charge of a Mission, and still pursues his old calling of teaching.

--Trinity, De Soto, secured that organ which was mentioned in The News two months ago, and have found it a splendid instrument.

--The Rev. Chas. De L. Allen, recently of East Saginaw, Michigan, has been transferred to this Diocese, and has gone to Mexico to take charge of them and Montgomery.

--The April number of the Atlantic Monthly has a very beautiful little poem by the Rev. Mr. Mann, of Grace Church, Kansas City. We learn that the work in that parish is prospering greatly, and the congregations are very large.

--The season this year has been very backward, and Church work, in all the interior parishes, has been greatly interfered with by the snow and mud, making the roads almost impassable. In Fayette the candidates for confirmation could not come in on the occasion of the Bishop's visit. The local papers there chronicled the fact that the Rev. Mr. Gay, with his horse Bonus, got stalled the Sunday before on the hills of Moriah and had to turn back, as he had been told would be the case before he started. On the Sunday of the Bishop's visit to Mexico, the heaviest snow of the winter had fallen, and the walks and streets were blocked. No services were held at any of the other churches in town, and the congregation at St. Paul's was small, and included only two ladies. Only men could venture out.

--On Tuesday, the 22d ult., in the Church of the Holy Communion, in this city, the Bishop admitted to Deacon's Orders Mr. Gardiner C. Tucker, and preached the sermon. The Rev. Dr. Schuyler, and Messrs. Robert, Betts, Wright and Chesnut were also present and took part in the service. Mr. Tucker was, for a short time, a Baptist minister, and has latterly been engaged in business in this city. He has been assisting the Rev. Mr. Robert for some weeks past, on account of the impairment of the latter's voice.

--The Rev. Mr. Purucker, of Sherman, Northern Texas, has accepted the charge of Trinity Church, De Soto, and the Mission in Crystal City. He is a graduate of the General Seminary, and had for several years charge of a mission of St. Peter's Church, New York. He has been about three years in Texas.

--The Rev. Charles H. Gauthier, who was ordained Deacon in St. Louis in September last, has been called to the charge of Emanuel Church, St. Louis, the position recently vacated by the Rev. Mr. Balte. He was, at the same time, called to a duty in California, but leaving the choice to the Bishop, the latter preferred to have him stay here. He leaves a larger income in business to take up the Church work on which his heart is enthusiastically bent. We hope that he will restore the old times of the parish as the Church was there in the days of Mr. Meade.

--An enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Macon was held in support of the purchase by the Rev. Mr. Talbot, of the Johnson College property, mentioned in the last number of the News, and of his proposed furnishing and equipment of the College. Strong assurances were given of their readiness to raise $10,000 in the county to, wards this important local object. Mr. Talbot spent three days in this city during the following week, and had a conference with a number of important persons, from whom he received an indorsement of the project as Churchmen, and as business men a pledge to subscribe for it according to their ability, and a recommendation that others should do the same. He received also personal assurances, which warranted him to believe that when the time came, St. Louis would do its full part. The matter of securing local subscriptions in Macon county is now in the hands of a competent committee, and will be worked up vigorously. Then Mr. Talbot proposes to return to St. Louis.

--It now seems that the Southern Methodists, during the time of depression in St. John's Church, a year or so ago, when it was advertised for sale, were seriously hoping to secure the property. There never was any chance of its being lost to us, although it has gone through very deep waters. Now we hear that the prospects of an early and entire release from debt are very bright.

--In a recent letter from our old friend Mr. W. F. Southack, now living in California, to the Bishop he mentions a bit of Diocesan history which ought to be preserved. He says, "I came very near being financially ruined by signing a note with two others for $5,000, the price of the lot on which St. Paul's Church was built, corner of Fifth and Wash streets. But for the liberality and energy of one of the vestry of Christ Church, Asa Wilgus, the signers of that note would have had to pay the greater part of it, but he saved them from ruin. Mr. Southack, who is one of the only two surviving members of the Convention which organized this Diocese in 1840, is, he says, in pretty good health, reads The News regularly, and retains all his old interest in the Diocese.

--The health of the Rev. Mr. Robert gave out when the season of Lent had advanced but a week or two, and according to his physician's order he gave up all his week day services, his congregation meeting with that of St. George's, part of the time at St. George's and part of the time at the Holy Communion. On Sundays Mr. Tucker has read Mr. Phillips Brooks' sermons.

Mr. Robert has been ordered to take a vacation. The Parish Aid Society has appointed two persons on the Board of the Woman's Christian Home, a course that might well be followed by the other parishes which are contributing to this institution. There is also a visiting committee who call upon the new families named to them by the Rector.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: St. Paul's, South St. Louis, 8; Moberly, 6; St. Charles, 2; Trinity, St. Louis, 15.

—A contract has been signed by the Trustees of the Church of the Good Samaritan in this city with the authorities of the colored portion of the Methodist Church South for the rent of our property on Sixth street for a year with a view to their purchasing it at that time. The rent paid cancels the interest on the amount yet owing on the property. We receive $4,500, or $1,500 over and above the amount of the mortgage. This is to be all paid in not more than two years. The amount is only $500 less than the price paid six years ago, a very moderate sum to pay for the wear and tear of the property in that time. The location had been found inconvenient for our people, and yet no steps could be taken to secure another property until this was disposed of. This matter is now free from embarrassment. The congregation is steadily growing, and with the best elements. The afternoon service at Trinity Chapel has been more accessible and more largely attended than the other. Now steps can be taken to secure a position for the work central and convenient.

—There are now 59 clergymen canonically connected with the Diocese, and two others resident and doing clerical duty in it; the largest number ever known in Missouri. The parishes and missions are more nearly filled than ever before. There are vacancies in Kirkwood, Boonville, Cape Girardeau, and Good Shepherd, St. Louis. Thirty clergymen of the Diocese are receiving missionary aid, and the amount received from the Domestic Committee of New York for this purpose is less than when we had one-third as many clergymen.

—The resignation of the Rev. Dr. Gierlow at Grace church, St. Louis, takes effect at Easter. He has now removed to the northwestern part of the city, and begun service in the hall on the corner of Easton and Garrison Avenues, with a view of beginning a church in that important and fast growing section.

—It was expected that the contractor of the new St. Paul's church, Palmyra, would deliver up the building complete by the 10th instant. If this was the case, the congregation will be able to have their Easter service in the new building. It has been under construction since last June, and was to have been finished by Christmas, but the usual delays have taken place. It is of stone, and will have cost nearly $3,500, of which $1,000 will be a debt for which the Rector and Mr. Edward McCabe gave their individual note.

—The Rev. Mr. Chesnutt is at work collecting the fifth of the seven annual installments for the purchase money of the church of the Advent. It amounts to a little over $500. When this is done, only two more payments will have to be made. He is receiving much encouragement, and there is every reason to expect that the amount will be reached.

—An exchange of lots in Canton has been effected and a contract has been made for the erection of a chapel, 22 feet by 42 feet, to be completed by the 15th of May.

—The Rev. Mr. Masker went to Chicago at the beginning of Lent to supply Mr. Holland's place during his three weeks' absence in the South. The Rev. Dr. Foster took his duty part of the time, and the Methodist Chaplain of the House filled his place in the Chaplaincy of the Senate. Mr. Masker has resigned now his parish, and requested Letters of transfer to the Diocese of Illinois.

—The Rev. Mr. Thorpe of Nevada is to give hereafter one Sunday in the month to the new and growing coal town of Rich Hill.

—They are in Sedalia actively canvassing the matter of building a new church, of stone, on Broadway, the present chapel being altogether inadequate in size for the congregation. The idea is that the present property, which is coming into value for business purposes, is worth about what the better location on Broadway will cost. The building projected will cost about $8,000, of which the Rector thinks that he can see where $6,000 can be had.

—One of the most inspiring places in which to go in this city to see honest Christian work doing among and for the poor in a direction wholly sensible is the chapel of Trinity church on a Saturday afternoon. A large sewing-school of a hundred girls of the district are taught plain sewing by a dozen or more ladies who have each eight or ten children under their care. Some are only beginning in patchwork, and others are sewing stout underclothing, which is theirs when made.

—There were no confirmations at the Bishop's service for deaf mutes at Christ church on Sunday afternoon, 3d instant. There was a large congregation, including a greater number than usual of deaf mutes. The Bishop said the service and the Rev. Mr. Mann, following the Bishop's finger, interpreted it to his people. He then delivered a sermon in sign language written by the Bishop. The singing was after their manner. The Bishop read the hymn and Mr. Mann interpreted it graphically. The demeanor was most devout, and the people lingered a long while after the service. The superintendent of the State Institution for Mutes at Faribault, Minnesota, was present.

—The receipts of St. Luke's Hospital from churches and individuals has never reached $4,000 a year. Last year they amounted to $1,794 75, and of the 228 patients treated, the Trustees report that 62 were charity patients, and 26 more were partial charity patients, over one-third of the whole. The year before the receipts from subscriptions and donations were $2,356 86. For the year before that, 1877-8, the receipts from parishes were $2,079 89. Going back to 1876 7, in the sixteen months reported from May, 1876, to September, 1877, the receipts were $4,673 37, or at the rate of $3,500 a year, by far the highest amount ever received in any one year, and then 832 cases were reported as treated, a great proportion of them, it is said, being charity cases. When, a few years ago, the question as to what constituted a charity case came before the Trustees, they decided that it was the care of a person for two weeks; usually the permit is given in this way, and as usually it is extended afterward to three or four, if the condition requires.

—The work of the Diocesan Missionary Board has so greatly increased, especially at the time of the payment of the stipends, that it has become necessary to separate the office of Secretary and Treasurer. Mr. Leavitt is willing to continue as Treasurer, but desires relief in writing. If the missionaries in making up their reports and collections would comply strictly with the rules, they would both relieve the Secretary and secure their stipends more promptly.

—The Rev. F. B. Scheetz of Monroe has been called unanimously to the Rectorship of Grace church, Kirkwood, to succeed Bishop Dunlop. We have not yet heard what his answer is.

The Rev. Dr. Ingraham has resigned St. Paul's church, South St. Louis, and has been called to Grace church in this city. He enters upon his new duty on the 1st proximo. They propose in Grace church to enter upon the matter of cutting their lot down to the grade of the street and building a new church. The Bishop confirmed nine persons at a service on the 7th instant.

—The Rector of St. George's has put out a circular statement to his congregation showing that on April 1, 1880, when he assumed charge of the church, there was a floating debt which with interest amounted to $1,160, that the annual revenue was $4,000 less than the expenses, that increased revenue in the six months after this diminished the expected deficit of $2,000 to $940, since October 1st last the parish has been paying its expenses out of its revenue, and that therefore there is this old indebtedness of $2,100 to bring up, which he asks them for at Easter. Considering that the year has been one of such strong, substantial gain for the parish, the wish of the Rector is a reasonable one that his future work should not be hampered by burdens which arose before his coming or before he had fully grasped the parish.

—The Rev. Mr. Parker of Springfield will take a few weeks of rest much needed directly after Easter.

—Mr. Collins, for twenty years the old sexton of Grace church in this city, died a few days ago from injuries received from a fall which he met with in the church. His whole heart was bound up in the old church.

—The Rev. Dr. Runcie has had an alarming attack on his throat and lungs, and has had to stop. The care of his large parish and of the chapel in South St. Joseph and Amazonia have given him fourteen services a week. He may have to go to Florida for a little while. The chapel in Pateetown is finished and furnished, and has cost $1,530. There is a debt of only $100. Of those who form the congregation, the greater number never came to the parish church. There must now evidently very soon be a clergyman there.

—The paper goes to press before we can say anything about the united services for Holy Week. They are not in any special sense the Bishop's services, except that he is present at them. They were in use before he came to the Diocese. He has been accustomed on request to appoint the churches where they are to be held, and the preachers. It has been for many years a custom for our congregations during this Holy Week to put aside in part their parochial arrangements, and come together and commemorate the events of the last days of our Lord's life. It has had wholesome results, and should be maintained as one of the means, of which we have not too many, of preserving and showing our unity in the faith. Dr. Fulton desired to be excused from duty, and therefore the Bishop had to take the sermon for Tuesday night. Otherwise the arrangements have been as announced last month.

—The Bishop on Palm Sunday visited Christ church in the morning and confirmed 21 persons, Advent in the afternoon and confirmed 20; and at night was at St. John's and confirmed 20 persons. The congregations were very large, and at night the musical arrangements were particularly fine.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

Six years ago a missionary in Illinois, the Rev. Mr. Jones, wrote to the Bishop of this Diocese, who had ordained him, asking whether his wife, whose limb had been amputated, could be received into St. Luke's Hospital. He received such answer that she came down expecting to go into the ward. After the first night Sister Mary removed her into a private room on her own motion. Nothing was expected from her. She remained in that room, receiving tender attentions for two months, with no thought of removal from it. A clergyman gave her $20, with which she bought crutches, retaining the remainder. There was also paid on her account $36 voluntarily to the Hospital for two months' care. Her husband came to the city to attend the annual meeting of the Hospital, and, in speaking of what it had done for his wife, broke down in expressing the depth of his gratitude.

Two or three weeks ago the Rector of Mount Calvary in this city asked the Bishop whether he thought he could get admission at St. Luke's for a person in his congregation who had a brain trouble, but who had no means. The Bishop advised him to consult Sister Catharine who attended to such matters. He wrote her a note. Without further trouble the person was admitted. The Bishop a few days after found him there, and mentioned it to Mr. Reed, who had not yet learned the result.

Some months ago the Rector at Macon wrote the Bishop asking whether it was likely that a young child whom he had recently confirmed and who had become lame could be admitted at St. Luke's. The parish could pay her railroad fare down, and furnish crutches, but nothing more. The Bishop sent the note to Sister Catharine for answering, certifying to his knowledge of the child. She was admitted and remained a number of months, and was returned much relieved.

About the same time a clergyman in the southern part of the Diocese wrote to the Bishop about a young lady whom under the same circumstances he desired to have admitted. The Bishop knew all about the case. She was immediately admitted, and remained for months.

Such cases within the personal knowledge of the writer could be multiplied, showing that the only measure of the readiness of the Hospital to receive gratuitously worthy patients is its capacity, and the means provided. None properly vouches for are ever turned away, if there is place to put them. Of course in this, as in every other business, those in charge know best their situation, and the other demands already on them. Sister Catharine writes in this matter that "contagious or chronic diseases are not properly eligible. Sometimes refusal may be given for want of accommodation, or because the Hospital has in it as many free patients as it can afford at one time. The answer to the applicant is usually the most favorable that can be given. I do not remember declining any; nor do I think that many have been.

LENTEN CONFERENCES.

This most successful, interesting series of meetings on the Tuesday nights in Lent, came to their end on the 5th inst. There was a large attendance to the end, although, towards the close, indications appeared of our St. Louis habit of letting up after a brave beginning, and this as well on the part of clergy as people. The subjects called forth some excellent addresses, for which, evidently, careful preparation had been made, will long be remembered.

About them all there was an impression, at the close of the meetings, that the questions had only been fairly opened, and that great profit would be had in a further consideration. It aptly appeared—what could have been presumed before—that there were among our laymen, from whom we are too seldom accustomed to hear, many who, in religious, ecclesiastical, ethical and social questions had clear convictions, wide intelligence and could give this strong and elegant expression. Probably many who were not heard from could have spoken as well as those who did express themselves.

On two or three evenings there was not that readiness to use the time, by volunteers, such as might have been expected, seeing that the subjects had been named beforehand. There was, also, some disposition to resent the expression of adverse opinion by heat and subsequent abstention from attendance.

There was a substantial gain from the Conferences, in the thinking out of questions to their conclusion, and the giving this form and expression, and in the friendly combatting of various views, showing difference along with large agreement on subjects not so frequently considered in church. Another series of Conferences, if they are agreed upon, will show an advance upon these.

KIRKWOOD, March 25, 1881.

Please acknowledge through THE CHURCH NEWS $25 for my work received from Judge Ferguson, and from Mrs. Ann Lear of Kirkwood $100, and Heber Lear $50. GEO. K. DUNLOP.

PERSONAL.

—The aged Bishop of Mississippi has had to give up his appointments, and return to Sewanee on account of sickness.

—Bishop Dunlop left Kirkwood with his family for Santa Fe on the 28th ult. Mr. Dunlop had been quite sick for some days before they left, and had to be carried to the train on a couch. Throngs were at the station to see them off, and the feeling of sorrow was very deep at parting with them.

—Mr. Holland of Chicago delivered a very graceful address there on Washington's birthday before the society of the Sons of Virginia, on The Virginian Gentleman.

—The Rev. W. N. Webbe, once of this Diocese, has been called to St. Andrews, Chicago, the parish that Mr. Talbot declined two years ago. The Rev. C. J. Hendley, formerly of Fayette, has gone to the Diocese of Springfield.

—The Rev. Phillips Brooks has been called to succeed the Rev. Dr. Peabody, a Unitarian, as preacher to the University of Harvard. It was the position which Bishop Huntington resigned on coming to us. In this connection the fact is noteworthy that a recent religious canvas shows that 29 per cent. of the students in the university are "Episcopalians," 22 1-2 per cent. are "Unitarians," and 17 1-2 per cent. are "Orthodox Congregationalists."

—The Rev. Dr. Tyng Jr. has resigned his Church having broken down in health again, and gone abroad. They have called the Rev. Dr. Watkins of Baltimore.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The next Church Congress is to be held in Providence, Rhode Island.

—At the recent annual convention of the Undertakers Association of Michigan, a resolution was offered that it is the sense of the convention that clergymen should be compensated for conducting funerals outside of their own parish, that the preaching of sermons on such occasions is not in good taste, and that when not necessary funeral services be not held on Sundays.

—Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt are erecting a cottage at St. Johnland (Dr. Muhlenberg's institution) for twenty orphan girls, as a memorial of a deceased little daughter.

—The Bishop of Bloemfontein was preaching at Brighton recently ago, and after the service some one who was a total stranger to him, handed to him a cheque for £3,000 to build his cathedral. The good Bishop had lately given up this wish so dear to his heart, in consequence of more pressing diocesan wants.

—The continental pronunciation of the Latin language is to be introduced into Yale College, and persons applying to enter are expected to be familiar with its principles. Its features are as follows: the vowels have the usual continental pronunciation; the consonant c, g and t are always hard; the consonant v has the w sound; the diphthongs æ and œ have the sound ai and oi.

—An odd-looking car has been run over the eastern part of the Erie Railroad recently. The top of the car was covered with windmills and revolving cups, so that it looked like the roof of a signal service station. The object was to test the pressure of the atmosphere on cars going at different rates of speed, so as to determine of what shape to make the front of the cars in order best to resist this pressure, which is very great.

—It is stated on what seems to be good authority that the Board of Missions of our church is under compact with the United States Government, so that they are prevented from entering upon missionary work among the Indians in the Indian Territory. The Indians in Niobrara number 15,000; those in the Territory number 70,000. Among these last are the Poncas, recently removed to the Territory, and who used to be under Bishop Hare's care. They were assigned by the Government to the care of our Church. In the lack of such care lately, they have sent to the Roman Catholics for ministrations.

—Col. Thomas A. Scott has devoted the sum of $200,000 to educational and charitable institutions; among these we notice that $20,000 was given to the children's ward of the Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia.

—The Church Temperance Society has been organized in New York, and with the hopes that it will be extended to other Dioceses. It has a place in it for those who are totally abstinent, and those who do not go to that point. The Presiding Bishop has taken the presidency. It bases itself upon and strives to strengthen the baptismal covenant.

—From a report of St. Luke's Hospital, St. Paul, Minn., sent us, we see that our old friend Gen. Simpson is interested in Church work there as he was here. Over half of the receipts for the year are from the board of patients, of whom 97 were paying patients and 22 were charity. Apparently they think that a kind christian work is being done, not unworthy of a hospital, when they furnish a home and care for some who are able in part to repay and disposed to do so.

—The members of the Presbyterian church of St. Mark's Creek, N. C., support public worship from the proceeds of cotton raised on land set apart by each family in the church.

—The New York Stock Exchange closed as usual this year on Good Friday, and Easter Even.

—To show the uneven increase of population in the last ten years, the census shows that Arizona and Montana have less population now than ten years ago; Nevada and New Mexico have only gained six per cent. Missouri gained 26 per cent.

—A clergyman in New York vouches for the following cases within his personal knowledge of intelligent, faithful men, who have done most valuable work in the Church:

(1) A clergyman in work advertises in the Kalender for the loan of a Latin lexicon.

(2) A clergyman between his resignation and his call to his next work, for three days without a particle of bread in the house.

(3) Of three clergymen at table two admit that their jewelry is in the office of a pawn-broker.

(4) A clerical coat is worn by three clergymen successively.

(5) A clergyman refuses the offer of an exchange, because he has no money to pay his railroad fare.

(6) Bishop Huntington a month ago writes, giving the following as one important reason for postponing a clerical conference. "It is also represented that not only our missionaries—including about half of our clergy—but many other ministers, are just now too scantily furnished with the means of travel to take even a short journey, without domestic inconvenience."

—Chicago, according to a lecture just delivered there, had in 1880 a divorce suit to every eight marriages, and the average for six years has been one divorce to every ten marriages.

—The Presbyterian (N. Y.) Observer, after commending the custom in our Churches of presenting the offerings of the people in Church with religious solemnity, favors these principles:

1. Christian congregations should be taught to give money as an act of worship in their public services.

2. They should give as giving to God, and not to the trustees of the church or as a matter of ordinary business.

3. The reception or collection of the gifts of the people in public worship should be as solemn and as much a part of the service as any other act of worship.

4. Pastors and people should unite everywhere to make this part of the service what it ought to be.

—The Kansas legislature has passed such a prohibitory law that, if literally enforced, it would prevent the celebration of the Holy Communion, and shut up the churches in case they violated it. One of local papers defending the law speaks of the Communion as "mummery," "tomfoolery" and "flummery." Such indecency brings the whole movement into disrepute. The Rev. Dr. Beatty of Leavenworth made a manly address to his parishioners, in the course of which he said: "I need not say to you that I shall go right on with our service in spite of this law. The bishop and clergy of our Church have decided to pay no attention whatever to any such law. Of one thing you may be assured, we shall never recognize for a moment the attempts of human legislation to destroy the great sacrament of the Christian Church."

MISCELLANY.

—A clergyman once, while reading the burial service, came to the place where he must say "our deceased brother (or sister)." He did not know which; so, turning to a mourner, he asked whether it was a "brother" or a "sister." The mourner innocently said, "No relation at all, sir—only an acquaintance."

—A recent lecturer dwelt on the phenomenon of vitality as illustrated in the Jewish people, and indicated the greater vitality which they presented as compared with that of other races among whom they were cast. This vitality depended mainly on the observance of certain parts of the Mosaic sanitary laws. Among other aids to health suggested from the source named be deduced five in chief: viz, passover cleaning, rest from labor once in seven days chastity and good domestic life, temperance and great circumspection in regard to foods, and care of the enfeebled and destitute of all ages of life.

—The Independent puts the creed of pretentious unbelief thus: Article I, Ego; article II, Nego.

—In the first number of Bach's Passion-Music, the clear-seeing eye describes an epitome of all church music, a condensed history of the music of the Christian Church. The chorale is the property of the people, of the congregation, and is the true basis of church music. This is true historically as well as spiritually. Up to the seventeenth century, the whole music of the Church of Rome was based upon the Gregorian at Milan upon the Ambrosian Chant. The pedigree of this Chant can be traced back to the hymns of Praise, Thanksgiving, and Prayer, sung by the early Christian congregations in their secret meetings for divine worship in times of persecution. The Gregorian Chant is the voice of the people. Its more modern Protestant correlative is the Lutheran chorale and still later the hymn-tune of our American churches. Here, in America, if anywhere, can be said truly, 'The congregation is the church!' Here, if anywhere, should the song of the congregation be recognized as the heart and soul of church music.

—A minister the other day in asking for a collection told his congregation that many a man, while apparently singing with all his might the lines—

Were the whole realm of nature mine,
That were a present far too small—was at the same time diligently engaged with one hand in his pocket scraping the edge of a three-cent piece to make sure that it was not a dime.

CONVOCATION AT FAYETTE.

Editor Church News :

The Convocation of the Mexico District met in St. Mary's Church, Fayette, on the evening of the 10th ult., and remained in session until Sunday evening. It was attended by only those of the clergy of the District—the Rev. J. R. Gray, Dean, the Rev. E. R. Richardson, and the minister of the parish who was reappointed Secretary. Besides these we were favored with the presence of the Bishop, and the Rev. E. Talbot, who arrived Saturday. After service on Thursday and Friday night, excellent sermons were preached by the Rev. Mr. Richardson. The Holy Communion was administered on Saturday morning. On Saturday there was service with a forcible sermon from Dean Gray. On Sunday morning the Bishop preached to the largest congregation, perhaps, that was ever assembled in St. Mary's. His subject was that most important one naturally suggested by the services for the second Sunday in Lent. Faithfully and forcibly did he handle it, and it is to be hoped that much good may have been done to the large number of young men who were present. On Sunday night the sermon was by the Rev. E. Talbot, on St. Paul's reasoning before Felix on Righteousness, Temperance and Judgment to come. It was a forcible reproduction of St. Paul's great sermon. Mr. Talbot was good enough to remain over and preach to the people again on Monday night.

Thus ended a very pleasant and profitable meeting of this convocation. The attendance was small on the first night, but kept on increasing. The roads were in a fearful condition from very deep mud. Ordinarily one third of our congregation is made up of people who come in from the country, from two to seven miles distant. These were all kept away, except our Senior Warden and some members of his family, who, living not far from the line of the railroad were brave enough to walk in on the ties, coming three and a half and five miles, some of them, to every service.

There were several candidates ready and desirous for confirmation, but who, living seven miles away, were utterly unable to reach the church.

The next meeting of this Convocation is appointed to be held in Columbia on the 26th of May—the three following days.

OUR HYMNOLOGY.

Editor Church News :

A recent article in The Living Church, with the above caption, would seem to indicate that, in some quarters, the authority of the Church, in the matter of hymns, was obstructive and repressive.

The same rule and the same reasoning would apply equally to the prayers and praises of the Church in other than metrical forms. It would seem that the same wise conservatism should continue in both cases, and authority seems to be necessary, in repressing dangerous novelties, in guarding against intrusive error in the prayers and praises whether sung or said.

Our Prayer-Book is vital and growing. It has the marks of growth in every century from the first, and the fact that the growth has been a healthy one is shown from the fact that so little has been or needs to be lopped off.

If the same wise and loving care had always obtained in the matter of hymns, there would be fewer of them practically obsolete. If the impress of our time were shown too freely on the pages of our Hymnal, coming generations would see more wrecks of a sentimental pietism than we now have of the materialistic impressions of the religious poetry of the former century.

Popular hymns, with popular music, are well enough in social and informal meetings, but unless all our traditions are at fault, let the public worship of Almighty God be regulated by authority.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkin Editor, Olive street, between 4th and 5th, St. Louis, Mo.

THE Superintendents of the various schools will confer a favor upon the editor of this department by sending in a brief account of their Easter exercises for publication in next issue. Enclose in every instance copy of programme or order of service.

LITTLE ones, you, I mean, you who read the words I pen, do you ever think how much you owe your Sunday-school teachers? Do you ever think they may be tired on Sunday afternoon after the labors and cares of the week, and that they would gladly rest but for the voice of duty which impels them to go on with their labor of love? They willingly teach you because they love their Saviour and wish you to love Him too. Ought you not to love them? Ought you not to lighten their labor and encourage them with lessons well learned, prompt and punctual attendance?

Not in vain. Our labor shalt not be resultless. Every effort made for God and humanity's sake, made as God would have it, will produce good effect. Work done in the love of Christ and under the guidance of the Holy Spirit can not fail. It is not given us always to know what progress has been made. Often the scaffolding, of the building we labor to erect hides from our limited vision the progress made. We are as artists who with eyesight dimmed labor in a darkened room. Apparently the picture grows not. The brush seems to fall without effect upon the waiting canvas. We think nothing has been done; but the day is not far distant when the light streaming in shall quicken into wider scope and reach the limited vision, and the picture in all its beauty shall be revealed; when the scaffolding shall be removed and the building, a character true and full, a perfectly rounded Christian character, shall appear in all its strength and beauty, and then we shall know that "our labor has not been in vain in the Lord."

SUNDAY SCHOOL MUSIC.

One of the greatest attractions to children is good, hearty singing and plenty of it. We would not have the singing interfere with the instruction of the school, but would so far as possible present Gospel truths, i. e., the redeeming love of our blessed Lord, His miraculous birth and glorious resurrection, the sanctifying influences of the Holy Spirit, and the doctrine of a visible Church in the form of sacred songs. Remarks or addresses commonplace in themselves are not unfrequently made impressive when followed by a verse or two of some appropriate hymn. There is a carelessness in many of our schools in this matter which amounts to downright depreciation of a most effective agency, one blessed by our Lord, and used by the Church in all ages. A strict observance of the following rules will result in great advantage to all concerned :

1. Never sing for pastime or recreation in Sunday-school. There is no time for this, and, moreover, there is a higher, holier mission for our hymns of praise and songs of service.

2. Sing while you sing, and do nothing else. Books, papers, lessons should all be laid aside, and every officer of the school should give the matter in hand his best and heartiest attention.

3. The leader or teacher of the singing should know as far as possible the spiritual state of the school and the hymns be selected with reference to it. If faith be weak, let faith be the burden of the song; if energy and life are needed, and they are needed in every school, let it be of such a lively, soul-stirring character that all shall be enlivened and energized. Every right song has a mission more than to be sung sweetly, and if it be used in the right place, and be sung in the right spirit, it will be a power with God, and a means of winning souls to Christ. Often the good effects of an address or sermon are destroyed by the singing of an entirely unsuitable hymn. Bring out the power of the spiritual song in the right place and it will do its work.

4. Every Sunday-school should have its weekly meeting for singing so as to continually improve in the divine art.

5. In introducing a new hymn care should be taken that it is not so far above the capacities of the singers that its sentiment and movement can not be understood, for we must sing not only with the spirit but with the understanding also, and while Sunday-school music should ever be a means of culture, we must be careful to avoid the extreme lest its effect be defeated.

Fellow worker, if you want a school that shall have in it all the power that can come from God's children, teach it to sing; if you want a school filled with real apostolic zeal and enthusiasm, teach it to sing; if you want a school that shall prepare for the great School above, teach it to sing. Now abideth teaching prayer praise, but the greatest of these is praise.

THINGS TO BE REMEMBERED.

[Adapted.]

The preservation of order in a school depends more upon the manner and eye of Superintendent than his hand. A noisy, unsystematic officer is sure to have a noisy school.

Ignorance is a curse. Knowledge the wings wherewith we fly to Heaven. Children should not be driven to learning, but allured to it as a pastime, for thus the nature and capacities of youth will be better discovered.

When a child perceives that those who teach have rigidly practised what they teach, he has the strongest incitement to a correct life.

Prepare the heart for improvement while it is susceptible to good influences, else all effort will be in vain.

Good education is the head of good manners.

Jesus is the Way by His example; the Truth by His Word, and the Life by His Grace. Out of this Way there is nothing but wandering; without this Truth there is nothing but error, and without this Life there is nothing but death.

Those are the best instructors that teach in their lives, and prove their words by their actions.

Sunday-School officers and teachers should have firm tempers, though mild and dispassionate; solid understanding, and gracious, affectionate and generous hearts.

—Several years ago, at Binghamton Asylum, the superintendant told the writer that so far as he knew there never had been a single case of a man cured of inebriety at the asylum, unless there was some wife, mother or sister, or female friend, who had clung to him through evil report and good report, who had suffered for him patiently and persistently, and by her suffering love had kept him anchored to purity, truth, rectitude, and finally saved him.

THE extent to which Church work in our larger cities is being extended and methodized is seen in the number of Church houses which are being erected in which the societies of the Church have their meeting place. Trinity, New York, has had one for years. More recently Grace Church there has one which serves for the guild, ladies' societies, reading room, Rector's office, &c. Now a gentleman in St. Thomas Church, in the same city, has given $35,000 for such a building, in memory of a son, and $5,000 more for endowment for it. The work of such clergymen is constant organizing office labor all the week in setting into motion and directing energies which have been quickened on Sunday.

Several useful results have already appeared from the Conference on the Distribution of Charities. A suggestion has been made that something would be done for the systematizing of our charities of all the large sums which are constantly being given by our people directly to religious and charitable objects of a more general sort, and of which no record is kept anywhere, could be given through the Treasurer of the Parish, or that at least a statement of the amounts should be sent to him by the person giving. The Treasurer would transmit to the object named, and knowledge would be had of the amounts given. As it is, besides what is given to applicants directly for our Church objects, hundreds and thousands of dollars are annually given by our people to the Bethel Mission, the Women's Christian Home, the Provident Association, &c., and as the objects are general, the Treasurers do not report to us and the Church gets no account, or any influence or credit.

THE MARRIAGE LICENSE LAW.

The movement started in this State two years ago by the Bishop for the enactment of a marriage license law, although it failed at the time by reason of amendments tacked on it, has at length met with success. The bill has been passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor. This result showed the mistake of those who attributed the previous miscarriages to the Roman Catholics, and said that such a bill could never pass on account of their opposition. Such opposition, when a battle is fairly joined, cuts no appreciable figure in the public policy of this State.

Relief for those who were called upon to solemnize marriages was evidently called for. They were subject to penalties in case they married those not qualified, and yet were vested with no authority by which they could ascertain the facts.

This bill provides that, in every case, before a marriage is solemnized, a license shall be obtained from the recorders of the counties, authorizing marriages between the persons named, for which the person applying shall pay one dollar. The license, for those who are under age, certifies that the parents have assented. Within ninety days after this license is issued, a return must be made by the minister. The penalty for solemnizing marriage without license is a fine of $500.00, and the liability to a civil suit for damages, on the part of the parent, and recovery to the extent of $500.00 more; and for failing to register marriages within ninety days, the penalty is not less than $5.00 or more than $100.00.

All of our clergy should make a note of this important law.

MISSIONARY BOARD RULES.

The Missionary Board, in sending out the following explanation of its rule, proceeded, no doubt, on the idea, that all the Churches would make, and where in the habit of making, the canonical collection, and paying the assessments that they had themselves ordered, and that the needs of the Dioceses required; but that it was useful to have order and regularity about such payments, especially on the part of Churches, whose services were in part sustained by the help of the Diocese at large.

"Moved, That the Secretary be instructed to notify the Missionaries of this Diocese that their quarterly payments by this Board are dependent upon the literal compliance with the following rules:

"1st. That the Quarterly Report, Missionary Collections and one-fourth of the Convention Assessments be sent to the Secretary of this Board before the expiration of each quarter.

"2d. That the collections required by Canon, from each place, shall be forwarded each within the quarter in which they are taken. Thus, the collections for "Theological Educational Fund," shall be taken on Thanksgiving Day, and shall be forwarded to the Treasurer of that Fund before Dec. 31. The collection for "Disabled Clergymen Fund," shall be taken on Christmas Day, and shall be forwarded before March 31, and the collection for "Permanent Episcopal Fund," shall be taken on the Second Sunday in Lent, and shall be forwarded before June 30.

"Resolved, That hereafter, in accordance with the previous rule of this Board, no Missionary shall be paid his quarterly stipend who neglects to make the Canonical collections which have been ordered by the Convention, or whose Parish or Missions fail to meet the assessment on them laid by the Convention."

Attention is called to the above Rule, as the Treasurer is only empowered to remit the stipend, as it is strictly complied with.

Sec'y and Treas. Missionary Board.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them for the perpetual endowment of a cot and a room for a child in our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

Chips from the White House, or, Selections from the Speeches, Conversations, Diaries, Letters, and other writings, of all the Presidents of the United States. Compiled by Jeremiah Chaplin. In this handsome volume of 500 pages have been brought together some of the most important utterances of our twenty presidents, carefully selected from addresses, public documents and private correspondence, and touching upon a large variety of subjects. Some of them occupy several pages, while others are in the form of aphorisms, and show the power which most of our presidents have had of putting things graphically and to the point. Thus, John Adams says: "Genius is oftener an instrument of divine vengeance than a guardian angel"; "Wise statesmen, like able artists of every kind, study nature, and their works are perfect in proportion as they conform to her laws"; Jefferson, "An honest heart being the first blessing, a knowing head is the second"; "The man who fights for the country is entitled to vote"; Madison, "Justice is the end of government"; "The union of the States is strengthened by every occasion which puts it to the test"; Jackson, "There are no necessary evils in government. Its evils exist only in abuses"; "No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent". The contents are chronologically arranged, the names of the different presidents following each other in consecutive order from Washington to Garfield. Each chapter is prefaced by a brief synopsis of the life and services of its subject, and most of the extracts are dated, with brief explanations of the circumstances under which they were written. The work, in fact, is a handbook from which the reader may learn more of the real characters of the men who form the subject of its contents than from any other single volume of which we have knowledge. It is printed in clear, large type, is tastefully and strongly bound, and is supplemented by a very full index. $1.50. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

Characteristics of the Church, by the Rev. Alexander Marks. A little volume which has grown out of parish lectures, and in which is given in a singularly clear and lucid style a statement of the marked features of the Church's system in doctrine, worship and life. The views are just and cogently put. This will be a very useful addition to a parish library. T. Whittaker & Co., Nos. 2 and 3 Bible House, New York. $1.

In the North American Review for April is a noteworthy article by Judge A. W. Tourgee, in which the professed reformers of the civil service are put on the defensive and their schemes of reform pronounced to be incompatible with American ideas of self-government. The same number of the Review contains, under the title, "The Thing that Might Be," a profoundly philosophical study of the laws and conditions of human progress, by the Rev. Mark Pattison. The third article is a defense of the Roman Catholic side of the controversy about religion in the Public Schools, from the pen of Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester. The problem of the governmental control of railway management is discussed by the Hon. George Ticknor Curtis, who contends that when a railway is incorporated by any State it agrees to this much and no more: that its property shall be subject to such legislative control as the act of incorporation embraces, to the exercise of the taxing and police powers of the State, and to the power of eminent domain. The same problem, in its bearing upon telegraph lines, is discussed by the Hon. Wm. M. Springer. Mr. John Fiske has an article on The Historic Genesis of Protestantism, and Mr. Anthony Trollope, an essay on the Poet Longfellow. Mr. Desire Charnay, the author of the series of papers on the ruined cities of Central America, has for more than two months been pursuing his researches in regions remote from all avenues of communication with the civilized world, and consequently neither the present number of the Review nor the one last preceding it contains any contribution from him. In the May number, however, will be published another of his very instructive papers.

Mental Culture and Training of Children, by P. H. Chavasse, F.R.C.S. This is not a scientific treatise, as the title might imply, but a collection of aphorisms and suggestions, alphabetically arranged, on a wide range of subjects, touching the physical, mental and moral training of children. Some of these are a little obvious, but others are of value. St. Lindsay & Blakiston, 25 South Sixth street, Philadelphia.

The April Wide Awake opens with an exquisite sunny spring-day frontispiece, A Joyous Little Maid. It illustrates a poem by Mrs. Whiton. Another drawing as exquisite accompanies the story of Mooley by Miss Whitney, which is interesting as being a veritable bit of New England pioneer life. Very beautiful, too, in illustration, is the ballad of Miss Muffet. St. Botolph's Bells has a very fine full page illustration entitled Willing to fight for let to pray. Another story, half historical in character, A Quaker Wedding, illustrated with a spirited full-page crayon drawing. The Bandit's Cave will greatly amuse the boys, and the girls will find a capital story told under the title of The Mite Society, at Sagetown Schoolhouse. The serials, Rocky Fork, Honor Bright, and Polly Cologne are very interesting this month, and finely illustrated. There is also A Nonsense Charade. The Money Prize Competition for drawings in black-and-white for young people under eighteen years of age is extended to May 15. Wide Awake is $2 a year, 20 cents a number. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

Macmillan is shortly to publish a new edition of Proctor on the Book of Common Prayer, with notes by the Bishop of Iowa. This is the best work on the subject.

By a fire February 20th, at the printing establishment of Messrs. Rockwell & Churchill, D. Lothrop & Co. lost the plates of Chips from the White House, then on the press; but the book of 489 pages was again put into type, printed from new plates, bound, and was ready for delivery on the 26th.

Hand Book of the General Convention, 1785-1880, by Bishop Perry. This is a new edition of a work which gives a brief summary of the results of each of the General Conventions from the beginning. It is a history of the legislative action and progress of the Church. The book is invaluable to those who care to follow our growth, and see how any modification of our polity have come in. The work is now brought down to the present day, and sketches out what will be the salient features in legislation in the immediate future. T. Whittaker, 2 Bible House, New York, $1.50.

Common Sense in Church Building, by E. C. Gardner. A little work in which are packed away in the form of letters addressed by various classes in the congregation to an architect, and replies from him, the greatest amount of quaint common sense about building churches. All of the propositions we could not for our purposes accept, but only good can come from the plea for reality and a recurrence to first principles in building the church. There are seven plans added. St. Bicknell & Comstock, 194 Broadway, N. Y.

Scribner's Monthly. April. Paper, type, matter, and illustration are all sumptuous. The specially noteworthy articles are Marine Forms as applicable to Decorations, Father Hyacinthe by Bishop Doane, Fair Barbarian, New York Attics and Housetops. The illustrations which took the prizes offered by Scribner are shown, and new prizes are offered for this year. $4. Scribner & Co. 743 Broadway, N. Y.

St. Nicholas. April. The transfer in proprietorship of this magazine and Scribners leaves them still in their accustomed hands, and makes no change in the editorship or attractiveness. This number is full of interest, both in its serials and short articles, and the illustrations are works of art. There is hardly enough of the magazine left after it goes through the household to remain for binding. Scribner & Co., 743 Broadway, N. Y. $3 a year.

Physical Basis of Life. Huxley. This with other essays forms No. 21 of the Humboldt Library, which, coming out fortnightly, at $3 a year, gives the works of Spencer, Tyndall, Proctor & C. Fitzgerald, 143 Fourth avenue, N. Y.

The Preacher and Homiletic Monthly. April. $2.50 a year. Very suggestive for clergymen. I. K. Funk & Co., 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

The publication office of the Church News has been removed to Room 38, Singer Building, Fifth & Locust

Those who need a good appetizer or aid to digestion for home use will find a choice selection of clarets and Sauternes at Chas. E. Bicker's, 702 Olive street. He also imports the finest brands of French canned goods and Roquefort Cheese. New supply of each just received.

THE NAME OF THE FEAST.

Editor Church News:

While the Latin nations carry in their name of the Great Annual Feast of the Church the Paschal idea, of sacrifice and deliverance, in the English name we preserve the record of the fact and doctrine of the Resurrection. We may take the name, as does Bede, from the Saxon Goddess of Spring Eostre, or trace it in the words East—the rising sun—Yeast, the rising or leaven of bread—Yst, a rising storm—when we get to the root, which we find also in the Teutonic Urstan, to rise, near which is the common English word stand. In the Greek word of the same meaning we have the same root—στημι, from which we have the N. T. word for the Resurrection, ἀνάστασις.

—When the elder Booth was once visiting in Baltimore he was asked in a select and fashionable company as an especial favor to recite the Lord's prayer. He signified his willingness to gratify those present, and all eyes were fixed upon him as he slowly and reverently rose from his chair trembling with the burden of two great conceptions. He had to realize the character, attributes and presence of the Almighty Being he was to address; he was to transform himself into a poor, sinning, stumbling, benighted, needy supplicant, offering homage, asking bread, pardon, light and guidance. Says one who was present: 'It was wonderful to watch the play of emotions which convulsed his countenance. The silence could be felt. It had become absolutely painful, until at last it was broken as by an electric shock as his rich toned voice syllabled forth 'Our Father, which art in heaven,' with a pathos and fervid solemnity that thrilled all hearts. He finished; not a voice was heard as the host stepped forward with streaming eyes and seized Mr. Booth by the hand. 'Sir,' said he, in broken accents, 'you have afforded me a pleasure for which my whole future life will feel grateful. I am an old man, and every day from boyhood to the present time I have repeated the Lord's prayer. But I never heard it before, never.' 'You are right,' answered Mr. Booth; 'to read that prayer as it should be read caused me the severest study and labor for thirty years, and I am far from satisfied with my rendering of that beautiful production. Hardly one person in ten thousand comprehends how much beauty, tenderness and grandeur can be condensed into a space so simple. That prayer itself sufficiently illustrates the truth of the Bible, and stamps upon it the seal of divinity.'

Unparalleled Success of the Good Enough Shoe and System!

CRUELTY

TO ANIMALS

AT AN END.

NO FROG, NO FOOT!

NO FOOT, NO HORSE!

NO BURNING,

NOR

BUTCHERING OF THE FOOT!

The Good-Enough Shoe and System has proven to be the Savior of the noblest of the animal creation, the horse, by its simple and practical method of keeping THE HORSE ON HIS FEET, LESSENING HIS LABORS, AND PROLONGING HIS LIFE. The anxiety of the ladies at rest! Their pets no longer subject to the maltreatment of the foot, as received at the hands of inexperienced horse shoers, who have not made a study of the anatomy of the horse's foot. The greatest proof of the success of the shoe and system is the innumerable cures of cripples, through improper shoeing, it has performed in the past year. Amongst the many horse owners who have given this shoe and system a thorough and impartial test, whose horses are now being shod with this shoe, and who are amongst its most staunch supporters are the Hon. Erastus Wells, President Mo. R.R.; Julius S. Walsh, Esq., President City and Union R.R.; Capt. John D. Scullen, President W. D. & M. C. R. R.; Daniel E. Walsh, President People's R. R. Co.; F. C. Sterling, Esq., President Hy. Press Brick Co.; W. R. Allen, President Cass Ave. and F. G. R. R.; E. Hayden, Esq., Manager Am. Ex. Co.; James Crane, Esq., wholesale furniture; Girard B. Allen, Esq.; Hon. Thos. Allen, Daniel Catlin, Esq.; Wm. Barr & Co., dry goods; D. Crawford & Co., dry goods; Ed. J. Gay, Esq.; Messrs. Fruin & Co., contractors; Wm. Brown, Pioneer Keg Works; Dr. J. H. McLean, and many others whose testimonials can be seen at my office. All manner and style of shoeing done with the greatest care and attention, at ED. BUTLER'S SHOP No. 1, No. 106 S. Tenth street, and ED. BUTLER'S SHOP No. 2, Cass avenue, between Glasgow and Garrison avenue.

A cure guaranteed in all cases of lameness from improper shoeing. Horses sent for and delivered in all parts of the city FREE.

SOHMER PIANOS

Square, Upright, Square, Grand, Cabinet Grand, Baby Brand, Parlor Grand, Concert Grand.

The demands now made by an educated musical public are so exacting, that very few Piano-forte Manufacturers can produce instruments that will stand the test which merit requires. SOHMER & CO., as Manufacturers, rank among this chosen few, who are acknowledged to be makers of standard instruments. In these days, when many manufacturers urge the low price of their wares rather than their superior quality as an inducement to purchase, it may not be amiss to suggest that, in a Piano, quality and price are too inseparably joined to expect the one without the other.

Every Piano ought to be judged as to the quality of its tone, its touch, and its workmanship; if any one of these is wanting in excellence, however good the others may be, the instrument will be imperfect. It is the combination of these qualities in the highest degree that constitutes the perfect Piano, and it is this combination that has given the "SOHMER" its honorable position with the trade and the public.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

HEROIC DYING.

St. John's church in this city was founded by the Rev. Whiting Griswold. It had strong definite teachings and habits from the start. During the cholera pestilence of 1848, when the mortality was so startling, he became exhausted by unceasing attention by day and night, and was at last himself prostrated. His Bishop thus speaks of him in his sickness: "For some days, calm and collected, he seemed quietly to contemplate death as his portion. At length his reason wandered, and it seems to have been allowed by his Heavenly Father only to reveal the good man more distinctly in his last moments. At one time you would hear him, in the holy office of Baptism, apparently receiving some lamb into the flock; then you would catch his words in the solemn Service of the Burial of the Dead; then would he call those ministering to him near, and give them, as he deemed, the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. his broken and feeble voice whispering to them: "The Body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee; eat this." "The Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee; drink this." Thus passing through all the solemn offices he had used so often before, he was to the last, in all his thoughts, ministering to the souls of others. A faithful soldier of Christ he lived, and a faithful soldier he died." That was the life on which the foundation of St. John was built.

TIME FOR DIOCESAN CONVENTION.

The time for the meeting of our Convention, up to 1877, was the fourth Tuesday in May. Then, for the sake of suiting better, if possible, the convenience of several classes of laymen, and of placing the Convention at the beginning of the working year, instead of at its end, the time, in 1877, was changed from May to September. After the trial of the Fall, for four years, it was resolved, at the last Convention, to change the time back again to the Spring. The first approval of a proposition to this effect was given for a change of the time of meeting to the first Wednesday in May. The matter comes up for final action this Fall.

It will be noticed that this does not replace the Convention to its old time, but three weeks earlier. This does not seem, to the writer, to be the best arrangement. He thinks that if the Convention is to be in the Spring, it should be as late as possible before the warm weather sets in.

Clergymen desire their confirmations in the latter part of Lent, if possible, or very soon after Easter. Even in the Northern half of the Diocese, which alone the Bishop visits in the Spring, there are very many and large Parishes outside of St. Louis which have to be visited. When Easter comes, as it does this year, and it may come even later, Convention would come about a fortnight after Easter. If the proposed amendment went into effect, many of the confirmations would have to take place after Convention, or else a number of the city confirmations, which have hitherto been on Sundays, will have to be crowded into week days, and they will generally have to begin in the earlier part of the season of Lent.

These alternations are not desirable. They will cause the Bishop to visit Parishes during the mud-diast season of the year, when congregations are hard to gather. In the writer's judgment, much the better way would be to place it as before, in the fourth week in May. The ladies who entertain Convention, have always regretted the change, as there is in their minds a connection between Conventions, and ripe strawberries for receptions and roses in bloom. This time proximately seems to be the general sentiment of the Church, as during the fourth week in May, and the two weeks following, the greater number of the Conventions are held. The results of the year's work could then be seen just before the enforced relaxation of the summer comes on.

One difficulty often found in holding Convention in the Spring is, that it may fall in the week of Ascension, when clergymen desire to be at home. This might be prevented, as it is in some Dioceses, by appointing Convention a certain Wednesday after Easter. In Massachusetts, Convention is fixed for the fifth Wednesday after Easter.

EARLIER DAYS IN ST. LOUIS.

I.

Christ church was organized in 1819, when the population of the city numbered 4,000. The first building for it, on the corner of Third and Chesnut, was built in 1830. The lot cost $400, and the building held about 250 persons. Bishop Smith of Kentucky consecrated the building May 25, 1834, although there was a debt upon it. In 1836 the church was sold to the Baptists, and a lot was bought on the corner of Fifth and Chesnut for $125 a foot, on which the second church was built. It cost $75,000, and left the church $20,000 in debt, which still amounted to $17,000 when Bishop Hawks became Rector in 1844. In 1854 the parish for the first time for many years became free from debt, and then they paid off the $7000 due by selling some land belonging to the church. In 1859, having determined to remove, the church property was sold for $80,000, and the present lots on the corner of Locust and Thirteenth were bought for $43,750. Daily services were maintained from Easter Monday, 1858, until the middle of July, 1859. The last service was held in the old church July 22, 1859, and the corner-stone of the new church laid on the 22d of April following.

The chapel was finished in the Spring of 1862, and was used by the congregation. Before this, for a time, the Mercantile Library Hall was used, and then the new St. Paul's church. The church was first used on Christmas, 1867. The parish for some time after owed $70,000, for which it paid ten per cent interest. On this in 1873 $50,000 was paid, and the balance, $25,000, will, it is hoped, be paid off this Summer. For over fifty years the parish has only been out of debt for five years, 1854-59. About $235,000 has been paid on the present property.

St. Paul's church was organized in 1840, and lots bought on the corner of Fifth and Wash streets, for which $5000 was paid. In 1856 this property was sold; the building is yet standing, and some of its outlines unchanged, and is used as a saloon. In 1857 they bought the property on the southwest corner of Olive and Seventeenth streets, and built first the Rectory and then the church at a cost of $64,000, meeting for worship in the near-time in the hall of Washington University. The church was consecrated June 19th, 1859, and the Convention for that year met in it. The debt of $40,000, however, incurred in the construction of the church, caused its sale in 1861 and the extinction of the parish.

St. John's church was organized in 1841. For the first year or two the services were held over an engine house on Second street, south of Plum. Then a brick building was put up on leased ground on the corner of Fifth and Spruce. Here they remained for ten years, and in 1853 the church corner of Sixth and Spruce was built, holding $450 persons, and costing $8,400; a debt of $3,800 remaining on building and land. In 1870 the land corner of Hickory and Dolman streets was bought; the old church was sold to the Roman Catholics, and the first service was held in the new church on Easter, 1872. The debt on the property was $42,000.

In 1842 small organizations were formed called St. Andrew's, Carondelet and St. Peter's, Kemper College, but they had only a very short history.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Rev. Mr. Betts has consented to give the Mission of the Good Shepherd in this city Sunday afternoon and week day services, and have a general charge of their affairs. It may be that he can do more for them hereafter.

—The Rev. Mr. Holeman of Kansas City returned to his parish on Easter Even from his winter sojourn in Florida. He was detained two weeks by sickness.

—At the present rate it is quite evident that all the private rooms in St. Luke's Hospital will be taken by individuals to be furnished, part of them as memorials, before the Hospital building is finished. We hear that it is proposed to furnish one room handsomely, with the name of the Louis Garneau room. The children of the late Mrs. Larkin of Christ church also propose to provide for a room as a memorial to their mother. A lady who has for years been a devoted friend to the Hospital proposes to furnish a room in her husband's memory, and hopes to endow a bed for St. Luke's in further memory of him. There is everything to show that now that St. Luke's is giving evidence of perpetuity, it will continue to receive largely in gifts, memorials and bequests for its pious work. Mr. Barclay in soliciting some months ago subscriptions for the building of the Hospital says that he only received one declination to give for the purpose.

—The Church people in Independence have sold their old church lot near the square for $850 and have bought another lot for $375. The Rev. Mr. Dunn has $2,000 in hand for the new church to be begun this spring.

—The following appeal has been put forth in behalf of a church enterprise in Southwest Missouri. If any persons can send a dollar, it will be gladly received:

The little band of devout and faithful Church people, in the city of Joplin earnestly solicit subscriptions for the erection of an Episcopal Church. They have secured an eligible lot and have erected on the rear end of it a little chapel for temporary use. The Church have on subscription about seven hundred dollars—given almost entirely by themselves; and they are, as a body, poor. The different houses of worship in the city have been built almost entirely by money sent them from the East.

At present the Missionary in charge is obliged to live sixteen miles from his field of labor. The people, therefore, intend after the erection of their church to convert the present building into a rectory, so that the clergyman may be on the ground with his work. The field is one of the best in the State, and the need of an Episcopal Church and her teachings are conceded by many as an absolute necessity.

Joplin is a city of 8,000 inhabitants, with two lines of railways entering it. It is well known on account of its rich mineral resources and white lead works, which are the largest and most important in the world.

No greater want can well be supplied than the immediate erection of a house of worship for these people. They represent all grades and conditions of men. They have among them the very best and the very worst. In order to keep abreast with the onward progress of the town, the Church people intend to erect a brick building, which will withstand the tempest, at a cost of twenty-five hundred to three thousand dollars. Will, therefore, the friends of the Church, in the name of Heaven and for the love of Christ, give liberally for the completion of this noble cause?

All donations acknowledged by postal card, and will be most thankfully received by

MRS. R. M. ROBERTS,
Church Treasurer, Joplin, Mo.

And by Rev. Robt. C. Wall, Missionary in charge, Carthage, Mo.

I approve of the above appeal, and recommend it as worthy of kind consideration.

C. F. ROBERTSON,
Bishop of Missouri.

—At Cape Girardeau they have put the contract of fitting up the chancel and robing room in their church into the hands of a St. Louis architect, and think now that the work will be done in a satisfactory manner.

—The Bishop has appointed the Rev. O. Parker of Springfield Dean of the Springfield Missionary Convocation.

—The constitution of the Church Temperance Society declares that the Basis of action is as follows: Recognizing temperance as the law of the Gospel, and total abstinence as a rule of expediency in certain cases, and fully and freely according to every man the right to decide in the exercise of his Christian liberty, whether he will adopt said rule, this society lays down as the basis on which it rests and from which its work will be conducted, a union and co-operation on equal terms in the cause of temperance reform of those who use moderately, and those who entirely abstain from intoxicating drinks as beverages." The Bishop of this Diocese has accepted the office of a Vice President in the Society. The President is the Presiding Bishop.

—The Missionary Society of the Church of the Holy Communion in this city held its quarterly meeting on Sunday evening, 3d ultimo. The children of the Sunday-school added interest by their hearty singing. In the absence of the President, Mr. Carter, Mr. Simmons took the chair, and made an address to the children. Mr. Nicholas, the treasurer, made a report and thought that $1,000 would be given this year by the parish for missions.

—One of the most interesting results of the Conference on Charities which was held during Lent was an offer by a gentleman of this city to the Bishop to place at his disposal a small cottage with a large lot attached, healthfully situated, within 45 minutes of this city by rail, as a home where foundlings, or cast-away infants, or the very aged and infirm, convalescents from the Hospital, or the mildly insane, might be cared for, on the detached or cottage plan, so as to embody some of the Home idea, instead of herding many together. The suggestion of this gentleman, who had given much attention to the intelligent distribution of charity, was that such a beginning would be sufficiently large, and if it succeeded, the plan could be enlarged. It was assured as free of cost for any charitable uses which may be approved of. The matter has not yet been acted upon, but it will come up in Chapter, and may be the suggestion for useful action. Several of the charities of New York city have secured places in the country where their inmates can have fresh air and more space. One of the Roman Catholic institutions has a farm in which the boys raise the produce and vegetables for several large hospitals and homes in the city. Dr. Potter of Grace Church in his recent volume of City Sermons has one upon the dangers of institutionalism in our charitable work, of helping people in masses, instead of thinking and helping them in their single and family life.

—The Bishop on the Sunday after Easter confirmed 24 persons in St. George's Church, 18 persons in the afternoon in Trinity Church for the Mission of the Good Samaritan, and 8 at night for St. Peter's Church. The number and class of persons, notable in each case, was especially remarkable in the colored Mission. The congregation was large and representative, and the service strong and animated. The class was three times as large as ever before, and another is in preparation for Whitsunday.

—A vexatious deception was practiced on the Bishop ten days ago. One morning a person called, bringing a note of introduction from Mr. Onderdonk, President of St. James College, Hagerstown, Maryland, stating that he was Henry M. Winters, Esq., administrator of Henry Merton, deceased, of Washington D. C., and formerly a citizen of Missouri, who in his will had left $2,000 for St. Luke's Hospital, and that he had come on to pay the money. Considerable conversation followed, which indicated that he was an educated man, and acquainted with many Church matters. He gave a check for the amount on a Washington bank, for which a receipt was given. Two days after news came that it had been protested for non-payment. One of the city papers on the day that the person called had an item stating that a man was calling on people saying that bequests had been left, and on the strength of this asking for money for fees and charges. In this case he asked for and received nothing. Plans for the use of the money came to an untimely end.

—The Rev. Dr. Schuyler has been invited to deliver the address at the close of the term of the Sisters' School, on Tuesday, 14th proximo.

—The Bishop has appointed the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot of Macon to preach the next Convention Sermon.

—The Rev. Dr. Gierlow began on the Sunday after Easter his services at the hall on the corner of Garrison and Easton avenues, where several weeks before Mrs. Gierlow began on Sunday afternoons a series of Bible readings. Services will be held in the mornings, and the readings in the afternoons, and a Sunday-school will shortly be organized. The name of St. Marks has been suggested for the new enterprise.

—The Rev. Mr. Harrison of Nashville, Tenn., was in town on the 26th ultimo to solemnize at Trinity Church the marriage of his brother, John A. Harrison, Esq., the Warden of the Good Shepherd and Clerk of the St. Louis Chapter.

—The Rev. Mr. Thorpe of Nevada has advertised that he will deliver some lectures on request completely answering Ingersoll and Darwin.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Louisiana, 4; Palmyra, 4; Hannibal, 7; Monroe, 4; Shelby, 3; Macon, 4; Chillicothe, 6.

—A number of persons in his congregation have spontaneously placed at the disposal of the Rev. Mr. Robert the means by which to make a trip to Europe for the benefit of his health, and asked him to take a vacation for this purpose, thinking that nothing but such an entire giving up will reach the result desired. He has accepted the proposition and will leave next month.

—The Bishop's visit to Hannibal was made otherwise more interesting by the children's service on Sunday afternoon. Through Lent they have been contributing for the various branches of the Church's missionary work, and have provided themselves with class-banners of silk of singular beauty and good taste, made in the parish. The children were catechized and answered promptly and well.

—The Rev. Mr. Robert has resigned from ill health his local secretaryship of the Church Mission to the Jews, and the Bishop has nominated the Rev. A. Leonard of Hannibal in his place.

—The Rev. Mr. Scheetz has accepted the Rectorship of Grace church, Kirkwood, and will enter upon duty on Whitsunday, which is the anniversary of the parish.

—The Rev. Mr. Wager has received from friends in Philadelphia a paten and cup for his mission in Glenwood, plain but solid.

—The person who proffered the fictitious $2,000 bequest for St. Luke's was an old offender, who has just come out of the penitentiary for forgery, and has a name, Mr. Onderdonk says, for every day in the year. He has known of him for 23 years. He generally imposes on Schools by offering tuition for a son or daughter who will in a day or two appear, with a check too large, and on which he gets change.

—It is likely that the Rev. Mr. Matrau, recently of Louisiana, Mo., will be called to succeed the Rev. Mr. Scheetz at Monroe. He is favorably known in the parish.

—As an illustration of the Missionary work done by the Sisters through St. Luke's Hospital, this circumstance may be related: The Rector of the Parish in one of the large towns in the Diocese was called upon during the past winter by a communicant of the Church living in a neighboring Diocese who asked to go and baptize a little brother who was very sick. Upon going to the house, it was found that the mother was a Baptist with no favorable inclinations toward the Church; and yet she not only consented to the baptism of the child to whom allusion has been made, but also to that of two others. Upon inquiry as to the reason of this voluntary consent, it was found that the mother had not long since been treated at St. Luke's Hospital, and was so much impressed with the pure and unselfish lives of the Sisters as to be relieved of some prejudices against the Church, and so consented to her son's having these little ones baptized in the Church of his adoption. This same Rector has baptized three children belonging to a Methodist family under similar circumstances.

—The Bishop of the Diocese visited Trinity church, Hannibal, on Sunday, May 1, preaching morning and evening, catechising the children of the Sunday-school and confirming 7 persons.

—The Bishop visited Trinity church, Utica, on Sunday night, 8th, and confirmed 2 persons. He met the congregation afterward, with a view to their resumption of regular services.

EASTER MONDAY.

—At St. George's the treasurer reported receipts for parochial purposes $13,275, and expenditures $14,215. The deficit from previous years was $2,100, reduced by the Easter offering of $1,200 to $900. The contributions for missions and charities amounted to $6,148, making the total contributions for the year $20,578. The vestry acknowledged their duty to the thousands of persons in the Districts about St. George's, declared that for their care an assistant minister should be had, and hoped soon to have the means to secure one. The old vestry was re-elected, Mr. Western Bascom taking the place of Mr. W. L. Black. Wardens: John W. Luke and Joseph W. Branch; Vestrymen: M. W. Alexander, Western Bascome, H. H. Curtis, D. E. Garrison, Edwin Harrison, I. M. Mason, G. W. Mence, O. E. Owen, Hugh Rogers, H. T. Simon and John G. Wells.

—At the Church of the Holy Communion it was reported that the receipts had been $6,133.94, and that with all the expenses of the year paid $41.41 remained on hand. The vestry elected was as follows: Messrs. L. E. Alexander, Chas. E. Briggs, Frank Carter, D. P. Dyer, W. C. Day, A. B. Denton, Paul Harvey, Gaius Paddock, E. C. Simmons, J. H. Tennent, J. T. Utterback, J. J. Wilkins and R. M. Wilson all re-elected, except Mr. Harvey, whose place was taken by Mr. Charles Miller. The total vote cast was forty-two.

—At St. Peter's Church the vestrymen elected were J. L. Benson, Ezra Lindley, Hamilton Doughaday, Martin Collins, William B. Ryder, J. H. Goddard, J. Percival Smith, Charles R. Blake and T. M. McLean. A verbal report was made in relation to the affairs of the church, past, present and prospective. An Easter offering of $300 was received to pay the interest on the $5,000 of debt incurred by the church some time ago, and the communicants and the contributors determined that the entire debt should be paid within the present year.

—At Trinity Church the following were elected: Hon. John Wickham and Mr. W. R. Pye, senior and junior wardens, and Messrs. W. H.

Thomson, W. B. Potter, George W. Riggs, Jr., R. B. Whittemore, L. Levering, Henry Stanley and T. R. White, vestrymen.

—At Christ Church two new members of the vestry were elected, Prof. M. S. Snow, and Gen. A. J. Fulerton to fill vacancies. The treasurer made an encouraging exhibit of the finances, and showed that, of the $600 needed to pay off all debt and interest, and the $2,000 for the salary of an assistant, all but $800 was raised.

—In Lexington Messrs. Kerdolff, A. A. Lesnear, J. C. Lesnear, Thomas, Standish, and Wood were elected on the vestry.

—At Carthage, Messrs. Harding, Betts, Drake, Blakeney, Matthews, Davy, Coffee and Smith were elected vestrymen.

—In Louisiana the following vestrymen were elected: N. P. Minor, Geo. Hind, D. A. Stewart, J. H. Barre, Dr. D. L. Deyeo, Frank Meriwether, Wm. F. Suda, John C. Chappell, B. F. Miller.

—In Hannibal Messrs. Armstrong (senior warden), Stone (junior warden), Cruikshank, Hawes, Toll, W. A. Munger and Dr. Foster were elected vestrymen. The treasurer's report showed all current expenses paid except $190 due the rector. The Easter offering of $107 was larger than ever before.

—On Easter Monday at the usual hour Mt. Calvary Church, St. Louis, held its annual parish meeting. The treasurer's report showed about $5,500 disbursed in the past year. The Rector, Rev. Mr. Reed, reported about $450 disbursed for the relief of the poor through the Humane Society—this amount not including Communion offerings, and being expended during the winter. In addition large quantities of clothing, etc., had been distributed.

The Rector asked the congregation on Easter Sunday for $1,000 toward arranging for a new church building, and the response showed at parish meeting the gift of $1,420. The crowded condition of the present building necessitates the erection of a larger church, and probably the next Easter will find the movement culminated in the beginning of the work. The expenses of the Parish being met by its income, all extra receipts are devoted to this purpose.

The following gentlemen were elected as members of the vestry for ensuing year:

Mr. Jos. Franklin, treasurer; L. Lipman, senior warden; D. H. McAdam, junior warden; S. H. Hewlet, secretary; Alex. G. Cochran, D. M. Edgerton, Geo. M. Wright, Chas. H. Albers, R. L. Doronton.

A few changes were made in the vestry members, those whose names were omitted requesting that they should not be elected, in order to bring the congregation more actively in church work by rotation of office.

C. B.

—The following were elected vestrymen of St. John's, St. Louis: Judge Wm. F. Ferguson, S. D. Barlow, Geo. D. Reynolds, Chas. Speck, Chas. Hofman, Chas. E. Pearce, Fred. N. Judson, Henry Pitcher, Chas. H. Alexander, A. R. Donaldson, W. R. Donaldson, Dr. H. H. Bickford, F. O. Wellman.

—The Easter Monday election in St. Mary's Parish for Vestrymen resulted as follows: Thos. Ward, J. H. Pearson, George H. Wallace, John Talbott, John L. Hughes, Wm. Talbott, Harry McCullough, and W. F. Mitchell. At the vestry meeting Thos. Ward, senior warden; J. H. Pearson, junior warden and treasurer, and George H. Wallace, secretary.

EASTER IN THE DIOCESE.

In Sedalia the offertory, devoted to the new Church fund, amounted to $85. The Broadway property is offered to them for $4,250. Fifteen children were baptized on Easter Even.

At Emmanuel Church, St. Louis County, the services were resumed on Easter, after an interval of four or five months since Mr. Batte's removal, by the Rev. Mr. Gauthier, the new minister. The Church was filled, and there was a good attendance at Sunday School.

In Christ Church, St. Joseph, the papers say that there were 1500 persons present, and 1000 at night. The offertory in the morning went towards the debt, and amounted to from $600 to $700.

In Springfield the Church was full, and the number of communicants larger than ever before in the history of the parish. Some gifts are in hand for the projected parsonage on the lot in the rear of the Church.

At Macon they had a grand Easter, immense crowds at Church. Chairs had to be brought in, and even then all could not be seated. There was a fine Sunday School celebration at night.

In Hannibal the church was beautifully decorated with flowers. The music rendered had been carefully prepared and was very beautiful, the members of the choir individually and collectively doing themselves great credit. The sermon of the rector, the Rev. Abiel Leonard, was on the Resurrection and its Lessons and was worthy of the very careful attention with which it was listened to. Especially noticeable among the decorations were a large number of calla lilies in full bloom and the beautiful class banners draped in graceful festoons along the walls. The banners were designed and made by Mr. Charles Hill. The Rector's family was nicely remembered. So many other things would be possible if only that organ debt was out of the way.

In Nevada the new stone church which has been recently bought and refitted was beautifully decorated, and there was a very large congregation present.

ORPHANS' HOME ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of this honored charity was held at the Church of the Holy Communion on the Tuesday in Easter Week; the Bishop was in the chair; the Rev. Dr. Fulton, and Messrs. Betts, Reed and S. Allen, and considerable number of ladies were present. The Rev. Mr. Allen acted as Secretary of the meeting.

The Secretary's report showed that notwithstanding exceptionally heavy expenses for repairs, drainage and coal, the year had ended with no debts, but with an empty treasury. The large amount on hand last year awaiting investment is now put out, $7000 at 8 per cent. As a matter of precaution, a fire escape has been put up at a cost of 221. There are now 45 children at the Home, 35 have been received during the year, 11 have been adopted, 3 bound out, 18 restored to their relatives, and 3 have died.

The Treasurer's report shows that besides the unavailable balance of $353.94 in the Real Estate Bank, on which, however, a dividend of $50.55 has been received, there was $1,261.41 on hand at the beginning of the year. Christ church has contributed $792.71; St. George's, $329; Holy Communion, $208; Mt. Calvary, $190; Trinity, $128; St. John's, $87.50; St. Peter's, $50; Emmanuel, $40.50; St. Paul's, $23; Grace, Kirkwood, $10; Grace, $8.85; Miscellaneous, $71.79. Total, $1,939.35. From income of endowment fund, $1,881.20. Other receipts, $538.70. Total with amount on hand, $5,620.69. Expenditures, $5,670.95, of which $672.60 was paid for coal and $982.79 for repairs.

Mrs. Western Bascome was elected First, and Mrs. A. C. Moore as Second Directress, Mrs. McLean Secretary, and Mrs. M. E. O'Dell, Treasurer.

The Board of Managers, chosen from the city churches, are as follows:

Christ church—Mrs. H. Campbell, Mrs. T. T. Gantt, Mrs. H. Ameling and Mrs. Shepley.

St. Paul's—Mrs. George Jenkins, Miss L. Allen, Mrs. J. Terry, Mrs. Draper.

PAROCHIAL TRUST FUND.

The recommendation of the Committee of the last General Convention, in favor of the incorporation of a body in every Diocese which should hold the Church property in every Diocese in trust for the several congregations, in order to reduce the chances of unwise alienation and waste, had been already taken in this Diocese. This was done before the last General Convention met. We had experienced the need of such action from many causes. Property was being held by all kinds of title; some was in private hands; some in the hands of special trustees, who are liable to die or remove; some in the hands of vestries, composed in part of those who were not members of the Church, or familiar with its usages. Encumbrances were allowed to be carelessly created. Property left by pious benefactors was trifled away.

We did not, in this Diocese, create the corporation for the purpose any sooner because the law did not allow it. The present constitution of the State made this fundamental provision (Art. 1, Section 8): "That no religious corporation can be established in this State, except such as may be created under a general law, for the purpose only of holding the title to such real estate as may be prescribed by law for Church edifices, parsonages, and cemeteries."

The general law, however, which this constitutional provision allows, was not passed until the session of 1879. In Art. 9, Sec. 974, it is provided that: "Any association, congregation, society, or church organization formed for religious purposes and in general any association, society, company or organization which tends to the public advantage in relation to any or several of the objects above enumerated, and what is incidental to such objects, may be created a body corporate and politic by complying with sections 970 and 971."

Sec. 970 is this: "Any number of persons, not less than three, who may have associated themselves by articles of agreement, in writing, as a society, company, association or organization, for benevolent, religious, or educational purposes, may be consolidated into a corporation. Such articles of agreement may be organic regulations, or a constitution or other form of association; and any corporate name not already assumed by another corporation, may be chosen as the title of the corporation; provided always that the purpose and scope of the association be clearly and fully set forth."

Sec. 971 is: "The persons holding, respectively, the offices of president, secretary and treasurer of the association, shall submit to the Circuit Court having jurisdiction in the city or county where such association is located, the articles of agreement, with a petition praying for a pro forma decree therein."

Sec. 977, on this subject, is this: "Corporations may be formed, under the provisions of this article, to execute any trust the purpose whereof is within the purview of this article; and may receive and take by deed or devise, in their corporate capacity, any property, real or personal, for the uses and purposes of such trust, and execute the trust so created."

Under these clear and ample enactments the Bishop of the Diocese and the members of the Standing Committee, for the time being, on the 1st of October, 1879, having been authorized to do so by the Diocesan Convention, associated themselves into an organization under the name of the Parochial Trust Fund of the Diocese of Missouri, the purposes of which were stated to be to take title to real and personal property which shall be, from time, conveyed to it in aid of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Missouri, to hold the same in trust for the purposes of such conveyance, etc., to sell, convey and transfer the same in accordance with the terms of such trusts, and to execute any trusts connected therewith not inconsistent with the purposes of said Church that shall be devolved upon it; and this organization to continue for the term of one hundred years.

These articles were, Oct. 23d, presented to the Circuit Court of the City of St. Louis, and it after leaving them on file for three days, on the 27th, adjudged that they were in accordance with the law on the subject, granted the prayer of the petitioners, and created them a body corporate under the above title. This decree was recorded, in the office of the Recorder of Deeds, on the 10th of November, 1879. The articles of association were then, under the law, filed at the office of the Secretary of State, who, on the 6th of December, 1879, issued his certificate of the corporate existence of the body.

Provision is made for succession in the body. The Bishop is to be a trustee ex officio. The other six Trustees are to be the persons elected as members of the Standing Committee for the year.

We have been thus minute in stating the facts, in order to show how exactly the law on the subject has been complied with. When trusts of magnitude are to be conveyed, it is natural that there should be a wish for full knowledge that the body which is to receive and administer the trusts is legally constituted. All this has been carefully guarded in this case.

Forms of conveyance have been prepared for use in the cases where it is desired that Church property should be conveyed, to be held in trust. The result is that it leaves to the congregation the entire control of the property, with the exception of selling or encumbering it; and even this can be done with the canonical consent of the Bishop and Standing Committee, if real need arises. The Standing Committee is composed of equal numbers of clergymen and laymen, and is elected each year by the Convention of the Diocese.

GRACE CHURCH, ST. LOUIS.

This old parish is passing a very critical point in its history. It is endeavoring to place itself in a position for greater strength and usefulness than it has ever had before. This is explained in the following circular which has been put forth on its behalf.

The property known on the map of the city as Marion Place, a circular piece of ground in North St. Louis, 300 feet in diameter, was dedicated in 1844 to Grace Episcopal Church. Ever since that time it has been occupied by that church, and regular services held. The congregation has never been able to permanently improve the property and the frame church stands in a dilapidated and dangerous condition, about twenty-five feet above the grade, at the entrance on Eleventh and Warren streets. The approach to the church is difficult and unsafe. The vestry have foreseen that some time in the near future this problem would have to be met and solved, as the circle in its present shape is a positive injury to the surrounding property, an eye sore to the citizens of North St. Louis, and a reproach upon the church holding and keeping it in its present unsightly condition.

For some years the loss of this fine piece of property to the church seemed almost inevitable, as state and special taxes accumulated, and street and sewer improvements threatened to plunge the parish, never a strong one financially, into utter ruin.

At this juncture, when the prospect seemed dark for the future of the parish, a generous Churchman, a member of another parish, stepped in, and by his timely assistance gave new hope and energy to the congregation. Through the advice of this noble-hearted gentleman the vestry have resolved to put forth this paper to the Churchmen of St. Louis, headed by a subscription which, if it does not insure the consummation of the proposed plan, at least is a strong earnest of success. If this prospect can be successfully carried out, Grace Church will be placed on a sure financial footing, and this splendid piece of property secured to the church for all time. The work proposed is to grade the lot, improve the street around the circle, make a private street through the centre of the property, erect a neat gothic stone church, capable of seating from 350 to 400 people, build a parsonage, and discharge the accumulated debt of state and special taxes, amounting to $4,000. To do this work, clear of the debt, it will require twenty five thousand dollars. This is the plan proposed by the gentleman referred to, and his subscription, and those of his friends, are predicated on this plan.

With the foregoing statement, this appeal is respectfully and earnestly submitted to the Churchmen of the city. The congregation, one and all, propose to do their whole duty in this behalf, but feeling their weakness, ask their brethren to lend a helping hand in placing Grace Church in a position where she can go forward and do aggressive work in the wide field of labor in which it is placed. Relieved of the incubus now oppressing the parish, a new energy and an enlarged power for good will undoubtedly be the result.

CARTHAGE.

Easter was observed with much interest by Grace Church, Carthage. The chancel was decorated handsomely, and a fine calla lily and floral cross adorned the altar. The little church was so filled that some were unable to get seats. The Rector, Rev. J. S. Colton, preached on the subject of death and resurrection with Christ in baptism. There was a good Easter offering and a fair proportion of communicants. In the afternoon the Sunday school had its celebration. Carols were sung, the classes presented their offerings, which were accompanied by appropriate floral emblems and texts of Scripture. The Rector baptized an infant. Finally, Easter eggs, of many colors, were given out, much to the satisfaction of the scholars and juvenile visitors. The offerings of the school (covering six weeks,) were over six dollars.

Mention was made, in THE CHURCH NEWS, some time ago, of improvements in the interior of the church. The money for this, $125, was collected by two of the ladies. Since then the outside of the church has been painted, and one of the ladies of the parish is embroidering a fine new altar cloth. A fence around the church lot is the next thing in prospect.

The Ladies' Sewing Society has recently resolved itself into a Parish Guild, and several new forms of parish work have been taken up. A "Dickens' Party" is on foot, and after that a Bazar, in both of which a good deal of interest is taken. A successful Sociable, in February, furnished the Sunday school with much needed funds.

DE SOTO.

The Parish Meeting of Trinity Church, De Soto, on Easter Monday, was very well attended, and resulted in the election of eight Vestrymen. The Financial Report of the Treasurer showed the indebtedness of the Parish, together with the assessment for present year entirely canceled, and a balance in the Treasury of some $38.72.

Financial statement of Sunday School shows the sum due the Treasurer to be $2.18, with papers, etc., paid for the present year.

The new Rector assumed duty on the first Sunday after Easter, and, from present appearances, the Rev. Mr. Purucker will prove to be the man we have stood in need of. W.

—Seabury Divinity School, at Fairbault, Minn., by the will of Dr. E. A. Washburn, late rector of Calvary Church, New York, will receive his large and valuable library. Seabury Hall has also the library which used to belong to Kemper College in this City.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins Editor, Olive street, between 4th and 5th, St. Louis, Mo.

We have received several accounts of Sunday School celebrations on Easter Day but cannot find room to insert them.

IN the afternoon of Easter Sunday, the Church of the Holy Trinity, St. Joseph, had its Easter celebration. The edifice was elaborately and tastefully decorated with flowers. It was a particularly interesting service, as the new chapel has just been finished, and furnished and paid for. Dr. Runcie officiated, preaching a sermon and baptizing four children. The offertory amounted to $45.

NEVADA, MO.

ED. S. S. DEPARTMENT: I enclose account of Sunday School: 76 attended the Easter exercises. Carols were sung and a charming little Committee, consisting of Misses Emma Harding, Cora Bartis and Mary Baughan, distributed a dyed egg to each one present. The "question" for the Sunday was: "How often are eggs and fowls mentioned in Scripture?" from which the Rector explained the meaning of the symbol. Mr. M. T. Will was chosen Assistant Superintendent; Miss Julia Will, Secretary; Mrs. G. W. Givins, Treasurer; Willis Walker, Librarian; and Cora Bartis, Organist.

HANNIBAL, MO.

The Sunday School Festival, on Easter Day, in Trinity Church, was very interesting. A large number of children, with their parents and friends, were in attendance. The Easter carols were very pretty and were very heartily sung by the children. A short portion of the Scriptures bearing on the subject of the resurrection was recited in concert, and the Rector briefly addressed the children on the Easter theme. Beautiful banners, provided by teachers for the different classes, were used for the first time. All of the children were presented either with appropriate cards or with eggs beautifully colored for the occasion. It was a bright and happy occasion, and cheerful faces were seen at every turn. The school is in a very flourishing condition, which is owing to the fact of faithful and earnest teachers, who are regular in attendance and devoted to the good work.

THE Easter celebration of St. Peter's Sunday School was one long to be remembered by the congregation, it being one of the best arranged that has ever been held in the Parish. The children first assembled in the main aisle of the church at the hour appointed to begin. They marched around the church singing the processional hymn: "We Are Marching to Zion."

Before the regular opening service the different classes approached the chancel with their banners, offerings and bouquets, the later being arranged into a floral cross, the whole school singing the hymn: "Hallelujah! 'Tis Done." After the regular opening service the Rector, Rev. E. F. Berkley, D. D., addressed and catechised the school. The Bible class then recited the one hundred and seventh Psalm, each pupil having memorized seven verses. Then the whole school repeated, in unison, the eighth verse. The Superintendent, J. W. Roger Hayne, in his report, showed a marked increase in the school, having on roll one hundred and fifty scholars and fourteen teachers, with an average attendance of one hundred.

The offerings during the past year amounted to $130.77. The school, besides having paid its current expenses, has contributed to the Children's Cot, Missionary Host and towards the debt of the church.

One of the happy features of the evening was the distribution of Easter prizes, also a silk embroidered banner worked and presented by Mrs. Roger Hayne, with the motto: "Traveling Zionward—Here We Have No Continuing City." This is the eighth that has been presented to the school. The Child's Companion, a monthly magazine, is now used instead of Weekly Sunday School Paper, and seems to be so much better appreciated.

ONE of the very best "helps" for a Sunday School class is a brainy and interesting teacher. It is wonderful how rapidly the class will grow and the interest increases when an earnest, loving, intelligent teacher gets before it. Every school has room for such teachers.

THE annual anniversary exercises of the Missionary Host will be held at Christ Church, St. Louis, on the afternoon of Whit-Sunday, June 5th, 1881. A full attendance of the schools is desired. Superintendents can secure copies of the Order of Service at the office of J. J. Wilkins, 417 Pine street.

REV. BRO.—Sunday School work may or may not be a "human expedient." It depends upon what you mean by the term Sunday School. There is much to be done under the name of Church work, for which we find no Scriptural authority, implied or expressed, yet for this violation we are not going to call the Church a human expedient.

Now is the time to do some good work in the Sunday Schools. We mean those that froze up during the winter, and particularly those that have remained frozen through spring and summer of several years' past. Some have thawed out by this time and show signs of vigorous life; others—well, a funeral would be a good work, and then a new beginning.

It is not so easy to "run" as it is to "run down" a Sunday School. The first requires brains, heart, culture, piety, perseverance, tact and a host of other qualities—the last takes nothing but spleen. Any one can "run down" a Sunday School, simply by hinting that the Superintendent is incapable, the teachers not qualified, the chorister too much given to the world, the school disorderly, undisciplined, dull and poky, the singing too slow. It is wonderful how many faults a little jealousy and ill nature can pick out to feast upon; and thus it is more than the natural discouragements of the work that makes a Superintendent feel like resigning. Unfortunately the fault-finders in the school, and in the Church, are largely in excess of those who stand by the Superintendent, speak encouragingly to the chorister and earnestly pray for the teachers. A little coldness on the part of those engaged in the work will undo all that the most successful Superintendent can accomplish.

EACH Sunday is a battle ground. May a most solemn conviction rest upon each teacher that he must fill his place in the fight; that it depresses the heart of the Superintendent because actually diminishing his strength, when a vacant place is found in the ranks of teachers. One way to cheer, help and make a Superintendent a success, is always to be in your place. One way to dishearten him, neutralize his work and make him a mammoth ill success, is not to be there."

IN the Sunday School, perhaps more than in any other place, are we shaping the character of the Church of the Future. "That Church," says a recent writer, has a mighty work to do. Great evils must be met. Iniquity and vice, in high places, must be assailed. All the virtue that we teach will be tested. Infidelity is insolent. The very foundations of our faith are stormed, and the character of our Lord is villified and insulted. The hosts of God must gird on their strength. Every power must be summoned to discipline the future Church for the conflict." That Church will largely be what we may make it. How important then the instruction of the youth in all these things that go to make a stalwart Christian manhood.

—The significant fact appears in connection with the notices of a number of Easter services through the country, that in asking for a certain amount of offerings the sum desired was more than realized.

—Rev. Dr. Cotton Smith is to deliver the second course of the Paddock lectures before the General Seminary of New York, the first having been delivered by Bishop Williams of Connecticut.

A Crowning Success.

In the manufacture of Parlor Organs our country leads the world. In quality of tone, excellence of mechanism, beauty of design and economy of manufacture, we stand confessedly and immensely in advance of all other countries. This superiority is maintained and increased by the valuable improvements recently perfected by Messrs. Marchal & Smith. This famous house now offers an organ with twenty stops, having the most brilliant and powerful musical combination ever perfected. These enterprising gentlemen have made many liberal offers, and have never failed to keep all their promises and more. Their wide reputation and immense business is a guarantee that they do exactly as they agree, and purchasers can deal with them with assurance of securing an organ from the great metropolis of America which will be unequalled in power and beauty.

Many people have lost their interest in politics and in amusements because they are so out of sorts and run down that they can not enjoy anything. If such persons would only be wise enough to try that Celebrated remedy Kidney Wort and experience its tonic and renovating effects they would soon be hurrahing with the loudest. In either dry or liquid form it is a perfect remedy for torpid liver, kidneys or bowels.—[Exchange.]

An Organ with 20 Stops for $65

Is offered by those famous Organ builders Messrs. Marchal & Smith, New York City. They have just perfected a remarkable organ with twenty stops, which is destined to be the leading instrument for years to come. Continuing the policy which they have made so popular, they offer their organ at a price which must bring them orders from every part of the country, and secure an immense sale.

Another Candidate.

By a large majority the people of the United States have declared their faith in Kidney Wort as a remedy for all the diseases of the kidneys and liver; some, however, have disliked the trouble of preparing it from the dry form. For such a new candidate appears in the shape of Kidney Wort in Liquid Form. It is very concentrated, is very easily taken and is equally efficient as the dry. Try it.—[Louisville Post.]

THE CHURCH NEWS

MAY 15, 1881.

No communications can be inserted, in any current number, which reach the office after the 10th of the month.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT THE THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL CONVENTION.

RESOLVED, That the CHURCH NEWS be made the official medium of communication between the Treasurers of the different Diocesan Funds and the Parishes, and that the Treasurers be instructed to receipt for all payments to the several funds through the NEWS.

RESOLVED, That it be made the duty of the several rectors and missionaries of the Diocese to extend to the utmost of their power the circulation of the Diocesan paper, the CHURCH NEWS.

HAS the Standing Committee yet done anything in the matter which was referred to them at the last Convention touching the amount borrowed and owing by the Diocese to the Permanent Episcopal Fund twelve years ago in making settlement with the estate of the late Bishop Hawks? The plan of assessments to pay it, of an agent to go through the Diocese to collect it, and of the appointment of a special committee, were successively voted down; and the matter was given into the hands of the Standing Committee.

It has been proposed, in order to bring the Orphans' Home to the knowledge of our people better, that one Sunday in the year be given in our churches in the Diocese to the presentation of its history, its work and its wants. This is after the example adopted in many cities, when a Sunday called the Hospital Sunday is fixed upon, and offerings sought in all the churches, and distributed to the Hospital according to the number of patients. This would save time when the managers ask for offerings, for many persons now do not know of the existence of the Home. It would induce a closer study of the reports, and more frequent visits to the Home. The same plan would do well for St. Luke's.

IN the last number of THE NEWS, in an article about St. Luke's Hospital, among several instances cited of the charitable work that it was doing, the case of a Mrs. Jones was mentioned. It was there stated, that having been put into a private room, there was no idea of removing her from it. This was said on the authority of the Sister in charge. The Rev. Mr. Robert, however, says, that it was stated that, in a certain contingency, it was proposed to remove her to a ward. The Sister's impression is different, but as four or five year's have passed since, she is not disposed positively to say that Mr. Robert was correct in this matter. This modification is made, on request, as an act of reparation to the Rector of the Church of the Holy Communion.

The Rev. Mr. Robert also states, that only one charity case has ever been admitted to St. Luke's Hospital as from the Parish of the Holy Communion in this city.

CHARITY WARD AT ST. LUKE'S.

At a recent meeting of ladies, in the interest of St. Luke's Hospital, the proposition was made that there should be instituted a ward containing several beds, which should be solely a charity ward. The matter has been before the Trustees, but whether they have taken action on it or not, we are not informed. The general intention of this action is excellent; for while we think that the policy pursued from the beginning at St. Luke's, and almost all other Church hospitals, of allowing those to pay who can do so, a Christian home in sickness is a real charity, we cannot too soon or too widely enlarge the generous exclusiveness of the Hospital. But about this proposition of a charity ward there appear at least two strong objections.

It gives an invidious distinction to patients as being charity patients, such as is not done now. Now all receive medical and other attention alike, and it is not known in the Institution who pays and who do not. The objection is analogous to that made about Churches, that they should not have seats prominently distinguished as charity seats. In this country they would not be used.

Then to have such a ward, with several beds in it, would compel the bringing together of charity patients, afflicted by different forms of disease, such as any one acquainted with the workings of a hospital would see to be impossible. Different classes of disease have to be kept apart; there are surgical cases; there are children's cases; there must be men's and women's departments. Now, obviously, to have such a ward as was proposed, would require the impossibility of bringing such differing cases together, or would involve a great waste of space of holding a room as a charity ward, when such gratuitous cases had to be scattered in their different departments all around the building.

EASTER DAY IN ST. LOUIS.

The day was beautiful, the first really warm day of the season. The churches were crowded. The flowers in several of them costly beyond precedent. The music generally superior, especially in Christ and St. John's. No special effort or object was presented for the offertories, which, however, were very large. Mt. Calvary asked for $1000 towards a new church building, and received $1,500. The Bishop in the morning confirmed 18 persons at the Church of the Holy Communion. At St. George's a handsome brass altar cross was placed, the gift of Mr. D. E. Garrison.

The Sunday school festival took place in the afternoon and evening. At Christ church it was reported that from October until Easter the largest attendance had been 121, lowest 54, and the average 83. At the Holy Communion the largest number present during the year had been 327, the smallest 81, and the average 240. At St. George's the largest number had been 263, leaving out of account the Easter and Christmas festivals, the least number 117, and the average 184. At Mt. Calvary the largest number present was on the Sunday before Easter, 221.

The Orphans at the Home had some bright exercises in the morning, when the Bishop addressed them and distributed the prizes. The Rev. Mr. Reed was at the House of Refuge in the afternoon. Mt. Calvary at night was overflowing, as were the other churches. The basement there has been enlarged for the accommodation of the growing Sunday-school, at a cost of $450, paid by the Superintendent, Mr. Franklin.

One of the carols at St. George's was "Put on, put on your best array," and the many Spring bonnets looked as though the advice had been taken. Several of the pieces sung at St. John's were of the Rector's composition.

At the Good Samaritan the offertory for the building fund of the new church amounted to the gratifying sum of $100. The prospect of the change of location has put them in capital spirits.

We hear that the Rector of Christ church was suiet, as usual; and that Mrs. Wright received several remembrances in gold.

At the Advent the church was crowded, both morning and night; 62 of the 90 communicants in the mission being present, the largest number in their history. Ask for $50; the congregation gave $85. A member of the parish brought up from New Orleans quantities of flowers and Spanish moss for the church.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them for the perpetual endowment of a cot and a room for a child to our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

PERSONAL.

— It is said of Dr. Tyng, who has resigned the Rectorship of Holy Trinity, New York, on account of breaking down from overwork, that his muscular vigor is as great as ever, but his nervous debility makes him unable to carry on his work. He is still a young man, 42 years old, but has been doing the work of five, and in fifteen years in New York he has raised $1,500,000 for Christian work. He nearly died two years ago. His successor came to us from the Methodists eleven years ago.

— The Rev. Phillips Brooks has declined the position in Harvard College, which was tendered him. The Rev. Dr. W. W. Williams, of St. George's Church, New York, has resigned to go to Baltimore to take the position vacated by Dr. Watkins, who succeeds young Dr. Tyng. The older Dr. Tyng made a vacancy too large for any ordinary man to fill. Dr. W. W. Newton has resigned St. Paul's Church, Boston. The Rev. Mr. Gurteen, who came to an issue with Dr. Shelton and St. Paul's Church, Buffalo, has, at the late Easter election, come to a difference with his parish in Toledo, in which the opposition to him was the stronger.

—Rev. Dr. Alexander H. Vinton, one of the two brothers who came very near being elected Bishop of New York and Pennsylvania, to succeed the Brothers Onderdonk, but were defeated by the brothers Potter, died a few days ago in Philadelphia.

—Bishop Penick, of Africa, was recently married in Wheeling, West Virginia.

—Mr. E. W. Gilliam, who used to be in this Diocese, thinks it important that the world shall be informed that he has entered the Romish Church. He accomplished little before, perhaps he may do something more now.

—Mrs. Paddock, wife of the Missionary Bishop of Washington Territory, has died just as she arrived there. She was a lady of rare devotion and executive ability, and would have greatly aided her husband in his work.

ST. PAUL'S, PALMYRA.

The new St. Paul's Church, in Palmyra, was not opened until the time of the Bishop's visit on the 2nd inst. Vexatious delays had put off the finishing of the building, which should have been completed last Christmas. It is a very noteworthy structure, and unlike any other. It is of dressed stone, and has cost, beside the land, $3,450, beside much material from the old building. Its external size is 94x38. The side walls are very low and the roof large, with five dormers on each side. The porch, running across the front, is eight feet wide; the nave 50 feet long, with a wide central alley and wall aisles. The cellar is light and has stoves in it, and the heat comes up through slits in the floor.

The wood throughout is butternut, oiled, and is solid and satisfactory. The side windows are wide and low; the glass throughout is stained, and heavy, and in good taste. The chancel is 14x18, and the furniture has been made out of the seasoned oak of the old church and is rich and heavy. The vestry room is of good size, and, connected with it, and across the rear of the church, are Sunday School and Parish rooms 18x34 feet, divided from each other by folding doors. The walls are tinted in drab, and the interior is light and cheerful. The gables at each end are truncated, and give the appearance of a sloping pent-house.

The church will hold three hundred persons, and was more than crowded on the evening of the opening. There were present, besides the Bishop and Dr. Wainwright, the Rector and Mr. Evans, his assistant, the Rev. Messrs Leonard, of Hannibal; Scheetz, of Monroe, and Comings, of Kansas. The two last had been present at the opening of the old church, nearly thirty years before.

Great credit is due, and especially to the ladies, for their energy in bringing the work on to completion. The exterior effect, on account of the lowness of the side walls, which are only about eight feet high, is strange at first, but the good sense of all the arrangements gains on one. A strong, honest, handsome, convenient, and sufficiently spacious church has been secured for a very moderate sum.

Obituary.

"'Tis sweet
As year by year we loose
Friends out of sight, in faith to muse
How grows in Paradise our store."

Mrs. SUSAN R. LARKIN went to her rest in Paradise on Easter Monday, April 18th, in the 70th year of her age. It is true, she had nearly lived out her three score years and ten; and yet seldom does it happen that any one is taken who to human foresight could be so illy spared; and whose removal would make so "great a gap in our feast of love." Though for the past few years her health has been precarious, yet her death when it came was unexpected, and caused a shock among the multitude of her friends and acquaintances.

The almost universal expression was, that "the very best woman in a wide circle had been taken, and that there was no one to fill her place."

Nor was this mere fulsome panegyric. In all the relations of life we may say of her as can be said of few others, "She was almost faultless."

She was buried on the 51st anniversary of her wedding day: and in the strictness of literal truth it can be said, "The heart of her husband did safely trust in her," and "Her children arise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her." There could have been no more faithful and patient wife; or more conscientious, watchful, lenient and untiring mother. "He who readeth the heart" can alone estimate our moral worth; and to Him alone is known the soul struggles, the never-ceasing care, the anxious prayers and the unflagging assiduity with which she met the duties and trials attendant upon her domestic relations.

As a friend, she was sympathizing, thoughtful and unselfish; ever ready to take an interest in what concerned a friend's purposes and plans, and to make them her own, by an active participation in their advancement. She "never turned her face from any poor man," while choosing with scrupulous care the objects of her charity, to whom she habitually ministered.

As a Christian, she was devout, humble and trustful, her favorite hymn being "Lead Kindly Light," which was sung on the occasion of her funeral. She took an active interest in the enterprises of the Church, and yet in a way so private as to be known only to those who were chosen to be her almoners. It was her purpose to furnish one of the rooms in the new St. Luke's Hospital as soon as it was finished; and she had begun to set aside the necessary means for the accomplishment of her purpose. This will be faithfully carried out; and will now be "In Memoriam" of the loving heart which devised it, and will minister comfort in her name to many a pain-stricken body and many a weary soul. Thus, "She being dead yet speaketh" and her good example will live and continue to speak when her children's children have gone to their rest.

"Weep not for her, for she hath crossed the river;
We almost saw Him meet her on the shore,
And lead her through the golden gates, where never Sorrow and death can enter any more.

"Weep not for her, that she hath reached before us
The safe, warm shelter of her long-loved home;
Weep not for her, she may be bending o'er us
In quiet wonder, when we too shall come."

BOOK NOTICE.

The Diary of a Minister's Wife.—Part II. No. 58, Standard Series. Price, 15 cents. I. K. Funk and Company New York.

It is quaint, it is laughable—not much exaggerated. There are minister's wives who can testify to many such experiences. Laymen, get it and read it.

The Nutritive Cure.—By Robert Walter, M. D. No. 59 Standard Series. Price, 15 cents. I. K. Funk and Company, New York.

This book is full of practical hints on how to get well keep well, without the use of medicines. The author ably maintains that food, properly used, is the best of medicines. It is a suggestive book on an important subject.

The Revised New Testament—Official Edition.—The University Presses of England, the official printers of the Revised New Testament, have consented to issue, for the American market, very low-priced editions. Each copy will bear the certificate of the revisers as a guarantee of its correctness. The cheapest edition will be in nonparel type, 32 mo., and will be retailed at 15 cents, paper bound, and 20 cents cloth bound. The next cheapest edition will be in brevier type, and will be sold at 50 cents, cloth bound. The books will be beautifully printed, as are all of the Bibles of the University Presses. May 17th has been fixed as the day of issue in both countries. These cheap editions will be sold by I. K. FUNK & CO., New York.

The Companion to the Revised New Testament, explaining the reasons for the changes made on the Authorized Version, by Alex. Roberts, D. D., member of the English Revision Committee—will be issued in cheap form, through an arrangement with the English publishers, by I. K. FUNK & CO., New York. The American edition will have, bound in the same volume, a second book now preparing by a member of the American Committee of Revision, who has been connected with the work from the beginning, and who is acquainted with all the facts. This second book will be an explanation of the Appendix to the Revised New Testament. It may not be generally known that, by an arrangement between the two Committees of Revision, the changes suggested by the American Committee, but which were not finally adopted by the English Committee, are to be published as an appendix to the Revised New Testament. The Companion volume will be then an explanation of all the changes thought advisable by either committee. The greater part of the changes suggested by the American Committee were adopted by the English Committee. This cheap edition of the combined books, although authorized and copyrighted, will be sold for 25 cents. Those desiring it on the day of issue are requested to forward their orders at once to the publishers.

Our system puts each organ on its own merits, by submitting it to tests where no one can mislead in its favor, and where every interest is to find defects, if any exist. An organ that passes triumphantly through such crucial test may surely claim to be second to none in the world, and the purchaser may well feel secure in having an organ that stands first in its class. Send in your order at once, and it will have immediate attention. If you do not want an instrument yourself, will you please hand this offer to a friend who wishes to purchase.

BARR'S

SOLID ON SILKS.

When we desire to erect a Colossal Superstructure it behooves us to dig down and find a solid foundation on which the superincumbent mass may securely rest. As in Architecture so it is a law of Business, that a sure foundation is a primary importance to success. Appreciating this fact, the management of The Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.'s Silk Department has raised their Corinthian pillar to the very acme of success on the basis of best goods at lowest prices. Not only are we solidly planted on this adamant basis of low prices, but are solidly supplied with all the newest shades and colors of plain silks as well as all the chaste and unique designs which are to be found. Never has there been a season which afforded such excellent opportunity for the exercise of taste in procuring costumes at once elegant, serviceable and economical. The variety exceeds anything before offered, including Surah and other silks from our own East. Also Satin Surah, Satin Merveilleux, Satin Luxor, Satin De Lyon, Silk Duchess and other makes in all colors from the manufacturers of Paris and Lyons, while from that other East, which lies just at our West-n-Gates, comes the Silk Pongee, which is so desirable for summer costumes, and is an excellent Wash Material. We have also imported the Pongee Embroidery, which constitutes an elegant trimming for the same. It is impossible, within the limits necessarily allotted to this advertisement, to convey anything like an adequate idea of the extent and variety embraced in this collection, but if ladies will visit the great aisle in which the Silk Goods are displayed, they will be amply repaid for their trouble in witnessing many New Designs and Chaste Patterns in Brocade, Striped and other Fancy Silks at astonishingly low prices. This Week we shall attach, permanently, "The very Button on our Cap of Fame," at which the Bard of Avon dimly hinted three centuries ago. Come and witness the ceremony in the Great Aisle of the Silk Department of the

SOHMER PIANOS

Square, Upright, Square, Grand, Cabinet Grand, Baby Brand, Parlor Grand, Concert Grand.

The demands now made by an educated musical public are so exacting, that very few Piano-forte Manufacturers can produce instruments that will stand the test which merit requires. SOHMER & CO., as Manufacturers, rank among this chosen few, who are acknowledged to be makers of standard instruments. In these days, when many manufacturers urge the low price of their wares rather than their superior quality as an inducement to purchase, it may not be amiss to suggest that, in a Piano, quality and price are too inseparably joined to expect the one without the other.

Every Piano ought to be judged as to the quality of its tone, its touch, and its workmanship; if any one of these is wanting in excellence, however good the others may be, the instrument will be imperfect. It is the combination of these qualities in the highest degree that constitutes the perfect Piano, and it is this combination that has given the "SOHMER" its honorable position with the trade and the public.

ST. LOUIS, JUNE 15, 1881.

(ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.)

THE CHURCH NEWS

Is published on the fifteenth of each month. It is a Journal of General and Diocesan Church Intelligence, and is the organ of the Bishop of Missouri.

All subscriptions for the paper, business letters, and also advertisements, should be sent to the Publisher, GEORGE W. MATTHEWS, Room 38, Singer Building, 5th and Locust.

Subscriptions, $1 a year. In clubs of five or more, to different addresses, money sent at one time, 75cts. Other names may be added at the same rate.

A certain number of select advertisements will be received at rates to be arranged by the Publishers.

Contributions, and all other matters for insertion in this paper should be addressed to the Editor of the CHURCH NEWS, St. Louis, Mo.

The Bishop's Column.

Letters intended for the Bishop will reach him most quickly and surely, if addressed to him at the Residence, or with the name of the city simply.

Letters for the Bishop, while on a Visitation, and directed to the interior, should be sent to the care of some clergyman to ensure their safe delivery.

EPISCOPAL APPOINTMENTS.

June 16, Thursday p. m., Luray.
" " night, Memphis.
17, Friday, Glenwood.
19, Sunday, Kirksville.
21, Tuesday, Davenport, Iowa, Annual Meeting Western Church Building Society.
23, Thursday, St. Louis, Committee on Revision of Canons.
25, Saturday, Diocesan Missionary Board.
28, Tuesday, Racine, Wis., Annual Meeting Trustees.
30, Thursday, Nashotah Trustees, Annual Meeting.
July 31, Sunday, Prairieville.
An offertory will be made at every service for Diocesan Missions, or some other canonical object; of which offertory the minister is requested to give notice.

ATTENTION is called to the notice at the head of this column that letters for the Bishop, directed to him in the interest of the Diocese, be sent in care of the resident clergyman therein ensure safe delivery. The Bishop does not stay long in a place, and does not always go to the post office. A few days ago a letter was directed to him at Kansas City, in no one's care. The Bishop is not known in that large city. The letter wandered about for a good while, and at last falling into the hands of one of the clergymen there, was returned to this city.

THE NEW REVISION.

It is altogether too soon to speak with competent examination and reflection about the new version of the New Testament, and yet the issuing of the volume is an event too important and significant to be passed without mention. One certain result will be, that for a time, at least, there will be a wide and close study of the Book, and by many persons who have done little of it in the past. The sale of the new volume has been enormous. There will be a better knowledge of the comparative value of the original texts on which the translation is based.

The work has evidently been done with conscientious care and exactness, and competent scholarship. The greater exactness with which the article and the tenses have been brought out has thrown almost the light of a commentary on some passages. Opinions must differ as to the judgment shown in casting out, or putting into the margin, or bracketing, or separating by spaces portions which had before been allowed in the text. Some of these obviously stood on no sufficient authority, and had not been depended on for argument. But there are others which many persons must ever think had a stronger case than the revisers have conceded.

Beyond this, along with every concession of learning and honesty of purpose, the fault that will be found with the version will be its disposition to break needlessly with the majestic diction of the old version. Many changes were to have been expected. We are still strange to this version, and doubtless attachments will grow up for much that now strikes us as painfully new. Of course, we ought to prefer exactness, even to familiar beauty.

But in many cases, not affected by these considerations, there seems to have been capricious alterations made with no corresponding gain. The declarations at the outset, which reconcile many persons to the undertaking, that the expression of any alteration should be limited to the language of the authorized version, has been less scrupulously observed than had been hoped. The sentiment of affection and veneration for that which is familiar in the language of devotion, is an element which has been made less account of. The suggestion of contrast is immediate; how exceptionally happy was the condition of the English language two hundred and fifty years ago, to have given us the simple, yet sonorous diction of the older version.

This work is a most important contribution to biblical knowledge. It is too soon yet to say whether the result now reached will be final, or be reopened after a wide, candid, scholarly criticism has been brought to bear upon it. But it will be many a long day before the musical rhythm and the majestic movement of the old version will, for purposes of devotion, give place to this. Of course, for the public worship of the Church the old version will be the only one having authority and entitled to be used, until in General Convention, another standard has been adopted. For private study the use of this version will be of great value.

EARLIER DAYS IN ST. LOUIS.

II.

In 1846 took place one of the most serious disasters which the Diocese ever has met with in the loss, by sale, under mortgage, of the Kemper College property. It consisted of 125 acres of land, bought by Bishop Kemper shortly after he came out as Bishop in 1835; on which, aided by help from the East and England, he had erected buildings and secured a valuable library, and where he hoped to establish the Church University for this whole Mississippi Valley. It was sold and lost to the Church for a debt of $10,000. The property now belongs to the city and is the site of the County Farm and Insane Asylum, and worth nearly fifty times what it was sacrificed for. Bishop Kemper could never bear this calamity referred to without almost shedding tears.

In 1843 the Orphans Home was organized by the, then, Rector of St. John's Church, and was, for a time, attached to that parish. It occupied, for the first ten years of its life, five different rented buildings in the southern part of the city. In 1853 it removed into its building, corner of Eleventh and North Market streets, which cost $10,500, erected on land given by Robert Tyler, of Louisville, the father of Mrs. Silas Bent. In 1874 the present Home was finished at a cost of about $40,000, on land given by Mr. Henry Shaw. The full payment for it was not long delayed after the proceeds had been received from the sale of the old Home.

In 1844 Grace Church was organized in what was then a remote part of the city, and the building was erected in 1846, on a circle of ground 300 feet in diameter, which had been given by Mr. Christy to the first Protestant body of Christians that took possession of it. In 1860 the church was enlarged at a cost of $1,700, and was consecrated while yet a debt remained on it which, in 1861, amounted to $2,000. The parsonage was built in 1853, at a cost of $1,100.

St. George's Church was organized in May, 1845, and at first held its services in the morning at the Public School House on Sixth street, and in the afternoon at the Centenary Methodist Church on Fifth street. In 1847 the church on Locust, near Seventh, was built and consecrated the next year. There remained, however, a debt upon the church which, in '55, had been reduced to $6,900. This amount which, in the meantime, had increased to $10,000, was paid in '56. When, in 1854, the, then, rector, Mr. Gassaway, was blown up on the river, the congregation presented his family with $5,000. In 1857 there was bought a lot in Bellefontaine Cemetery for the interment of indigent communicants of the parish. The organ was bought in 1860, at a cost $4,300. The old church was sold in 1872 for $50,000, and the lot, 134 feet 3 inches, bought corner of Beaumont and Chestnut, for $18,656.25. The corner stone of this new church was laid May 30, 1873, and the first service in it was on Easter Day, 1874. This property cost $105,000, and there remained on it a debt of $59,000, which was paid in 1880.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Utica 2, Breckinridge 5, Cameron 2, Plattsburg 3, St. Joseph—Christ 9, Holy Trinity 2; Kansas City—St. Mary's 6, Grace 8; Weston 4, Platte City 4, Marshall 1, Columbia 6, South St. Louis (additional) 1, Good Samaritan (additional) 4.

—At the Easter service in Lexington the church was crowded. The annual election of vestrymen resulted in the election of Messrs. Wm. F. Kerdolff, Thomas Standish, Jos. L. Thomas, Jos. O. Lesueur, T. C. Wood and A. A. Lesueur. The old wardens, Messrs. W. F. Kerdolff and A. A. Lesueur, were re-elected.

—In St. Mary's, church, First Ward, Kansas City, the following were elected vestrymen on Easter Monday: Messrs. C. F. Lee, W. Birdsall, L. B. Austin, J. F. Ramage and Wm. H. Lee. Mr. C. F. Lee was appointed Senior, and W. Birdsall Junior, Warden.

—At Nevada the vestry elected was as follows: G. W. Givens, Senior Warden and Treasurer; M. T. Hill, Junior Warden; A. R. Patterson, Secretary; J. T. Birdseye and C. O. Graves.

—The following note from a well known St. Louis firm speaks for itself:

ST. LOUIS, May 9, 1881.

To the Treasurer of St. Luke's Hospital,

Dear Sir: Celebrating to day the fifteenth anniversary of our firm, we take the pleasure of handing to you the enclosed check for $250 for the benefit of your institution. Please acknowledge the receipt and oblige

Very respectfully yours,
ADOLPHUS MEIER & CO.

—The Bishop has been requested to prepare a paper on the past Fifty Years of the American Church for the semi-centennial anniversary of Grace church, Honesdale, Pa. The Rector is to prepare an address on Fifty Years of the Parish, and the Bishop of the Diocese another on Fifty Years in the Diocese. These papers are to form with others a memorial volume, and the first is to be published separately in tract form.

—A recent number of The Churchman contained a letter from Bishop Dunlop about his work, and the same issue also contained a voluntary and strong note from Bishop Whipple commending him and his needs to the Church. Shortly after, along with smaller sums to him, came a check for $500 from a gentleman in Cincinnati, the whole amount which he had asked for the building of the church in Tombstone.

—The Rev. Mr. Matrau was dissuaded by his Bishop from leaving Michigan, and so declined the call to Monroe.

—The annual meeting of the Bishops who are incorporators of the Western Church Building Society will be held in Davenport, Iowa, on the 21st and 22d instant. The principle on which amounts will be distributed to the different Dioceses will be settled.

—The Rev. Mr. Parker of Springfield goes to Wisconsin for a vacation of four or five weeks.

—The Bishop has appointed the Rev. Mr. Scheetz of Kirkwood as Dean and Corresponding Member of the Missionary Board for the St. Louis Convocation.

—We are glad to learn that the Rev. Mr. Evans will remain with the Rev. Dr. Wainwright at St. Paul's College, Palmyra, as his assistant for the next year. He is a highly qualified and very popular teacher. He will also represent the college during vacation.

—There is a general impression that the vestry-rooms of many of our churches are altogether too cramped and inconvenient. They should be large enough to give place for some books and opportunity for writing, and for seeing people. Often it is well to have them large enough to hold the small week-day congregation in winter, and save the heating of the church and the danger of taking cold. Some of the narrow places are being enlarged, and all new churches should look after this. St. James' church, Macon, has enlarged its vestry-room to the more ample size of 10 by 18 feet, and the whole church has been well painted.

—A festival recently held in Brookfield has put them in funds to put up a fence to their church property.

—The great increase in the size of the congregation of Grace church, Kansas City, has induced them to plan for the enlargement of their church by the addition of twenty feet to the length, and the increase thus of the number of pews by thirty-six. It was enlarged a year ago, but every seat now is taken.

The Bishop has appointed the Rev. Abiel Leonard of Hannibal and the Rev. Ethelbert Talbot of Macon as Examining Chaplains of the Diocese.

—The Sedalia parish has bought the three lots on the corner of Broadway and Ohio street, 120 by 139 feet, for $4,250, and expect to sell their present property for $4,000. This will include their present Rectory. On the purchased property there is a house which, removed and repaired, will make a comfortable rectory. They expect to build a stone church at a cost of $8,000 to $10,000. They secured $1,000 additional subscriptions by locating where they have bought. Broadway is the handsome street of the city.

—Rev. Mr. Reed preached in Mt. Calvary church in this city on the 29th ultimo a very striking sermon on the debt of America to the Christian religion, which disposed very satisfactorily of many of the impudent assertions made recently by Mr. Ingersoll.

—St. Paul's, Ironton, which has a very pretty church, but has been for some time vacant, has succeeded in making arrangements by which they have secured a portion of the time and services of the Rev. Mr. Punecker, who will hereafter give them one Sunday in each month, and a corresponding part of his time. The place is beautiful, and the Arcadia valley is much resorted to in the summer by families from St. Louis.

—The Rev. Chas. E. Cummings, who was ordained in this Diocese two years ago, and who declined the charge of the mission for colored people in this city after the resignation of Mr. Thompson, and went to North Carolina, has just returned from there, where his work was much prospered. He has had correspondence with the Rector of Kansas City about beginning a work there among his people, of whom there are very many, and some of them Church people. The ministers there propose to help him materially. He is a person much respected, and of great dignity and worth.

—The Rev. Dr. Fulton has rented the residence now building in the rear of St. George's church, and which will be finished in September, by which time Dr. Fulton will have returned from his summer vacation, and shortly after which Mrs. Fulton will have returned from Europe.

—The Rev. Dr. Gierlow takes Mr. Robert's Sunday morning duty in the church of the Holy Communion during his absence in Europe.

—The Fall term at St. Paul's College, Palmyra, opens on the first Wednesday in September. There are English, Commercial, Classical and Scientific courses pursued. The College is empowered by its charter to confer degrees on those who fulfill the course. It is proposed to extend this year to old students the privilege of returning and finishing their course, and taking their degrees. The charge for boarders, for tuition, board and laundry is $100 per term of 20 weeks, and for day scholars $20 per term.

—The Rev. Custis P. Jones has been for several weeks visiting his sister, Mrs. Stephens, in Boonville, and holding services in Christ church. He has been called to the charge of the parish.

—The Knights Templar were at St. George's church, St. Louis, on Ascension Day, and joined in a service which had been prepared several years ago by Dr. Fulton for use in another city, but which has now been widely adopted. The effect was fine, and the music superb.

—All but two of the private rooms in St. Luke's Hospital have been taken by individuals to be furnished, and there remain therefore only the six wards unprovided for. For means to help furnish these the ladies who have been acting on the general committee from the parishes have arranged for a lawn party on Wednesday evening, 15th instant. E. C. Simmons, Esq., has generously offered his spacious residence and grounds for the purpose. A delightful time is assured.

—The Macon College enterprise to which attention was called in a previous issue of our paper, has progressed to such an extent that success is beyond a doubt. The Rev. Mr. Talbot has recently made a visit to St. Louis to begin his work of raising $10,000. He feels greatly encouraged, and finds Church people fully alive to the importance of securing this valuable property to the Diocese, and while he has only called on a few persons as yet, so ready has been the response that the amount secured already aggregates about $5,000, half of the amount desired. There can be no question that with this handsome beginning the remainder will be speedily secured. Mr. Talbot proposes to return to the city in a few days to complete the work. This amount, together with the $10,000 contributed by Macon, will give the Diocese a magnificent school property and enable the school to do a far more efficient work in the cause of Christian Education.

—No decision has been reached yet as regards the assistant in Christ Church, St. Louis. Dr. Schuyler remains in the city this summer. Dr. Fulton leaves after the first Sunday in July, and goes north in Minnesota for two months. St. George's will be closed. There will be no evening service at the Holy Communion. Mr. Reed goes for a visit to Virginia. The Bishop's family spend the summer again at Geneva Lake, Wisconsin.

—Plans are on foot for the incorporation of a company for the purchase of a property for the School of the Good Shepherd. It has outgrown its present building, and the pressure for rooms is beyond its capacity. The school under the charge of the Sisters has been steadily and increasingly successful. The Rev. Mr. Reed is interesting himself in this matter with his customary energy.

—The Rev. Mr. Allen has put out the prospectus of an Academic School for Boys to be started by him on the 19th of September next in Mexico. He has qualifications for such a work, and will secure also competent assistance.

—The Rev. Sturges Allen will be in New York and vicinity during the summer under medical treatment. His health is better, but he is not yet strong.

—About $550 have been spent upon the Rectory in Kirkwood, making it very comfortable indeed. Mr. Scheetz has been much touched by the thoughtful kindness shown him in his new parish.

—The Rev. Dr. Runcie has gone east for a vacation of four or five weeks. The Rev. Mr. McKay of Leadville has been spending several weeks in St. Louis. The Rev. Mr. Dunn of Independence went through St. Louis a week or so ago on his way to Chicago to see about the roofing timber of his church.

—Arrangements have been made by which the Rev. Dr. Foster of Sedalia will give services every other Sunday in Grace church, Jefferson City. Their spirit in this parish is not abated.

—In Christ church, Lexington, on the 10th instant the Bishop solemnized the marriage of the Rev. A. T. Sharpe, the Rector of the Parish, and Miss May Limrick. The event had been looked for, and the church, although the service was at a very early hour, was more than filled. The Rev. Messrs. Sartwell and Gray, classmates in the seminary, were present. The party left for a three weeks' absence. The new chancel greatly adds to the beauty of the church.

—In England, Convocation has strongly declared against litigation in Church questions, and in favor of leaving discretion in the hands of the Bishop. The Archbishop of Canterbury has moved for a Commission to inquire into the constitution and working of ecclesiastical courts, with a view to their improvement. The strain is correspondingly relieved. Before litigation is had hereafter, presentment must be made by a fair number of bona fide parishers, and only after the Bishop's offices of conciliation are exhausted.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

A resume of the work of St. Luke's Hospital, for the calendar year, 1880, has just been drawn up under the direction of the Board of Trustees. From this it appears that 212 patients have paid the minimum rate, and upwards for board, for an aggregate of 5571 days; and that 90 patients have received board, medicines, and medical attendance, without charge, for an aggregate of 2241 days. The average time spent in the Hospital by each patient has been 26.27 days for the paying class, and 24.9 days for the charity class. This work for the two classes of patients, is equivalent to the maintenance throughout the year of 15 beds (and 81 days over) for paying patients, and 6 beds (and 45 days over) for charity patients.

The average number of patients in the Hospital has been between 21 and 22; the largest numbers being 28, (May 1st), and 29, (December 1st); the smallest 16, (July 1st), and 11, (August 1st). The capacity of the present building is practically limited to 28 or 30 patients at one time, and until that capacity is reached no proper case is ever refused, provided that suitable accommodations are available; and no discrimination is made between applicants able to pay for their board and those who can pay only in part or not at all. The ratio between the two classes of patients, as shown by the books, is therefore substantially the ratio in which the two classes apply for admission, and it shows, as we have long known, that, of the persons to whose needs St. Luke's ministers, the greater number are not of the absolutely destitute class, in which are numbered the professional paupers who drift into and find their appropriate places in public almshouses and city and county hospitals. But let no one imagine that it is less a charity to kindly receive and nurse the sick workman or sewing woman, who has laid by a few dollars against the day of need, than to take care of unthrifty and too often debased paupers. "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine," are words never to be forgotten in the administration of charity, and least of all in the establishment and maintenance of a home for the sick and the suffering. G.

PRESCOTT, Arizona, April 30, 1881.

Editor Church News:

As I can not write to all of my friends in Missouri who, I am sure, would be glad to hear from me, the easiest way to reach them is through THE CHURCH NEWS, which most of them read and all ought to read.

I reached this place this morning; it is the capital of the Territory, like Santa Fe, high up among the mountains, but unlike it, in being altogether an American town, though much smaller than the capital of New Mexico.

The western branch of A. & P. R. R., extending from Albuquerque to San Francisco, is rapidly approaching Prescott, so there is reason to believe the town will grow a great deal in the next year or two.

But now a few words about the outlook for the Church, as I know you are more interested in this than in railroad extension.

We have four clergymen in New Mexico including one Army Chaplain. Another was to have been on the ground by Easter, but I have not yet heard of his arrival.

Of real estate, we have a small church at Las Vegas and a house at Mesilla which we use as a chapel.

At Santa Fe and Albuquerque we maintain the service in rented chapels, costing us about $200 a year each.

We will build in both this summer.

In Arizona we have not a foot of land, or had not two weeks ago, and as a matter of course no building of any kind.

This is the only Territory for which the Church has done nothing, and yet it has a larger population than Montana, and more, I think, than Wyoming and Idaho united; where much has been spent and good results are to show for it.

If I had time to go East I could get help; but this field has been neglected too long, and it needs my presence at this moment more than money.

There are several persons in Missouri who give liberally to outside objects. I would not take a dollar from your own home work—you need all you can raise, and a great deal more.

I am sure it will be all wisely and economically used; but if you give outside, there is no more promising field in the entire country than this.

Were I to write personal letters, I feel confident I would get a favorable response from many, but it would pain some who might not at this time be able to give.

To use the forcible language of Father Prout's charity sermon, "I do not like to mention names, but Tim Mallahan of the glen, if you do not pay up your dues before next Sunday, I'll ride out your name before the whole congregation. A nod is as good as a wink to a blind horse, as the blessed Saint Augustine says."

Anything sent for my work here will be acknowledged in THE CHURCH NEWS and in The Spirit of Missions. The people are trying to help themselves.

At Tombstone, which is a wonderful place, a second Leadville—it has 6,000 inhabitants, and not two years old—they have subscribed $1,000 for building a church and nearly $800 for the support of a minister. The former will, I believe, reach $2,000 and the latter $1,000.

They ask $500 additional for the church and they well deserve it.

At Tucson $800 was raised in one hour for supporting a minister, two persons giving $200 each, and two $100 each; next day $60 was added, making $860 when I left. It will reach $1,200. I appointed a committee to secure lots, and a similar one at Tombstone.

I have traveled by stage 320 miles in the present visitation, and it will require at least that much more to bring me to the railroad. But I have never felt better in my life, and the trip has been a very encouraging one.

Praying that God may always guide and bless the Church in Missouri and that the richest blessings may descend on the whole flock, from the head down to its humblest member, I am

Very faithfully and affectionately yours,
GEO. K. DUNLOP.

COMMENDABLE LIBERALITY.

ST. LOUIS, May 14, 1881.

Editor Church News:

I am very much pleased to be able to report to you an example of liberality worthy of all commendation. The house of Adolphus Meier & Co. is well known in city and country as general shipping merchants. The firm is composed of Adolphus, Theo. G., John W., Edward D. and Adolphus Meier, Jr. The head of this house is also the head of a large family of children and grandchildren, and the most cordial spirit unites them in their home circle. Monthly they meet at the home of the father or with some one of the members, and the most pleasant, affectionate, genial and home amusements are enjoyed.

No great display of wealth possessed by themselves or in imitation of the display of riches of others is made. But when occasion presents itself, or is forced out by themselves, they quietly do deeds that would add brilliancy to the crown of a king.

A few days since at one of these family gatherings to celebrate some family occasion, it was resolved to express their gratitude for good fortune by investing some of their wealth, not in rockets or display that would last but for a moment, but by conferring a benefit upon in aid of its new building now in process of erection, to the amount of $250.

For such acts the whole community can but feel thankful, and the Board of Directors of the Hospital especially, in behalf of all who may enjoy the benefits of such gifts, return sincere thanks and commend the donors to all who may know them or have business in their line.

The note accompanying the donation is given in another column: WM. S. POPE,

A BASE SWINDLER.

I would warn the clergy and others against the imposition of a man passing himself off under the name of Henry Quintard. He professes to hail from Memphis, Tenn., claims to be a lawyer in that city, that he is a relative of Bishop Quintard, and that he held a high official position in the confederate army. He is quite prepossessing in his manners and conversation, and exhibits much intelligence. He is a man of medium height, slim, well trimmed iron-gray hair. He pretends that he has a boy which he desires to enter into some good school. Doubtless he presents himself under different names, but look out for him. J. A. WAINWRIGHT.

Palmyra, Mo.

[This is the same man who attempted to deceive the Bishop about the legacy of $2000 for St. Luke's. He proposed to enter a boy at Dr. Wainwright's school, but did not bring him with him; stayed over night with the doctor, called at the bank and other places. He then gave him a check on St. Louis for $100 to pay for an advance of $75 on the boy's tuition, and received back $25. If the Doctor had read the last number of the NEWS, he would have seen that this was precisely the way in which the swindler had gotten money many times before. Note the description of the man, and have him arrested if possible.]

CHRIST CHURCH.

Christ Church Sewing and Missionary Society has met every week at St. Luke's Hospital, from November 16th, 1880, to May 3d, 1881, with an average attendance of fourteen members, many of whom were young ladies, whose regular attendance and industrious use of time reflected credit upon themselves and the society.

Miss Lucy Bent has read or recited a short selection at nearly every meeting, thereby adding greatly to the general pleasure.

Two boxes and three packages amounting in value to $466.28, have been sent to different missionaries of the diocese. Twenty-one families have been assisted during the winter by materials and articles of clothing, amounting to eighty-two dollars and thirty-three cents. $117.17 in cash have been raised for charitable objects in the parish.

A colored industrial school has been supported through the winter by the contributions of this society.

The thanks of the Society are tendered by unanimous vote to the Sisters of St. Luke's Hospital for the use of their reception room for our meetings, and for many attentions to the comfort of the members.

Respectfully submitted,
CECILIA L. AMELUNG,
Sec'y and Treas.

CALVARY CHURCH, COLUMBIA.

Easter services were well attended in this church. More than one hundred persons were turned away, unable to find even a place to stand, in the morning. Prof. Tracey, of the University of the State, so tastefully arranged the flowers and floral symbols, that it is said the church was never so handsomely decorated. A most beautiful white silk Lectern Pendant was used that day, for the first time. It is hand-painted in oil. Flowers of every description, vines, butterflies, and a cross, have all found room to be represented here. It is, unquestionably, the most handsome work of the kind your correspondent has ever seen. It is very creditable to the active and zealous communicant, who made it and presented it.

The Vestry, elected Easter Monday, is constituted as follows: J. T. Fyfer, S. W., and Treasurer; Dr. H. McS. Gamble, J. W.; R. J. Bouchelle, Clerk; O. Davis, George Denney, John Clarkson, and Charles Saunders. R.

PERSONAL.

—The Rev. Mr. Holland preached recently in Calvary Church, New York, which has not chosen a successor to the Rev. Dr. Washburn. From the extracts of the sermon given in the Chicago papers we see that it was the one which he preached first at our Diocesan Convention in St. Joseph, and was also the first one which he preached in Chicago. Mr. Holland preached at St. George's, in New York, on the same evening.

—Gen. Simpson sailed for Europe on the 9th inst., in company with the Rev. Mr. Robert. They propose to be gone about three months.

—Bishop Seymour has purchased an Episcopal residence in Springfield, at a cost of $15,000.

—The Rev. McW. B. Noyes, recently the assistant minister at St. Alban's Church in New York, has been appointed U. S. Consul to Venice.

—A person recently knocked at Bishop Tuttle's front door and inquired if "Mrs. Tuttle was at home?" Being informed that she was out, he proceeded to inquire further, "Are any of the other wives in?" All in dead earnest!

—We read the other day, with much pain, the notice of the deposition, by Bishop McLean, recently of Rev. W. H. Hopkins, who came to us a few years ago from the Methodists. He did a little duty in Columbia, but became soon restless and ambitious, and went from one place to another, trying to get higher. He has lived in Chicago, for a number of years past, apparently secularized, his wife keeping a boarding house. There is a sad moral in this selfish, roving, which has many applications.

—Dr. Laid Collier, a Unitarian minister, recently of Chicago, has removed to England for his health. He was explaining the weakness of his denomination. He placed the cause on the lack of positive religion in it. He said that he wanted this, but he wanted also the historic institutions of religion, Baptism, Confirmation and the Holy Communion. He declared that he would choose that his children should attend some orthodox, rather than some Unitarian, place of worship.

—The Rev. Dr. Tyng, Jr., has opened an insurance office in New York, and may go abroad to take charge of the foreign business of the Equitable Company. He has sold his library. His brother Morris, who was in orders a few years ago, gave up his ministry and is engaged in the law in New York.

—Bishop Dudley was recently married privately in New York City by Bishop Galleher. Bishops Smith and Potter, and a number of clergymen, were present. He has been married twice before. He goes abroad.

—The father of Bishop Cox, of New York, wrote his name Cox, and said his son added the "e" to stand for Episcopal. He was a staunch, blue Presbyterian, and when asked to the ceremonies of "laying on of hands," on the occasion of his son's promotion to a bishopric, he declined to go, saying: "If there had been more laying on of hands when my son was a boy, there would be no necessity for such infliction now."

—"A beautiful and touching sight," says the Sumter (S. C.) Southron, "occurred on Sunday recently at the Stateburg Episcopal church. A gentleman who was there and saw it says, that, while Governor Manning was kneeling at the chancel, receiving the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, a little bird flew from the loft and lit upon his back, and quietly remained there until the Governor arose, when it returned to its perch."

—In his memorial sermon, Phillips Brooks told the story of Dr. Vinton's conversion. He was driving about the Pomfret Hills, a young, raw-boned, big-limbed skeptical physician, when a judicious friend persuaded him to read "Butler's Analogy." This satisfied his reason. Intellectually he was no longer a skeptic. Things stood thus with him when he was called to attend a little girl dying of consumption. Lying on her sick bed she whispered she had something to say to him; and, when encouraged to speak, said she had not the courage, but confessed that it would relate to his being at peace with God. "To-morrow morning," she added, "when I am stronger, I will tell you." And to-morrow morning she was dead. The incident made a permanent impression on Dr. Vinton. He could not cease to ask himself what that little girl would have said to him on that matter. He framed one thing after another, and thus, in calling up before his conscience the persuasions he himself invented for the little girl, he persuaded himself into an experimental piety.

MISCELLANY.

—A gentleman though not a professing Christian, yet intelligently convinced of the reality and importance of religion, said: "I used to give as I felt inclined; now I intend to give of that which God blesses. I have bank stocks, railroad stocks, United States bonds, etc. They draw interest seven days in the week. But the first day of the week is the Lord's day, and what pertains to it belongs to Him. So one-seventh of my income from investments is saved to the Lord. Then I manage to secure an income during the six days of the week, and I will set apart to religious purposes a certain part of that."

—A small Sunday-school boy was questioned by a very severe and orthodox doctor of divinity, of majestic mien and formidable spectacles, and quite incapable of descending so far in the scale of being as to be understood by a child:

"Who made the world, sir, in six days and rested on the seventh, sir?"

The little fellow was moved to a confession of his iniquity, and, trembling with fright and agitation, his utterance half choked by tears, replied: "I—did—it—sir,—just once—sir, and I'll never do so—any more—as long as—I live."

—There is profound truth in the Arab proverb, "All sunshine makes the desert!" And never is our human clay so thoroughly hardened as it is by the uninterrupted shining of the sun of prosperity.

—Remember, that every drunkard in the land was at one time a moderate drinker.

—A parishioner sending a twenty-dollar gold piece at Thanksgiving to his minister, said he hoped he would be pardoned for not sending a turkey, and so sent a pair of eagles.

—This is a specimen of Bishop Selwyn's quickness at giving an answer: An unbeliever, while vehemently discussing in a crowded room, the subject of religion, confidently exclaimed—

"I should like to meet that Bishop of Lichfield; I'd put a question that would puzzle him."

"Very well," said a voice out of another corner, "now is your time, for I am the Bishop."

The man was quite startled, but presently said: "My lord, can you tell me the way to heaven?"

"Nothing easier," answered the Bishop; "you have only to turn to the right about, and go straight forward."

—"But he was a splendid preacher." Thus closes an account sent us of a minister who proved to be wholly unfit for his position; and frequently the same can be said of that class of men; but splendid preaching without personal character of the right sort has often proved a most pernicious thing, tearing many churches asunder and making trouble that has continued for years.

—He declined taking his Church paper, having renewed his subscription to a flashy weekly in order to get the conclusion of a tale in which blood, border-slang and fast ways are worked into a mess suited to the depraved taste of its patrons. And yet this man is surprised when his children exhibit a marked distaste for the Bible and aversion to all that is pure, modest and reverential.

—A clergyman asked his Sunday school, "With what remarkable weapon did Samson at one time slay a number of Philistines?" For a while there was no answer, and the clergyman, to assist the children a little, commenced tapping his jaw with the tip of his finger, at the same time saying, "What's this? what's this?" Quick as thought a little fellow innocently replied, "The jaw bone of an ass, sir."

—Once upon a time we heard a brother read from a paper a set of resolutions complimentary of a certain preacher and he finished with the remark, "I wonder what he has been doing that made that necessary." Whenever we meet a man with a crutch we suppose he is lame; and when we see a prop set against a gate post we suppose the post is rotten. No minister should allow himself to be endorsed too much.

—The Christian Union thus presents the partial judgment of many as pertains to the duty of a layman in distinction from a minister. Virtue in a layman is greed in a minister. He who provides not for his own household is worse than an infidel, unless he is a clergyman.

—A Universalist paper says: "But for one thing we honor Episcopalians. They are not ashamed to congregate in the humblest chapel when such is the best at their command. * * * In that regard, if in no other, they are apostolic."

—Sandusky, Ohio, is a city of about 15,000 inhabitants. Besides the mother parish there are three other mission parishes or missions, each with its substantial church building, and separate congregation, services and Sunday school. Two very hard working clergymen carry on the labors, too abundant for any two men, in these four churches and chapels. There are about 400 communicants connected with them, and nearly a thousand teachers and scholars in the Sunday schools. During the past year, $4,200 was contributed for missionary purposes—being one-half of the total offerings of the people. How many congregations in this or any other dioceses can make so truly an apostolic showing.

GRACE BEFORE MEALS.

The following forms are suggested for the use of those who think that, "whether we eat, or whether we drink, or whatever we do, we should do all in the name of the Lord Jesus," and who yet are too diffident to compose a form:

Bless, O Lord, this provision of Thy bounty to our use, and make us thankful, for Christ's sake. Amen.

All things come of Thee, O Lord, add yet a blessing to these Thy gifts and grant us always thankful hearts; for the sake of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O Lord Jesus Christ, who hast so often sat at meat with sinful men, we beseech Thee to come unto us, and give us rich provision of the Bread of Life, both now and evermore. Amen.

Our Heavenly Father, be pleased to look upon us in mercy, bless this food to our use and nourishment, and us to Thyself and service; for Jesus sake. Amen.

Lord, grant that whether we eat or drink, or whatsoever we do, we may do all to Thy Glory. Amen.

To Accommodate the Public.

The proprietors of that immensely popular remedy, Kidney-Wort in recognition of the claims of the public which has so liberally patronized them, have prepared a liquid preparation of that remedy for the special accommodation of those who from any reason dislike to prepare it for themselves. It is very concentrated and, as the dose is small, it is more easily taken by many. It has the same effectual action in all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels.—[Home and Farm.

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins Editor, Olive street, between 4th and 5th, St. Louis, Mo.

SEVENTEEN years ago the Liverpool Sunday School Union was instituted. It is now the largest association in the United Kingdom, with the exception of the London Sunday School Union. It comprises 27,000 scholars, and 2,600 teachers.

A MARKED contrast appears in the statistics of a Sunday School in New York City. In 1875 the register showed a membership of 1,142, and the amount of the scholars' weekly offerings $291.12; while in 1880, with a total register of 739, the result of judicious weeding, the scholars weekly offerings amounted to $801.88. During the same year 26 pupils of the school were added to the Church.

WHY is Palestine called the Holy Land? asked a little girl of her teacher the other day. Is it because there is no sin there? Such was the very natural interpretation she put upon the phrase which the teacher had used again and again without thinking that it was necessary to explain it. Remember, teachers, that things which are very clear to you may be very obscure to your children. Be sure your scholars understand the expressions you use.

PARENTS may powerfully hinder or help the Sunday School teacher by the way they refer to him in their home conversation. A captious criticism or slighting word spoken of a teacher in his scholars hearing may, and often does, utterly destroy that teachers' influence for good over one child at least. We have personal knowledge of incalculable harm thus done. Parents, guard carefully this influence, and if you speak of teachers at all, see, for your children's sake, that your words are respectful and generous.

REV. Phillips Brooks, D. D., is credited with the following in regard to his first effort at preaching: "I remember well the first sermon that I ever preached. The text was from 11 Cor. xi. 3. 'The simplicity that is in Christ.' A cruel classmates' criticism was: 'There was very little simplicity in the sermon, and no Christ.' I am afraid that he was right, and I am sure that the sermon was never preached again." It is not necessary to apply this to the Sunday School teacher. Let each make the application for himself.

SPEAKING of illustrations, silly or absurd stories should be abjured. Never tell a story to create a laugh. Rather impress the thought that "God is greatly to be feared in the assembly of his saints, and to be held in reverence by those about him." Never trifle with the dignity of religious truth. Never degrade it by trivial illustrations. Never tell a story that will fill the children's minds with a sense of the comic or tragic, to the exclusion of the truth it is intended to explain. If you would know how to illustrate, study closely the parables of our Lord.

THE Missionaries of the American Sunday School Union make the following comparison of their work, from March 1, 1880, to March 1, 1881, with that of the preceding twelve months: "New schools, to the number of 1,451, with 6,295 teachers and 52,438 scholars, were organized. The previous year showed only 1,217 schools, with 5,629 teachers and 46,727 scholars. The number of schools aided this year was 3,887. These contained 16,614 teachers and 157,649 scholars. During the previous year 2,908 schools, with 14,510 teachers and 147,491 scholars were aided. The Missionaries traveled last year over 298,815 miles, delivered 6,704 addresses and sermons, distributed 5,476 Bibles, 10,177 New Testaments, and visited 23,396 families. The corresponding figures for the previous year were considerably less.

If any one can say nay to the following, let him say nay. "Put beaten oil into all your addresses and Sunday School talk. What drivel has been let fall on the innocent and much suffering children, in the name of the Lord! Platitudes, tamer than rice water; speeches, compared with which the melodies of Mother Goose would be brilliancy itself, have been let down on the children, begetting distaste for all preaching and religious instruction. In this way the gravity and solemnity of some talks have made them ludicrous to the children, and the heavy wit of others has made them solemn. Bring a new story, get a fresh illustration, give a talk. The best powder will flash but once. Find what will interest or profit one girl or boy alone, and then remember the same thing will interest and profit a school of five hundred.

MISSIONARY HOST ANNIVERSARY.

Last Fall the annual gathering of the children in Christ Church could not be held because of bad weather on the two days successively appointed. It was then determined to hold the anniversary hereafter in the late Spring, as used to be the habit. Whitsunday, the day appointed, was perfectly adapted for the purpose.

Promptly at three o'clock the schools began to march in with their banners and processional hymns. First came St. John's, numbering 150, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and took the South wall aisle. Then the Holy Communion, 300 strong, singing lustily, "Brightly Gleams Our Banner," and filled up the South aisle body pews. Then St. George's, with 225, singing, "Strike, strike, for Victory," and went to the North aisle wall seats. Then Mt. Calvary came, joining for the first time in the celebration, astonishing all with its over 250 children, singing "Only An Armor Bearer," and took the South side centre aisle. Then St. Peter's, with 100 scholars, singing "Beautiful Zion," and took the North aisle body pews. Christ Church came next with 125, singing, and took the north centre aisle. Then came Trinity, preceded by its choir, numbering 100, singing "Who Is This That Comes from Edom?" and took the northeast corner seats. After these came the Good Samaritan, colored, with 100 children, with its processional, and went to the south transept. Last of all came the Advent, 75 strong, singing, and with its handsome banner. They took places near St. John, on the south aisle.

Grace Church School started, but the cars were drawn off by the Turners, and they could not come, greatly to their disappointment. But for this there would have been hardly any space on the floor of this vast edifice for any others than children. They had never come in greater numbers and never before had the order throughout, and the singing, been so good. The sight, when all were in, with the three galleries also crowded, was grand beyond description.

The Bishop was present, and the Rev. Drs. Schuyler, Fulton, Berkley, Ingraham and Gierlow, and Messrs. Betts, Reed, Talbot, Wright, Corbyn, Chesnut, Tucker and Mason. The Rev. Dr. Gierlow acted as Chaplain, and said the service. Mr. C. J. Wise read the Secretary's report, which showed that upward of $5,000 had been collected by the Host since its organization. The following had been elected as officers for the next year: J. J. Wilkins, President; W. B. Chittenden, Vice-President; Ralph Talbot, Secretary; W. P. Nelson, Assistant Secretary; E. C. Simmons, Treasurer.

Mr. Simmons then read the Treasurer's Report, which showed receipts as follows, for the twenty months since the last report: Macon, $1.20; Sedalia, $3.50; Hannibal, $11; Kirkwood, $35.98; St. Louis: Mt. Calvary, $25; Trinity, $30.40; St. John's, $32; Advent, $32.55; St. Peter's, $39.35; St. George's, $68.75; Christ, $113.70; and Holy Communion, $177.50—total, $666.42. He then proceeded, on request, to explain the objects of the organization:

About twelve years ago, two or three Superintendents of the city churches, in thinking over the various interests of the schools, the question arose, "to what objects are the contributions of the children given?" They called a meeting and discussed the objective point of the aims of the children. Every school had a different way of disposing of its alms. Some went to foreign and some to domestic missions, some to hospitals, and in various other ways. On this account the amounts seemed small and insignificant. It was thought a good plan to organize into one association, and the alms take one common direction, and the organization was effected under the name of the Missionary Host, which was to raise money to wage a war against sin and wickedness. The funds were placed in the hands of the beloved Bishop of the Diocese, and thus was he given weapons with which he could work.

Mr. Simmons concluded his remarks by saying, that he was glad to see all the members of the great family formed present. They could tell how strong they were, thank God and take courage. These jubilees, he thought, were the only reasons of the continuation of the Host, and he was always rejoiced to see such a gathering. He compared the organization to a great wheel, composed of the four principal parts, the hub, the spokes, the tire and the felloes. The hub represented the treasury; the spokes the different schools; the felloes the superintendents and officers, and particularly he remarked, the collectors; the tire, the Bishop and clergy, over and above all, guiding and directing all. He urged the children then to bring the wheel to the next jubilee, beautifully laden with garlands. He particularly urged the schools to commence to send in the collections early—not wait until the last moment. He promised to do more himself, and said he felt certain all would do their utmost to swell the treasury and thereby increase the good work.

The Bishop then made his address, and the remaining hymns were sung, and after the blessing the schools filed out in the order in which they had entered, singing "Paradise! O Paradise!"

Prof. Snow acted with his usual efficiency, as Marshal, and Mr. Wilkins as conductor of the music. All the arrangements had been well thought out. There was, besides the organ, two cornets to help in the music. Among so many beautiful banners, the new one of Mt. Calvary shone resplendent. The school of the Holy Communion was the banner school in the matter of offerings, but in proportion to its numbers, Christ Church did as well, and the treasurer especially praised the Advent for its regularity and system. The amounts showed not so much the wealth of the schools as the diligence and system of the collectors. All depends on these.

BE CAREFUL IN CHOOSING YOUR ASSOCIATES.—

One of the most endearing connections with this life is to know that we have friends whom we have tried and can trust. Such friends are very scarce, and, perhaps, rarer still, are those people who know or are capable of judging when they have such friends. Our characters are formed for good or bad from the company we keep. Confidence in our power to refrain from the vices of others too often inveigles us into the risk of mingling with associates whom we know to be our inferiors both mentally and morally. The daily influence of such company will blind us to what we know to be wrong, and we are unconsciously led into acting in such a manner as we would have formerly condemned.

In forming friendships avoid these lower types, and let your mode of living be directed by comparing your daily actions with the standard of what you conscientiously consider morally right. Beware of the two-faced man. A slur coming from one that is supposed to be your friend, carries with it more destruction than many things equally untruthful from every known enemy you have. You had better make such men your outright enemies rather than have them continue as your apparent friends. Simply ignore them and waive all combativeness with them; that is, so far as your intuitively revengeful nature will allow.

RESOLVED, That it be made the duty of the several rectors and missionaries of the Diocese to extend to the utmost of their power the circulation of the Diocesan paper, the CHURCH NEWS.

THE marriage license law goes into effect ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature, which is, we believe, about the 26th inst.

THERE have been so many articles touching St. Luke's Hospital sent in this month that, unless we put forth a supplement we could print little else. Some of them must, therefore, go over to the next month. They only show that a very deep interest is felt in the institution.

MR. LEAVITT, the Missionary Treasurer, will have to be absent from the city from the 1st to the 20th prox. Missionaries, who desire to receive their stipends before he leaves, had better make out their reports to the 26th inst., and send them in to him, with a careful attention to the rules as to reports, canonical collections and assessment, and he will remit. Much needless correspondence, in the past, has been had from a careless inattention to the rules, in the matter of returns and reports. The Treasurer can only act under the rules. It will save trouble for all the amounts to be sent to Mr. Leavitt, and he will send them to the several treasurers.

THE SPIRIT OF THE CONVENTIONS.

During the latter part of May the greater number of the Diocesan Conventions meet, and from the addresses of the Bishops and the proceedings a very fair impression may be had as to the interests which are especially exciting the attention of the Church. The fact that this is the year after the General Convention gives a retrospective, rather than an anticipative, character to questions astir. There has this year been generally a taking up of the matters broached at the General Convention, with a view to giving them practical effect in the Dioceses.

Together with a singular absence of all angry questions, showing the presence of a healthy spirit in the Church, there has been a noticeable uniformity of topics broached, these being of a kind to lead to practical, constructive action. Commendation has been made in almost every case of the Church Temperance movement, in some dioceses more pronounced than in others; in some resulting in resolutions merely, in others in diocesan societies formed. In several dioceses the project of the church building society was referred to, and in some an annual collection for it was ordered. The Liturgical Enrichment matter was generally spoken about, and in several cases was referred to committees to report on the subject next year. The new method of collecting missionary money came up in some of the addresses, and was indorsed in resolutions which were apparently somewhat vague. The attention of a number of dioceses was called to the subject of the tenure of church property by the commission which was appointed by the General Convention on the subject, and means were taken to have searching inquiries made as to title. The matter of paying expenses of deputies to General Convention, which came up on reports of inquiry as to opinion on the subject seems to have been adversely considered.

Heated subjects seem only to have been indirectly touched upon in Pennsylvania and Maryland. In Springfield the Bishop declared his belief in the validity of the English Ornaments Rubric in this Church.

THE regular meeting of the Convocation in the Mexico District was held in Calvary Church, Columbia, beginning on the evening of Ascension Day, the Rev. Dean Gray presiding. There were present, of the clergy, beside the Dean, the Rev. Messrs. Richardson, of Moberly, and Leonard, of Hannibal. The session continued through Sunday, the 29th. Sermons were delivered by the visiting clergy and the Bishop. On Sunday the services were specially interesting. In the morning the Rev. Mr. Gray was instituted into the Rectorship of the Parish, this being, as we learn, only the fourth time the Bishop has been called upon to use this impressive office. Mr. Gray has now held the Rectorship of the Parish more than two years, and the earnest wish of his people is that the intimate relationship formed on Sunday, the 29th of May, 1881, may not soon be severed. At the evening service five persons were confirmed, and one the following day. The services were well attended throughout, especially when the many excitements of the week attending the commencement exercises of the University and the two colleges are remembered. Columbia always receives the clergy of the Convocation most cordially, and hence it is not strange that they should wish that each session of the Convocation might be held in Calvary Church.

CHILDREN'S COT.

ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL.

For several years an effort has been making to raise $3,000 from the children and those who are interested in them for the perpetual endowment of a cot and a room for a child to our Hospital, where a child not able to be otherwise provided for may be kindly taken care of when sick or undergoing treatment. By little and little we have gone on so far. Gifts are urgently asked for this purpose, and will be credited in THE NEWS. They may be sent to the Bishop, 2727 Chestnut street, St. Louis.

GENERAL NEWS.

—The widow of the Rev. Dr. Norton has given her residence in Louisville for an Infirmary, to bear her husband's name, on condition that an endowment be secured for the purpose. Of the $35,000 needed, $12,300 was secured on the first evening.

—An aged clergyman in Maryland, returning to his parish after an absence of thirty five years recently, said in his sermon: 'By far the most serious obstacles in my work came from opposition of partisans in religious matters and chiefly from men unable to appreciate any need of religious improvement, or from ungodly men whose mode of life made it necessary for them to oppose teachings they could not understand and restraints they hated. Some of these repent- ed of their errors, but all of them have met with the inevitable judgements which they heard me denounce against such —warning them of the loss of all things here and hereafter. For I do not know of one of them whose home has not been sold, their families scattered, and all their earthly hopes perished.'

—Dr. Cuyler in the Independent speaks thus about the growth of the Presbyterians during 1880:—It is true that the gain of 1879 over that of 1880 is less than one convert a church. In 1879 the number of communicants was 574,486, and in 1880 was 578,671, a gain of 4181, which, distributed among 5489 churches does not give one convert apiece.

—Bishop Perry seems to be having his full share of law suits. The case as to whether he was bound to give security for the amount of the large bequests left by Mrs. Cook for the Diocese, has been decided in his favor, and the money will probably now be soon paid over. In the suit of the Estate of Bishop Lee for amounts which it was alleged that he had privately advanced for the building of the Cathedral, the case has gone against the Diocese, and there has to be an accounting with a lien on the Cathedral. The case however will be appealed.

—The centre of population of the United States, the precise centre of gravity is eight miles west of south of Cincinnati, in Kentucky, one mile from the south bank of the Ohio River, and one and one half miles southeast of the village of Taylorsville. The movement of the centre during the decade since 1870 has been 58 miles toward the southwest. In 90 years the movement westward of the centre of population has been 457 miles, but the change from north to south has only been 16 miles; it has been on a line through Baltimore and Cincinnati.

—The possibilities of Methodist discipline as administered in a colored church are tremendous. A presiding elder of a Western African Methodist Conference was suspended from the ministry one day, expelled the next, restored to the ministry on the third day, and reappointed presiding elder on the fourth.

—The revolution proceeds: a lady has been appointed a churchwarden in an English parish.

—The percentage of increase in membership among the Methodists last year was 3.01 per cent, among the Lutherans 1.45 per cent, among the Presbyterians 1.79 per cent. and in the Episcopal Church 6.02 per cent.

—In the Diocese of Michigan they are engaged in the effort to secure an additional sum of $50,000 to add to the present amount of the Episcopal Fund of $32,000. Of this amount about $35,000 has been secured.

—By a recent decision of St. Mary's School, Knoxville, Ill., becomes the residuary legatee to an estate, from which it may ultimately realize from $20,000 to $40,000. The amount is not yet available.

—At a recent opening of the Nevada Legislature an eastern minister was invited to perform the religious service. He accepted the call and closed the ceremony with the Lord's prayer. When he had finished, one senator remarked to another audibly: 'He stole that prayer, and I'll bet on it. I heard it almost word for word in Eureka at a funeral over ten years ago.'

—The New York Independent says, 'The figures which we present, should give some bodies of Christians great searchings of heart. To keep up with the growth of population, the Presbyterian Church, North, should have gained 12,000 members. It has gained 3,000. On the other hand, the Episcopalians should have gained 8,000, but have gained 20,846. Such facts show where active work has been expended.

—The Unitarian Child's Hospital in Boston is in charge of the Church Sisterhood of St. Margaret, a tribute to better organization.

—The highest salaries paid to New York City clergymen are $15,000 to Dr. John Hall, and $12,000 each to Dr. Dix, of Trinity church, and Dr. Potter, of Grace church.

—Seabury Divinity School, at Fairbault, Minn., by the will of Dr. E. A. Washburn, late rector of Calvary Church, New York, will receive his large and valuable library. Seabury Hall has also the library which used to belong to Kemper College in this City.

—Bishop Whipple has secured $30,000 with which to erect and equip new buildings for his St. Mary's School for girls, in Fairbault.

—The Chicago Times, not very good authority, has lately been asserting and gathering figures to show that religion in that city is not advancing but receding; and a correspondent of the Standard of the Cross says that in Cincinnati our Church is not as strong now financially or numerically as it was ten years ago. Indeed it thinks that there is no community in this land in which religious habits sit so loosely on the respectable portion of society as it does there.

—The old historical Brattle Street Church of Boston, moved west into the aristocratic quarter a few years ago, and put up a structure which cost $284,600. It proved to be an elaborate acoustic failure, and could not be used, and the congregation utterly evaporated, and the parish died. The building standing vacant for years has just been sold for $81,000, for a music hall. A paper suggests that an epitaph should be put up, 'Killed by an Architect.'

BOOK NOTICES.

Geo. W. Cable's novelette, 'Madame Delphine,' begun in the May 'Scribner' is said to be an excellent sermon from the text, 'Lord, lay not this sin to their charge.' One of the finest touches in the story is his description of the way in which the community had 'taken all the nots out of the commandments.'

The Sanitarian for May contains: Sanitary Protection at Newport, R. I., Management of Contagious and Infectious Diseases, Tobacco, Education in the United States, Contagious Diseases Acts of Great Britain, Virulent Small-Pox in Paris, Editors Table. Menu:—Importance of Fatty Food, Literature.

THE June number of the the Preacher and Homiletic Monthly presents the following interesting contents:—Christ's Union with the Sinner, by Howard Crosby, D. D., The Pew System and Its Tendencies, by Henry C. Potter, D. D.; The Church: Its Strength and its Weakness, by William M. Paxton, D. D., A Debt of Ages—The Church to her Children, by W. H. Van Doren, D. D., The Pharisee and Publican, by Jesse B. Thomas, D. D., Christian Watchfulness, by John Cotton Smith, D. D., The Missionary Idea, by Charles H. Fowler, D. This is an excellent number. $2.50 per year; 25 cents single number. I. K. Funk & Co., New York.

Lothair by Lord Beaconsfield. Nos. 61 and 62 of the Standard Library, paper 25 cents a volume. The paper and type in this series is clear and handsome and it is a pleasure to read the books. It is almost needless to speak of this work, in which the great author has in his occult manner given his judgement on many social questions in England. I. K. Funk and Company, 10 and 12 Dey street, New York.

The Church's Need. The fuller title of this, the fourth series of Bohnen Lectures, is—A Wise Discrimination, the Church's Need. They were delivered by the gifted Assistant Bishop of Kentucky. This series of lectures promises to provide for our Christian literature volumes as useful for permanent and our American needs as the Bampton Lectures have done for England. These lectures address themselves to Discrimination as applied to Dogma, to Evils, to Ritual, and to Recreation and Amusement. It will be readily seen how fruitful of suggestion such a series of subjects in such hands become. $1. T. Whittaker. 2 Bible House, New York.

Wide Awake for June is noticeable for its exquisitely illustrated poems from well-known poets, chief among them being Mary in the Morning glories, by Mary Clemmer, The Baby's Prayer, by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps. Mrs. A. M. Diaz, contributes also a delightful six-paged ballad entitled The Little Boggermuggers, with humorous drawings by 'Boz,' and the little ones will hardly be able to choose between this wonderful ballad and their favorite Polly Cologne. There is also a fine sonnet to Mother Goose, by James Whitcomb Riley, with a capital pen-and-ink portrait of Mother Goose. $2.00 a year. D. Lothrop & Co., Publishers. 32 Franklin St., Boston, Mass.

Scientific Sophisms. A review of current theories concerning atoms, apes, and men. By Rev. S. Wainwright, D. D. No. 22 of the Humboldt Library of Science.

Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald and Company, Publishers, 143 4th Ave New York. This work is the latest and strongest defense of revealed religion against the assaults of Agnosticism.

The Beacon Light. Collection of hymns and tunes for Sunday Schools, 30 cents. O. Ditson and Company, Boston. For sale by J. L. Peters, 307 North Fifth Str., St. Louis, Mo.

Scribner's Monthly. June. Col. Waring's article on the Sanitary Condition of New York is good reading in any city. There are fine pictures of Farragut and Beaconsfield, and appropriate articles. Prof. Fisher has a timely article on the Revised Version. In Madame Delphine we have those character-tic sketches of Creole life. Mr. Howell transfers his work from the Atlantic, and gives us the first installment of his new story, A Fearful Responsibility. The whole number is an exceptionally fine one.

St. Nicholas. June. This children's magazine enlarges constantly our knowledge of the better things which may be devised for their entertainment and profit. Two new features have been added to all the rest, The Treasure Box of English Literature, giving quotations with illustrations of better authors, and the Stories of Art and Artists, giving an outline with interesting data of the growth of art. All the other beautiful features are in addition.

THE July number of the North American Review will contain an exhaustive article on Indian affairs by Carl Schurz, and a very lively one on The Power of Public Plunder, by James Parton.

E. Jaccard Jewelry Co.,

FIFTH AND OLIVE STRS., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Silversmiths, Jewelers, Designers, Decorators,

Wedding Stationers.

IMPORTERS.

[From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

This great jewelry house, founded in 1829, and recently incorporated as the Eugene Jaccard Jewelry Company, occupies a more prominent place to-day than at any previous period of its long and successful business career of over half a century.

—The following are the figures of Harvard College religiously. We have no natural right to dominance there numerically. The figures are significant as showing the growing strength of the Church among the intelligent classes of the country, its present and growing preponderance under circumstances originally bitterly adverse:

College and Law School, 972 men, Agnostics 26, Atheists 7, Baptists 42, Chinese 1, Christians 2, Dutch Reformers 5, Episcopalians 275, Hebrews 10, Lutheran 1, Methodists 16, Non-Sectarian 97, Orthodox Congregational 173, Presbyterians 27, Quakers 2, Roman Catholics 33, Swedenborgians 20, Unitarians 214. It will be seen from these figures that the Episcopalians come first, Unitarians second, Orthodox Congregationalists third.

THE latest statistics show 41,687,000 school children in the world, so far as the census takers were enabled to ascertain. These have about one million teachers. First, in proportion to population, comes the United States, with 9,373,195 pupils and 271,144 teachers. Both here and in France the school children form one fifth of the population. Prussia, with 4,007,776 pupils and 67,936 teachers, takes the third place. Next comes England and Wales, where, as in Prussia, school children are one sixth of the population. Austria then files into line. In Japan there are 2,162,962 school children, but the total population is not known.

The Beethoven Organ is the most brilliant and powerful musical combination ever perfected, and its superiority over all other organs is attained by the valuable Patent Stop Action held only by Mr. Beatty. The reader should bear in mind that the 'Beethoven,' which is shipped on one month's trial, has 27 Stops, 10 full sets of Golden Tongue Reeds, and is in every respect and detail the finest instrument in the world. The price at which the Beethoven is offered, $60, which includes stool, book and music, must bring it within the reach of every one. Nothing is saved by correspondence, as orders for this particular style are coming in so rapidly that the capacity of the Beatty Manufactory is being tested to its utmost, and cash orders very naturally take preference on order books. The feature of this great offer, viz.: to refund money sent and pay all freight charges if the instrument is not as represented. Is not this sufficient guaranty of the fair dealing of Mayor Beatty?

MISCELLANY.

—Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings God not only ordains praise, but often strength. A clergyman was many years ago traveling with a little daughter in a stage-coach, and on the hill-side was a flock of sheep and lambs. The little girl turned to her mother and said, 'Mother, I am one of Christ's lambs, and you are one of Christ's sheep,' and the mother answered, 'Yes, I am.' A gentleman sitting on one of the other seats asked the child to come and sit with him, and presently said, 'My dear, do you want to be one of Christ's lambs?' She replied quickly, 'I am one, I have been baptized and made a member of Christ, a child of God, and an inheritor of the kingdom of heaven.' Then he said, 'You will be one of Christ's lambs.' 'No I am one,' was the reply. The gentleman turned to the little girl's father, and said, 'You teach your child to believe in baptismal regeneration?' 'Yes,' was the answer; 'do you not believe in it?' He replied, 'I am a baptist minister, and do not believe in baptismal for children.' The little girl recited a verse from her Sunday-school Hymnal.

'Let young children come to Me,
Jesus said, Jesus said.
Let young children come to Me,
And forbid them not,
For of such, the Saviour told them,
Is composed My heavenly kingdom.
What a rapturous thought it is,
Christ forbids us not!'

The Baptist minister then said, 'Your child has answered me, I cannot disturb her faith.'

—Mr. Beecher expresses himself in a very vigorous way about persons who cosset criminals condemned to execution, and who thereupon pardon the world and express assurance of heaven. 'Faugh,' he says, 'what mischief that thief on the cross did. Can a man who has crept up to the gallows through the common sewers, at the last moment, just before the last effort to obtain pardon, suddenly blossom out into a fervent religious life? I don't believe it.'

—To turn Sunday into a day of general amusement would be to turn it, for a large section of the community, into an ordinary working day, instead of a day of rest. Seven days of work for six days pay.

—Two clergymen were settled in their youth in contiguous parishes. The congregation of the one had become very much broken and scattered, while that of the other remained large and strong. At a ministerial gathering Dr. A said to Dr. B —'Brother, how has it happened that while I have labored as diligently as you have, and preached better sermons, and more of them, my parish has been scattered to the winds, and yours remains strong and unbroken?' Dr. B facetiously replied, 'Oh, I'll tell you, brother. When you go fishing, you first get a great rough pole for a handle, to which you attach a large cod line, and a great hook, and twice as much bait as the fish can swallow. With these accoutrements, you dash up to the brook and throw in your hook with 'There, bite, you dogs!' Thus you scare away all the fish. When I go fishing, I get a little switching pole, a small line, and just such a hook and bait as the fish can swallow. Then I creep up to the brook and gently slip them in, and I twitch 'em out, and I twitch 'em out till my basket is full.'

—Never omit a service on account of the fewness of numbers present. The late Bishop Randall was announced to preach in an Eastern Church in behalf of his missionary work in Colorado. The evening came and proved dreadfully stormy. Only six persons appeared. For a moment the good Bishop hesitated. Finally he concluded that it was his duty to carry out his appointment; the question of congregation was none of his business. Accordingly the service went on, and he preached his sermon to the six people. In the collection which followed was an offering alone of $200. This amazed him. The next day he received a note from a gentleman asking him to call at such an office. The Bishop responded: 'I am the one,' said the gentleman, 'who gave you the $200 last night. But after getting home I did not feel quite satisfied with doing that. I propose to make up the sum to $1,000, and here is my check for the balance.'

COME TO WASHINGTON, NEW JERSEY, AND SELECT AN ORGAN IN PERSON. YOU ARE CORDIALLY WELCOME.

You will be afforded an opportunity to inspect everything and satisfy yourself in every particular. Beware!—I unhesitatingly advise those who are about to order from other parties, not to do it. Order only the latest and best of all Organs. If you have already ordered, countermand your order, it may not be too late yet. An Organ lasts a lifetime, get only the latest style and best music combined. Remit by Post Office Money Order, Express Prepaid, Bank Draft or Register Letter. Money refunded and freight charges paid if all is not as represented. It is a well-known fact that I am the man that had the nerve to reduce the price of Pianos and Organs, in the face of untold abuse from the monopolist. The public should remember this and patronize the original not the imitator. REMEMBER any offer made (by imitators) no matter how low, I can beat it. WEIGH THESE WORDS CAREFULLY.—I dare not ship you a poor instrument as it is not possible for me to know who will test it. Agents invariably conceal defects and claim advantages for Organs they sell. My instruments must be good enough to silence maligners and delayers. They invariably prove satisfactory. Thousands are now in use. IT IS A FACT that my business has increased to such proportions that even now with a factory having ONE AND A HALF ACRES OF SPACE within the walls of building, filled with skilled artisans and best machinery is the reason I can offer this Organ so low. I am now enlarging my factory TO OVER DOUBLE ITS PRESENT SIZE. I should be glad to have you come here and visit my establishment.

He has published a valuable work on this disease, which he sends with a large bottle of his wonderful cure free to any sufferer who may send their express and P. O. address. We advise any one wishing a cure to address Dr. AB. MESEROLE, No. 96 John street, New York.

FREE! The GREATEST BOOK OF MODERN TIMES!

THE REVISED NEW TESTAMENT, that great work which has been so anxiously looked forward to and about which so much has been said and written, and upon which forty learned and eminent divines have labored for ten years, has just been published. It is conceded to be the most important work of modern times, and so great has been the interest excited that the first edition of the Cambridge and Oxford Universities of England, is 500,000 copies. It will undoubtedly find its way into nearly every family in the English-speaking world. Leading clergymen, like Beecher, Storrs, Sims and others, predict that in time it will supersede the present version, and assert that a revision of the present New Testament was urgently needed, because many of the early manuscripts of the Scriptures, unknown at the time the present version was made, have since come to light, and likewise on account of the many changes in the English language. It is therefore to be expected that a much better understanding of the true meaning of the Scriptures can be obtained by reading the Revised New Testament.

SPECIAL OFFER.—We will send a copy of the Revised New Testament (it is genuine and only authorized edition, published by the Cambridge and Oxford University presses of England, and every copy bearing the certificate of the revisers as to its correctness), handsomely bound in Flexible Cloth, and printed in clear, bold and hand some type, on fine paper FREE to all who send 45 cents in postage stamps for a Six Months' subscription to the Fireside at Home, a large and elegant magazine of 36 large 3-column pages, beautifully illustrated, devoted to Choice Literature, Useful Knowledge, Romance, Amusement, Agriculture, Fashion, and everything to amuse, entertain and instruct the whole family. In other words, upon receipt of 45 cents we will send the magazine for six months, and a copy of the Revised New Testament, free, as a premium. The regular price of the magazine alone for six months is 50 cents, but we make this very liberal offer in order to introduce it into new homes. Remember, it is not the cheap paper cover edition of the Testament that we offer, but the handsome one, elegantly bound in flexible cloth. As to our reliability, we refer to any newspaper publisher or mercantile agency in this city. All should take advantage of this great offer, and secure the Revised New Testament free. We will mail orders promptly by return mail. Address: F. M. LUTON, 27 Park Place, New York.

A COOLING BREEZE

From BARR'S Great Central Notion Department.

Early in March the Manager of this Department returned from the Eastern Market, having purchased the Largest Stock, and most Extensive Assortment of Staple and Fancy Notions for the Spring trade ever before shipped to any one retail house in America for the supply of a single season. When these goods were opened and displayed throughout the five sections of the Notion territory, it impressed every one who visited the Great Central Store, with the opinion that there were more Small Wares, Buttons, Fans, and Miscellaneous Fancy Goods than would supply the entire population of St. Louis for twelve months. That was, however, a mistake. Notwithstanding the stubborn attitude of the winter and the reluctant manner in which it yielded to the milder temperature of gentle spring, despite the overflowing of the Mississippi, and the street car strike, in defiance of all impediments, Ladies made their way to Barr's and bought their Notions as usual, and in less than two months the stock became so reduced that a second trip to the East in search of more New Goods was inevitable.

Without regard for wind and weather. Heedless of the mud and rain, Ladies went in crowds together—Barr's young men to entertain.

Heedless of the rising river And the stopping of the cars, Down they went without a quiver; To the Notion Stock at Barr's.

There they find the best selection. Choicest goods of every kind, Something new in every section, Prices low they always find.

While the bee supplies the honey, While the sky is decked with stars, While the mint supplies the money, People will go down to BARR'S.

In addition to the immense variety of New Goods shown during the season, we have just received the very latest Novelties, foreign and domestic, in Small Wares, Trimming Braids, Buttons, Jewelry, Hair Ornaments, Fans and Fancy Goods of every description, which will be sold during the balance of the season, at extremely low prices. Special attention is called to our magnificent stock of Fans, which cannot be equalled anywhere. We keep Fans in every material, quality, design and pattern that is manufactured, and are prepared to furnish everybody with a Fan of any description from 1 1/2 cents upwards. At the Variety Section can be found a superb line of Ladies' Belts and Bags in Leather, Plush, Velvet and Satin, in all the newest shades. Purses, Pocket Books, Soaps, Perfumery, Combs, Brushes, and Toilet Articles in great variety; also a splendid assortment of Fancy Stationery and Books, including the best Library Editions of all the Standard Works, at prices which defy competition.

We carry at all times a full line of Sun and Rain Umbrellas, all sizes and qualities. Rare bargains will be offered during the Summer months at every section of Barr's Great Central Notion Department.

Pianos, Organs, Musical Instruments.

Sole Agents for the Celebrated

SOHMER PIANOS

Square, Upright, Square, Grand, Cabinet Grand, Baby Grand, Parlor Grand, Concert Grand.

The demands now made by an educated musical public are so exacting, that very few Piano-forte Manufacturers can produce instruments that will stand the test which merit requires. SOHMER & CO., as Manufacturers, rank among this chosen few, who are acknowledged to be makers of standard instruments. In these days, when many manufacturers urge the low price of their wares rather than their superior quality as an inducement to purchase, it may not be amiss to suggest that, in a Piano, quality and price are too inseparably joined to expect the one without the other.

Every Piano ought to be judged as to the quality of its tone, its touch, and its workmanship; if any one of these is wanting in excellence, however good the others may be, the instrument will be imperfect. It is the combination of these qualities in the highest degree that constitutes the perfect Piano, and it is this combination that has given the "SOHMER" its honorable position with the trade and the public.

Prices as Reasonable as Consistent with the Highest Standard.

THE ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

The horror was universal when at length the people were compelled, unwillingly, to believe that the report of the attempted killing of the President was true. At this moment, when the anxiety is in a degree relaxed in the hope that the attack will not have a fatal ending, all are yet scanning eagerly the bulletins as they appear. The nation in its distress has been bound together again in a common sorrow. It has been shown how, below many differences, the interests and the hearts of Americans beat strongly to one measure, and, too, with what real and deep concern the wide world responds to us in sympathy.

We have all been busy thinking for the last few days about the base vulgarity of the man who did the deed, of the happy household likely to be so pitifully broken up, of the unwelcome change in the leadership of the nation, which the event was likely to usher in, of the political complication which might ensue.

The papers have been fruitful in moralizings; it is to be hoped that in many ways there will be enduring action taken in Congress and elsewhere in needs now startlingly apparent. Perhaps wisdom could only have been bought at this cost.

The strain, becoming excessive in the quadrennial change of President, with its upheaval of officeholders, will be beyond the endurance of any stable government, if there is to come in the danger of and temptation to assassination.

The temptation to violence is too great to leave the appointing power wholly with the President, with the existing habit of rotation in office.

The spoils system must be changed, or else we shall have more of this violence.

Injury done to the President, and plottings against him must be declared to be more than an ordinary crime.

Vastly more thought must be given to the choice of Vice-President.

The press must remember that the personal bitterness and invective rife lately is responsible for the craze which it produces on weak minds.

The "boss" and "machine" principle in politics, which centres power in leaders, and that means social indifferentism and agnosticism, is not without influence as producing this infamous deed.

As land in Rome, with Hannibal besieging the city, sold for a premium, so United States securities did not fall a point through all the excitement.

Our Heavenly Father has been gracious to the prayers which His children all through this land have made that, if it should be His will, the President's life would be spared.

DIOCESAN ITEMS.

—The debt of Trinity Church in this city has been reduced to between five and six thousand dollars, by some large payments made recently.

—The Bishop has recently confirmed as follows: Fayette, 5; Kirksville, 4.

—Trinity Church, Kirksville, has recently received a generous present from the St. John's Church, Elizabeth, N. J., of a handsome Communion Service in three pieces.

—The person spoken of in the last News by Dr. Wainwright, is in prison in Jacksonville, Ills., and we hope he will now get his deserts for his dishonesty through a succession of years.

—Work on the enlargement of Grace Church, Kansas City, is under way, which will give 500 sittings in all. The Rev. Mr. Mann has gone East for a month.

—The Rev. Mr. Reed goes East about this time, to be gone for six weeks.

—The Rev. Custis P. Jones, of Maryland, while visiting relatives in Boonville, has been called to the rectorship of the parish, but holds the matter in abeyance. He will remain however in charge for several months yet.

—The parish paper of the Church of the Holy Communion in this city states that in 1875, in answer to a call from the Rector for memorial pieces of silver, coins, medals, etc., which were in the hands of persons who might feel disposed to contribute them for a Communion Service of solid silver, twelve pounds and a half of silver and one ounce of gold was offered, and so much was received that the people had to be stayed from giving. The offerings sufficed for making the paten, flagon, two chalices and the large a.m.s. basin.

—The Bishop preached the baccalaureate sermon on the graduation of the class at Nashotah, on the 30th ult. There were seven Bishops present at the Trustees meetings at Racine and Nashotah. The Rev. Mr. Lance, of Kenosha, was elected to the chair of Ecclesiastical History in the latter institution, in place of Dr. Egar. Rev. Messrs. Gold and Hickman were elected at Racine to the professorships resigned by Messrs. Converse and Luther. Mr. Hickman is a member of this year's class at the General Seminary.

—During the recent commencement of Central College, at Fayette, the Methodists, to whom this college belongs, held an Educational Convention, wherein all their schools and colleges in the State of Missouri were represented. This topic, among others, came up: The work and duty of the Church as an educator. It was introduced by the Rev. Dr. Henderson of Hannibal, in a pleasing and plausible speech, in which he took the ground that all, or nearly all elementary education might very well be left to the State, or to the public schools in the State, and then when children had outgrown their childhood and the common school, then they might be sent to colleges like this for their higher education. Our Mr. Gay being present, and being courteously invited to take a hand in the discussion, did so, controverting the principles enunciated by Dr. Henderson, by saying that while the State might teach and instruct, and might do much to promote secular learning, nevertheless the State, as such, could not educate at all; that education had to deal with the training of the affections, the heart and the soul, as well as with the intellect; that all education worthy of the name was based upon our Lord's commission to the Apostles, to "go into all the world to preach to, and to teach and to baptize every creature." That the State could do none of these things, and hence the State could not educate. Mr. Gay was ably seconded by president Pritchett and others, who thanked him for helping to place the right and duty of education where it properly belongs.

—We think it is safe to say from what we have learned that the debt of $6,000 on St. John's Church in this city is now about all subscribed for, and will very shortly all be paid. This has resulted from a special effort just now made, which has come to this most gratifying ending. Now, with this clear record, and the growth of that part of the city, we can fairly look for this old parish to fill up again.

—The clergy of the city are now to a greater extent than usual absent. The Bishop is in town at intervals. He goes to Geneva Lake on the 15th, and returns to this city during the last week in this month. About the middle of next month he will probably go for ten days to New York. Drs. Schuyler, Ingraham, Berkley and Gierlow, and Messrs. Betts, Chesnut and Mason remain in town throughout the summer, with only brief intermissions. Dr. Fulton is away in Minnesota, until the first week in September. Mr. Robert is in Europe. Mr. Wright is in Delaware, and Mr. Reed in Virginia.

—The Rev. Messrs. Parker, of Springfield, and Sharpe, of Lexington, who have been away from their parishes for a few weeks, in order to secure a little needed rest, have returned now to their respective duties. The Rev. Dr. Rancie went East about a month ago with his daughter, and has probably by this time returned home. The Rev. Mr. Gray has gone to Colorado for two months, to camp out, with the assurance that this will give him a permanent cure. The Rev. Mr. Mann, of Kansas City, has gone East for a month or six weeks. The rest, we believe, are in their places, wiping their foreheads, and trying to do their work, and keep as cool as possible through these torrid heats.

—The committee appointed at the last Convention on the revision of the Constitution and Canons, have had a number of long sessions, and have divided their work out for sub-committees. The full committee has its final meeting early in September, after which the amended Canons will be sent out for examination before the meeting of the Convention.

THE HOSPITAL CORNER STONE.

The building, for which work in excavating the foundations began as early as the Spring would allow, has since been steadily advancing. The stone work was heavy; and took two months to finish, and the walls had in places risen above the foundations, when the time came for the placing of the foundation stone. This was formally done, with a very impressive service, on Sunday afternoon, 26th ult. The stone was placed in the southwest corner of the building on the corner of Washington avenue and Nineteenth street. It was suitably inscribed on both faces, and the cavity was made in the under side, in which was placed a leaden cylinder, within which was a glass cylinder, holding the records, both securely closed, the cavity then being filled up with cement.

The hour of service was 5 o'clock, when the clergy of the city, the vestries of the several congregations in large numbers, the trustees and medical staff of the Hospital, and the vested choirs of Trinity and St. John's churches assembled at the Smith Academy, opposite the site of the Hospital. The air was cool, the sky overcast and the threatened storm held off until after the service was over. The arrangements had been made with singular completeness by the Rev. Mr. Betts, whom the Bishop had appointed as master of ceremonies, assisted by Mr. James P. Williams, who acted as marshal. The procession was headed by the directors and medical staff, followed by the vestries of the parishes, the cross-bearers, and then by the choirs, led in singing by Mr. Smith of St. John's, with his cornet. After them came the clergy, of whom there were twelve or fifteen, in procession, and then the Bishop, accompanied by the President of the Association, Mr. Edwin Harrison and Dean Hammond of the Law School, the orator of the occasion. A large force of policemen had been detached for the purpose, and excellent order was maintained.

The procession was of considerable length, and marched singing the 200th hymn to the platform, which had been laid about the stone. After the sentence, "Except the Lord build the house, their labor is but lost that build it," by the Bishop, a selection of the psalms was sung, and then prayers were said, and the 282d hymn sung. Mr. Hutchins, the Secretary of the Board of Managers, read the list of the articles to be placed in the corner stone, which consisted of the names of the officers of the Hospital, clergy of the Diocese, current newspapers, history of St. Luke's, resolution of thanks to Mr. Henry Shaw, etc. Dr. Green then placed the case in the stone, which was sealed up, and by tackle lifted to its place. While this was being done the 279th hymn was sung.

When the stone was set, Mr. Harrison addressed the Bishop: "As President of the Association, and by its authority, I request you, as Bishop of the Diocese, to lay the corner stone of this building to be erected for St. Luke's Hospital," and handed him the gavel. Thereupon the Bishop, on striking the stone three times said:

"We, Charles Franklin Robertson, Doctor in

Divinity, by the grace of God Bishop of Missouri, do lay the corner stone of an edifice to be here erected by the name of St. Luke's Hospital, to the glory of God and for the care and relief of His sick and suffering ones. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

"Here let the true faith and fear of God with brotherly love ever abide and be this place dedicated with prayers and with the invocation and praise of His most Holy Name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid even Jesus Christ who is God over all, blessed forevermore. Amen."

Bishop. O Lord open Thou our lips.

Response. And our mouth shall show forth Thy praise.

Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost.

As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

The Bishop then announced that they would have the distinguished pleasure of listening to an address from Chancellor Hammond, who had recently been called from other high positions to the head of the St. Louis Law School. Dean Hammond ascended the stone and began his remarks by stating that it was with sincere pleasure he had acceded to the request of the Chairman, that he would deliver a brief address, yet he was laboring under the embarrassing consciousness that he was surrounded by a large circle of gentlemen, who were much more able to do the subject complete justice because of their knowledge of the institution, history, and, he might add, because they were possessed of all other qualifications needed. Yet there was some little fitness and propriety that when laying the corner-stone of a building destined for the welfare of the homeless they should call up one who, if not a stranger possessed the merit at least of being a stranger among them, and perhaps had no other merit for which he might claim the favor of occupying their attention.

They had commenced a work of charity, charity in no low sense, not merely almsgiving, but all that is included in its broad Christian sense. The discussion was going on as to whether the word charity or love most fittingly expresses the noblest traits of Christian man, but he loved to think that the final verdict of the community would be that it makes no difference; either proclaims the divine original; and he trusted that it would be added to, as in that other passage, charity, love and grace, for they are all one.

There were two things that struck him in the more modern charity—in the first place its immense extent, and then its wonderful organization. He did not propose to dwell upon its extent, for with that all were familiar. Say what you please as to the birth place or origin of charity, it is a historical fact that with the advent of the Christian church upon earth it received a power unknown to it before. Ever since the creation of the world charity had existed, and this in itself was a refutation of the cold reasoners who declare that man is a wholly selfish being. But whatever it was before, since the Saviour's time and through the church it has gone on widening and widening the sphere of its labors until now it extends beyond the bounds of Christendom and covers the whole earth with its embrace.

Its wonderful organization was characteristic of the nineteenth century, distinguishing the present from all preceding ages. Such bodies of men, building, doing and continuing works of charity had been unknown before Christendom. The classic jurist groaned over words introduced by the Christians to denote works of charity; they were new simply because the thing was new. The Roman empire never imagined, the Greek mind never dreamt of those institutions grafted upon humanity by the poor and despised Galileans. Ecclesiastical bodies and monarchs in the middle ages carried on the work, but it was still lacking the power of organization. In these latter days that power has been attained. They might remember Lytton's verse: "The hearts whose impulse staid not for the mind to freeze to doubt. In all preceding times had charity been considered as the offspring of the heart alone, and the intellect was dreaded where it was concerned, Fear was ever there that reason would awake and declare that the recipients of charity were unfit, criminal, ungrateful, undeserving. Too often was this true, and that was undoubtedly the cause that charity grew cold, for if anything was defective it was certainly not the heart of man. But in organization we have the means of escaping that. These institutions have lives not limited to the life of a single man, their purse is not narrowed to a dozen or a score, and so with all their being and possessions, they shall extend through the ages. They can dispense their charity wisely and reasonably, they watch from age to age the effects of almsgiving; it is no longer mere almsgiving, it is the beneficence of brother to brother throughout the world.

Here the speaker paid an eloquent tribute to the clerical profession, and said that his own was not thought to have any weakness in the way of charity, but it must be remembered that his was the profession that enabled such institutions to acquire corporate life and perpetuity, and he hoped that the lawyer and the clergyman, or rather the law and religion, would work together while time lasts to perpetuate such institutions as that which they were assembled to inaugurate.

He then drew a graphic picture of the hospital, a spot that knows no day, no night, where no hour or minute passes but pain is felt, and grief must be assuaged and suffering solaced. He hoped that that stone would soon be covered by a noble building wherein, day and night, summer and winter, in the years to come, pain and sorrow may never fail of proper and satisfactory aid, where those who seek more than human aid, shall find direction through the Church of the Fathers which Christ left to represent Him on earth; that never shall there be an end to that mission of mercy until it yields at the sound of the last trumpet.

During the offertory the 35th selection of psalms in the old collection was sung; prayers were said; and after the blessing the procession reformed and returned to the Academy, singing the 202d hymn.

The Service throughout was most inspiring and elevating. We hope that the Hospital will be ready for use in the early Winter.

EARLIER DAYS IN ST. LOUIS.

III.

Trinity Church was organized in 1854. The congregation met, at first, in old St. Paul's Church, on the corner of Fifth and Wash streets, and then for several years in rented halls. The corner stone of the present church was laid March 14, 1860, and it was consecrated in June of the next year. In 1865 the church was burned, but immediately afterwards rebuilt, and reconsecrated in August, 1865. It had upon it, however, a debt of $17,000, incurred in part from the building of the chapel in the rear, which has been since reduced to $8,000. In 1873 a subscription was made covering the whole debt, but it fell through. In 1857 the rector of Christ Church, with his assistant, held for some time a Mission Sunday School on Market street near Twelfth.

In August, 1859, Calvary parish was organized, and in June, 1860, the corner stone of their church was laid on the corner of Twenty-first and Morgan. The war came on and the building never went beyond its foundations, and what had been done on it was lost.

In 1860 the rector of Christ Church and St. George's jointly held service in a school house on Morgan street near Garrison Avenue, with a view eventually to the organization of a new parish. This work having ceased, after an interval of six of seven years, some of the teachers of Trinity Church Sunday School began a mission school in the same building, which was vigorously maintained. Here, in January, 1869, the Church of the Holy Communion was organized. The present property, on the corner of Washington and Leffingwell Avenues, was bought that year for $12,000, and the chapel portion begun the next year, and the first services held in it on Dec. 18, 1870. Work on the nave of the church was begun June 15, 1876, and this was opened for services March 31, 1877. The church has never been fully relieved from debt.

In 1860 St. George's was sustaining a mission Sunday School in the northern part of the city. In 1868 St. John's was having a Mission Sunday School in the southern part of the city near Lynch street. In 1867 there was established the Mission Church of the Holy Cross on La Salle street, near St. Ange Avenue, and a brick chapel was built which was sold in '69. In 1870 a parish, to be called the Church of the Holy Saviour was projected, and a lot bought on Park Avenue at the eastern corner of Lafayette Park; but this matter went no further, and the lot was sold. In 1870 also a mission was begun by the rector of Trinity Church on Eleventh street, near Biddle, called St. Paul's Mission, and was sustained for some time in a hall, and a building rented for a Sheltering Arms for children.

In 1868 St. Paul's Church, South St. Louis, was organized, and its church was built in 1871, at a cost of $2,400, on a lot valued at $2,500. Holy Innocents' Church, Oak Hill, was organized in the Spring of 1871. In the Fall of 1868, the rector of Christ Church began services, with his assistant, in Elleadville, and in the Spring of the next year St. James' Church was built there at a cost of $3,000 on a lot given by Mr. Ellead.

In 1869 a Sunday School was started in a building on Olive street near Compton Avenue, and was maintained, for several years, under the name of St. Peter's Mission. In June, 1872, the late rector of St. George's Church began services in the hall, corner of Olive and Jefferson Avenues, a parish was organized that year, a lot was bought on the corner of Grand Avenue and Olive, and the chapel finished in the Fall of '73. The former work was then merged in this.

ST. LUKE'S MIDSUMMER FESTIVAL.

The lawn festival at the Fair Grounds, on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, 25th ult., in the interest of St. Luke's Hospital, was a thoroughly successful and delightful occasion. The temperature was just right, and the threatened rain held off and left a clear, bright evening. The efficient ladies' committee which, for weeks, had, by distribution of work, laid off the various duties required for the provision and enjoyment of a entertainment, was assisted by a singularly capable committee of gentlemen, headed by Messrs. Harrison and Branch, who gave themselves for whole days to their task. All who had the matter in charge were determined that the affair should be wholly enjoyable and successful.

No one who has not had experience can know what a vast number of details have to be arranged for the smooth working of such an occasion. The Fair Ground Association kindly offered the Grounds; Mr. McCullough, of the House of Public Comfort, generously gave the use of his house and all the dishes required. The gifts of provisions were most profuse. Mr. Branch secured the many lamps needed for the brilliant lighting of the Grounds.

Long before sunset many hundreds had reached the Grounds, had visited the animals, witnessed the foot races and base and foot-ball games. Then two companies of soldiers came and paraded and went through their evolutions. By night there were thousands scattered over the Grounds. The ladies had, for hours, been kept intensely busy at the tables. The two bands discoursed delightful music, and the Cotton Exchange was given up to the young people. There was great reluctance shown in stopping the amusements at eleven o'clock. But all united in saying that, for method and completeness, for unaffected enjoyment, for financial result and for the number of all kinds of pleasant people present, there has been no recent entertainment equalling it.

St. George's distinguished itself in the work and then the Holy Communion and St. Peter's and Grace, and some of the other parishes. It may be wise to make this mid-summer festival a yearly institution for the help of St. Luke's.

WESTERN CHURCH BUILDING SOCIETY.

Nearly two years ago, before the more general church building society was thought of by the General Convention last fall eight Bishops, whose jurisdictions bordered on the Missouri River, meeting in Davenport, Iowa, for other interests connected with their work, organized the Western Church Building Society. They were the Bishops of Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, and the Missionary Bishops of Utah, Colorado and Niobrara. There have been several meetings held since, and in New York last fall, the matter was presented formerly to the Church, in view of the enormous immigration coming into these regions, and the great need consequent thereupon of the building of many new churches.

Probably it was from this that the suggestion of a general society for the purpose arose.

The annual meeting of the Society was held at Davenport on the 22d ult., and was attended by the Bishops of Minnesota, Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa and Colorado. After joining together in the Cathedral in the celebration of the Holy Communion, they entered upon their duty. There was common testimony of the urgency given to their work by the vast number which were coming into the country, and the intense life which was stirring the vast population, and the opportunities presented on every hand of most openings for the Church. The Bishop of Iowa was reelected Secretary, and Mr. R. Fulton Cutting, of New York, elected Treasurer, in place of Mr. Howard Potter, resigned. It was found that there was $5,000 in the treasury, which could be loaned out to churches at 6 per cent. interest, secured by individual notes or a first mortgage on the property, this property to have a cash value of three times the amount loaned upon it; and there was about $1,200 disposable for gifts. There was thereupon voted to each of the Bishops $650, to be loaned out, and $150 to be given to churches which are building.

There is plenty of real need in this Diocese for the money appropriated, but the by-laws of the Society require that there must have been four times as much expended on the Church as is appropriated by the Society, and the property must be otherwise out of debt; and of the money loaned, interest and principal must be repaid promptly as promised.

The Bishops, after their adjournment as a building society, had long conferences as to their educational work in their different Dioceses, and propose to put out a statement to the Church on the subject. They came away greatly impressed with the kindness of the hospitality at the Episcopal residence where they were all handsomely entertained.

SCHOOL OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

The year which has just closed of the Sisters' School, has been the most successful one yet had, in respect of tone and numbers, and extent of space from which pupils came. The crowd of scholars indeed has been so great that some who desired to enter as boarders had to be declined. We have stated in another place the progress which is making in securing for the school a local habitation of its own. This it deserves because of the testing which its work has had during the past six years, and of the honest way in which the School has outgrown its leased quarters, and the evidence had of the real efficiency of the School as an auxiliary to our Church work. There are some to whom the building up permanently of this School commend itself as the most important work in which we can, as a Church, be now engaged. We hope to be able to record soon the definite results coming from this effort.

The closing exercises of the year took place on Tuesday, 14th ult., at the School building, which with the crowd of patrons and friends proved to be entirely too small for the numbers present. The music, both vocal and instrumental, was of a very high order. It was under the charge of Miss Chappelle, who now, greatly to every one's regret, severs her connection with the School. There are many good wishes for her happiness in her future life. A most admirable address was delivered by Dr. Schuyler, in which, after adverting to the general interests of the School, he drew out the thoughts suggested by the class motto of the year, "Amor laborem levat."

The Bishop then admitted to the Primary Class of Honor, Edwina E. Bixby, Beulah Boogher, Ella A. Cochran, Eulalia Price, Marv F. Reed, Henrietta Von Ulrich, Elizabeth Von Ulrich, and Helen Thompson; and gave to Bertha Branch and Adela Guye, the smaller silver cross, denoting their ability to retain their places in the Primary Class of Honor. He afterward admitted by certificate to the Class of Honor proper, which denotes absolute perfectness for the year in attendance, recitations and deportment, Miss Mary Sharpe and Miss Augusta Scheele; and the Class of Honor Silver Medal for having maintained her standing, Miss Emily Bryan.

The French dialogue and the German play engaged in by twenty of the scholars, were admirably rendered in correctness of pronunciation, naturalness of expression, and exact memorizing.

The Bishop then awarded with an address the diploma of graduation to Miss Annie Branch, and also the Bishop's gold medal. She has been singularly faithful in her duties, and appeared alike to advantage that evening in English, French and German. A large number of the old scholars were present. At a recent marriage in this city of one of the graduates, and of one who in her year received the gold medal, out of six bridesmaids, five of them were former school-mates at the sisters.

We hope that by the close of next year, they may be in their own building. In the coming year they will occupy their old spacious quarters. But it will be wise for those desirous of entering next year, to make early application of Sister Catharine, 2029 Park Avenue.

The following scholars did not, for various reasons, sickness, other necessary absence, &c., meet the requisitions of the Class of Honor; but were found worthy of honorable mention, as only falling short of this exacting standard:

For Scholarship—Lizzie Simpson, Ada Szentenberg.

For Honorable Mention for Diligence and Deportment—Mary C. Lamb, Josie Lindley, Bessie Ryder, Annie Harrison, Flora Hofman, Jenny, Mead, Gertrude Van Deuzer, Louisa Taylor, Addie Parker, Eva Mabley, Julia Case, Virginia Jov. Josie Harrison.

Favorable Mention for Diligence—Linda Hofman, Annie Kenrick, Paula Meyer, Nettie Wetzel, Louise Whettemore, Helene Abend, Minnie Mason, May Wells, Annie Forrester.

— "A Universalist asked Rev. Mr. W—"if God was willing all men should be saved?" Mr. W—replied: "Do you believe God is willing all men should live moral and virtuous lives in this world?" The man answered: "Yes." Then Mr. W—said: "Do men live thus?" After a little hesitancy he was answered, "No." Mr. W—then proceeded: "According to your own reasoning the will of God is not accomplished."

The Popular Demand.

So great has been the popular demand for the celebrated remedy Kidney-Wort, that it is having an immense sale from Maine to California. Some have found it inconvenient to prepare it from the dry compound. For such the proprietors now prepare it in liquid form. This can be procured at the druggists. It has precisely the same effect as the dry, but is very concentrated so that the dose is much smaller.—Lowell Mail.

ST. MARY'S, FAYETTE.

The Bishop was good enough to make a supplementary visitation to this parish on the 10th of June. The church was packed to the utmost capacity, notwithstanding it was threatening to rain. Five were confirmed. Three of these had come seven miles, one twelve miles and one seventeen. It is to be hoped that, as time and work go on others may be drawn to dear old St. Mary's. The ground being so thoroughly preoccupied in Fayette, the Church at present has not much material to work upon, but in the country round about there are quite a number who are showing an interest in her services. G.

BLACKBURN.

A Strawberry Festival was held on the night of the 9th, at Blackburn, Saline County, by the ladies of the Church of the Mediator, the Rev. M. S. Woodruff, Rector, for the purpose of raising funds to aid in furnishing the church, carpeting, chancel chairs, chandelier, etc., much needed.

Strawberries, ice cream, cake and lemonade were dispensed in the greatest abundance and of excellent quality, to an admiring and appreciative throng of visitors. The best of good feeling prevailed, and the proceeds, about $40, net, fully equalled the expectations of the parties interested.

Thanks are especially due to several ladies, members of other communions, who most kindly and generously aided in the preparations, and contributed very greatly to the success of the enterprise.

The citizens of Blackburn generally manifested a warm interest in the affair, the first of the kind that had occurred in the town.

ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH, JOPLIN.

The work of the Mission is in a prosperous condition. The Guild established by the Missionary for the purpose of carrying on church work, has accomplished a great amount of good. Mrs. H. A. Heathwood with other competent officers, made the following report before their Chaplain, as the work of two previous months. The visiting committees made 160 calls; distributed clothing valued at $40; groceries valued at $20; school books furnished poor children, $5. Ten children clothed and placed in the Sunday School. Twenty families at present being assisted with food and clothing. Four families entirely dependent upon the ladies of the Guild for food and clothes. The following amounts have been received: Do nations $23; fees $7.50; strawberry festival $40; children's concert $50.

Too much praise cannot be given to the Warden, who has been indefatigable in her labors. Connected with the Guild are two highly gifted and Christian ladies, Dr. Fannie Williams and Dr. Wilcox, who gave liberally of their means, and freely extend to the sick and afflicted, their medical services. All the officers and members work cheerfully and unitedly, where all might naturally crave rest at this season of the year.

The Ladies Sewing Society, admirably managed by its president, Mrs. C. P. Mallett, raises annually $350. Mrs. Mallett has been foremost in every good work associated with the interests of the Church since its organization in the city of Joplin.

Editor Church News:

THE suggestion has been recently urged upon the Board of Trustees, by friends of St. Luke's Hospital, that a ward be set apart in the new Hospital, to be especially used and designated as "the Charity Ward," and to be devoted exclusively to the treatment of such patients as may happen to be received upon the basis of non-payment of any sum whatever, in return for such benefits as they may derive from the charity.

This suggestion is by no means a new one; in fact the plan was pretty thoroughly tested a few years ago, when the Hospital occupied the Sixth street house, and with results which seemed conclusively to show the unwisdom of drawing any close or artificial lines of distinction in classifying the persons for whom the Hospital provides a home in times of sickness and suffering.

Since the charge of St. Luke's Hospital was first undertaken by the Sisterhood of the Good Shepherd, it has been their constant aim to make it and keep it a Charity Hospital in the fullest and best sense, and they have uniformly endeavored to conceal rather than to publish the particular financial relation sustained by each patient toward the Hospital. In general it may be stated that a few persons of abundant means have made a liberal return for the rich and peculiar benefits which the Hospital has conferred upon them; that many others have paid regularly a stated weekly sum, barely sufficient to meet the actual outlay for food and medicine; that others again have made partial, often very small, contributions towards the expense which has been incurred in their behalf; and that others have been received and kept without payment. In a word, all persons who have enjoyed the benefits of the Hospital have been encouraged and expected to contribute according to their ability, to its resources; but none have been refused admission, and no inmate has been discharged for reason of inability to make or to continue such contributions.

Experience in the conduct of hospitals has uniformly shown the necessity of a somewhat minute classification of patients. Besides the necessary separation of the sexes, it is desirable to assign children to a distinct department; and colored persons, if admitted, can be cared for more satisfactorily to themselves and more agreeably to other patients if they too have their separate wards. Then surgical cases should, as a rule be kept apart from the medical; and occasions arise daily when it is essential to isolate a patient either for his own advantage or for the protection of others. Classification such as has been hinted at is in fact indispensable; yet it necessarily has the effect of restricting the capacity of the Hospital; for however wise may be the division of space between the different departments, it must generally be the case that some departments will be fully occupied, while others will, for the time, be comparatively empty.

The new building will admit of much better classification than has been practicable, and it is the conviction of the Sisters in charge, of the medical staff, and of the Board of Trustees, that this improved classification will tend greatly to enhance the usefulness of the Hospital.

A single "Charity Ward" would necessarily have to be either a ward for men or for women, and it would, moreover, be the means often of bringing and keeping together cases which had much better be kept separated. But perhaps the greatest objection to such an arrangement lies in the mark of indigence which the occupancy of such a ward would necessarily set upon its inmates, involving needless sacrifice of self-respect in entering or remaining in it. The bread of charity seldom tastes sweet to any but the confirmed paupers; it surely will not make it sweeter or more wholesome to couple the dole with the condition that it be eaten in public.

The Sisters in charge of the Hospital have ever acted in this matter in accordance with the divine precepts: "But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth; that thine alms may be in secret." And surely the promise shall not fail them: "and thy Father, which seeth in secret, himself shall reward thee openly."

Sunday-School Column.

All communications for these columns, and Sunday-school exchanges, should be addressed to J. J. Wilkins, Editor, Olive street, between 4th and 5th, St. Louis, Mo.

WE commend to every Sunday School teacher a studious reading of "What makes a Good Teacher," by the late President of the Illinois State University.

ON Sunday, May 21st, Mr. J. J. Wilkins, of St. Louis, President Missionary Host, visited the Sunday School of Christ Church, Springfield, Mo., and addressed the scholars in the interests of the "Host." Quite an interest was awakened and many pledged themselves to "join the army." Mr. Wilkins will always be a welcome visitor to Springfield, and it is hoped he will come often.—A. M. LAPHAM, Secretary Christ's Church Sunday School.

When a Superintendent succeeds at Teachers' Meeting in making what seems to be a dry lesson interesting, or wastes no words in his closing talk to the school, but instructs and entertains by saying just the right thing in the right place, you may be sure he is giving that which has cost him something—time and study—without which no Sunday School worker can hope to receive the Divine blessing. Every superintendent, as well as teacher, ought to set by a certain portion of his time for the work of preparation. The results will amply compensate for the outlay.

It is not always possible, in the thinly settled districts of the West, to obtain educated men for Sunday School superintendents and teachers. But all honor to those humble workers who bravely take up the work to do what they can. The following note is suggestive: "The Sunday School here has a superintendent who never attended a Sunday School convention, and a teacher who believes the earth is flat; but out of a backwoods' settlement, containing somewhat over a hundred souls, they have gathered sixty into a Sunday School." They understand the human natures and the preciousness of the souls they have to deal with.

TEACHER: Did you ever stop to think what immortal means, and what shall be the existence of your own soul, in comparison with that marble building, that pyramid of Egypt, or the sun and moon themselves? Even in our poor short lives here on earth, we can see how a personality outlasts a kingdom or a city; what shall we not see perish in the eternal years which lie before the immortal soul! Said the late W. B. O. Peabody, a man whose poetic nature opened before him long vistas to which duller eyes were blind: "Christ meant that his religion should endure, and therefore he would not write it with an iron pen in the rock forever; he chose rather to have it engraven on the only immortal thing in this world; and that is the heart of man."

WHAT is a live Sunday School? One whose entire thought and activities are directed to and concentrated in the worship of God and the study of His word. It is fully alive to the tremendous importance of the interests for which it exists. It does not, on any plea, depart from its proper work. Festivals, services of song, picnics, prizes, and their rewards, have their place and are valued only as they tend to the upbuilding of a true Christian life, knowledge of God's revealed will, and His Holy Church. Every member gives the work his best abilities and profoundest sympathies.

THERE is an evident consciousness that the work in hand ought to interest and absorb the attention of every teacher and scholar. And this is the secret of its life, for there is no interest so intense and deep as that awakened by thorough work, and entire consecration. Those teachers hold the attention of their scholars best who profoundly feel and believe the work they are doing must be done. Other things may make a school intense, but only entire consecration—concentration of thought and energy—profound interest and sympathy, proper conception of office and grandeur of the work, will make a live school.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD TEACHER.

The foremost need in every true or great work is the worker, —the man or woman with the Will and the wisdom for the task. In Sunday-school teaching the first want is a good teacher. To note the make-up of the good Sunday-school teacher is useful to the superintendent and important to the teacher himself. To present the true ideal is to instruct the actual. Men struggle to realize their ideals.

We have named the Will and the Wisdom as primary marks of the true worker. These two stand for, if they do not enclose, two great classes of qualifications of the true teacher. The first sums up the personal characteristics; the second embraces the special acquirements. Our discussion must comprehend these.

I. We begin with the personal characteristics of the Sunday-school teacher—the qualities which reside in the man or the woman, and which must be possessed, native or acquired, to make up the true teacher.

1. The will, including the warm wish and the firm resolve to teach. This is the king of all teacher's qualifications. Little wonder that many Sunday-school men, as hinted in the last article, should regard this as the solitary requisite. The "Soul on fire" is doubtless almost irresistible. Such a soul finds a way or makes one. But "souls on fire" are not as numerous as the Sunday-school's need. Less fervent natures may win by work; but no one can succeed largely without willing it with a firm and steady will. Such a will has two sources. It may spring from a high and strong sense of duty; or from the love of the work itself or of its object and ends. It is strongest and most enduring when it unites the feeling of duty and desire. The teacher who cannot rouse in himself the sense of sacred duty to God and to his class, or the impelling love of Saviour and of the soul of his pupils, lacks the primary qualification for his work. Let him acquire them or cease to teach. Let him carry them to the highest pitch possible to him, if he would know the highest delights of teaching, and win its surest, sweetest successes.

2. Intellectual activity and vivacity. It seems like proving a truism to argue the need of this qualification. Teaching is a mental act, and the higher the teaching the higher the activity involved. The mind which sees nothing in the lesson can teach nothing. The truth must melt and glow in the teacher's thought ere it can flow as molten gold into the minds of the pupils. Some minds awaken quickly and some only with long and patient study, but the teacher must be awake who would awake his pupils. Next to the ardent purpose and fervent zeal, the clear and vivid thought is the highest quality and force in teaching. It may come from native genius, but it comes most frequently from the stimulating power of a well-studied theme. The teacher who is not rich in thought by nature must study and muse upon his lesson till the fire burns.

3. A good manner—natural but not negligent, animated without being frivolous, calm without dullness, serious without gloominess, earnest without austerity or sharpness, kindly but not flattering, sincere, patient, courteous, dignified. A teacher is a living lesson, and his looks and actions are visible speech. His character, motives, opinions, and feelings are judged by his manner. This acts as a silent force, attracting or repelling, adding weight or weakness to all he says. Children are severe critics of deportment. They may not understand our speech, but they read with a glance our faces. He must wear a double mask who will escape the judgment of childhood. Let the teacher be what he would seem, and seem what he is.

4. Presence of mind — a mind consciously present to all that is transpiring in the class, and consciously alert to meet every emergency. The whole man must be present in this encounter, this confronting of teacher and pupils. The keen eye must watch every movement, the quick ear must catch each inflection, the ready mind must grasp every changing mood and movement, and the alert intelligence must meet with fitting word and look each manifestation. Absence of mind, in the presence of children, is the abdication of all control over them. Here, if anywhere, the true teacher keeps all his faculties about him.
